LINER'S CAPTAIN ACCUSED AFTER SINKING OF TANKER; 47 DIED IN FIRE OR SEA

"GAMBLED WITH LIVES"

Federal Inspector Lays Loss of Life to Failure to Send S O S.

COLLISION CAME IN FOG

Impact Caused Tanker to Explode, Igniting the Sea and Norfolk Liner.

JUMP INTO FLAMING WATERS

Passengers and Sailors Fight Fire Off Scituate (Mass.) Shore—Sister Ship to Rescue.

By F. RAYMOND DANIELL.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 11.—At least forty-seven lives were lost last night by fire and drowning when the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company liner Fairfax, bound from here for Norfolk, rammed and sank in a pea soup fog a gasoline-laden tanker supposed to be the Pinthis in Massachusetts Bay off the Scituate shore, less than an hour's sail away.

Tonight an oil-filmed sea was still blazing like a funeral pyre over the spot where the tanker had gone down in flames, so far as is now known with all her crew of seventeen.

The death list is more likely to increase than to shrink, for of eight survivors of the Fairfax, lying in the Carney Hospital here suffering from burns, some are dying and others are reported to be in a critical condition.

Coast Guardsmen who searched the scene of the collision this afternoon reported that there was "no chance of survivors now."

Inspector Makes Charges.

Captain Charles M. Lyons, Federal steamboat inspector here in charge of one investigation of the catastrophe, did not wait for the formal convening of the inquiry, but boarded the Fairfax at her pier tonight. After inspecting her log book and talking to Captain Archibald Brooks, her master, the inspector declared the ship's officers were "gambling with lives out there."

"Captain Brooks admitted to me that he did not at any time send an S O S," the inspector went on. "He also admitted that no attempt was made to get Coast Guard stations for aid or ask any one in Boston to go and search for those overboard. He admitted he heard a noise on the starboard side at 6:57 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time).

"I believe, after talking with Captain Bunting of the Gloucester and Captain Brooks, that the vice president (D. R. McNeil) was running things out there.

"The messages to all appearances were greatly garbled and many sent to both the Fairfax and Gloucester either went unanswered or the reply contained only most meager information.

"At no time dide the Coast Guard stations here or along the coast know that there were fourteen passengers of the Fairfax, including several women, missing. Those people were in the water and no one can swear that they were not alive."

Charges Failure to Send S O S.

"I asked Brooks why he did not send for coast guard ships when he ascertained how many were injured and to what extent. He replied that they were giving the burned and injured the best treatment possible.

"A coast guard boat could have found the Fairfax, transferred the injured and would have had them in a hospital at 11 P. M. at the latest. The failure to call on the coast guard for those two reasons, the possibility of rescuing those in the water and the getting off the injured in as fast as possible, is what I call gross negligence of the worst sort.

"I sent Captain Bunting of the Gloucester a message shortly before midnight asking for a few details of the collision. I never received a reply. I rebuked him for not answering a radio message sent by a Federal inspector. He only contended that the message was not properly signed.

"The whole matter of loss of life and other happenings along that line simmers down to the failure of Captain Brooks to send an S O S. He had no idea what would happen and has no right to gamble with the lives entrusted to his care.

"From one standpoint he was extremely lucky; that he put the fire out. It is a much more secure feeling to have the fire just beyond con-

House Passes Bill for Monument At Appomattox Courthouse, Va.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The House today passed a bill, already passed by the Senate, authorizing the expenditure of $100,000 for a monument to be erected at Appomattox Courthouse, where General Lee handed his sword to General Grant, bringing the Civil War to a close.

In another bill, the House put its approval on a plan to establish branches of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers in the South and West. The amount authorized in the bill was $2,000,000 for each.

MANHATTAN SHOWS 18% POPULATION DROP

Final Census Count 1,856,588, Against 2,284,103 in 1920—Only Borough to Decline.

BUT STABILIZATION IS SEEN

339,074 Lost in First 5 Years, 88,441 in Last—City Total Put at 6,601,292.

With the announcement of the figures for the last unreported districts in Manhattan the final count in the borough census showed yesterday that the population of New York County had dropped 18 per cent since the last federal enumeration.

The complete figures credit Manhattan with a present population of 1,856,588 against 2,284,103 in 1920. It is the only one of the five boroughs of the city to show a decline, each of the others having registered a substantial growth on the basis of complete or officially estimated figures.

Indicating, however, that the peak of the exodus from Manhattan has passed and that the population is becoming more stabilized is the fact that from 1925, when the State census was taken, until the present there was a shrinkage in residents of only 88,441. The decrease from 1920 to 1925 accounted for 339,074.

City Estimate Revised.

While the final Manhattan results were being disclosed the Cities Census Committee, Inc., of which Dr. Walter Laidlaw is secretary, issued a statement revising upward a previous estimate of the population of the whole city. The new figure listed as "possible" is 6,601,292, against 5,620,048 in 1920, a gain of 981,244.

The official figures reported in Manhattan yesterday were for the Fifth and Fifteenth Assembly Districts in the Twenty-second Census District, of which Supervisor Bruno B. Saloschin has charge. These districts were rechecked because of the fluctuations of population in them.

Checking a decline which was very sharp in the first half of the decade, the Fifteenth Assembly, or "silk stocking" district, banner Republican section of the city, showed only a very slight falling off since 1920. The figures for it follow:

1930.	1925.	1920.
93,831	73,480	96,072

The district takes in Fifth, Park and Lexington Avenues and part of Third Avenue from streets in the Fifties to near 100th Street. It also embraces the section immediately neighboring Central Park on the south and the Columbus Circle area. At the census headquarters the decline was attributed to the tearing down of tenements in upper Park and Madison Avenues. Although these have been replaced with ex-

672,048 Census Gain Gives Chicago 3,373,753; City Celebrates Its 'Unprecedented Growth'

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Chicago has a population of 3,373,753, or 672,048 more than it had in 1920, according to an announcement made today at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Publication of the figures was a signal for a city-wide celebration. The news was flashed to all parts of the city, where school children and business men were gathered to hail the final total.

Flags flew from Loop buildings; factory whistles blew; schoolrooms echoed with songs, and meeting places throughout the city echoed the cheers of neighborhood groups.

Colonel Robert Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, declared that the accelerated rate of development was heading Chicago toward first place among the world cities and predicted that this would be accomplished within a few decades. He said that Chicago's 24.87 per cent increase in population in ten years was an unprecedented growth for a great city, far more spectacular, he said, than New York's increase of 531,000 since 1920.

"New York," he observed, "is slipping."

Census statistics, he said, show that in practically all the great metropolises large growth has been accompanied by a decrease in the rate of increase, yet Chicago's gain in the last ten years has shown an increase in this rate. The percentage gain for the 1910-20 period was 23.63.

The addition of ten square miles of territory within the last ten years may account in a measure for the increase in the rate of increase, he added.

GREAT GERMAN LOAN OFFERED HERE TODAY; WE GET $98,250,000

11 Banks, Headed by Morgan, Sponsor American Share of $300,000,000.

NINE COUNTRIES TAKE PART

Loan Marks End of Ten Years of Disputes, Taking Reparations Out of Politics.

TO RUN THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

Offered Here at 90, With Accrued Interest, Yield Is Estimated at 6.20 Per Cent.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 11.—Tomorrow in New York and London, and on Friday in Paris, Rome, Berlin, Brussels, Stockholm, Amsterdam and Zurich, will be launched one of the largest international loans ever attempted. It is being offered on terms which, it is believed, will result in its immediate absorption in every country.

This Young plan loan marks for Europe the end of more than ten years of disputes and puts an end to reparations as a political problem, placing both reparations and inter-allied debts on a business basis. From now on the handling of these vast sums, which have weighed so much on the imaginations of the various nations, will be almost automatically accomplished, and it is believed this will eliminate the feeling of irritation which has attended past payments.

Paris Hails Settlement.

The work which was begun by the Young committee in January, 1929, and which was accepted by the governments at the Hague conference, has now been completed. It was with the greatest satisfaction that Paris learned this morning that a final settlement had been reached by the bankers on the terms of the first German international loan for the settlement of reparations in accordance with the Young plan. There had been disappointment and some criticism over the long delay of the committee's work which seemed unreasonable to those without full acquaintance with the intricate problems which had to be settled.

The bankers had to find a common basis for the issue which would be acceptable to the nine different countries in which financial conditions are vastly different. They had to overcome the objections of several governments to acceptance of as much of the loan as the others thought ought to be taken. These difficulties and objections have been overcome and the terms of issue and the amounts of the loan have been accepted by the nine countries and what is perhaps the biggest international financial agreement ever made has been successfully reached.

McGarrah Speeded Work.

It was due, in a very large degree, to the determination of Gates W. McGarrah, president of the Bank for International Settlements, that success has been obtained. He kept his committee practically prisoners at the Hotel George V yesterday until the last differences had been ironed out and the documents were all ready to be signed.

The terms of the settlement as made by the Young committee and approved at The Hague conference will now be put into operation through the world bank. All the reparations to be paid by Germany will be paid through this and subsequent loans, which will bear a rate of interest of 5½ per cent. That interest will be the only burden on the German people resulting from the war and terms of the peace.

Under the arrangement made at The Hague, even in this first loan

Senate Gets Fight on MacNider as Envoy; Hoover Appointment 'Offensive' to Brookhart

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today reported to the Senate without recommendation the nomination of Hanford MacNider of Iowa to be Minister to Canada.

A protest against the appointment of Mr. MacNider had been filed with the committee by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, on the ground that the nomination was "personally offensive."

The committee decided however, according to Chairman Borah, that the question of a nomination being "personally offensive" to a Senator was not one for the committee to pass on, but should be decided by the Senate, and for that reason it was forwarded to the Senate without the customary recommendation for or against confirmation.

Senator Brookhart indicated that he would make a determined fight. The only issue, he said, would be the fact that the nomination of Mr. MacNider is "personally objectionable," but on this basis he will attempt to block action at this session of Congress and, if the nomination comes up on the Senate floor, will attempt to have it rejected.

In cases where a nomination is merely to a federal office within a State, it is pointed out, the fact that the nomination is "personally objectionable" to the Senator from that State usually has considerable weight in the Senate. In particular, this applies to postmasters and United States marshals.

When the nomination has been to an office of national character, however, or to a foreign post, the personal objection of the Senator representing the State of which the nominee is a citizen has in the past lost much of its import.

Senator Brookhart said that "the issue is whether a personal objection shall extend to a nomination for a foreign ministership."

The objection of the Senator to the MacNider appointment recalls the Iowa election fight in 1924, which resulted in the Senate seating Senator Steck, the Democratic candidate, after a contest, although Senator Brookhart had received the certificate of election. Senator Brookhart was successful in the succeeding election.

In a statement preceding the President's appointment of Mr. MacNider to the Canadian post, Senator Brookhart spoke in bitter terms of Mr. MacNider and Senator Steck in referring to the contest in which he was declared loser.

GERMANS WOULD CUT ALL EXPORT PRICES

Paris Hears 10 Per Cent Slash Is Planned, Backed by Lower Wages and Cheaper Coal.

STRATEGY HELD BRILLIANT

New Markets Gained in Period of Depression Might Well Repay Efforts Later.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 11.—A scheme by which Germany hopes largely to expand her export trade in the face of the present widespread depression is looked upon by many European business men as nothing short of "brilliant economic strategy."

The plan that Berlin dispatches have set forth is simplicity itself, being a general 10 per cent reduction in the prices of those things which Germany sells to the world. This is to be brought about by forthcoming cuts in wage scales and the cost of coal.

The reduction, it is said, will be effected so quickly that Germany's competitors, with entirely different domestic problems, will not be able to meet the Reich's challenge. The American market, it is observed here, would be among the first to feel adverse effects.

The theory behind the move is that with world markets suffering from a period of contraction and reduced buying, a 10 or possibly 12 per cent reduction in prices will mean a great deal more than it would during prosperous times. Thus the Germans are credited with the expectation that new markets will be gained during the slump at a maximum cost of 10 or 12 per cent, which can later be made up when the economic depression gives place to improved conditions.

There are some who doubt whether Germany will be able to initiate such a bold plan and still others who wonder whether the German workmen will accept wage reductions. According to the Berlin messages, however, the Westphalian iron workers are about to agree to a 7½ per cent diminution of wages, which is to be followed almost immediately by a 10 per cent lowering of the prices for iron.

The most important factor in favor of a 10 per cent cut in export prices is the present glut of coal in Germany: With the depression in the European coal trade the worst in many years, stocks in the Ruhr have now increased to 7,000,000 tons, an increase of nearly 2,000,000 tons during the last thirty days. Heavy price-cutting for export orders has already deprived Britain of several large orders, notably in the case of the Naples gasworks contract for 40,000 tons and a Swedish railway order for 21,000. The German coal owners are ready to fall in with the new plan and cut prices for domestic consumers, thereby completing the economic trilogy—cheaper coal, cheaper manufacturing and cheaper prices.

Another big incentive for the project is the fact that it would probably make jobs for thousands of persons now out of work in Germany. The last figures published here showed 2,800,000 unemployed.

France, with a totally different situation—generally satisfactory trade conditions and only 11,000 unemployed at the last official count—apparently has no intention of carrying out general price reductions, but this country and all others whose exports play a vital rôle in their national prosperity may be forced to reconsider their respective positions if the German plan is realized.

SMOOT FEELS SURE OF THE TARIFF BILL

Tells Senate So as Harrison Scoffs at Pennsylvanians Voting "No."

SARCASTIC ABOUT GRUNDY

Senator Reed Calls on Hoover—Will Make Known Today His Position on Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—With a vote on the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill only two days away, members of the Democratic-Republican coalition in the Senate directed against the measure today a heavy verbal barrage, while Republican regulars broke in only to predict with apparent confidence that the bill would be passed Friday when it came to vote.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the Finance Committee, told the Senate he believed he had sufficient votes to pass the bill. Senator Watson, Republican floor leader, also was confident of passage of the bill.

The poll of the Senate on the bill remained at 49 for and 47 against today, with Senators Reed and Grundy of Pennsylvania counted for the bill. If either Pennsylvania Senator votes against the bill, a tie would result, but the possibility of either Senator lining up against the bill is not now looked upon as large.

Senator Reed will clear up all doubt regarding his vote in a statement before the Senate tomorrow. He conferred with President Hoover today. Prior to that he stated that he had "almost decided" how he would vote, but had not "quite" made up his mind. After his talk with the President, the Senator returned to the Senate and said he would address the Senate tomorrow. He said he had reached a decision but would not tell what it was.

Senator Grundy has likewise refused to tell how he will vote. He is expected, however, to support the bill if it becomes necessary to pass it.

In a Senate speech today, Senator Harrison, Democrat, of Mississippi, a leader in the fight against the bill, called the report that the Pennsylvania Senators might vote against the bill a "smoke screen," devised by Republican leaders "because of the closeness" of the coming vote.

"We hold out no great hopes," he said, "that the bill is going to be defeated by the vote of either the senior Senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. Reed), or the junior Senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. Grundy), who has recently come back from the laurels that he did not attain in the recent election in Pennsylvania."

Newspaper men "may write their stories" concerning the possibility of the two Pennsylvania Senators voting against the bill, Senator Harrison declared, but he added that "those of us who know the facts hold out no such fond hope."

Mellon Reported to Be for Bill.

Mr. Harrison asked if Senator Smoot knew "how the Secretary of the Treasury stands on the bill." Senator Smoot replied that he did, and that "he denies statements which appeared yesterday in the press" representing him as opposed to the measure. Questioned further, Senator Smoot said he "judged" Secretary Mellon to be for the bill, although he had not talked with him.

Senator Harrison said in his speech:

"Every one knows that the vote on the adoption of the report is exceedingly close. Those who are in touch with it are bound to realize that almost the shifting of one vote when the roll is called means the adoption or defeat of the report.

"When the vote is taken every possible Democrat that can be polled against it will be polled against it, and we shall be exceedingly surprised if we do not cast, either by pairs or roll-call, every vote on this side of the chamber except five

BANKERS HALT DROP AFTER STOCKS REACH NEW LOWS FOR YEAR

Bears Are Routed by Heavy Supporting Orders in Last Minutes of Trading.

STEEL LEADS THE RALLY

Richard Whitney Reported to Have Put in Order for 60,000 Shares at 161.

SHARP REBOUND IN LONDON

American Issues Regain Losses Registered in the Sudden Downswing on Tuesday.

Powerful financial interests came to the rescue of the stock market yesterday and checked a decline of sweeping proportions. Supporting orders for pivotal stocks, among them United States Steel common, brought the downswing to an abrupt halt in the last fifteen minutes of trading on the New York Stock Exchange, but not until the general list had passed through the severest reaction since Dec. 12, 1929.

The market was falling under a renewal of professional selling when word was flashed from the floor of the Stock Exchange at 2:45 o'clock that Richard Whitney, who frequently acts for the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., was bidding 161 for 60,000 shares of Steel common. This stock shortly before had touched 160½, a new low for the year. The reported bid of Mr. Whitney, who is president of the Stock Exchange, threw the bear party into confusion, started a lively covering movement and stimulated buying in all parts of the list.

All of this happened before Wall Street could verify the report of Mr. Whitney's bid. For the moment the market community was eager to accept a rumor that the man who at the height of the break last Autumn stepped in and rallied the market by a spectacular bid for 25,000 shares of Steel, was repeating that dramatic performance. The report of a bid for 60,000 shares, as a matter of fact, was not confirmed, although it was learned that heavy supporting orders were placed in the last few minutes of trading with brokers who frequently act for important financial interests.

Gong Terminates the Upswing.

Steel turned sharply about, rallying from its low of 160½ to 163½, at which it closed. Other stocks which had been outdistancing Steel in the break earlier in the afternoon rebounded swiftly. The time remaining, however, was not sufficient for the recovery to erase more than a small part of the day's decline and the closing gong terminated the rally when it was rapidly gaining force and scope.

The net declines in stocks which bore the brunt of the selling movement ranged from 3 to 10 points, while the fast-stepping J. I. Case lost 20½ points. At the end of the day Allied Chemical and Dye was down 8 points, Air Reduction 7⅜ points, American Power and Light 6½, American Telephone and Telegraph 5⅝, American Tobacco B 5½, Auburn Auto 11, Bethlehem Steel 6, Brooklyn Union Gas 7½, A. M. Beyer 5⅜, Celotex 5¼, Columbian Carbon 6½, Consolidated Gas 4½, Eastman Kodak 12⅜, Electric Power and Light 5¼, Foster Wheeler 6, General Electric 4½, Goodyear Tire 5⅞, Hershey Chocolate 5⅜, Houston Oil 7⅝, Ingersoll Rand 8½, Johns Manville 6, Lambert 5⅜, R. H. Macy & Co. 5⅞, Public Service of New Jersey 4¼, Sears, Roebuck & Co. 4¼, Standard Oil of New Jersey 3⅞, United Aircraft and Transport 5⅜.

Wisconsin Republicans Ask Dry Referendum; Urge Congress to Call for a National Vote

By The Associated Press.

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 11 (AP).—A platform which ignored the customary plank endorsing both the national Republican Administration and the President and proposed that Congress authorize a national advisory prohibition referendum was adopted unanimously today by the Conservative Republican group in Wisconsin.

The convention of the so-called administration group also unanimously endorsed Governor Walter J. Kohler as candidate for re-election.

The platform besides asking for a national wet and dry poll, contained a demand for legislation to curtail and regulate the activities of chain store organizations. The rival La Follette-Progressive Republican group has put forth the chain store question as a chief issue.

Referring to the last Legislature's memorial to Congress asking for a national prohibition referendum and to Wisconsin's repeal of its enforcement statute in 1928, the platform asked Congress "to take prompt action on this question to the end that this matter be no longer the subject of national controversy."

The platform committee suggested four regulatory and licensing laws for non-resident chain stores and endorsed the 1929 law for double liability in bank holding companies.

"Non-resident chain stores typify absenteeism," the platform read. "They undermine community life, interest and welfare and have and take no equitable proportion of community obligations. Taking their inspiration, financing and ownership from sources outside the State, they form a monopoly of the field of merchandising distribution, manufacturing production and banking credits, all pointing to a concentration of wealth wholly unworthy of American confidence."

The platform then recommended trade legislation making chain stores "wholly amenable to State regulation and removing the existing handicaps to independent competitors, strengthening of laws licensing out-of-State or State corporations to permit revocation for unfair trade practices, imposition of license fees to pay for maintenance of regulation and prompt investigation of the practicability of tax amendments to equalize present tax burdens."

Record Flight From Montreal Ends Here in 115 Minutes

Special to The New York Times.

VALLEY STREAM, L. I., June 11.—Averaging more than three miles a minute, Dale (Red) Jackson, co-holder of the 420-hour endurance record with Forest O'Brine, flew the Travelair Mystery S monoplane from Montreal to the Curtiss Airport here today in the record time of 1 hour and 55 minutes for the 350-mile flight. The plane, which last year earned the title of the world's fastest commercial airplane by defeating the entries of both the army and navy at the national air races in Cleveland, was cleared by special customs inspectors as soon as it landed, permission having been granted the pilot to pass the regular station at Albany, where aerial customs are usually cleared.

Jackson said he had been forced to fly low because of poor visibility over the greater part of the route. His average speed was about 190 miles an hour, he said, although the plane has been timed at speeds as high as 227 miles an hour.

CORRIGAN IS NAMED CHIEF MAGISTRATE

Walker Picks Close Associate to Succeed McAdoo, Lauding His 23 Years on Bench.

APPOINTEE PLANS CHANGES

Says He Will Visit All Courts in City—To Push His Plan for a Central Tribunal.

Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, dean of the magistrates' courts and a close associate of Mayor Walker, was appointed yesterday by the Mayor to fill the post of Chief Magistrate left vacant by the recent death of William McAdoo.

Mayor Walker administered the oath to Magistrate Corrigan immediately after appointing him and took occasion to praise his record of twenty-three years on the bench, saying that not a single complaint had been leveled against him. While the Bar Association had not been consulted on the appointment and had made no suggestion, the Mayor said his choice would not have been affected by the suggestion of any other candidate.

"When I invited Judge Corrigan to accept the Chief Magistracy," the Mayor said, "I had in mind the four years he had served under District Attorney William Travers Jerome and his twenty-three years of distinguished service as a city magistrate. His reputation and character were known to me. During his service on the bench he never had a complaint against him. In view of this splendid record—a record of courage, honesty and integrity—no candidate could appeal to me with greater force.

But Welcomes Recommendations.

"However, I wish it distinctly understood that I am always very grateful for recommendations from the Bar Association. The assistance of that very competent body is always welcome. My long acquaintance with Judge Corrigan, dating from the time he served under Mr.

CANNON, AGAIN DEFIANT, IS RELEASED BY SENATORS FROM LOBBY QUESTIONING

COMMITTEE VOTES TO QUIT

It Acts After Surprise Appearance by Bishop Before Full Body.

HE IS WARNED BY BORAH

But Admonition That Witness Is Not Permitted to Choose Questions Fails to Move Him.

INQUIRY ON SLEMP DROPPED

Walsh Sought to Press $65,300 Fund Issue—Believed Senate Would Not Sanction Move.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Bishop James Cannon Jr. will not be required to tell of his personal political activities against the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith for President, the Senate lobby committee decided at an informal meeting late today.

The decision, which is expected to be announced at a meeting of the committee tomorrow, virtually upholds the Southern Methodist leader in the unprecedented act of walking out of a hearing last week when Senators Walsh of Montana and Blaine of Wisconsin tried to question him about those matters.

It also will mark the end of a controversy which has become a prominent topic of discussion at the Capitol, especially since the committee had appeared to be divided, with Senators Walsh and Blaine aligned against Senator Caraway, the chairman, and Senator Robinson of Indiana, with Senator Borah, the fifth member, refraining from expression of opinion.

Senator Walsh, most active in seeking to hold Bishop Cannon to the questioning, under threat of action for contempt of the Senate, is known to have agreed that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to obtain the needed authority from the Senate to proceed with the inquiry.

Bishop Cannon Appears.

The committee's decision followed the unexpected reappearance of Bishop Cannon before the committee this morning, when the Senators had met to consider possible disciplinary measures against him. He had said last Thursday, as he walked out of the committee room, that only a subpoena would force him to return.

The committee had planned to call C. Bascom Slemp, Republican National Committeeman for Virginia, to question him as to contributions made to Bishop Cannon by E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist, for the anti-Smith campaign. Correspondence between the Bishop and Mr. Jameson has indicated that part of the money came through Mr. Slemp.

It is understood that the decision not to press the questioning of Bishop Cannon also ruled out the calling of Mr. Slemp.

Bishop Cannon arrived before the committee filed into the room at 10:30 A. M., but soon made it known that his appearance was only for the purpose of reasserting his previous determination not to answer questions as to his anti-Smith activities.

Senator Borah, whose interest in the committee was suddenly awakened last week, told the Bishop on behalf of the body that his belief that his appearance as a voluntary witness permitted him to choose what questions he should answer was in error.

Questioned Before Full Committee.

Another contention of Bishop Cannon, that only a minority of the committee was present previously and hence he did not need to answer questions, was dispelled when he was asked some of the questions again and his declinations to answer were made before the full committee.

Senator Walsh of Montana, who acted as chairman during the previous examination, over the protest of Senator Robinson of Indiana, read long excerpts from other hearings by the committee, when testimony was taken from J. A. Arnold and Herman A. Metz, who had worked for tariff changes, and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Although read without comment, it was obvious that these citations were made in an effort to show that the questions regarding Bishop Cannon's personal political work on behalf of dry candidates in 1928 were no different than those of other prominent persons questioned by the committee.

With Senator Robinson, who was particularly active in questioning Mr. Metz and Mr. Curran, encouraging Bishop Cannon in his stand, while defending his own course, and Senator Caraway, chairman, and author of the abstentee statement from which Bishop Cannon derived support last week, maintaining his silence as to his attitude, the witness did not change his own attitude, despite these citations.

Cannon's Statement to Committee

Bishop Cannon, on first taking the witness chair, read the fourth statement he has been permitted to insert in the committee's record. It was:

"I desire to say that when I withdrew from the hearing on Thursday, June 5, I made a statement the purpose of which was to indicate that I was not on the stand any longer as a voluntary witness, and I stated that I should retire from further hearings of the committee unless a subpoena was issued.

"I thought that, as I had volunteered to appear before the committee to give information concerning the activities of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, I had the right to retire if I so desired unless a subpoena was issued.

"Furthermore, as there had never been a quorum of the committee present and the objections which I had raised to questioning me concerning my political activities had never been passed upon by the committee, I thought, it was unfair and illegal to continue to question me on my political activities until answer had been given to my objections.

"In taking this action it never occurred to me that I would be charged with showing contempt for the Senate, for I certainly had no such intention; but I understand from statements in the press that some members of the committee consider that my action was in open contempt of the Senate. Whatever may be the real technical status on that point, I desire to state now and before the committee, as I did in my statement to the press on Friday night, 'I intended no discourtesy to the Senate or the members of the Senate committee by retiring as a voluntary witness from the committee room on Thursday morning.' Certainly, I thought I had the right to do so.

"In order that there may be no implication of a purpose I did not intend, as I have understood that a quorum of the committee will be present this morning, I am here again today, if the committee so desires, as a voluntary witness, to give any additional information concerning the activities of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

"Should any member of the committee desire to ask questions concerning my political activities in the anti-Smith campaign, I respectfully request that a full committee consider my objections which I raised to the answering of such questions on Tuesday morning, June 3, and Wednesday morning, June 4, which objections clearly set forth my position on the questions at issue and why I refused to answer."

Borah Holds Him to Oath.

"Bishop Cannon, you have spoken in your written statement about appearing voluntarily," said Senator Borah. "Is it not your understanding that after you have appeared before a body and been sworn that you are no longer at liberty to consider yourself a voluntary witness, you being in the jurisdiction of the committee?"

"Why, I did not think that I was a witness for any purposes except those for which I volunteered," said the Bishop.

"Well, after you appear in court, for instance," said Senator Borah, "and take an oath as a witness, although you may appear voluntarily, you are subject to the control of the court until you are dismissed."

"I did not so understand it, no sir. Of course, I am not putting up my legal ability against yours, Senator."

"I only wanted to say that it is my understanding that after you have appeared and taken the oath, then you are just in the same capacity as if you had been subpoenaed," Senator Borah continued.

"I think that there will be no difference in the judgment of the committee," ruled Chairman Caraway.

Picking up the thread of questioning, Senator Caraway reviewed the testimony taken in his absence last week, particularly concerning the gifts to Bishop Cannon from the Northern Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, which gave the Bishop $5,000, and from E. C. Jameson of New York, donor of $65,300.

The smaller gift was not reported as a political contribution and only $17,000 of the latter, it has been shown, Bishop Cannon holding that the remainder of the money was used by him as a private individual and therefore without the purview either of the Lobby Committee or the corrupt practices act.

Bishop Cannon interrupted to ask if the committee had ruled upon his objections to answering its questions, but Senator Caraway continued his interrogation, particularly concerning the $5,000.

Used to Circulate Speech.

"You used that money to circulate a speech you made, entitled, 'Repeal of Prohibition Unthinkable'?" Senator Caraway asked.

"I used that money to circulate a speech which they requested me to circulate."

Switching to the Jameson contributions, Senator Walsh reviewed Mr. Jameson's testimony showing that he had made his donations between Sept. 18, 1928, and Jan. 14, 1929, but that the anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia, in reporting the $17,000 which Bishop Cannon credited to their headquarters committee as political expenditures, did not note receipt of any money until Feb. 15, 1929.

"I am wondering just what this has to do with the lobby investigation," interposed Senator Robinson.

"He was merely asked if he wanted to make a statement," observed Senator Caraway.

"Mr. Chairman, you wish me to be perefectly frank, I suppose," said Bishop Cannon. "It does look to me as if this is a method of indirection, and I stated to this committee my objection to answering questions of this kind."

"Do you stand upon that objection?" asked the chairman.

"I think I have a right to the committee's passing on those objections before further inquiries of this nature are propounded to me," replied the witness.

His testimony was interrupted by a woman whose card bore the name of Mrs. Royall Sheldron Waldron, who rose and said:

"This is a Romanist hold-up in free Protestant America and I protest."

After she had been escorted from the room the hearing continued, with Senator Blaine attempting to read into the record a letter from Bishop Cannon to Mr. Jameson pointing out that Mr. Slemp had paid over some money to him.

"I doubt the propriety of that kind of letter going into the record," objected Senator Robinson.

"The committee has nothing to do with this letter," rejoined Senator Blaine. "It is my own personal possession and I am using it as a member of this committee."

Japan Will Build New Home for Embassy; Norway Also Plans a Washington Edifice

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Japanese Government will erect a new embassy building and chancellery costing $380,000 in the 2,500 block of Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., and the Norwegian Government shortly will start the construction of new offices for its legation here, on a large site which has been acquired on the north side of Massachusetts Avenue west of Thirty-fourth Street.

Delano & Aldrich of New York are the architects for the Japanese Embassy building, the permit for which has just been issued. The forty-room embassy structure will comprise three stories, basement and subbasement, while the chancellery will consist of twenty-two rooms in two stories and basement. The former will cost $300,000 and the latter $80,000.

The new Norwegian Legation building will be opposite Observatory Circle, near the new and costly home of the British Embassy, on the south side of Massachusetts Avenue. It will be the newest addition to "Embassy Row."

While plans for the new Norwegian Legation building have been under consideration for some time, the project has not been publicly announced here. John J. Whelan of Washington is the architect.

The building will have fifteen main rooms exclusive of the chancellery quarters, which will consist of six main rooms.

REPORTS FAVORABLY ON $66,211,884 BILL

House Committee Favors the Passage of Redrafted Deficiency Act.

$2,800,000 BELOW ESTIMATE

Measure Also Includes $2,500,000 to Purchase Land for Post Office Annex Site Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Additional appropriations for various functions of the government, totaling $66,211,884.06, are carried in the second deficiency bill as reported to the House today for favorable action.

The amount revealed that the Appropriations Committee had caught "the economy spirit" of the White House, as it represented a decrease of more than $2,800,000 from the budget estimates for the various activities provided for.

The largest single item in the bill is one of $10,660,000 for the commencement of work on the Boulder Canyon Dam project.

One section of the bill would amend the act of March 4, 1929, authorizing an appropriation of $1,500,000 for acquisition of a postoffice annex site in New York City, to allow the Secretary of the Treasury to use up to $2,500,000 for purchase of additional land from the Pennsylvania Railroad and Tunnel Company. The land in question is the remainder of the blocks bounded by Eighth and Ninth Avenues and West Thirty-first and West Thirty-third Streets, not now owned by the government, and is for an annex building which, including incidental changes in the present structure and its fixed equipment, will cost about $7,000,000.

In addition to the definite appropriations in the bill, there are included several items of indefinite amounts for satisfying awards which later may be allowed by the arbiter for payment of claims of German and Austrian nations for ships, patents and radio stations seized during the war. A maximum total of $51,341,387.78 is placed on these.

The principal items of specific appropriation in the bill are:

Public buildings	$29,037,840
Boulder Canyon project	10,660,000
Porto Rican relief	1,000,000
United States Veterans' Bureau	2,200,000
Cooperative agricultural work	1,000,000
Forest roads and trails	3,500,000
Georgia and South Carolina for flood relief	1,311,628
New penitentiary	1,700,000
Fund for prison industries	500,000
Prison camps	750,000
New Federal jails	1,000,000
Marine Corps, expeditionary forces, China and Nicaragua	1,325,000
Postal service, special delivery fees	1,000,000
Contract air mail service	1,700,000
Customs service, salaries and expenses	898,480
Coast Guard cutter for Lake Mich.	450,000
Subsistence of the army	500,000
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers	773,520
Panama Canal, maintenance and operation	500,000
President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Law Observance	250,000
George Washington Bicentennial Commission	362,075
American Red Cross Building	350,000
Equipment, new Department of Commerce Building	200,000
Hydraulic laboratory, Bureau of Standards	350,000

All other items in the bill, including judgments and audited claims, amount to $4,883,400.55.

NEW MISSIONARIES GATHER.

Sixty at Presbyterian Conference Here Assigned to Foreign Fields.

Sixty new missionaries scheduled to sail during the year for Presbyterian foreign mission fields attended the annual conference for outgoing missionaries yesterday in the Presbyterian Foreign Board rooms at 156 Fifth Avenue. The conference was formally opened Tuesday evening. The program includes a dinner at the McAlpin tonight and a communion service at the First Presbyterian Church, including the conference, tomorrow.

The board is sending sixty-two regular missionaries and nine who have been reappointed, as well as thirty-two special term missionaries. Three additional missionaries were appointed by the board at its meeting Monday. Thirty-seven of the regular and special term missionaries are assigned to China; sixteen to India; eleven to the Cameroun, the only centre of Presbyterian work in Africa; eight to Persia and five to Japan. Smaller quotas will go to nine other countries.

Seventeen of the missionaries are ordained, two are men physicians, two are women physicians, three are registered nurses, twelve are men educators, thirty-three are women educators, eight are women evangelists, two will engage in secretarial work, and eighteen are wives and fiancées.

SENDS PROTEST TO ITALY.

Yugoslavia Transmits Note on Recent Demonstrations.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, June 11.—The Yugoslavian Minister at Rome has presented an official note to the Italian Government about the recent anti-Yugoslavian demonstrations in Bari and other Italian cities.

Yugoslavian flags and the coat of arms were dragged in the mud, and the annexation of Dalmatia was urged by the demonstrators.

Votes to Retire Dr. Jefferson.

The New York Congregational Association met yesterday in the Broadway Congregational Tabernacle, Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street, to end officially the pastorate of the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, who will retire from active church work Aug. 29. Dr. Jefferson has been serving as pastor of the Broadway Congregational Tabernacle for thirty-two years. Many of the pastors present paid tribute to Dr. Jefferson.

BEG HOUSE TO ENACT EMPLOYMENT BILLS

Green and Miss Perkins Tell Committee "Crisis" Demands Wagner Plans' Passage.

ALSO APPEAL TO HOOVER

Both Declare Measures Will Relieve Situation Which, They Say, Is Laden With Danger.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Miss Frances Perkins, head of the New York State Industrial Department, told the House Judiciary Committee today that Congress could ill afford to adjourn without at least recognizing the unemployment situation throughout the country, which they painted with a black brush.

Their statements were in testimony during today's hearing on the Wagner unemployment bills, recently proposed in the Senate, providing for long range planning in public works and for a system of Federal employment agencies in cooperation with the States.

Mr. Green declared that enactment of these bills would go a long way toward relieving the conditions which he described. He said that besides providing a practical way by which the government could help idle and willing workers to find employment, their enactment would say to labor that "Congress realizes the seriousness of the situation and has done what it could to help."

Mr. Green told the committee that the unemployment problem was really at a crisis, "a constant menace to our peace and prosperity."

"The program expressed by these bills is in no sense a cure-all in the field of unemployment," said Miss Perkins, "but is a fundamental underlying program for political assistance on the part of the government, both to the unemployed and to those leaders of industry who are attempting to do their part in preventing unemployment. It represents a minimum program but a very essential one if any progress is to be made in this country in stabilizing employment.

"The improvements in machinery and methods which have been going on so rapidly for the last ten years are undoubtedly creating a surplus of skilled labor, and this surplus will continue to grow to dangerous proportions unless there is an expansion of consumers' demand for the products manufactured."

Miss Perkins estimated that approximately 5,000,000 are now unemployed throughout the country. Mr. Green previously estimated the number to be more than 3,000,000.

Others appearing in behalf of the Wagner bills, all introduced by Senator Wagner of New York, author of the measures, were William T. Foster, economist and author, of New York; Hawley Douglas of the economics department of Swarthmore College, and Samuel Josephs, Professor of Economy at City College of New York.

Following their appearance before the Judiciary Committee, this group, with Mr. Green, Miss Perkins and a number of others concerned over the unemployment situation, called on President Hoover at the White House and urged on him favorable consideration of the Wagner bills.

Opposition to the bills was led before the committee by James A. Emery, representing the National Association of Manufacturers of the United States, also thirty-five manufacturing concerns which are large employers of labor.

WICKERSHAM BOARD SPLIT OVER DRY LAW

Chairman Revealed to House Committee Differences Over Going Into 18th Amendment.

DRY VOICED A WARNING

Crampton Suggested Appropriation Would Be Cut Off if Inquiry Went Beyond Enforcement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A difference of opinion within President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission as to whether its inquiry into prohibition should go into the Eighteenth Amendment itself was revealed today when hearings on the second deficiency appropriation bill, in which the commission received $250,000 more to continue its work, were made public.

Another incident was a warning by the dry leader of the House, Representative Cramton of Michigan, to Chairman Wickersham, that if his commission did not confine itself to the question of enforcement alone, Congress would starve it to death with a lack of funds.

Mr. Wickersham made it plain that from President Hoover's own declarations he thought it to be his commission's function to "express our opinion" as to whether "laws which have been enacted to carry out the provisions of the amendment are ill adapted to that end, that they have had a different purpose or effect, or that they have thwarted the purpose of the amendment."

Mr. Wickersham testified that, so far, the commission had proceeded in accord with his own theory, that it must accept the Constitution as it is, Eighteenth Amendment and all, and therefore had confined its investigation to the matter of enforcement alone.

Says Opinions Differ.

"On the other hand, I would not be candid with you if I did not say that there has been a difference of opinion in the commission on that head," he continued.

"It has been our view that when we came to a thorough inquiry into the problem of the enforcement of prohibition, under the amendments and laws, if we were convinced that prohibition could not be enforced, we ought to say so, and that if we were convinced that it was very problematical as to whether it could be enforced, we ought to say so; but, at the same time, up to the present, the commission has proceeded on the theory that you have expressed, that our job was to see whether the Eighteenth Amendment was being adequately and efficiently enforced, whether any change in the law was desirable and what changes, if any, in the laws would best bring about the maximum enforcement of the provisions of the Eighteenth Amendment."

"I am not arguing with you, Mr. Chairman," put in Mr. Cramton, who is a member of the Appropriations Committee, "because you have indicated your position to be the same as I have advanced, but may I suggest that when Congress creates a commission to inquire into the problem of enforcing law, they have not created a commission to determine whether that law should be enforced or whether that law should be retained?

Specific Directions Asked.

"I am frank to say that it is somewhat disturbing to me to hear your statement that an indefinite number of the membership of the commission construe that language differently from what Congress intended and, while you state that up to this time they have not prevailed, it leaves it open to the future as to whether they may prevail in the future. I am frank to say that I am not in favor of Congress appropriating a penny to determine whether an amendment adopted by the people of the United States is a wise amendment."

When Mr. Wickersham stated it would relieve him of "a great embarrassment" if the appropriation were made specific on the point, Mr. Cramton replied that "the intent of Congress has already been clearly expressed."

"A law enforcement commission could only be expected to recommend methods of enforcement that are constitutional," Mr. Cramton added.

"I apprehend," said Chairman Wood of the committee, "under the language of this appropriation that the President himself has the right to direct the commission as to what he thinks should be the scope of their investigation."

"I assume so," said Mr. Wickersham. "And, of course, when I spoke of the difference of opinion on this subject, I wanted to be entirely candid with the committee, but that difference has not been photographed into action yet, and I would be unwilling to say now what opinion the commission would reach when we got through. We are just now in medias res, and we express views day by day which tomorrow may be modified."

against the adoption of the report. I only regret that we cannot present a unanimous vote against it.

"It is because of the closeness of the vote that the impression is attempted to be created in the public mind that the two Senators or one of the two Senators from the Keystone State may vote against this report.

"To one who has seen the working of the mind and the action of the Senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. Reed), not only in this but in other tariff controversies since he entered this chamber, familiar with the fact that he was a member of one of the subcommittees that wrote certain schedules in this bill and perhaps got more out of it than any other, it is idle talk and but a smoke screen to try to create the impression that either of the Senators from Pennsylvania would vote against the conference report."

Some Remarks About Grundy.

Concerning Senator Grundy, Senator Harrison said:

"Under his solicitation and persistent efforts he obtained many increases in this bill and destroyed much of our work when we were gliding along so smoothly and trying to give the American people a real tariff bill.

"He did more than any other to destroy our work and reorganize the forces over across the aisle and start the bill on the downward hill again.

"What position as a lobbyist in the future, after March 4, will he occupy if he votes against this measure? What influence, such as in the past he has been able to wield so powerfully, will he have if, when he goes back to private life and renews his occupation as a lobbyist, he takes with him the record of having voted against this his masterpiece?"

Senator Harrison added, concerning Senator Reed's vote:

"To those who want to wager, I can bet about 100 to 1 that he will remain true to those with whom he has worked so faithfully in trying to jack up the rates carried in the tariff bill."

Addressing Senator Smoot, he declared that he could tell when the Finance Committee chairman "gets frightened," and that if he were really in great doubt over the votes of either Senator Reed or Grundy he would not look "so serene" as he did.

Senator Smoot, in reply, said, "I want to allay any fear the Senator from Mississippi may have that the tariff bill is going to be defeated. I believe with all my soul that the Senator from Mississippi would be the most disappointed man in this chamber if it should be defeated. So I want him to have a little more faith in the passage of the bill. I do not want him to pass any sleepless hours between now and Friday thinking that it will be defeated."

Not Sure About Hoover Signing.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee interposed to ask if Senator Smoot "cannot assure the Senate and the country with equal confidence that not only the bill will be passed but that President Hoover will promptly sign it."

"I cannot say that," Senator Smoot replied. "I wish I could, and if I could, I would say so frankly to the Senate now."

Smoot "Sure" of Majority Favor.

Senator Harrison asked if, "on the assumption that the Secretary of the Treasury is for the bill, the Senator assumed that the two Senators from Pennsylvania are for it?"

"No, I do not make any assumption whatever," Senator Smoot replied. "I do not say that; I do not know. I am just as sure as that I live that the majority of the Senate wants the bill proposed. Some might, if they had their say, make changes, but rather than have no bill at all a great majority of the Senators would favor the passage of the bill. I do not know how Senators will vote, but I believe there will be enough votes to pass the bill."

The five Democratic Senators whom Senator Harrison expects to vote for the bill are generally understood to be the Florida and Louisiana Senators and Senator Kendrick of Wyoming.

The two principal speeches attacking the measure today were made by Senators La Follette and Barkley.

Senator La Follwette declared that the bill represented a 20 per cent increase over the present law instead of the 6.86 per cent asserted by Mr. Smoot.

"According to the Senator's figures," he said, "the ad valorem equivalents of the duties are 33.22 per cent under the Fordney-McCumber act and 40.80 per cent under the Hawley-Smoot bill. This represents an increase of 20 per cent. The Senator from Utah, however, has informed the country that it represents an increase of 6.86 per cent. The trouble with the Senator's method of figuring is that he has simply subtracted the present ad valorem rate from the proposed ad valorem rate in order to calculate the percentage of the increase."

"$1,000,000,000 Burden" Predicted.

The bill "erects the highest tariff wall in American history," Senator La Follette declared.

"The pending bill is a complete betrayal of President Hoover's pledge.

"It is absurd to speak of this bill as a tariff for the benefit of agriculture when we realize that $10,000,000,000 worth of agricultural commodities, which are on an export basis, will not derive one nickel of benefit from the rates carried in this bill; that only a partial and probably temporary benefit from these paper rates will accrue to the producers of another $3,000,000,000 worth of commodities, and that the full benefit of the new duties will reach only the producers of some $368,000,000 worth of our agricultural production.

WIVES IN FIST FIGHT; HUSBANDS IN GUN DUEL

Oklahoma Deputy Is Slain as He Takes Helpmeet on Rum Raid—Mississippi Dry Killer Held.

HOBART, Okla., June 11 (AP).—While their wives engaged in a fight, a Kiowa County deputy sheriff and the operator of a filling station being raided for liquor shot it out at Roosevelt, Okla. S. W. Humble, the deputy, is dead from gunshot wounds and Sam Allen, the filling station man, is under guard in the county jail.

Wives of both men are in a Hobart hospital being treated for injuries inflicted in their encounter.

Humble, accompanied by his wife, went to Roosevelt to raid the filling station last night. The argument started when Humble explained his mission. Allen is said to have fired three shots which resulted in Humble's death about two hours later.

Allen escaped, pursued by a posse of 100 men which went from Hobart, taking bloodhounds from the Granite Reformatory. He surrendered later to county officers.

EUPORA, Miss., June 11 (AP).—Justice of the Peace Lee Ferguson, whose attempt to search a car for liquor at a Sunday "singing bee" near here precipitated a gun fight in which his wife was slain, has been placed under $1,000 bond to answer manslaughter charges, it was learned today.

DEFENDS COLLEGE DRINKING

The Rev. Dr. Bell Does Not Believe Moderate Use of Liquor Is Wrong.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, educator, says in the current number of the Diocese of Chicago Episcopal Church Magazine:

"I do not believe that moderate drinking is in itself sinful."

The Rev. Dr. Bell also says that he does not believe moderate drinking on the part of college students should be condemned by educators. He is the warden of St. Stephen's College, controlled by the Episcopal Church but affiliated with Columbia University.

"It is true that alcoholic beverages are prohibited by statute, but the statute is not observed, and it is doubtful that it ever will be enforceable," Dr. Bell's article states.

TUNA POACHERS SUSPECTED

Ecuadorean Craft Encounters Torpedo Boat in Galapagos.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, June 11.—El Telegrafo features on its first page today a report that the motorboat Cobos met an unidentified torpedo boat in James Bay, Galapagos, as well as a fishing motorboat and four other craft. As far as is known no units of the United States Navy are now in the neighborhood of Galapagos, but tuna fishers from the west coast recently visited the islands. Governor Yepez of Galapagos announces he will take the necessary measures against poachers, as no fishing permits have been issued.

Widow of Japanese Scientist Is Naturalized Here.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard granted naturalization yesterday to Mrs. Mary Noguchi, widow of Hideyo Noguchi, Japanese bacteriologist who died in Africa May 1, 1928, while he was attempting to stamp out tropical fevers.

Mrs. Noguchi, who is 54 years old, explained that she had become a subject of the Emperor of Japan when she married the scientist. She said that she was of Irish descent. J. E. Hamer, clerk of the Naturalization Bureau, administered the oath of allegiance. Mrs. Noguchi lives at 600 West 138th Street.

CHRYSLER OFFICIAL SEES PERIL IN TARIFF

Expects Reprisals if Bill Is Passed, Morse Says on Return From European Tour.

Elliott C. Morse, president of the Chrysler Motors Export Corporation, who returned yesterday on the White Star liner Homeric from a three months' business tour through Europe, said he felt that the tariff should not be passed if we expect the people on the other side to continue as our customers. In his view, reprisals are inevitable as soon as we pass the tariff bill, although he is optimistic about the foreign motors market.

Mr. Morse added that optimism is needed in this country, as less than optimistic attitudes are misinterpreted and grossly exaggerated in the European press.

Another passenger on the Homeric was Thomas Radcliffe, a member of the Manx Parliament and publisher of The Examiner, printed at Douglas, on the Isle of Man. He said he had come here to escort 300 Manxmen from the United States and Canada on a Summer tour.

The Manx Parliament, Mr. Radcliffe said, is the oldest Parliament, having existed continuously for more than 1,000 years. The Iceland Parliament may have started earlier, but it has been changed in form numerous times. He added that the Manx cats, famous for centuries for their squat tails and unusual frames, were disappearing fast. The quaint looking felines apparently do not like modern ways and will soon be extinct.

Captain J. B. Bulman, master of the Homeric, said he had been delayed three hours by fog after passing the Grand Banks. The liner brought 270 passengers and 5,500 sacks of mail.

QUICKLY INDICT SIX IN POISON RUM RAIDS

Federal Grand Jurors Act on Four Men and Two Women Within Five Minutes.

TRIALS SET FOR MONDAY

Tuttle Will Ask Maximum Terms on Convictions—Crain Sifts Bowery Sales Under State Law.

Acting within five minutes after hearing the evidence, a Federal grand jury returned three indictments yesterday against four men and two women, arrested late Tuesday by agents of Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator, with thirty others as dispensers of poison "liquor" which is said to have caused thirty-one deaths in the last month among the customers of "smoke" shops in the Bowery and lower east side.

Federal Attorney Tuttle announced last night that he would place the defendants on trial Monday and ask for maximum sentences if convictions are obtained. At the same time, since Federal authorities acknowledged that "ambiguities of law" existed in the case which might impede effective prosecution, District Attorney Crain began an investigation under State laws which carry heavy penalties for the sellers of poison.

The indictments, charging violation of the national prohibition act, were handed up to Federal Judge Robert B. Patterson in what is believed to be record time after Charles H. Finkelstein, Assistant United States Attorney, had introduced the testimony of the raiding agents. Before this, Robert B. Watts, assistant to Mr. Tuttle, had outlined the provisions of the law.

Still earlier in the day thirty-one of the arrested proprietors, "bouncers" and bartenders of the "smoke joints," were held by United States Commissioner Cotter in $2,500 bail each for hearings June 25 on charges of maintaining nuisances and selling "liquor."

Although each indictment provides for prosecution under the Jones act carrying a maximum sentence of five years, Mr. Watts reluctantly admitted that the Federal court might not agree that the specific charge, "selling denatured alcohol for beverage purposes," could come under this act.

Meanwhile Major Campbell, who announced that nearly every "smoke" shop in the Bowery and lower east side had been closed, said that his agents were preparing their cases for presentment to District Attorney Crain and Mr. Tuttle.

The first indictment charges that Frank Leddy and Herbert Wilks, 6 Bowery, sold one-half a pint of denatured alcohol to agents. The same charge is made against Maurice and Anna Skigin, 128 Monroe Street, in the second indictment, and the third names Irael and Helen Seligman, 53 Avenue C.

William Collins, 35 years old, of 33 Gansevoort Street was taken from a rooming house at 333 Bowery just before noon yesterday suffering from denatured alcohol poisoning and died three hours later in Bellevue Hospital.

ENVOY'S LIQUOR IN PORT.

First Shipment Since Sir Esme Howard Left Arrives at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, June 11 (AP).—The first consignment of liquor for the British Embassy at Washington since Sir Esme Howard left, arrived in Baltimore today on the steamship Manchester Exporter.

In the shipment were twenty-seven large cases, each of which contained six or eight smaller cases of whisky, champagne or other liquors. The smaller cases contained one dozen bottles.

The entire shipment was consigned to Sir Ronald Lindsay, Sir Esme's successor at the Embassy.

Will of C. F. Choate 3d Aids Southboro.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 11 (AP).—The will of Charles F. Choate 3d of Southboro, Boston and New York lawyer, filed at probate court here today, leaves $20,000 for the establishment of a playground for the children of Southboro, where he made his home. The rest of the estate is left to his wife and a son, Charles F. Choate Jr.

WESTCHESTER SEES 172,308 CENSUS GAIN

516,744 Is County Population, Says Preliminary Report, Believed Nearly Complete.

SCARSDALE GAIN IS 175%

Town's Growth Proves Wisdom of Permitting Only Single Homes, Says Mayor.

COUNT REVEALS 252 FARMS

Pelham Manor's Addition of 180 Per Cent Since 1920 Called Largest in State.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 11.—Westchester County has a population of 516,744, an increase of 172,308 over the 344,436 persons residing in the county when the 1920 census was taken. Announcement of the preliminary census returns for Westchester was made today by James F. Arbuckle, United States census supervisor for the twentieth district. Mr. Arbuckle said he does not expect the county total will be changed more than 500 by any corrections which may be made.

There are 252 farms in Westchester County, the returns show. The towns of Greenburgh and Poundridge lead the other communities, with 36 farms each.

The population of the village and town of Scarsdale, the boundaries of which are coincident, was announced as 9,664, an increase of 175.6 per cent over the 3,506 recorded ten years ago.

The large increase in Scarsdale, second only to the increase in Pelham Manor of 180.6 per cent, believed to be the largest increase in the State, was taken by Supervisor Pliny W. Williamson and Mayor Robert E. Christie of Scarsdale as a "positive endorsement of the zoning laws of Scarsdale, which make it primarily a village of single family homes." Both officials said the figures indicated that the average family prefers for its home a community where the laws offer reasonable protection against the "unwelcome encroachment of apartment houses, factories and business."

The census figures for cities, towns and villages, as given out by Mr. Arbuckle, are as follows:

THREE HELD IN SHOOTING.

Face Technical Charge in Brooklyn Attack Which Killed One.

Three men were held yesterday on a technical charge of homicide in connection with a shooting early in the morning at Glenmore Avenue and Linwood Street, Brooklyn, in which one man was killed and four others wounded.

The men held, two of whom were arraigned in Flatbush Court, are Abraham Reles, 24 years old, of 602 Cleveland Street, Brooklyn, who is in a serious condition in Kings County Hospital, suffering from bullet wounds; Louis Asperti, 25, of 107-57 111th Street, Richmond Hill, who was treated at Trinity Hospital for a bullet wound in the back, and Martin Goldstein, 24, who was shot through the nose and gave the same address as Reles.

The fourth man wounded, the police say, had no connection with the others but was passing by at the time of the shooting. He is Joseph Ambrosio of 257 Essex Street, Brooklyn.

The shooting, according to the police, was the continuation of a gang war, started over a slot machine racket, in which Meyer Shapiro and two other gangsters were wounded about a week ago.

Woman in Country 48 Years Rides in Train for First Time

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 11.—Miss Ellen Tully took her first ride in a railroad train today, forty-eight years after her arrival in this country from Ireland. Previously she had no occasion to ride about. Her life was settled immediately upon her arrival here at the age of 21, when she went into the domestic service of the Southwick family at Larchmont.

She has had no occasion yet to use the telephone, and has never gone to a motion picture show; although the radio in the house delights here. Only the illness of her mistress, Miss E. Douglas Southwick, led her to ride on a train. She is now in a Pullman on the way to Maine with her mistress and a nurse. "The train doesn't wiggle as much as I though it would," she said.

SHRINERS CHEERED IN TORONTO PARADE

Three Miles of Colorful Pageant Draws Immense Crowd of Applauding People.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, June 11.—Three miles of shimmering, shifting, scintillating color, applause that began in a ripple at the Humber River and ended in a sustained roll at the saluting point in the exhibition grounds, prancing horses and flowing robes of the desert marked the great parade of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of the United States and Canada today.

Every Noble donned his ceremonial garments and for the first time Toronto saw the entire conclave together and on the march. The magnitude and gorgeousness of the parade attracted thousands of citizens who lined the way.

The head of the procession marched from the river about 10:15 and further contingents were still forming and swinging into line when the leading temples were dispersing at the Prince's Gate.

The mile-long grand stand was filled, but many thousands lined the route through Sunnyside to the western entrance of the exhibition grounds.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader in the American Senate, and Representative John T. Buckbee of Illinois arrived to take part in today's ceremonies, the Senator as the representative of President Hoover.

Fez-topped and awaiting the call to his motor, the Senator delivered the following brief message of good-will to Canada:

"Relations between Canada and the United States have been very happy throughout more than a century. Occasional commercial rivalries arise, the tariff policy of the United States at times has contributed to temporary misunderstandings, but these are of comparatively trivial consequence.

"The limitation of armament on terms acceptable to both the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations will prove a contribution to strengthening the ties of friendship between Canada and the United States."

Senator Robinson was made an honorary member of the Imperial Council.

The Imperial Council decided this evening to meet next year in Cleveland at a date that will not conflict with the grand encampment of the Knights Templar.

Esten A. Fletcher of Rochester, N. Y., was elected Imperial Potentate. His installation will take place tomorrow.

HOPES SOUTHERN CROSS CAN START TOMORROW

Kingsford-Smith Says He Won't Risk Bad Weather—Guards Prevent Girls Scribbling on Plane.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALDONNEL AIRDROME, Dublin, June 11.—Major Charles Kingsford-Smith is still delayed by unfavorable weather over the route he proposes to follow to America in his plane, the Southern Cross.

Today's late report was received with considerable gloom by the four men in the party. The earliest possible take-off is now set for dawn Friday. Major Kingsford-Smith is still hoping conditions will improve soon enough to enable him to leave this week.

DUBLIN, June 11 (AP).—"I am very depressed by the delay," Major Kingsford-Smith said today, "but it would be foolhardy to dash off tomorrow merely in the hope that weather conditions might improve. No risks will be taken in this flight and although there still is a slight chance of the weather improving by Thursday morning, I fail to see how we can get away before Friday."

The younger set of the capital is planning large parties for the night of the flight, culminating in motor drives to the Curragh camp to see the take-off. The guardians of the plane are having some difficulty with romantic girls who wish to scribble love messages with names on the plane for their sweethearts in New York in the hope that the absent ones may see the machine and read them.

Although Captain Kingsford-Smith has refused to carry any mail, it is likely he will agree to accept a letter of greeting to Mayor Walker in New York.

ECUADOR SEEKS KEMMERER

Reported Planning to Invite Him to Advise on Modifying Laws.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GUAAQUIL, Ecuador, June 11.—The government is planning to invite Professor Edwin W. Kemmerer to visit Ecuador when he completes his financial mission in Colombia, according to a report in El Universo.

The purpose, according to the paper, is to invite him to advise the next Congress regarding modification of the laws he recommended when he made his original economic survey here.

HUSTON PUTS BLAME ON POLITICAL FOES

Chairman in a Letter to All Republican Committeemen Challenges Lobby Charges.

"WILL NOT BE STAMPEDED"

He Was Advised of Campaign Against Him After Accepting Post, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—In an identical letter to each member of the Republican National Committee Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the committee, alleges that charges against him growing out of his activities concerning Muscle Shoals legislation are the result of a campaign directed by partisan opponents "in the hope of injuring the Republican national organization, the National Administration and myself."

Not one word in the letter indicated that Mr. Huston will resign from the chairmanship or that he will stick it out. Stating he realizes that if the attacks should be successful they would be repeated against any one taking his place, he says:

"I have refused to be stampeded."

Mr. Huston's letter is dated May 29. Copies of it were made available for publication today at the headquarters of the Republican National Committee.

Blames "Whispering Campaign."

The movement in the national committee to have Mr. Huston retire from the chairmanship was due chiefly to testimony given before the lobby committee, which was construed by critics of Mr. Huston as showing that money collected in behalf of a movement to enable private corporations to lease the Muscle Shoals plant had been used by him to strengthen his private trading account with a stock brokerage house.

In his concluding paragraph, Mr. Huston refers to a "whispering campaign," which, he says, was inspired by partisan or factional motives "and by persons who hope to profit by an attack on me."

There has been little reaction to the Huston letter among prominent Republicans here. The impression was obtained today that it will not serve to abate the agitation among members of the national committee and others active in the party's affairs to have the chairman resign. A majority of the national committee is credited with the opinion that for the good of the party Mr. Huston should retire.

The publicity given to the letter served to revive the reports that Mr. Huston would resign as soon as Congress adjourned, but there was no authentic information that these reports had any substantial basis.

Text of the Huston Letter.

Chairman Huston's letter read as follows:

Washington, D. C., May 29, 1930.

Dear ——

In view of the misleading publicity directed against me in recent months by political enemies, I wish to give to the members of the Republican National Committee and others interested the following facts:

Within a few days after my election as chairman of the Republican National Committee I was reliably advised that a campaign would be set in motion by partisan opponents in the hope of injuring the Republican national organization, the National Administration and myself. Since then every conceivable means has been employed to strike at me—both personally and politically. Realizing the motive of these attacks, which if successful would lead to their repetition against any one who might stand in my place, I have refused to be stampeded.

In this brief letter it is impossible to review all the falsehoods and distortions of fact which have been employed against me personally. Consequently, I shall confine myself to the chief charges, two in number.

First—That before my election as chairman I was a lobbyist for a large corporation seeking legislation by Congress.

Second—That I obtained funds for the use of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, with whom I formerly was associated, and devoted these funds temporarily to cover a shortage in my brokerage accounts in New York.

Calls Charges "Absolutely False."

Both of these charges are absolutely false.

As is well known, I served for sixteen years as president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, which embraced in its membership chambers of commerce, commercial bodies and many leading business and public men interested in promoting the prosperity of that section. This organization sought to increase general industrial activity through acquisition of the power development at Muscle Shoals and elsewhere in the Tennessee Valley by manufacturing concerns which would be large employers of labor.

We first interested Henry Ford, but, as is generally known, he finally withdrew his offer because the matter was made the subject of long-drawn-out political contention in Congress.

JOSEPH E. CORRIGAN.

Acting upon the joint resolution of Congress inviting new private bids we then interested the American Cyanamid Company, a strong manufacturing concern devoting its major activities to the production of fertilizer. The interests of the Tennessee River Improvement Association and this company became mutual, both seeking the same objective.

I spent months of my time and thousands of dollars of my own money in trying to promote the industrial welfare of my section. The burden of carrying the extensive work of surveys, supplying engineering data and the other expenses of the organization fell largely on my shoulders and, for the past several years, this work has been privately financed by myself and a few close friends.

Tells of Two Contributions.

The Union Carbide Company had a minor interest in the Muscle Shoals project, and a direct interest in power development along the upper Tennessee River. My associates and I thought it proper that this company reimburse the association in part for its expenditure for extensive surveys, maps and general overhead, and, accordingly, two payments were made to me of $22,000 and $14,100, respectively, as shown in the Senate committee testimony.

So far then, as the first charge is concerned, this is the extent of my "lobbying."

The second charge has to do with my handling of these funds and their disposition. The association being privately financed, I had made anticipatory advances to J. W. Worthington, executive director, of approximately one-half the amount of the first payment received from the Carbide Company. These totaled $3,250 in three checks at various times, and $7,500 paid him the day that the first Carbide payment came in. This and the second payment were handled, as any other of my business transactions were and are, through my securities account with Messrs. Blyth & Bonner of New York, an investment and brokerage house of the highest standing.

Cites Letter from Brokers.

The following letter from Blyth & Bonner completely refutes the charge that the funds so deposited were utilized to protect a margin account:

Blyth & Bonner, 15 Broad St.,
New York City, April 3, 1930.
C. H. Huston, Esq.,
1,520 20th St., Washington, D. C.
Dear Mr. Huston:

In accordance with your request and that of Mr. W. E. Moore, we wish to advise that the check for $22,000.00 deposited on March 8, 1929, to the credit of W. E. Moore, account number 150, in our office, was not in response to a request by us for margin or the need for additional funds.

Yours very truly,
Blyth & Bonner,
By Charles A. Krickl.

The entire $36,000 paid by the Union Carbide Company was properly disbursed and accounted for. All disbursement checks were produced by me before the Senate Lobby Committee and every one of them bears the endorsement of J. W. Worthington. The last check completing the disbursement was dated Aug. 8, 1929, one month and a day before I became chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Concerning every other charge made against me, some made publicly and others in a whispering campaign, I wish to say that they either were all made out of whole cloth or were distortions of the real facts. They were inspired by partisans or factional motives, and by persons who hoped to profit by an attack upon me.

Sincerely yours,
C. H. Huston.
Chairman.

Six Are Hurt in Honduras Fire.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 11 (AP).—Six persons were seriously injured in a $100,000 fire suspected to have been of incendiary origin at Lacieba today. The authorities arrested some employes of two stores which were destroyed.

Jerome, through the period he served under Mayor McClellan after having been appointed by him as magistrate, and through the Mitchel Administration after having been reappointed by the head of that régime, makes me peculiarly well fitted to select him without any recommendation."

After his appointment Magistrate Corrigan said he expected to make some changes in the operation of the magistrates' courts in an effort to effect closer cooperation with the District Attorney's office, the Police Department and the Department of Correction. He experts to give further consideration to the details of this step.

"I believe we can function more effectively if we keep more closely in touch with those three departments," he said. "It is my intention to make frequent visits to all of the municipal courts in Manhattan as soon as possible and eventually to every court in the five boroughs. I do not at the moment plan any radical changes in the staff or personnel of any of the courts, but that may come in time if the occasion demands.

To Push Central Court Plan.

"I shall continue to push my plan for a consolidation of all the magistrates' courts in one building. I have advocated this ever since the days of Mayor Mitchel, and now I have renewed it to Mayor Walker and the Board of Estimate."

Asked if he had heard complaints from women's groups that women defendants in the magistrates' courts were convicted on the unsubstantiated testimony of arresting police officers, the new Chief Magistrate said he would welcome any suggestions on a change of procedure, although he said the present practice was to take the unsubstantiated word of the policeman.

The new appointee stands high in the estimation of John F. Curry, leader of Tammany. It was said yesterday that Mr. Curry had undoubtedly recommended Magistrate Corrigan when he returned from a trip to Emmitsburg, Md., where he received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Magistrate Corrigan had been prominently mentioned for the position, but he refused to discuss it while he was waiting yesterday for the Mayor to finish a Sinking Fund Commission meeting. When he entered his office the Mayor revealed that he had asked Magistrate Corrigan to City Hall to request him to take the post.

Magistrate Corrigan was born on Sept. 16, 1874, in Newark, N. J., the son of Joseph F. and Marie Plunkett Corrigan. He was graduated from Seton Hall College in 1895 with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He took a Master of Arts degree two years later and in 1901 received his law degree from the Columbia University Law School. He is married and has two children. He lives at 32 West Tenth Street and is a member of the Tenth A. D. Regular Democratic organization, of which Budget Director Charles L. Kohler is leader. He is a member of the Phi Delta Phi and Phi Kappa Psi fraternities, the Calumet, Racquet and Tennis Clubs and several country clubs. The term for which he was appointed expires on June 30, 1935, and the position pays $15,000 a year.

Mayor Walker assigned him to investigate charges that the police had been bribed by striking furriers a few years ago, and after a long investigation he cleared the police. He served as Acting Chief Magistrate when Mr. McAdoo was ill or on vacation. In 1917 he ran independently for District Attorney against Edward Swann and William L. Ransom, but was defeated.

While he was serving in the Gaynor Administration Magistrate Corrigan openly taxed Mayor Gaynor with laxity that permitted graft to flourish in the city. His attacks on police graft and his swift punishment of police brutality gave him a reputation for unusual severity whenever such matters came under his jurisdiction.

Magistrate Corrigan's promotion leaves a second vacancy in the magistrates' courts for the Mayor to fill. The first occurred when Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews was appointed secretary to the Mayor.

CLOSES SHEARER MATTER.

Senator Shortridge Says His Committee Will Not Report.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Chairman Shortridge of the Senate Naval Affairs Subcommittee which investigated the activities of William B. Shearer at the ill-fated Geneva arms limitation conference in 1927, has decided that there is no evidence to show that Shearer was sent to Geneva to defeat the plans of the government.

Although the Senator today requested that the testimony taken at the hearing be printed, he later stated that he did not know whether the subcommittee would make a report to the Senate.

"It is a closed matter," he said. "I see no necessity of making a report."

If a report is made, however, Mr. Shortridge said, neither Shearer nor the shipbuilders who employed him as an "observer" at Geneva will be criticized.

"Nothing showed that Mr. Shearer was sent there to defeat or frustrate the plans of our government," Mr. Shortridge declared. "He may have been extravagant and assertive, but so far as I see it there is no reason for criticizing him."

MANHATTAN LOST 18% OF POPULATION

pensive apartment houses, one official explained, the density of population is gone, new families of two and three persons replacing those of seven and eight.

A future gain in the district is expected as soon as large apartments now under construction on Central Park South are completed. Many hundreds, it was pointed out, were forced to seek other quarters while the buildings formerly on these sites were razed.

Decline in Curry's District.

The Fifth Assembly District, of which John F. Curry, Tammany Hall chief, is leader, shows a large and continuous decline in the past decade. The figures follow:

1930	1925	1920
68,257	80,951	103,166

This district is roughly bounded by Fortieth Street, Eighth and Ninth Avenues, Columbus Avenue, Sixty-third Street and the Hudson River. Census officials reported that many tenements had been torn down or abandoned in the region and that office buildings and warehouses were replacing them. The construction of the new Madison Square Garden accounted for one important item of depopulation.

The full count for the borough shows that only four Assembly districts made gains over 1920, but there were ten, including these four, which made gains over the State count of 1925. The rest of the twenty-three Assembly districts reported losses. The most imposing gain was made in the Twenty-third Assembly District, at the extreme northern end of the island.

The recapitulation of the count in the borough follows:

A. D.	1930.	1925.	1920.
1	81,509	108,485	137,522
2	86,032	113,548	147,113
3	68,524	86,295	113,098
4	53,831	77,235	94,330
5	68,257	80,951	103,166
6	63,555	81,776	99,163
7	86,782	77,242	85,486
8	70,957	83,558	109,522
9	90,630	78,441	82,994
10	65,850	55,898	79,861
11	78,824	71,843	79,314
12	91,360	102,335	121,539
13	69,709	66,529	76,008
14	80,620	99,166	120,879
15	93,831	73,489	96,072
16	74,964	91,810	108,117
17	71,657	72,785	85,663
18	108,965	117,829	141,790
19	75,818	72,022	78,052
20	67,271	74,453	83,156
21	75,212	72,885	76,982
22	77,611	73,165	74,895
23	154,819	113,298	88,787
Total	1,856,588	1,945,029	2,284,103

Compared with Manhattan's 18 per cent loss, the complete count in Queens has shown a gain there of 130 per cent in the last ten years. Richmond has registered a gain of 34 per cent. Brooklyn, with a few districts still unreported, has an estimated gain of 18 per cent, and the Bronx, with almost all its districts still officially missing, is expected to have an increase of about 70 per cent.

Mercer County Shows Gain.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 11.—According to census figures made public today, Mercer County's population has increased 16 per cent in the last ten years, the present total being 185,924, against 159,881 in 1920.

Trenton, as announced recently, has 122,610 inhabitants now, compared with 119,289 at the last Federal count, but the three townships adjoining the city making up the Trenton area have gained in far greater proportion, so that the area's total now is 162,552, against 141,030 in 1920.

Three Other Counties Report.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, N. J., June 11.—The balance of the preliminary population figures for the first district were announced today by Supervisor William H. Hosking. The enumerating force will complete the work during the coming week.

The preliminary totals by counties compared with the 1920 totals follow:

	1930.	1920.
Morris	110,381	82,694
Sussex	27,828	24,907
Warren	49,311	45,057

Mrs. Sharp...

"Count that day lost whose low descending sun sees not some real or window shopping done" is Mrs. Sharp's motto. Her idea of a day spent in the great outdoors is to saunter up Fifth Avenue glueing her nose against every shop window. Where other folks tour Europe, she tours the stores, floor by floor, department by department, item by item. She's developed a sixth sense for values to the point where she can tell a bargain in the dark with both hands tied behind her back. Naturally we feel flattered that she always chooses for herself

GREAT GERMAN LOAN OFFERED HERE TODAY

By P. J. PHILIP.

Germany herself will benefit to an extent of $100,000,000 out of the total of $300,000,000, this allotment being equivalent to an external loan on terms more favorable than could have been obtained from any other country or banking institution. Of Germany's capacity to carry the interest on the loan no one has any doubt. The latest indications from Germany all point, now that settlements have been reached on reparations, to the beginning of a great revival of industry and prosperity.

Paris Expects Heavy Demand.

With the present arrangement France, which is the largest creditor, is satisfied and there is every expectation here that when the subscription opens here on Friday, France's share of more than $100,000,000 will be instantly oversubscribed. It is already announced that the subscription list here will be closed on Saturday.

Following the offering of this great international bond issue, the board of directors of the world bank, will hold their second meeting at Basle on Monday. By that time the bank will be a fully working institution, with its personnel constituted, its directors installed, its program laid down and with the accords endowing it with authority all signed and approved by the governments and the institutions involved in its operation.

The bank has already taken over the functions of the Agent-General for reparations and the German Reich has made its first payment to the bank.

It needed only the emission of the first slice of the international bonds to set into motion the completed process by which the Young plan aims to settle the European reparations problem.

$98,250,000 to Be Floated Here.

With elaborate preparations made to assure a favorable reception in this market, the American portion of the German annuities loan, amounting to $98,250,000, is being offered today by a syndicate headed by eleven of the most powerful financial houses in the country.

The group heading the syndicate includes J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., First National Bank of New York, National City Comapny, Guaranty Company of New York, Bankers Company of New York, Chase Securities Corporation, Harris, Forbes & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co.

The financing, which is surrounded with more interest than any operation since the Anglo-French loan of 1915, is officially described as the German Government international 5½ per cent loan, 1930. The $98,250,000 of bonds are being offered at 90 with accrued interest, to yield 6.20 per cent. The entire operation is designed to "produce an effective amount equivalent to approximately $300,000,000." The discrepancy between this net amount required and the total of bonds actually offered is accounted for by the offering below par and by the commissions that will accrue to the bankers for handling the transaction.

Quick Subscription Expected.

Subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. at 10 o'clock this morning on the American portion of the loan, and will be closed at the discretion of that house. In view of the fact that the bonds are issued as an integral part of the Young plan and through the Bank for International Settlements at a price which is in line with the current market for foreign bonds, the financial community is looking forward to a quick closing of the books on the American issue. The wide publicity which has attended the working out of the details of the loan is calculated to aid greatly in the retail distribution of the securities, it is believed.

Active trading in the new bonds, on a when-issued basis, has been going on for several days in Wall Street. The securities were dealt in on the New York Produce Exchange yesterday at prices ranging from 91¼ to 91½, representing a premium of 1¼ and 1½ points above the offering price. There was a total turnover of $65,000 on this Exchange. Over-the-counter transactions were also in fairly heavy volume and at a premium. Investment and banking institutions reported an active demand for the bonds, and orders for large blocks were coming in from all parts of the country. Americans of German extraction were said to have placed heavy orders for the bonds and to have shown their interest for some time through inquiries to banking houses.

Bonds Mature in 35 Years.

To a large extent foreign loans which have been in various stages of negotiation here for some time have been held up in order to give this issue the right of way. The issue is the largest foreign loan to be placed on the market this year, though several issues have approached it in size. The German external loan issued under the Dawes Plan in October, 1924, in the amount of $110,000,000 for the American portion, was brought out by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. That issue, which is traded in on the New York Stock Exchange, consisted of 7s, due Oct. 15, 1949, priced at 92, to yield 7.70 per cent. Both the new issue and the Dawes plan loan are direct obligations of the German government so that no priority of security exists between the two.

The present issue, maturing in thirty-five years, is redeemable at any time by operation of the sinking fund at 100 per cent and interest, but redeemable otherwise as a whole or in part at 100 per cent and interest only after five years. The bonds are the direct, unconditional obligation of the German Government. Thought it has been so arranged that payment will be effected through the medium of the world bank in accordance with the Young plan and the various Hague agreements, such method of payment in no sense qualifies or limits the direct unconditional obligation, it is explained.

Reich Guarantees Payment.

A cumulative sinking fund, computed to be sufficient to retire the entire American issue at or before maturity, is to be applied to the purchase of bonds at or below 100 and accrued interest, if available, or otherwise to the redemption at that price of bonds drawn by lot. The bonds are in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. The principal and interest is payable in New York City at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., in United States gold coin of the standard of weight and fineness existing on June 1, 1930, without deduction for any German taxes present or future.

The bankers have received from Dr. Paul Moldenhauer, Minister of Finances of the German Reich, the following facts concerning the loan:

"The payment of the principal, interest and sinking fund of the loan is the direct and unconditional obligation of the German Government to the bondholder, for which the full faith and credit of the German Government are pledged.

"Principal and interest of bonds of the United States of America issue are payable in dollars. Payment may, however, at the option of the holder, be effected on any foreign market where any of the bonds of the loan are quoted in the currency of that market at the then current general bond of the loan."

Aid to Trade Predicted.

The present loan, it is explained here, is, in effect, merely a discounting in advance of German reparations payments for the benefit of the creditor nations which would otherwise have to accept payment piece-meal over a period of years. Although the life of the present issue of bonds is thirty-five years, German reparations payments cover a period of fifty-nine years. It is stated that, while no absolute prediction can be made as to whether application will be presented for future American issues, authorities are of the opinion that additional mobilization issues will be floated only within those countries receiving the annuities. The present value, at a 5½ per cent discount rate, of the non-postponable annuities that can be commercialized is about $2,500,000,000, including the present issue.

In this connection, it is understood here that the French authorities have in mind refunding on a large scale the outsanding French rentes, which are now selling on a 4 per cent basis, with further actual issues of German annuity bonds on a 4½ per cent or 5 per cent basis.

Among the advantages of the present offering cited yesterday is that it marks the settlement finally of the German reparations question, the adoption of the Young plan, the termination of economic difficulties in Europe growing out of the uncertainties surrounding reparations, the taking of the reparations question out of politics and the placing of it in the commercial field. A favorable effect upon American trade is predicted by banking interests as the result of the present financing.

REICH SEES BIG CALL FOR YOUNG PLAN BONDS

Foreign Orders Are Expected to Swell Demand—Terms of Issue Are Held Favorable.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 11.—The German slice of the international reparations loan will be heavily oversubscribed, in the opinion of banking circles here, who believe foreign orders, especially from France, will liberally help to swell the volume of applications.

As the German share in the present issue is less than $9,000,000, and as it will be offered by a syndicate comprising the metropolitan and numerous provincial banks, a heavy demand is anticipated, although it is pointed out that, viewed as a bargain, the bonds possess less attraction for small German investors than do many domestic securities which are now paying 8 to 10 per cent.

While the government is apparently reconciled to the agreements signed at Paris in connection with the Young plan loan, a section of the press says the outcome of the extended conversations between the financiers is in striking contrast with the optimism which originally prevailed in respect to various technical features of the loan which have since undergone constant revision. It is, however, conceded that the German representatives have succeeded in obtaining terms and conditions which will serve as a basis for future German borrowing abroad, and that if the terms can be duplicated, cheaper money will result in the future.

At the Ministry of Transportation it was announced that the Federal railway administration would devote its share of $60,000,000 of the proceeds of the present issue to meeting the deficit in its budget, caused by the continuance of the falling off of revenues. The deficit for the current year is already equal to this share.

This arrangement disposes of the original plans to use the new capital for the purchase of rolling stock and other improvements.

The Ministry of Posts will use its share of the proceeds to pay off short-term loans.

Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, will report on the Paris proceedings to the Reich Cabinet tomorrow.

BERLIN, June 11 (AP).—A group of banks headed by the Reichsbank today took over the German share of 36,000,000 marks (about $8,200,000) of the Young plan loan bonds. The loan is known as the German Government international 5½ per cent loan of 1930.

The bonds issued have face values ranging from 100 to 5,000 marks.

BRITAIN UNDERWRITES REPARATION LOAN ISSUE

Subscription Lists for $60,000,000 of Bonds to Open in Bank of England Today.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 11.—The reparation loan portion allotted to England and totaling £12,000,000 (about $60,000,000), was easily underwritten here today, and subscription lists will be open in the Bank of England tomorrow at an issue price of 90.

The loan bears the title, "German Government International 5½ per cent loan of 1930," and represents the capitalization of part of the unconditional annuities payable under The Hague agreement to her creditor powers by Germany and the payment of the principal and interest. A sinking fund is a direct and unconditional obligation of the German Government to the bondholder.

The proceeds of the loan will go to the British Exchequer and will be available for payment on the British debt to America. The British Government's policy, frequently declared, is to take from Germany and her other continental debtors no more than is necessary to cover the British war debt payments to America.

The newly constituted Bank of International Settlements will act as trustees for the bondholders, and the service of the loan will paid in monthly instalments to the bank. The sum required will be provided one-third out of general revenues of the German Government and two-thirds out of the unconditional annuities.

SLAIN MAN'S WIDOW HEARD.

Mrs. Duffy Testifies Mrs. Evans Did Not Want Husband Home.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., June 11.—Testifying today at the trial of Private Lester J. Underdown, marine, and Mrs. Robert Evans of Lakehurst, charged with the murder of Mrs. Evans's husband and his friend Albert M. Duffy of Brooklyn on May 15 last, both Duffy's widow and Mrs. Ida White of Brooklyn declared that when they visited Mrs. Evans on May 12 last she told that emphatically that she did not want her husband to come home. Evans at that time was an enlisted man aboard the United States destroyer Overton. Asked for Mrs. Evans's exact words, both women declared she had said: "I'll be damned if I'll have Bob back. If he comes back I'll sell the house and move away from here."

Private Giles Leon Bagwell, United States Marines, testified that "there were always plenty of marines" around the Evans home. He said that Underdown had once told him that he, Underdown, loved Mrs. Evans and that Underdown carried a key to the Evans home. He also testified that Underdown had once said something to him about marrying Mrs. Evans. Herbert Dane, brother of Mrs. Evans, told how she came to his home hysterical on the night of the killing and informed him that Evans and Duffy were fighting. Dane said he wanted to go to the Evans home to see that everything was all right, but Mrs. Evans told him: "Don't go there; you'll be shot."

MORROW AND RIVAL MEET AT A RALLY

He Presents Frelinghuysen at Hackensack and Asks Full Hearing for Opponent.

EX-SENATOR ATTACKS HIM

Intimates, After Envoy Leaves, That He Is Sympathetic to Utility Interests.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 11.—Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, and former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, rival wet candidates for the Republican Senatorial nomination in New Jersey, met here tonight on the same platform for the first time in the campaign at a meeting of the Bergen County Republican Committee in the county court house.

Mr. Morrow welcomed his rival and introduced him to the audience that jammed the court room. "I'm glad to see all you people here," Mr. Morrow told them, "on my account and also on Senator Frelinghuysen's account. I cannot ask you to vote for Mr. Frelinghuysen, but I can ask you to afford him a full and courteous hearing."

When Mr. Morrow had left to speak at another meeting in Rutherford, Mr. Frelinghuysen plunged into a typical campaign attack, intimating that Mr. Morrow is sympathetic to the utility interests and with having the support in his present campaign of persons responsible for scandals uncovered by the Abell legislative committee.

Morrow Tours County.

Mr. Morrow climaxed his campaign today with an automobile parade through the county, red lights and other features of the old-time elections. The parade started from Mr. Morrow's home in Englewood and the Ambassador then went from town to town, but made only four speeches. The first was at the high school field in Ridgewood.

The Ambassador had nearly finished his speech there when a small boy edged his way through the crowd, stepped up to the platform and asked for an autograph. Mr. Morrow took the boy's hand, held it until he had finished speaking, then signed his name.

Urges Audience to Vote.

His speech at Rutherford was what he called "a neighborly talk." He told his audience that he had said nothing in the campaign against his opponents which would prevent him from supporting any candidate the Republican party might choose later, and urged them to be sure to go to the polls and vote on election day.

His second speech was made from the steps of the Bergen County courthouse, just preceding his meeting with Mr. Frelinghuysen. It was confined chiefly to a discussion of the London naval conference and of his ambassadorial duties in Mexico. He said that he believed he had already made clear his attitude on all the issues in the campaign.

"Others may not agree with me," he said, "but it would be a drab world if everyone agreed with everyone else. Some one else may make a better Senator than I, but there is one thing I will pledge you—while I may not court your favor, my desire is that I may deserve it."

Mr. Frelinghuysen arrived at the court house meeting soon after Mr. Morrow. The former Senator's visit had been announced in the newspapers. But many felt he would not come as Mr. Morrow's campaign manager, Douglas G. Thomson, is chairman of the Bergen County Republican Committee and presided at the meeting.

At Rutherford the Ambassador spoke in the auditorium of the high school. He pledged support to whatever candidate the Republicans elected at next Tuesday's primary.

FORT SAYS RICH GROUP WANTS A BEER TAX

Charges They Are Backing Fight on Prohibition to Lower Their Personal Assessments.

Representative Franklin W. Fort, candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination in New Jersey, in a speech last night in the Newark Central High School, broadcast over the radio by Station WOR, charged that a group of wealthy men were sponsors of the anti-prohibition movement as a possible means of lowering their personal taxes.

He declared that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment was the nucleus of the movement, which was directed by such people as the du Pont family of Delaware, General W. W. Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad; John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and "a few other very wealthy men."

"Why do they want it?" Mr. Fort said. "They have a scheme for getting subscriptions from men with incomes of over $100,000 a year. How? Because they figure that with the return of liquor and a three-cent tax on every glass of beer, it would wipe out all the corporation and income taxes and would save one of the du Pont companies alone $10,000,000 a year in taxes."

Earlier in his address Mr. Fort pointed out that he had voted against the Jones law with its harsh penalties for violators of the liquor laws because he thought it would hamper enforcement, and this view had been borne out.

BASYE PUT FORWARD AS DAVIS SUCCESSOR

Rochester Publisher Is Urged for Appointment as New Secretary of Labor.

Walter Basye of Rochester, publisher of The Fraternal Age and The Monroe Republican, has been recommended to President Hoover as successor to James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, Secretary of Labor. Secretary Davis at the recent Pennsylvania primaries received the nomination for United States Senator from his home State and will retire from the Cabinet.

Harry J. Bareham, Republican leader of Monroe County, attended the meeting of the Republican State Committee yesterday as the bearer of a resolution designed to place the State organization on record as favoring the appointment of Mr. Basye for Secretary of Labor. Chairman William J. Maier told the Monroe County leader before the meeting that his resolution could not properly come before the committee and under the circumstances Mr. Bareham did not present it. He said that several weeks ago Mr. Maier had consented to present Mr. Basye's name to the President as an aspirant for the prospective vacancy in the Cabinet.

Mr. Basye, if appointed, would be one of the youngest men to sit in any cabinet at Washington. He is 43 years old. He is married and has six children. He has not held political office, but has been active in Republican politics in Monroe County. He is publisher of the official organ of the Republican organization of Monroe. He was born in Holton, Kan.

His other publication, The Fraternal Age, according to Mr. Basye, is being issued to promote and place on a sound actuarial basis the insurance systems of a large number of fraternal organizations included in the National Fraternal Congress of America.

Mr. Basye said last night at the Hotel Roosevelt that, in addition to the Republican State organization, the National Fraternal Congress and its branches in thirty-five States, including the President's own State, California, had endorsed him in telegrams sent to the President and to the respective members of the United States Senate.

Before becoming a publisher Mr. Basye was a printer and he says he has the endorsement of the Rochester Typographical Union 15, the Empire Typographical Conference and the Rochester Central Trades and Labor Council.

Mr. Watkins appeared solely as counsel for the American Wholesale Grocers Association. Chain store concerns are not listed among the litigants. The Associated Press gladly makes this correction.

PROF. FISHER SCORES MORROW AS A 'TOOL'

Says Brewers and Millionaire Backers of Smith Are Behind Him in Jersey Fight.

SEES A NATIONAL PLOT

Asserts Wets Hope to Gain Both Presidential Nominations With Ambassador and Roosevelt.

Taking the stump for Representative Franklin W. Fort, dry candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in New Jersey, Professor Irving Fisher of Yale charged last night in a speech in Elizabeth that Dwight H. Morrow was being used as an instrument of "the brewers and the millionaire wets" in an effort to displace Herbert Hoover by a President opposed to prohibition.

An ardent advocate of the Eighteenth Amendment, Professor Fisher volunteered his services to Mr. Fort for the three-cornered primary in which Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, also wet, is the other candidate. Mr. Fort spoke at the Elizabeth meeting at the Alexander Hamilton High School and upheld prohibition. He made an address later at the Central Union High School in Newark, which was broadcast.

Professor Fisher declared that the same groups that had backed Alfred E. Smith for the Presidency in 1928 were now aligned behind Mr. Morrow and he asserted that, not content with seeking a Republican to displace Mr. Hoover, they also were booming Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York as a wet candidate for President in 1932.

Public Is Misled, He Charges.

He charged that the general benefit of prohibition to the country has been distorted. Asking to reason for this, he continued:

"My reply is that powerful interests, with direct money stakes pronounced by them to range into the hundreds of millions of dollars annually, have centred in a group of millionaires supporting the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and kindred organizations, in a natural political alliance with the United States Brewers' Association, and in a high-pressure publicity campaign to mislead the public as to the results of prohibition; to destroy both the law and its enforcement and to put into the Presidency in 1928, as they are again preparing to do in 1932, their own representative to bring about nullification or repeal.

"They are already grooming Governor Roosevelt of New York as the Democratic wet candidate for 1932. The preferred object of the millionaire group would be to achieve the nomination of a wet candidate for each party in the national election, and thus to assure the election of a wet President to an office which is the most powerful instrument of publicity in the nation.

"Ex-Governor Smith became the standard-bearer of the National Democratic party in 1928, with an erstwhile Republican, John J. Raskob, as his manager. No sooner was he elected to the National Democratic Committee chairmanship than Mr. Raskob stated that he had assumed this office as a wet. Now much the same group of millionaire wets have adopted Mr. Morrow.

"In their booming of Mr. Morrow for President the millionaire forwarders of the campaign against the Eighteenth Amendment are urged in a measure by their desire to shift a vast burden of taxes on the shoulders of the working classes by restoring the traffic in beer.

Sees Attack on Hoover.

"It is the leadership of such an organization, bitterly opposed to President Hoover's program of law observance and ordered enforcement, that hails the candidacy of Mr. Morrow. It is a leadership intent on exploiting both of the national political parties and of disrupting them, if need be, to its own ends."

In a radio address over WOR last night read for him by a representative, Mr. Frelinghuysen attacked the prohibition positions assumed by both Mr. Fort and Mr. Morrow. Mr. Fort, he said, in "standing pat" displayed a lack of recognition of the abuses under current conditions. Mr. Morrow's proposal for return of liquor control to the States would bring about a muddle of interstate enforcement, he avowed, which would inevitably lead to abuses antedating the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. Frelinghuysen reiterated his stand for some form of Federal control.

$25,000 STRAUS GIFT SWELLS JEWISH FUND

Father and Two Sons Lead Day's Donors in Campaign for $2,500,000 Here.

A contribution of $25,000 from Nathan Straus and his sons, Nathan Straus Jr. and Hugh Grant Straus, through the Nathan Straus Foundation, was announced yesterday by James N. Rosenberg, chairman of the New York Allied Jewish Campaign, which is seeking to raise $2,500,000 as part of a nation-wide drive for $6,000,000 to relieve suffering among the Jews of Western Europe. Of the Straus contribution, $10,000 is to be credited to the Brooklyn section of the campaign.

Other contributions announced yesterday included $2,500 from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Levy, $1,500 from Dr. Frank Levander, and $1,000 each from A. Adelberg, Henry J. Bernheim, Samuel M. Kaplan, Julian Clarence Levi and Mrs. Albert A. Levi, Mrs. Marcus Loew and Abraham Siegel.

The Bronx section of the campaign formally opened its drive for $100,000 as its part of the city quota with a dinner at the Concourse Plaza last night. More than 500 guests attended. County Judge Albert Cohn, chairman of the Bronx committee; Dr. Nathan Krass and Jonah J. Goldstein spoke on the program of relief work in Eastern Europe and Palestine.

DRY MEMBER SQUELCHED

Resolution to Remove Federal Officers on Laxity Charges Fails to Be Seconded.

Despite all that Republican leaders had done to avert it, the wet and dry issue was thrust on the Republican State Committee at its meeting yesterday in the National Republican Club, to fix a date and place and adopt the formal call for the Republican State convention, where the same issue is expected to bob up.

After adopting a resolution calling for the Republican State convention to meet in the State armory in Albany on Sept. 25, the State Committee received a resolution offered by John W. Slacer, from the Second Assembly District in Erie County.

The resolution demanded the appointment of a special committee to call upon President Hoover and insist upon the retirement of Fred A. Bradley, Republican leader of Erie County, as United States Collector of the port of Buffalo and Richard H. Templeton as United States Attorney for Western New York, on the ground that both had failed to use their power to stop rum-running on the Niagara frontier.

Resolution Is Not Seconded.

In the absence of a seconder, however, the resolution was tabled on a motion offered by Guy B. Moore, District Attorney of Erie County, who attended the meeting as proxy for the Erie County leader.

The sponsor of the resolution was a candidate for the nomination for Sheriff of Erie County two years ago and was defeated by Charles A. Freiberg, former State Senator, who had the backing of the Bradley organization.

The meeting, aside from this flurry, was harmonious. Mrs. Miriam A. Schindler, representing the First Albany district, offered the resolution to have the Republican State Convention meet at Albany. This was adopted by unanimous vote, as was a resolution offered by Samuel S. Koenig, president of the New York County Republican Committee, fixing one delegate from each of the 150 Assembly districts in the State and one additional for each 2,500 votes or major fraction thereof, cast for Governor in 1928, as the basis of representation. On this basis there will be 991 delegates, of whom 352 will represent the five New York City counties. The wet districts in the State have a working majority.

To Select Coalition Chairman.

A resolution offered by Meier Steinbrink of Kings provided for the appointment of a special committee of State Chairman Maier, Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, vice chairman of the committee, and Charles D. Hilles and Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt, members of the Republican National Committee, to select a temporary chairman and keynote orator. This was adopted.

W. Kingsland Macy, Republican leader of Suffolk County, offered a resolution, which was adopted, authorizing Chairman Maier to appoint a successor to Herbert N. Straus as treasurer.

Several vacancies on the Republican State Committee were filled. William H. Hill, Hoover pre-convention leader in this State, was elected from the Second Assembly District in Broome in place of James T. Rogers, who has died. Former Assemblyman Allen E. Ames of Cattaraugus was picked to fill a vacancy from that county. Other substitutions were: Kings, Philip Huetwoehl to succeed D. H. Ralston in the First, Henry F. O'Neill to succeed Anthony de Martini in the Third and Mrs. Frances Pollock to succeed Louise Zabriskie in the Twenty-first; Rensselaer, Mrs. William H. Davenport to succeed Margaret H. Freeman and Farnum P. Caird to succeed Alexander Cowee, who has died.

Governor Roosevelt of Porto Rico was an interested spectator at the meeting.

ROUNTREE ENJOINED WARD AIDE ASSERTS

Dealer in Odd-Lot Cotton Futures Is Halted After Six Years, Says Washburn.

PLANTERS HIS CUSTOMERS

He Disputes Statement, Holding He Has Not Been Barred Either Temporarily or Permanently.

After more than six years of effort an injunction restraining Carlisle Rountree, a partner in Robin, Fowler & Co., 67 Wall Street, from further trading in cotton futures was issued yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Faber in Brooklyn, it was said by Watson Washburn, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the State Bureau of Securities, 74 Trinity Place. Rountree is accused of having bucketed orders.

According to Mr. Washburn in the last six years Rountree obtained from the public more than $1,000,000 through the promotion of several cotton exchange firms and small cotton exchanges. The investigation resulting in the petition for the injunction was made by Matthew A. Tiffany, Deputy Attorney General of the State Bureau of Securities.

Mr. Washburn and Mr. Tiffany assert that as it is illegal to deal in cotton futures in Rountree's native State, Georgia, Rountree conceived the idea of organizing an exchange in New York to deal in odd lots of cotton, or less than the standard unit of 100 bales.

Circulars Sent to South.

The State officials contend that Rountree circularized small dealers and cotton growers in the South, stating they could insure themselves against loss by the fluctuation of cotton prices between the time of planting and picking. It was said:

"Rountree explained if the planter sold short at a time the price of cotton for future delivery would give him the greatest profit, he could deliver his own cotton against these short sales if the price had gone up by the time the cotton was ready for shipment.

"On the other hand, if the price had gone down by then the planter would already have sold at the market price and would have bought in sufficient cotton to cover his short sales. In this fashion, according to Rountree, the planter would receive the benefit of the highest price occurring between planting and picking."

Mr. Tiffany said that Rountree became the moving spirit behind the New York Odd Lot Cotton Exchange, which in 1927 was raided by State troopers attached to the bureau. Subsequently a preliminary injunction was issued against the exchange, Rountree and others by Supreme Court Justice Fawcett.

New Concerns Follow Raid.

It was said at the State Bureau of Securities that while this action was pending, the New York Odd Lot Cotton Exchange closed its doors and Rountree promoted the firm of Robin, Fowler & Co. and the National Cotton Exchange of 10 Hanover Street.

The National Cotton Exchange, it was added, came under the scrutiny of the Bureau of Securities and it was enjoined from dealing in cotton and cotton futures. The firm of Robin, Fowler & Co. was a member of this exchange.

Mr. Washburn said that the partners in Robin, Fowler & Co., were Robin M. Fowler, Rountree and Mrs. Emma Herd, the last named of New Hope, Pa. He said Fowler consented to the injunction signed by Justice Faber, but papers have not been served on Mrs. Herd, who is outside the New York jurisdiction. Mrs. Herd is the wife of Anderson T. Herd, for whom State troopers are searching because of his failure to answer a subpoena in another case under investigation by the bureau.

Not Enjoined, Says Rountree.

Mr. Rountree last night declared that the statement of the Attorney General that he had been enjoined was incorrect. He said:

"I have not been enjoined either temporarily or permanently from trading or dealing in cotton. I was not at any time a member of the firm, but had a contract, for which I paid $380,000, to use certain mailing lists and facilities of the company. No customer of mine has ever lost a penny through failure of this or any other company."

Mr. Rountree said the Fowler concern's difficulties were due to internal dissension and that it had been agreed to consent to an injunction of further continuance under that name, but that he was at present completing a $2,000,000 investment trust to trade in cotton.

Barnard Gets $2,500 Gift.

Acting Dean George W. Mullins of Barnard College announced yesterday that the class of 1920 had given $2,500 to the college. The interest on this sum will be used to build up a collection of American and British poetry written since 1900 and increase it as new volumes of verse appear. Any excess from the income will be used to purchase other works of contemporary literature. Miss Granville Meixell is president of the class and Miss Helen Calhoun is secretary.

SUES FOR $3,000,000 IN OLD STOCK DEAL

Joseph Harris of Chicago Brings Action Against Perley Morse, New York Accountant.

PURCHASE OPTION AT ISSUE

Transaction for Addressograph Shares Never Included Plaintiff, Defendant Asserts.

Suit to recover a 25 per cent interest of $3,000,000 in a profit of $12,000,000 which Joseph Harris, Chicago financier, says he obtained in 1923 in the purchase of stock of the Addressograph Company of Chicago, along with Perley Morse, New York accountant, John B. Russell and two men not revealed, was begun yesterday by Mr. Harris before Federal Judge Woolsey and a jury.

Emory R. Buckner, former United States Attorney, who is counsel for the plaintiff, charged in his opening address that Mr. Morse, defendant in the case, had agreed to prepare an audit of the Addressograph properties with the understanding that Mr. Harris was a holder of an option for the purchase of the stock held by Joseph S. Duncan, an officer of the company who wished to retire at that time.

Mr. Morse, according to Mr. Buckner, was brought into the matter by Mr. Russell, his close friend. Subsequently, Mr. Buckner charged, Morse and Russell agreed to carry through the purchase themselves and did so without notifying the plaintiff. Mr. Harris, in fact, Mr. Buckner said, was allowed to maintain the belief that he had an interest in the negotiations until 1927, when he was informed that he had lost his interest and that Morris and Russell had substituted an option of their own for the one the plaintiff had held with Duncan.

Mr. Buckner told the court that several suits had grown out of the situation, one against the estate of Russell having been thrown out of the Illinois courts, he said, for jurisdictional reasons. The same action, according to Mr. Buckner, is being pressed in Pennsylvania.

The plaintiff, according to his counsel, has tried repeatedly without success to get some statement from Russell to explain his, Harris's, interest in the transaction. In outlining the case for the defense, Frank C. Laughlin, attorney for Mr. Morse, told the jury that at no time were the plaintiff and the defendant joint venturers in the deal, and that Morse had had no dealings with Harris.

"Mr. Morse and Mr. Russell," he said, "bought the property after Harris let his option expire, and there was no legal relationship between the parties at the time of the purchase."

Mr. Morse's testimony in the Illinois suit was read to the jury. He testified then, it was brought out, that Mr. Duncan had failed to renew the plaintiff's option because he was not certain how dependable he was financially. Mr. Buckner said that he would read today testimony given by Mr. Morse at the same trial in which the defendant admitted, he said, that he and Mr. Russell had agreed to let Mr. Harris's option lapse and then obtain it themselves.

WIDOW WINS DEATH SUIT.

Settles Out of Court for $60,000—Husband Killed at Crossing.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 11.—An action against the New York Central Railroad for $300,000 damages brought by Mrs. Valita B. Nisbet, 29 years old, of Chappaqua, for the death of her husband, Herbert, in a crossing accident, was settled out of court today after one full day of the trial. The amount of the settlement was reported to be $60,000.

Nisbet, driving his own car, waited at the King Street crossing in Chappaqua for a northbound freight to pass. According to witnesses, as the gates were raised, the gateman signaled to Nisbet to cross. As he gained the southbound track, an express train struck his car and Nisbet was killed.

The trial, which was given a preference because Mrs. Nisbet claimed to be destitute, started yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Alonzo G. Hinkley of Buffalo and a jury. When today's session was about to start, counsel announced the settlement.

BANKERS HALT DROP ON STOCK EXCHANGE

United States Steel 3¼, Vanadium 7¼, Warner Brothers Pictures 4¾ and Westinghouse Electric 7¼.

50 Stocks Average $7.09 Loss.

Fifty representative stocks, according to THE NEW YORK TIMES compilation, showed an average net decline of $7.09, the widest since the drop of $10.38 on Dec. 12. Yesterday's break carried the general level of prices back below the point from which they rallied on Tuesday. Twenty-five industrial stocks showed an average decline of $12.33 yesterday, while twenty-five rails declined $1.85. The turnover on the Stock Exchange was 4,777,390 shares.

The selling movement extended over most of the day. The opening was steady, with prices just about where they were at the close the day before. Before 11 o'clock, however, bearish professionals began testing the market's resistance with selling orders, and by noon a fair-sized decline was under way. This gained force and velocity in the early afternoon and between 2 and 2:30 o'clock the break became so violent that the market appeared to have lost its bearings. A large number of stocks during that period were driven to the lowest levels of the year.

The bearish element made effective use of every conceivable rumor. Some of the reports were so fantastic as to refute themselves, but others with a color of plausibility were used with damaging effect. One of the fantastic reports was that President Hoover had been assassinated.

PRICES ADVANCE IN LONDON.

American Issues Recover Briskly After Tuesday's Declines.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 11.—After their headlong plunge of yesterday, American stocks rallied today on the London Exchange, but the market as a whole remained irregular. Sterling fell further to $4.85 11-16, and persistent weakness of other foreign exchanges caused dullness among British Government securities. The funding loan fell another ¼ to £89, while the conversion loan and 4 per cent consols both were weaker

Columbia Graphophone advanced 5-16 to £4 9-16 following yesterday's crash, while His Master's Voice Gramophone recovered 1-16 to £4¼ and Radio Corporation jumped 2¾ to $43¾. International Nickel rebounded 1⅜ to $27⅜. The electric stocks were better, General Electric gaining 1s to 48s and Associated Electric 3d to 25s. International Holdings advanced ¼ to $6¼.

Both of the cable and wireless issues recovered strongly and Brazilian traction closed 1¾ higher at $47. American Celanese was weak at £4⅜, while the tobaccos also were depressed. Royal Mail declined another shilling to 15s, and it was almost impossible to find buyers. Oils were firm, Royal Dutch advancing 3-16 to £32 9-16. Rhodesian coppers were irregular, while Rio Tinto gained ½ to £37⅛ and De Beers improved 1-16 to £7¾.

Money was again in demand in Lombard Street, where the overnight loan rate hardened to 3 per cent. Discount rates were firm at 2¼ per cent for three-months bills. France today bought £230,739 of bar gold at the Bank of England and £444,000 of South African gold in the open market.

DENIES YOUNG PLAN SOLVES REPARATIONS

Bergmann Calls It Political Venture and Only a Step Toward Reconstruction.

TAKES ISSUE WITH LAMONT

Says Treaty Will Be Observed, but Success Must Depend Upon Future Events.

The Young plan is not the final solution of the reparations problem, as it is not the result of economic experience but is a political venture, says Dr. Carl Bergmann, German economic authority, in the current issue of Foreign Affairs, published today.

Taking issue with Thomas W. Lamont, whose article, "The Final Reparations Settlement," appeared in the last issue of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Bergmann says that the Young plan is "only one step further along the reparations road and toward German economic reconstruction." However, he adds, now that Germany has accepted the plan, she must use her best endeavors to carry it out.

"If we recall the errors and uncertainties out of which the Young plan was born, we find it perfectly easy to understand why there is no satisfaction in Germany now that the plan is in operation," he writes. "It is not the final solution of the reparations problem for which all who had the welfare of Germany at heart had hoped. It is not the result of economic experience, postulated by the Dawes plan as the condition of a final solution. On the contrary, it is a political venture, determined by the chance circumstances of the hour, and its success is entirely dependent upon the development of events in the future.

"The general feeling in Germany is that the Young plan does not, as it purports to do, settle the reparations problem, 'finally and completely,' but that it is only one step further along the reparations road and toward German economic reconstruction.

"However, if the acceptance of the Young plan has not brought joy in Germany, it would be wrong to draw the conclusion that the treaty, now that it has been made, will be observed by the German people with less earnestness and good-will than an agreement which corresponded more closely to their expectations.

"If in the course of time it should appear that the Young plan cannot be carried out permanently, this will be due, not to any lack of good-will on Germany's part, but rather to the fact that the burden of reparations which it imposes on Germany is in effect unbearable."

Dr. Bergmann bases Germany's hope for a further revision of the Young plan partly on the "so-called political clause" which "states that, in spite of all efforts to reach an agreement on economic and financial grounds, political factors necessarily set certain limits within which an acceptable solution must be found." The other basis for possible revision Dr. Bergmann sees in the second clause of the plan, which is the official statement of indebtedness of Germany regarding the payment of annuities.

URGE DEAN WIGMORE AS WORLD COURT JUDGE

133 Americans Sign Petition Received by the League of Nations for His Election.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 11.—The Secretariat of the League of Nations has received a memorial signed by 133 Americans urging the election of Dean John Wigmore of Northwestern University as one of the judges of the World Court, the full bench of which is to be filled in September. The memorial is addressed not only to members of the Council and to delegates of the Assembly, who do the electing, but to members of the International Court of Arbitration, who do the nominating.

The memorial stresses Dean Wigmore's work in making available to Americans the legal authorities of thirteen countries, especially France, Germany, Italy and Spain. An annex, which is labeled, "Not part of the memorial," contains testimonials to Dean Wigmore by William Howard Taft, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, Justice Brandeis, Justice Harlan Stone, Elihu Root, John Bassett Moore, Newton D. Baker, George W. Wickersham, World Court Judge de Bustamet, Cuba, and others on the occasion of a banquet given to Dean Wigmore last year.

The memorial says the proposal of the candidacy of Dean Wigmore, who is now traveling in Morocco, was made by friends without his knowledge. The committee in charge of the memorial is composed of Silas Strawn, chairman; Enoch Crowder, Benjamin Epstein, James J. Forestall and Charles Watson. The signatures include many State supreme court judges and university presidents and deans, including Dr. Angell of Yale, Dean Pound of Harvard and Dr. Kirchwey of Columbia.

AMERICAN ENVOY HOST TO THE KING OF SPAIN

Alfonso and Family Dine at Our Embassy Before Leaving for Summer Vacation.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, June 11.—Ambassador and Mrs. Irwin Boyle Laughlin entertained the King and Queen and royal children, Infante Don Jaime and the Infantas Beatrice and Cristina, at a formal dinner at the American Embassy tonight.

This was the first visit of the King to the American Embassy since Mr. Laughlin's arrival. While the King rarely dines at embassies, it has become a custom for him to dine at several embassies just before leaving for the Summer, and this year he is honoring the American among the first.

The embassy was brilliantly decorated with flowers, and full dress, not court dress, was worn. Six Americans were present, Commissioner-General Thomas Campbell of the Seville Exposition and Mrs. Campbell, Shelden Crosby, counselor of the embassy; Major Fletcher, the military attaché, and Mrs. Fletcher, and Webb Benton, secretary of the embassy. Other guests included Premier Berenguer, the Duke of Alba, Minister for Foreign Affairs; the Duke of Miranda, the Lord Chamberlain, and the Duchess of Miranda, who is lady-in-waiting to the Queen.

EMPRESS OF BRITAIN LEAVES THE WAYS

Canadian Pacific's Luxurious 42,500-Ton Liner Launched From Glasgow Yards.

PRINCE OF WALES ON RADIO

Address Heard Throughout Canada and in This Country as He Christens Vessel.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GLASGOW, June 11.—The towering white hull of the 42,500-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain slid down the ways into the Clyde at John Brown's shipyard here today. She is the biggest vessel built in England since the war and will be the largest and fastest passenger liner plying between any of the ports of the British Empire.

The Prince of Wales pulled the lever which smashed a bottle of champagne on the bow and released the giant ship from the slipway.

"I name this ship Empress of Britain," he exclaimed in a loud, clear voice, "and may success attend her and all those who sail in her."

For ten seconds there was no perceptible motion of the ship and the vast crowd held its breath. Then the gleaming hull slowly began to move. Down the long slipway it sped with ever-increasing momentum and dipped into the Clyde as if in salute to the Prince. Puffing tugs soon got the great hull under control and pulled it back to the shipyard.

Broader in the beam than the 47,000-ton Aquitania and one deck higher, this vessel will rival the greatest liners on the Atlantic in the spaciousness and comfort of her interior.

"She may be considered in her construction as the last word in shipbuilding," said the Prince, in a generous tribute to the Canadian Pacific Railway, her builders, "and as regards her appointments she will have no rival."

The Prince's address was broadcast throughout Canada and in the United States by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The ship's speed will be only twenty-four knots and she could thus be outdistanced by the leading express liners on the Southampton-Cherbourg-New York run. The Empress of Britain, however, will be placed on the Southampton-Cherbourg-Quebec run, where she will have no rival. Her over-all length is 758 feet and her breadth 97 feet and she cost $15,000,000.

It is significant that the Empress of Britain, like other Canadian Pacific liners, is steam-driven. She is fitted with high pressure turbine machinery drawing steam from oil fires under water-tube boilers, and if successful she will be regarded as one more argument against the Diesel engine.

In passenger accommodation the great white ship with her three high funnels will be a direct competitor with the most elaborate vessels now crossing the Atlantic. England's most famous artists have been recruited to decorate her interior. Frank Brangwyn has decorated the dining room, Edmund Dulac the smoking room, Sir John Lavery the ball room, and the cartoonist, Heath Robinson, the cocktail bar. The new ship has a swimming pool, an open air tennis court and all the other equipment of a first class "luxury liner."

When the Empress of Britain is completed she will bring an end to the career of one of Germany's most famous pre-war liners, the 24,000-ton Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, owned by the Canadian Pacific and known now as the Empress of Scotland. Although she is still sturdy and serviceable, her speed is only seventeen knots, and the company decided it would be impracticable to increase her power until she could compare with the present-day demands of Atlantic traffic. The Empress of Scotland will be retired from service as soon as the Empress of Britain is ready for her maiden voyage.

ARGENTINE BANK LOSES $1,000,000 IN SWINDLE

Checks Issued by Courts to Settle Trumped-Up Suits Are Raised and Cashed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 11.—The local police are seeking a gang who have swindled the Bank of the Nation out of sums which are expected to reach a total of more than $1,000,000 by filing unimportant civil actions in the courts from which they obtained checks signed by the judges for insignificant sums, which were then raised to enable them to collect large amounts from deposits made in the bank in settlement of more important cases, usually inheritance distributions.

The swindlers would deposit fifty or 100 pesos [about $20 or $40] with the Bank of the Nation in settlement of their trumped-up cases. When the checks were issued by the judges against these deposits in favor of members of the swindling group, they were entirely rewritten except for the judges' signatures and the bank made payments as high as 90,000 and 200,000 pesos [$39,000 and $85,000].

The gang's method shows a close acquaintance with court procedure and knowledge of important deposits made to the order of the courts.

PLANS QUICK START ON IRISH NEWSPAPER

De Valera Says Enough Funds Were Guaranteed Here for Beginning Operations.

DESIRES IMPARTIAL NEWS

Party Policy to Be Reflected in Editorials—Directors Have Already Been Named.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, June 11.—Having obtained sufficient funds in America, Eamon de Valera said today he intended to start immediately the establishment of an Irish Republican newspaper in Dublin. He said $1,000,000 was needed, half of which had been previously subscribed in Ireland. While he did not confirm the American report that $300,000 had been raised there, he did say enough money had been guaranteed in America to enable him to begin preparations for his newspaper.

Arriving in Ireland last week, after spending a number of months in America, Mr. de Valera went from the boat directly into his electioneering campaign in Longford and Westmeath Counties.

Before taking his seat in the Dail today he discussed with your correspondent the plans and policy of the projected newspaper, on which he has been working for several years. He said that the site, secured two years ago, once housed the Tivoli Theatre, but was now unused, and that negotiations were in progress for purchasing presses. He said he hoped to commence publishing next St. Patrick's Day, but had been told in America that six months would be required to build the presses and three more months to install them.

Some time ago Mr. de Valera expressed his idea of making the newspaper as Irish as The London Times is English. Asked about this today, he replied:

"No, my idea of a paper is one more along the lines of THE NEW YORK TIMES. I want an Irish paper which the Irish people can really rely upon—impartial in its news columns, although with editorials reflecting party policy. That sort of paper does not exist in Ireland today. It is much needed by visitors here to enable them to obtain a correct insight into the existing conditions."

Mr. de Valera is chairman of the newspaper company, and a board of directors comprising not active party members but prominent Irish merchants and business men has already been appointed. The company formed here is known as the Irish Press, Ltd. An American holding company has been formed and all the American subscriptions pooled.

Portuguese Trial for Assassin in Doubt—German Fleet Leaves With Minister's Body.

LISBON, June 11 (AP).—Authorities here have been informed by the Danzig police that Franz Piechowski, slayer of Dr. von Baligand, German Minister to Portugal, is an escaped lunatic. The Danzig police said he had escaped from an asylum at Lauenburg, Pomerania.

In view of this information and an examination made by mental specialists here, it is doubtful whether Piechowski will be committed for trial Saturday as had been planned.

Flying her flag at half-mast and with her deck converted into a mortuary chapel, the cruiser Koenigsberg, flagship of the German second naval division, whose visit here was dramatically curtailed by the assassination of Dr. von Baligand, steamed out of the harbor today taking the Minister's body home.

SPANIARDS CANCEL TOURS.

Decline in the Peseta Has Serious Effect on Foreign Travel.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, June 11.—The world-wide financial depression and the fall of the peseta are having a serious effect on the Spanish tourist travel. According to the Spanish steamship company, Transatlantico, there have been thirty-one cancellations from a single cruise of the new steamship Marquis de Comillas, leaving Vigo June 20 for New York.

The only explanation is that the peseta is quoted at 8.28 to the dollar, whereas par is 5.150. Wealthy Spaniards have no inclination to lose 60 per cent when buying dollars and refuse to leave on tours.

The usual short trips of well-to-do Spaniards to Paris also are being curtailed.

R-100 Flight Put Over to Late July.

OTTAWA, June 11 (AP).—The dirigible R-100 will not begin her transatlantic trip to Canada until after the general election on July 28, the Minister of National Defense was notified today by the British Air Ministry. The start of the flight will be made during the last three days of July, the message said.

TSINAN SURRENDER REPORTED IMMINENT

Nanking General Said to Have Agreed to Yield Shantung Capital to Northerners.

SOUTHERN REBELS DRIVE ON

Three Columns Push Toward Hankow, Kiukiang and Shasi — Defense in Wuhan Cities Increased.

SHANGHAI, June 11 (AP).—Sweeping the Nanking Government troops aside, the victorious Kwangsi Province rebel armies today advanced northward in three columns upon Yangtse River cities. The progress of these Southern rebels and the continued onslaught of the Northern rebels in Shantung and Honan provinces combined to make the situation extremely serious for the Nanking Government.

The Kwangsi forces, augmented by thousands of bandits, routed the defending forces at Yochow yesterday and continued on today toward Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, industrial and strategic centre of Middle China. One column moved directly toward this objective, 200 miles by railroad from Yochow. Another column swung around Lake Tungting, unopposed toward Shasi, Yangtse River city, about 250 miles above Hankow, and a third body of rebels penetrated to within twenty miles of Kiukiang, important city about 150 miles down the river from Hankow.

70,000 to Defend Hankow.

Beaten both at Yochow and Changsha, Hunan Province, the Nanking forces massed 70,000 troops in Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang to halt the rebels. The tri-cities were under martial law as troops patrolled the streets. Government gunboats, recalled from the Tungting Lake at Yochow, moved up and down the river, reinforcing the defenses.

The approach of the Southerners toward Kiukiang caused the Nanking officials particular anxiety. If the city fell, it was felt the rebels might continue on either to the tri-cities or toward Nanking.

Meanwhile, adding to government distress, the Nanking General Han Fu-chu was reported to have agreed with the Northern coalition rebels to yield Tsinan, capital of Shantung Province, without further fighting. Several days ago the Northerners forced their way across the Yellow River, driving the Nanking forces before them.

Artillery firing was heard in Tsinan Saturday, but the Northerners instead of attacking the city negotiated for its surrender. There were 20,000 casualties in this area last month.

Action on two other battle fronts was veiled, perhaps by the Nanking Government censors, and little was known of these sections of the ring of steel that seems to be closing in upon the Nanking Government.

For several weeks the Northern Generals Yen Hsi-Shan and Feng Yu-Hsiang have battled to break the Nanking Government's Haichow-Tungkwan railway in Northern Honan Province and to drive through to Nanking. In Central Honan another Northern force has been held in check against Hankow and its sister cities.

Negotiate on Tsinan Surrender.

TOKYO, June 11 (AP).—A dispatch to the Rengo News Agency from Tsinan, Shantung Province, China, today said that the chief of staff for General Yen Hsi-shan, co-leader of the Northern forces, arrived at Tsinan yesterday and conferred with the Nanking General commanding government troops in Shantung Province.

The conference was reported to have dealt with a tentative agreement under which the Nanking General, Han Fu-chu, will deliver Tsinan to the Northern coalition without a struggle.

Meanwhile Han Fu-chu's emissary was reported to have gone to Yen Hsi-shan's headquarters to negotiate regarding terms of Han Fu-chu's adherence to the Northern cause.

Dispatches received at the Tokyo Foreign Office said Tsinan still was in the hands of the Nanking Government.

The Rengo dispatch gave strength to reports published in the Chinese press Monday that the Shantung military commander was suspected of having agreed secretly to surrender Tsinan to the rebels.

$700,000 BID FIRST DAY ON FIGDOR COLLECTION

One Tapestry Brings $100,000 at Auction in Vienna—Few Americans at Sale.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, June 11.—Bids totaling $700,000 were made by buyers from all over the world during the first day's auction of the famous Figdor collection of tapestries, carpets and other examples of the applied arts of the last six centuries.

About 1,000 persons squeezed themselves into the old offices of the Casino buildings in Schwarzenbergplatz to see the auctioning of this collection, against the sale of which an expert of the Austrian Government remained adamant for five years. Although the most important part will not be reached until Friday, when the furniture will be sold, the offerings today included tapestries, embroidered cloth and carpets, and some remarkable prices were recorded.

A fifteenth century tapestry depicting the holding of a rural court was sold for $100,000 to the Copenhagen City Museum. For another fifteenth century tapestry representing the death of the Virgin Mary, $25,000 was offered by Herr Bernheimer, a Munich art dealer.

Simple pieces of velvet and silk material of the fourteenth and eighteenth centuries also brought high prices. For one of these, an example of early Venetian velvet, $11,000 was given, and the prices generally seemed to average more than $1,000 per square foot. Some of the pieces offered were actually smaller than a square foot, but they brought their prices just the same.

Although an expected delegation of American and English buyers was absent, the prices were on a higher level than those at recent European auctions. Some of the higher bids were acknowledged with cheers. Director Joseph Breck of the New York Metropolitan Museum was the only prominent American buyer seen here today.

Special Signal for Royal Car To Prevent Delays in London

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 11.—On rare occasions King George and Queen Mary have been late at their appointments, and the delays have been blamed on traffic jams and inability of the police to recognize the royal car amid hosts of others of similar size, make and color.

To obviate this in the future, the police have received a music lesson with a special instrument containing five small horns, which give a distinctive warning. The horns will be attached to the royal automobile as soon as the police become thoroughly familiar with their notes.

It will then be possible for the royal automobile to signal to traffic officers, who will allow the car to proceed immediately.

2D CENTURY HOUSES UNEARTHED IN EGYPT

Temple and Dwellings Around It Bared in Fayum With Many Domestic Objects.

WOOD NOT IN GENERAL USE

University of Michigan's Near East Research Reports on Season's Finds at Karanis.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, June 11.—The University of Michigan Near East Research today issued a report on the season's excavations at Karanis, in Fayum Province. The expedition succeeded in unearthing a vast amount of objects of domestic use in the second century.

Of especial interest in the area of second century houses uncovered was the absence of the general use of wood in house construction. The wooden windows, together with the typical large household objects of wood, such as tables, boxes, stools and desks, which had been so characteristic of Fayum in the late third and fourth century periods of occupation, seem to be lacking in the houses of the second century.

Most of the season was devoted to clearing the Temple of Pnepheres and Petesuchos and the houses about it. Grenfell and Hunt had previously excavated the area and published the results in "Fayum Finds and Their Papyri."

The Michigan excavations has completely cleared the temple site and all the houses within the temple's walls. The temple was 20.6 metres long and 15.4 wide at the base (about 68 by 50 feet). A large grey limestone doorway with inscribed linting dating from time of the Emperor Nero gave access at the east to a long room, which was followed by a second of the same width but shorter. Lastly comes the shrine room, with a large stone platform built against the west wall.

Immediately east of the temple were found the remains of a pylon. Of special interest in connection with the temple is a deep arched niche in the inner wall of the shrine room, which was probably used for the mummy of a crocodile.

SOVIET CLERK SAYS SPIES TERRIFIED HIM

Recovering in Warsaw From Suicide Attempt, Naumoff Tells of Espionage.

MUCH ANXIETY IN PARIS

Russian Employes, Exiles and Police There Uneasy, Recalling Cases Similar to This One.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, June 11. — Michael Naumoff, Soviet employe who tried to commit suicide at Biala Station, has now recovered sufficiently to tell his story.

He has been a member of the Communist party since 1914 and has filled various posts in Soviet Russia. In 1926 he was sent to Paris as a fur expert in the Soviet trade delegation. A fortnight ago he was unexpectedly ordered to Moscow to report to his chief.

Spied on in France.

This happened immediately after the dismissal of another Soviet clerk, who, like M. Bessedowsky, former Soviet Chargé d'Affaires in Paris, refused to return to Moscow and started a press campaign against the Soviet. Naumoff left Paris June 4. On French territory he had already been spied upon by two men, who obviously had been sent to see whether he would leave France.

In Germany, he recounted, another suspicious looking man entered his compartment, and in Poland another stranger took the first man's place. This was too much for Naumoff's strained nerves; so he decided to leave the train, return to Warsaw and ask permission to stay there or return to Paris. The stranger followed him.

When a railway official asked Naumoff for his ticket, he replied that he had one to go to Moscow, but that he wanted to stay in Poland. The conductor then advised him to go to a police station to get permission. Suddenly Naumoff seized a penknife and thrust it into his abdomen.

The Polish Foreign Office has informed the Soviet Legation. Naumoff is still in the hospital. The Polish authorities have not yet replied to his application to stay in Poland.

Exiles and Police in Paris Uneasy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 11.—Soviet Russia's long arm has stretched out so frequently of late into Paris that it is causing uneasiness to the French police authorities, to Russian exiles and, most of all, to those employes of Moscow who prefer to live in France rather than in Russia.

The attempted suicide in Warsaw yesterday of a clerk, Michael Naumoff, who was being "escorted" home from Paris to Moscow by Soviet secret agents, is the third case within a month of Soviet employes here having been ordered home and threatened with abduction if they failed to obey. Following the case of M. B[illegible]edowsky who escaped from the Soviet Embassy over a wall when he was ordered to return and the alleged kidnapping of General Koutiepoff, these cases are causing considerable uneasiness because of the apparent freedom with which the Soviet secret agents seem to be able to come and go and the methods of terrorization which they employ.

Naumoff was identified here today as a fur specialist employed by the Soviet commercial delegation here. According to his wife, he left Paris June 5 voluntarily, in response to orders from Moscow, and was accompanied by Otto Winter, chief accountant of the Soviet delegation here, and the latter's family.

Mme. Naumoff knew nothing regarding Soviet secret service agents, and, in fact, she believes her husband, who is a member of the Russian Communist party, is in complete good standing with Moscow officials. Several times, she said, he had been summoned to return, but each time he had been granted a delay and when he departed he took with him a trunk full of papers relating to his business transactions here.

Mme. Naumoff was extremely surprised to receive a card from M. Winter, dated at Moscow informing her that her husband had been obliged to remain in Warsaw on account of difficulties relating to passports. She was unable to explain this because, she said, all his papers were in order. She believes her husband learned in Poland that he was the victim of a trap, and finding himself under sulveillance of the secret police had tried to escape at the last moment. She declined to believe the suicide attempt.

A rumor was current in Paris today that MM. Benitin and Stromberg, heads of departments of the Soviet trade delegation here, have been sentenced to death by Soviet courts for disloyalty to the Soviet.

Two other cases of orders being given by Moscow to Soviet trading agents here to return and their refusal to do so show something of the methods which the GPU (Russian secret service organization) employs. One of these two men, whose name is Krukoff, was sent here as manager of a financial house which has close relations with Russia.

Recently he was ordered to hand over his papers and functions to a woman and take a train back to Moscow within forty-eight hours. When the woman arrived she seemed distraught and left before the plan was concluded. A few hours later a Russian named Maximoff, employed by the Soviet Official Commercial Bureau in Paris, arrived.

He was a man of large stature and with his hand clasped in his pocket on a revolver, according to Krukoff's story, ordered him to peremptorily stay where he was. Through a window in the bank Krukoff saw a large automobile waiting. Convinced that an attempt was being made to kidnap him, he slipped out of the bank and telephoned Bessedowsky, who came with several friends as a bodyguard and escorted him back to the bank.

Maximoff then had left, and after turning over the keys of the safe, Krukoff left feeling, he said, safe for the first time in many days.

Another Russian named Goldstein, who was employed as general representative in the Soviet Commercial Agency, was likewise ordered home peremptorily and he refused. He said he knew he was threatened with grave danger whenever he set foot in Russia.

Soviet Holds 2 in Paris Treasonous.

MOSCOW, June 11 (AP).—Two Soviet citizens who refused to return to Russia from France when summoned were adjudged guilty of treason today and all of their property was confiscated.

The men are N. M. Baitin, manager of the fur department, and M. A. Stromberg, timber expert of the Soviet trade mission in Paris. They were outlawed by the Supreme Court under a decree made by the Central Executive Committee Nov. 21 and proclaimed enemies of the laboring class.

For several months the Soviet Government has had difficulty with foreign trade representatives who refused to return to Russia when ordered. Many of them have sought to remain in the countries where employed.

Liverpool Workmen Discover a Case With Rochester Girl's Name—Thieves Suspected.

LIVERPOOL, England, June 11 (AP).—A workman passing a pond in Wavertree Park yesterday noticed a wooden traveling case bearing the name "Jean Kendrick, Rochester, N. Y.," floating on the water. He pulled it ashore and found the locks had been broken open. Inside were a few articles of feminine wear, which he took with him to the police.

Meanwhile another workman saw other articles of woman's attire in the pond and also notified the police, who caused the pond to be dragged without result.

It was thought today that the case might have been stolen, the thieves taking their booty to the park, obtaining what valuables the case contained and then disposing of the remainder by throwing it into the pond.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 11 (AP).—Jean Kendrick is the daughter of Ryland Kendrick, Professor of Greek at the University of Rochester.

BILLINGS, Mont., June 11 (AP).—A. D. Mine-Meyer of Billings was killed and O. E. Lee of Billings and J. Carroll Coan, pilot, of Kansas City were injured in taking off from the airfield here today.

Their plane dropped eighty feet over a rocky cliff at the edge of the field after the engine had stalled.

JAPANESE VOLCANO ERUPTS SUDDENLY

With Severe Explosion Mount Asama Scatters Ashes for Miles Around Karuizawa.

ETNA IS AGAIN THREATENING

Billows of Smoke Emerge From Central Cone Inactive for Twelve Years.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, June 11.—Mount Asama, an active volcano near Karuizawa, the famous Summer resort frequented by foreigners, suddenly erupted at 8:15 A. M. today with a tremendous explosion which rocked the vicinity and sent a cloud of black smoke into the sky, scattering the ashes for miles around. The eruption had subsided somewhat by 2 o'clock this afternoon.

No loss of life is reported nor has any serious damage been done. The volcano hurled stones about the size of a man's fist all around the base of the mountain. The eruption was accompanied by a rumbling which continued for fifteen minutes at the outset and which later was heard intermittently.

The eruption started a small forest fire, but later reports indicated the fire had been extinguished.

The detonation of the eruption was heard for a radius of about thirty-five miles, and ashes continue to fall in the vicinity of Karuizawa.

Three climbers who had set out to ascend the volcano had only reached the base and escaped unharmed. The regular climbing season has not yet opened. A number of foreign residents are already at Karuizawa for the Summer months, although the height of the season is in July and August.

CATANIA, Sicily, June 11 (AP).—Professor Ponte, director of the Etna Observatory, announced today that the ancient eruptive cone in the central crater of Etna was again threatening, after having been inactive since 1918.

Billows of smoke have been emerging from the cone but it has not yet been possible to determine whether an eruption will follow. The central crater has become enlarged and is now in the course of transformation.

EASTERN NICARAGUA QUIET.

Bandits Believed to Have Withdrawn—Firms Resume Activity.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, C. Z., June 11.—Quiet has again settled over Eastern Nicaragua, where bandit depredations commenced recently, according to reports received here from Puerto Cabezas, where Rear Admiral Campbell, commanding the special service squadron, is temporarily stationed.

The Bonanza Mining Company, according to The Panama American, has resumed shipment of supplies to its mines, which were closed because of the recent raid by the bandit leader, Pedro Altamarino, and his followers. The American Fruit Company has returned to the Prinzapolka River district, from which it had withdrawn on account of Altamarino's activities. It is believed Altamarino has returned to his base in the Jinotega and Nueva Segovia districts.

BUENOS AIRES CELEBRATES.

Marks 350th Anniversary of Founding Second Largest Latin City.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 11.—Buenos Aires today celebrated the 350th anniversary of its founding by Juan de Garay fifty years after the Indians had destroyed the first settlement established by Francisco Pizzaro's lieutenant, Pedro Mendoza.

Refugees from the first settlement made their way up the river and founded Asuncion, Paraguay. De Garay traveled overland from Pizzaro's headquarters at Lima, Peru, to Asuncion, picked up sixty civilians there, brought them back down the river and founded what is today the world's second largest Latin city.

Ends Anti-Plague Work in Ecuador

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, June 11.—Dr. John D. Long, of the United States Public Health Service, after completing his anti-plague work here, has gone to Lima to begin a campaign in Northern Peru. Ecuadoren sanitationists regard the results of his work in Guayaquil as good grounds for hope that this joint action will rid the two countries of bubonic plague.

POLICE ABETTED RIOT, SAYS BISHOP OF MALTA

Head of Catholic Church There Protests to Governor Against Creation of 'Artificial' Crisis.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VALETTA, Malta, June 11.—Archbishop Caruana, head of the Catholic Church in Malta, sent to Governor Sir John Ducane today two protests which mark another stage in the controversy here between Church and State.

The first protest refers to the publication of the reply by Lord Strickland, Prime Minister, to Vatican charges, which the Archbishop describes as a series of gross libels against the Church and clergy. Its publication in the Government Gazette during the state of emergency declared by an ordinance suspending elections, the Archbishop regards as "harmful, anti-clerical propaganda under official protection."

The Archbishop's second protest is directed against the action of the police on Sunday, when the Archbishop declares a disorderly crowd was allowed to congregate in front of St. John's Church during a pontifical mass and disturb the service, almost creating a panic among the congregation. The Archbishop avers that the police did not intervene until after giving the demonstrators against him a chance to cause a disturbance, which, he says, could have been avoided by timely action.

The Archbishop concludes:

"I am not satisfied that the police acted fairly and would welcome assurance from your Excellency that their action in the future will inspire full confidence regardless of the interest of persons on whom the police depend and whom it may suit to stage an artificial situation in the country."

Polish Jews Protest Palestine Ban.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, June 11.—Thousands of Jews paraded here tonight in protest against the restriction of Jewish immigration into Palestine. Mass meetings were held in the public squares and strong resolutions were adopted against the British authorities. The shops closed at 6 o'clock. The British Embassy was guarded by police.

CAROL SEES NEED OF FOREIGN CAPITAL

Tells Newspaper Men of Other Countries Financiers' Aid Is Vital for Rumania.

MANIU BALKS AT OFFICE

No Progress Made With Princess Helen, but Divorce Annulment Is Said to Be Easy Matter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, June 11.—With other newspaper men the writer was received at 7:30 tonight by King Carol in the royal palace. Nearly sixty journalists lined up in the great library when the doors were swung open to admit Carol, who was suitably attired for the present temperature in a white Summer uniform with a Marshal's epaulettes and wearing white shoes.

Speaking in French, Carol said:

"I am convinced of the necessity of close cooperation between the press and the Rumanian Government. I desire the press to maintain close contact with Rumania. I regret the wrongful information which has been printed about me, though I am sure it was not the fault of the journalists themselves. The circumstances were such that they were unable to obtain precise and accurate information."

Answers Written Questions.

King Carol then answered various questions which had been submitted to him in writing. In reply to the inquiry as to whether he desired to exercise direct control over the course of events, Carol said he was convinced of the necessity of working within the framework of the Constitution and to cooperate closely with the government and people. Asked what caused him the greatest pleasure since his return, Carol replied: "That is easily answered. The reunion with my son."

Carol asked the press to assure foreign financiers he was convinced that only with their fullest cooperation was the reconstruction of Rumania possible. He said he would always welcome foreign capitalists to Rumania.

Asked about the Jewish question, Carol said:

"Talk about the persecution of Jews is an inaccurate story which has been circulated abroad. There are no persecutions, though there is an anti-Semitic faction which cannot be suppressed."

In response to another question, he said:

"I alone decided on my return and I am the person to whom I owe most on that account. But I have a great debt of gratitude to my brother Nicolas. He is my dearest and best helper and will always so remain."

Recalls Rumanians Here.

Asked by the writer to say something of the Rumanian Jews in the United States, Carol said:

"I have been in the United States myself and will never forget the reception given by the Rumanian Jews there. I love them like my own subjects. I consider them as Rumanians."

Then he gave this writer a message for the United States, dropping French and speaking English:

"I deeply appreciate the attitude which the greater part of the American press adopted toward me during my four years in exile. I shall always look back upon the United States with pleasant recollections and regret that circumstances rendered a second visit impossible. I send the best greetings to the land of hard work and public spirit. I shall always remain a true friend of the States and wish to see close cooperation between them and Rumania."

Referring to Hungary, Carol said that in the speech from the throne when taking the oath he had declared he desired the friendly cooperation of all neighbors.

"Unfortunately, I know too little of Hungary, but we have a common interest in agriculture. In defense of our agriculture and in an endeavor to secure markets we can easily join hands. I have sincere sympathies for the national minorities. I only want them to be loyal citizens and can assure them the best possible treatment within the framework of the Constitution."

Maniu Balks at Premership.

With the refusal of ex-Premier Maniu to form a concentration government, King Carol today met some of the difficulties of his new position. A greater difficulty will be to regain his former wife. That Princess Helen is in no haste to resume marital ties is now definitely established.

According to well-informed quarters Princess Helen has stipulated that Carol's relations with Mme. Zizi Lambrino and Mme. Magda Lupescu should be definitely ended. It was said tonight that representatives of both women were en route for Budapest, Hungary, to discuss settlement of all claims on Carol.

Princess Helen's divorce is said to contain enough errors to make annulment an easy matter, provided both parties wish it. Apparently the incoming government will settle this question. Princess Helen today canceled her proposed visit to Kronberg to attend family festivities there.

King Carol announced he would make his headquarters at Calea Victoria Palace, surrendering Cotroceni Palace to Queen Marie and Princess Ileana. Carol will send his Adjutant to meet Queen Marie at the Rumanian frontier Friday morning and greet her in his name. At Bucharest she will be met by the King himself, indicating a family reconciliation.

Liberals Saved From Prosecution.

The King today halted the prosecution of Liberal party leaders for lese-majesté in the wording of a resolution adopted after the last meeting of the party executive. This is the prelude of a wide military and political amnesty.

After a series of interviews with political leaders, Carol sent for ex-Premier Maniu this evening and asked him to form a government, but Dr. Maniu urged Carol to entrust it to General Presan or one of the four vice presidents of the National Peasant Party, Messrs. Vayda-Voevod, Junian, Mihailache and Brediceanu. General Presan is more than 70 years old, and it is not likely he will accept. Neither is it likely that Dr. Maniu's lieutenants will accept an office he refused.

Confirmation of the report that Prince Barbu Stirbey, Carol's chief enemy, was about to sell his property and leave the country, was made in an announcement tonight that Prince Stirbey had resigned the chairmanship of the greatest Rumanian industrial concern, the Reschitza steel works.

ACCUSER OF PASTOR EXPLAINS BAD CHECKS

Willard at Extortion Hearing Says Partner Took Funds While Broker Was on Honeymoon.

William E. Willard, investment broker, who charges the Rev. Herbert W. Hunter of Hudson, N. Y., with attempting to extort $75,000 from him by threating to charge publicly that Mr. Williard passed a number of worthless checks in 1925 and proclaim his connection with a stolen automobile case in the same year, told his story at the third hearing of the case before Magistrate Dreyer yesterday.

Under cross-examination by former Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora of counsel for the defense, who said that his line of questioning was to show Mr. Willard's unreliability as a witness. Mr. Willard said that before his marriage on July 15, 1925, he had had a joint bank account with his business partner.

He drew five or ten checks against that account during his honeymoon, which lasted into the first part of 1926, he said, during which time he was touring the country and out of touch with his friends or business connections. When he returned, he continued, he found that the account had been closed out by his partner, making the checks worthless and that there was a warrant out against him charging him with having stolen the automobile of Monroe Hutchins, an Atlantic City hotel man who had also cashed several checks for him.

The automobile, he testified, had been turned over to him by Mr. Hutchins in consideration of two lots, worth $500, and a note for $1,000, although Mr. Hutchins had kept its ownership in his name.

Mr. Willard gave his recollections of the conversation with the Rev. Mr. Hunter on May 29 on the basis of which Mr. Hunter was arrested. Mr. Pecora, who entered the case a week ago yesterday, requested to see the detectaphone transcript of this conversation, but would not promise to put it in evidence. Magistrate Dryer refused to let him see it unless he promised to let it be put in evidence.

POLES SKEPTICAL OF CAROL.

Press, Calling Him Pro-German, Fears Altered Foreign Policy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, June 11.—There is very little enthusiasm in the Polish press over the accession of Carol as King of Rumania. His pro-German sympathies are recalled, and it is feared here that he may depart from the traditional Rumanian foreign policy of an alliance with Poland and as part of the Little Entente, moving toward closer cooperation with Hungary and Italy.

The announcement of the new government's foreign policy is awaited here with great interest.

ASKS BIDS FOR A LOAN.

Buenos Aires Municipality Will Float $11,400,000 Issue.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 11.—The municipal government this afternoon issued a call for bids for a loan of 30,000,000 paper pesos (about $11,400,000) to pay 6 per cent interest and 1 per cent annually will go toward a sinking fund.

Bids also were asked for placing 10,350,000 pesos (about $3,933,000) of the municipal loan of 1923. Bidders were asked to include both operations in one transaction. The bids will be opened in the Mayor's office at 3:30 P. M. June 18.

QUEEN MARIE HOPES HELEN WILL FORGIVE

Mother Speeds a Day Ahead of Schedule to Offer Aid to Rumania's New King.

SHE URGES UNITED SUPPORT

Members of Party on Train Say She Fears Mme. Lambrino or Mme. Lupescu Will Stir Trouble.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, June 11.—"Above all things I want to see Helen by Carol's side as Queen," was the important declaration made by Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania to this correspondent tonight. Those in her entourage said Queen Marie had confidence that Carol would carry out his reconstruction program but was much alarmed at the possibility of Mme. Magda Lupescu and Mme. Zizi Lambrino, his former morganatic wife and his companion in exile, appearing as ghosts from the past to haunt Carol's future.

Queen Marie passed through Vienna this evening on the Orient Express from Germany, and during the journey from the West Vienna station to the East Vienna station she gave this correspondent a statement on the Rumanian situation.

Queen Marie looked very well, wearing a long black dress with a coiffure cap ornamented with large pearls and a long rope of several hundred pearls. On the wall of her compartment, in which the Grand Duchess Cyril of Russia was seated with her, was pinned a beautiful gold framed miniature of her grandson, Crown Prince Michael, as a baby.

"I am returning a day sooner than I had arranged," said Queen Marie, "because I wish to be with my son as soon as possible to offer my services to him in the great, heavy task confronting him. I know the whole royal family will unite around King Carol. I hope above all things to have the great joy of seeing Princess Helen at his side as Queen.

"Beyond that, what I most desire is that around King Carol should gather all statesmen, parties and national forces of the country to cooperate with him in the great work which stands before him."

The Queen was received at the station by M. Zabarowski, Rumanian Chargé d'Affaires at Vienna, with other members of the legation staff.

"I feel very well and am delighted at what has happened," was the Queen's greeting to the Chargé d'Affaires.

"Nicolas has plenty of courage," she remarked later to a member of the legation who told her King Carol had just appointed his brother Inspector General of the army. She added laughingly:

"Nicolas will be pleased. He just loves that sort of thing."

In the Queen's entourage it was said that fear that Mme. Lambrino might make big claims for herself and her son by Carol led Queen Marie to oppose Carol's return.

"We must trust both ladies to realize how necessary it is that nothing interferes with the prospect of Carol starting a new life, devoted to the service of his country," said this informant. "Carol and Helen will be brought together again. You may trust Queen Marie to effect this. She thinks it is essential that the King resume his married life as soon as possible."

"But isn't there great jealousy between Queen Marie and Princess Helen?" was asked.

"Those were feminine quarrels, which the Queen is stateswoman enough to overlook, in view of the importance of making Helen Queen," was the reply.

"What about the Liberals; will Queen Marie be able to reconcile them also with Carol?"

"Most of them, certainly," this informant replied. "But as for poor Vintila, I fear he and the Bratianu dynasty are finished."

Women Will Stay Away.

PARIS, June 11 (AP).—A Rumanian official here today said that there was not the slightest question of either Mme. Magda Lupescu, former companion of King Carol of Rumania during his exile, or of Mme. Zizi Lambrino, one-time morganatic wife of the newly proclaimed King, going back to Rumania. He added that the last available information was that Mme. Lupescu was in Switzerland, but that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts now.

The mother of Mme. Lambrino said today that her daughter intended to remain in Paris, where she has been living for years.

TREATY TALK IN CAIRO NOW HELD CERTAIN

Egyptian Paper Believes, However, Britain Will Not Concede More Than in London.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, June 11.—When the Egyptian treaty delegation returned from London empty-handed it was predicted that efforts would be made to resume negotiations with the British representative at Cairo. This view has now been adopted by the Cairo newspaper Almo Kattam, which is generally well informed. This journal asserts that pourparlers of a semi-official character will be undertaken here soon with the object of bridging the difficulty with regard to the Sudan, which was the cause of the breakdown of the London negotiations.

Almo Kattam, however, is not sanguine about the result, except in the unlikely contingency that the British Cabinet has altered its views concerning Egyptian claims as set forth in the course of the London negotiations. Nevertheless, that same effort will be made locally to find a compromise it views certain, if only to justify retention of power by the present Wafdist (Nationalist) Government, which was elected on a treaty platform.

The Egyptian Cabinet authorized the Finance Minister today to draw on the general reserve fund to the extent of $40,000,000 to strengthen the special agricultural reserve established last year to enable the government to make advances to cotton cultivators and buy cotton offered on that market. This reserve originally amounted to $20,000,000, but the government's commitments on the cotton markets necessitated today's addition.

As indicating the extent to which the government has been involved, it should be noted that until the end of April its purchases totaled more than $36,000,000, and the end is not in sight.

BERLIN WELCOMES OUR SHIPPING AWARD

One Paper Compares England's Policy on Private Property Seized in War.

TWO COMPANIES GET FUND

$25,000,000 Already Available for Meeting Indemnification of About $82,000,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 11.—Final indemnification award to German shipping companies for wartime seizures by the United States is hailed here as marking a happy, although somewhat belated, ending to one of the numerous war episodes which have been rankling in German bosoms.

The former impatience, however, now is effectively dispersed by gratification over the payment of about $82,000,000, including accumulated interest, which the Deutsche Tageszeitung observes is "no small fortune for such an impoverished country as Germany even if it is a petty item measured by American standards."

Of greater significance, says this newspaper, is the fundamental attitude of the United States Government toward private German property, compared with that of England, which "pursues the Bolshevistic practice," adding that evidently the Washington Government does not desire to identify itself with such methods.

While the incoming monies, of which 93 per cent will be divided between the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd lines, will bring their reserves up to about 90 per cent, their capital stockholders will not share the benefits for the present but will have to await the returns of the 1930 balance sheets. Nevertheless, it is stressed here that the indemnification award constitutes effective material relief to both companies in connection with their financial operations and will enable them to pay loans on which heavy interest rates are being paid.

It also is assumed both concerns will be in a position to proceed with the extension and consolidation of their physical organization within the scope of the pooling accord entered into last February, although it is not assumed in Hanseatic shipping circles that either company contemplates an early addition to its North Atlantic tonnage.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Special machinery will be set up at once by the Treasury Department for the liquidation of the awards of $74,243,000 to former German shipowners announced by James W. Remick, arbiter under the settlement of the war claims act of 1928.

After the arbiter certifies the awards to the treasury, application for payment must be made by the former owners of the seized ships.

A first $25,000,000 is available for a part payment on the awards. About 75 per cent of this would go to the shipowners, with the remaining 25 per cent to be held for awards for the German patents of the Sayville, L. I. radio station seized during the war.

When the negotiations of the arbiter are completed the treasury is authorized to make a payment of 50 per cent of the awards. The remainder would be held up for some time.

BOMBAY COUNCILOR TO URGE A DOMINION

Proposal Premised on India's Settling Communal Discord, Agreeing on a Constitution.

PLANES WARN VILLAGERS

Armored Cars and Troops Parade Also in Punjab Section Whose Residents Refuse to Pay Tax.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, June 11.—The first interesting development since the publication of the first section of the Simon commission report, discussion of which now has been generally relegated to the inside pages of the Indian newspapers, is the announcement today of the provisional agenda of the second session of the Bombay Legislative Council, to be held July 7.

The most important item is the notice given by R. G. Pradhan of a non-official resolution suggesting that his Majesty's government be persuaded to give to India dominion status, provided the Indians, after making up their differences, are able to present an agreed constitution at the round-table conference in London Oct. 20.

It is not believed likely the British Government will undertake to tie its hands to this extreme, so widespread has been the criticism already aroused by the declaration of the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, practically committing Britain to granting dominion status. Yet the resolution, reflecting as it does the views of a wide section of European opinion in India, will receive some support in British circles.

The resolution will recommend the Bombay Government urge upon his Majesty's government the necessity and expediency of supplementing the vice-regal announcement of Oct. 31, 1929, by another declaration, to be made either through the Secretary of State for India or through the Viceroy, immediately after the publication of Volume II of the Simon report, to the effect that his Majesty's government will be pleased to submit to Parliament proposals for the establishment of full national responsible government and dominion status, subject only to such reservations and qualifications as may be deemed essential for the transition period, provided that these certain conditions are fulfilled:

First, an agreed solution of the problem of minorities is to be reached by minority and majority communities.

Second, the differences between the Moslem and non-Moslem communities relating to representation and other matters are to be adjusted.

Third, an agreed national constitution is to be presented to his Majesty's government at the round-table conference by the British Indian delegation.

The approach of the monsoon in the south has had an almost magical effect in allaying the ardor of the mobs. All further attacks on the salt properties in the Presidency of Bombay have been called off and the raiders have been instructed not to attempt any further demonstrations in this direction until after the wet weather. Pickets are still active throughout the country, although in Bombay police plans are ready to bring an abrupt ending to their operations outside the British and European shops.

Planes Warn Tax-Resisters.

BOMBAY, June 11 (AP).—An aerial warning without bombs was given today for the civil resistance forces in the Punjab.

Following a decision by leaders of Mahatma Gandhi's campaign to strengthen their fight against payment of land taxes, inhabitants of two villages near Lahore telegraphed the Punjab government they would not pay land revenues unless the punitive police stationed there were withdrawn and the punitive tax abolished.

The authorities today sent an army airplane to circle over the villages, while three armored cars and foot troops showed an evidence of strength on the ground.

LEADERS IN INDIA SLOW TO JUDGE SIMON REPORT

Moslems and Army Officers Approve Sections Treating Their Special Problems.

From a Special Correspondent.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SIMLA, June 11.—The first impressions of the Simon report are beginning to take shape very slowly at the headquarters of the government here. It is a marked characteristic of Indian politics that in moments of emergency the responsible leaders of opinion are slow to form their views, while others less authoritative are most eager to rush into print.

One type of first-impressionist had made up his mind to damn the Simon report long before it was issued. The danger is that his interpretation is likely to be passed on to followers who lack the patience and in thousands of cases the education to read the report themselves.

From British and Indian quarters alike there is a widespread admiration of the way in which the volume sets forth the situation. That is not to say that everybody agrees with it, but as a fair and impartial review of the facts it is being praised.

Those who expected it would be an easy task to forecast the recommendations from the review are frankly baffled. If anything, Indian opinion, as far as it has already been expressed, is rather disappointed and finds cold comfort in the commission's clear realization of the difficulties in the way of the best intentioned reformers.

There is one community that is greatly relieved by the commissioner's appreciation of the situation, and that is the Moslems, especially in the Punjab. They are well pleased at the reaffirmation of their rights.

A movement in the Punjab for organizing the Moslems on lines apart from the influences of the National Congress will be almost certain to receive fresh impetus.

Army officers in high places are pleased with the way the commission deals with the problem of defense and point to the events on the Northwest frontier during the past weeks as fresh evidence that this is no time for vague experiments.

In a day or two it will be easier to judge how far the Indian peoples agree with the commission's picture of their position.

EXPERTS TO STUDY ROYAL MAIL GROUP

Kylsant Appoints Committee of Three to Confer on Finance and Administration.

RUNCIMAN NAMED DIRECTOR

Wide Reorganization Expected of Interests With Combined Capital of $400,000,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 11.—Lord Kylsant, head of the vast Royal Mail group of shipping companies, took drastic measures today to set his financial house in order. Faced with heavy declines in the shares of his interlocking companies and with increasing nervousness among investors, he appointed a committee of financial experts to confer "on matters of management, administration and finance." A sweeping reorganization of the entire group's finances is expected to result from the appointment of the committee.

It members are Frederick Hyde, managing director of the Midland Bank; Brig. Gen. Arthur Maxwell, managing partner in Glyn Mills & Co., and Sir William McLintock, accountant. The committee, which will hold office until the end of this year, will have the assistance and advice of Sir William Plender, one of England's greatest financial specialists and chairman of the Trade Facilities Act advisory committee.

Still more important is the official announcement that Walter Runciman, Liberal member of Parliament and an important figure in the shipping world, has been elected a director of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company. He is a director of the Westminster Bank and has a seat on the board of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company, Britain's largest railway system.

Today's move is the first constructive action Lord Kylsant has taken to give a new financial and administrative foundation to his vast interests, which have a combined capital of $400,000,000 and which operate 2,635,788 tons of shipping. Lord Kylsant has denied he would reorganize his companies ever since his brother, Lord St. Davids, first expressed uneasiness over the situation a year ago. Last week, however, the Royal Mail Company's report showed a net loss of $390,000 for 1929.

Such accounts as have been published are held to show the company has not conserved its cash resources sufficiently during recent years, especially in view of the severe depression in the shipping world. Until the end of 1928 the company was generous with dividends and continued buying heavily in non-shipping enterprises, many of which have not been profitable. Thus, Lord Kylsant now finds himself in control of great liner services, tramps, river and coastwise shipping, shipbuilding and iron and steel works.

The present investigation is expected to result in a rational grouping of all these various enterprises. Those which are more or less connected with each other may be merged. It is reported there may even be renewed efforts by Lord Kylsant to dispose of the White Star Line to the Cunard Company or to other competitors, but it is regarded as more likely that whatever combination takes place will be within the great Royal Mail structure.

An encouraging feature of today's announcement was the news that the bankers' discount houses have agreed to continue thtir accommodation during the present situation. The company has also arranged for the continuance of the trade facilities loan and the existing arrangements with the government of Northern Ireland, where the shipyard of Harland & Wolff is located.

The principal companies in the Kylsant group are the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, with $25,000,000 ordinary stock; Elder, Dempster & Co., with $9,000,000; the African Steamship Company, with $10,000,000; the Union Castle Mail Steamship Company, with $13,700,000; Lamport & Holt, Ltd., with $12,200,000; the Glen Line, Ltd., with $11,500,000; James Moss & Co., with $5,000,000; Coast Lines, Ltd., with $10,000,000; the White Star Line, with $5,000,000, and the Argentine Navigation Company, with $8,000,000 ordinary capital.

Probably the strongest three companies in the group are Union Castle, Argentine Navigation and Coast Lines. It appears from the present market quotations that those worst hit by the slump are Lamport & Holt, Elder, Dempster and the Royal Mail company. A large proportion of the ordinary stocks of the group are held by its various members.

The expectation here is that when the reforms and economies have been effected the holders of the various debentures should be secure and the holders of the pre-ordinary stocks should lose little in the long run.

NEW CRUISERS IN 1929 50% ABOVE 1913 TOTAL

Building in Kellogg Pact Year Was Three Times More Than in Year Before War.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 11.—In 1929, when the Kellogg peace pact became effective, the world launched 50 per cent more cruisers than in 1913 and had three times more building than in the year before the war.

Italy, which had no cruisers building in 1913, not only led the world in this respect in 1929, but, with 71,000 tons under construction, was building more than the total of 68,300 tons the whole world was building in 1913. Japan stood second in 1929, with 40,000 tons building; the United States third, with 30,000 tons; Spain fourth, with 20,000 tons, and France fifth, with 10,000 tons.

Submarines formed 1 per cent of the world fleet tonnage in 1913; 3 per cent when the war ended, and 5 per cent when the Kellogg treaty went into force.

The world's total naval tonnage, which in 1913 was 6,891,000 tons, stood at 5,312,000 tons in 1929, the difference being due to the sinking of the German fleet and the limitation of battleships in 1922. The figure for 1929, however, marked an increase of 21,000 tons over 1928.

The above figures appear in the League of Nations armament year book for 1929-30, issued today.

Greenwich High Graduates 102.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., June 11.—Greenwich High School graduated 102 students at the semi-annual commencement here tonight. The class was the largest in the school's history. The class speakers were Vera Mannel, Elevyn Wilmott, William Frey and J. Kenneth Roberts. Miss Wilmott read three sonnets written by herself. Judge William S. Hirschberg, member of the town school committee, awarded the diplomas.

SENATORS DISCUSS PACT WITH HOOVER

Allen and Reed Visit White House as Demand for Navy Papers Is Drafted.

JOHNSON SPURNS AN OFFER

Proposal Was That Documents Be Submitted on Condition That They Be Not Published.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—While members of the Committee on Foreign Relations completed the drafting of a resolution declaring the committee's right to secret notes on the London naval treaty, Senator Allen of Kansas, one of the leaders of the "Young Guard" Republicans who are urging speedy ratification of the pact, was in conference with President Hoover this afternoon. It is understood the whole treaty situation was surveyed.

The talk related mainly to the situation in the Senate and the ability of the party leaders to hold a two-thirds majority of Senators who are listed as in favor of ratification in Washington during the extra session of the Senate which the President is to call immediately following the adjournment of the regular session of Congress.

Subcommittee to Draft Protest.

Senators Borah, Moses and Black, appointed yesterday as a subcommittee to draft the resolution expressing the views of the committee in the controversy involving the confidential documents relating to the London conference, which by direction of the President were refused the committee, completed their work, and the resolution will be submitted to the full committee for approval or rejection tomorrow morning. If approved, and all the indications are it will be, Senator Borah, committee chairman, is expected to make the text public.

The committee met in the morning, but merely disposed of matters of a routine nature. Senator Borah refused to give out the text of the resolution until it is passed on by the committee. So far as is known, Senator Reed is the only member actively opposing the resolution.

Senator Reed was also a White House visitor during the day, but whether it was the treaty or the tariff that was discussed between the President and him was not disclosed. The best guess is that both matters were discussed. With Senator Robinson, Democrat, of Arkansas, Senator Reed is slated to lead the fight for ratification when the treaty is taken up in extra session.

At yesterday's executive session of the committee, it was disclosed, Senators Robinson and Reed offered to produce the documents now in controversy and submit them to the scrutiny of Senator Johnson, who initiated the demand that the State Department lay all of the confidential data before the committee. The offer was made with the stipulation that the texts were not to be made public. Senator Johnson refused to accept on that condition.

None of the Senators involved would discuss this phase of the controversy. It was said that Senator Johnson took the position that the papers should be submitted to the committee and that the committee, and not the State Department, should decide whether or not it was in the public interest to make them public in whole or in part.

Shipstead for Determined Stand.

Senator Shipstead of Minnesota, former Labor member of the committee and considered as an opponent of the treaty, added to the confusion by announcing that he would oppose action on the pact until all the documents were before the committee. He said that factors in the negotiations preceding the London conference might be revealed in the texts which would prove a determining element in interpretation of the treaty.

While the opposition is still attempting to line up Senators for quick adjournment of the extra session which the President plans to call on the treaty, it was reported that Senator Robinson will seek to get Democratic members who favor ratification to pledge their attendance at the extra session until a vote is reached.

Protests to Stimson on Secrecy.

George Henry Payne, chairman of the Citizens Committee on Naval Defense, announced yesterday that Ralph Beaver Strassburger, a member of the committee, had sent a wire to Secretary of State Stimson protesting against Mr. Stimson's letter to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in which he quoted George Washington in support of his refusal to give the committtee confidential documents bearing on the London naval treaty. Mr. Strassburger in a statement said the protest was directed at what he considered unwarranted secrecy as to the treaty negotiations.

JAPAN WIPES SLATE OF TREATY ENEMIES

Accepts Resignation of Kato, Arch-Opponent of Pact, as Chief of Naval Staff.

GOVERNMENT VICTORY SEEN

Argument Staff Was Ignored in London Negotiations Unlikely to Block Ratification.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKYO, June 11.—The government continued to move swiftly today in removing the unruly navy elements which have opposed the London naval treaty and dealt a major blow in accepting the resignation of Admiral Kanji Kato, Chief of Naval Staff, and immediately appointing as his successor Admiral Shoshin Taniguchi, commander of the Kure Naval Base.

It was revealed today that Admiral Kato presented his resignation to Emperor Hirohito in an interview at the palace yesterday. The Emperor thereupon sent for Admiral Takarabe, the Navy Minister, who recommended the acceptance of Admiral Kato's resignation, and the official announcement was made at noon today. Admiral Taniguchi was officially inaugurated as the new Chief of Staff within one hour. Admiral Kato remains in the service, however, and was appointed to an honorary position as a member of the Supreme Military Council.

Course of Treaty Smoothed.

The removal within the past three days of Vice Admiral Yamanashi as Vice Minister of the Navy, of Vice Admiral Suyetsuvu as Assistant Chief of Naval Staff and finally of Admiral Kato as Chief of Naval Staff is regarded as having wiped clean the slate of naval opposition and as smoothing the future course of the London treaty, although considerable opposition may still be expected to develop in the Privy Council, which will be called upon to ratify the pact.

The naval resignations of the past three days were evidently prompted by the desire of the government to remove all obstacles in the path of ratification and may be taken as indicative of the strong desire of the government to bring about the ratification of the treaty. The rapidity with which the government was able to act in finding new men for the posts vacated is evidence the navy is not solidly behind the Naval General Staff, as it would have been virtually impossible, if the navy had stood together, for the government to fill the vacancies. It is also a renewed indication of the strength of the government, which recently emerged victorious from the polls.

The resignation of Admiral Kato is taken as admission of defeat on the part of Admiral Kato, who championed the prerogatives of the navy in claiming the government should have taken account of the naval staff's opinion before accepting the London treaty, and as a victory for the Progressive element in Japan.

Argument Unlikely to Carry.

The political opposition is expected to contend that Admiral Kato's resignation is proof the government ignored the Naval General Staff in accepting the London treaty and thereby violated the Constitution, but it is not expected to make much headway against the government's thesis that it sufficiently consulted the naval staff.

The reports which are current that Admiral Takarabe might also be led to resign are without foundation. Admiral Takarabe made it plain from the time of his return from London that he intends to remain with the government and to work for ratification of the treaty. In an interview today, Admiral Takarabe reaffirmed his determination "to make every effort to pacify the Naval General Staff regarding the London treaty and to bring about its ratification." Vice Admiral Nomura, a member of the Naval General Staff who was the naval attaché at Washington from 1915 to 1918, was appointed as commander of the Kure Naval Base, succeeding Admiral Taniguchi.

Canned Vegetables

—so rich in vitamins
—are more appetizing
when Seasoned with Sugar

SCIENTIFIC methods used by packers and canners insure a higher, uniform vitamin content than can be obtained on the home range.

IF YOU could watch and study the great canning companies at work you would make these amazing discoveries. First, the vegetables chosen are as fine as any fresh vegetables that ever came into your kitchen. Second, the scientific methods of cooking and packing conserve more of the vitamins and minerals than you can on your home range.

To get the utmost from these pure, wholesome canned vegetables, heat them rather than boil them. They don't need to be re-cooked. Then season to taste and serve.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is an ideal seasoning for all vegetables—canned or fresh. The sugar in this mixture heightens their flavor and makes them more enjoyable. And food that pleases the taste promotes the flow of gastric juices.

Doctors and dietitians approve the use of sugar as a flavor in the preparation of food for children and adults. For sugar makes most foods, which are carriers of roughage, vitamins and minerals, more enjoyable. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

BERMUDA AND BACK AIM OF FLIGHT TODAY

Williams and O'Connor Set to Take Off at 4 A. M. on Non-Stop Round-Trip Journey.

WILL USE THE COLUMBIA

Trans-Atlantic Plane, Long Idle, Is Groomed for New Exploit—Weather Is Favorable.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., June 11.—The Columbia, veteran of one transatlantic flight and a score of races in this country, is scheduled to start another long flight tomorrow morning at 4 o'clock, when Roger Q. Williams with Lieutenant H. P. Connors, U. S. N. R., as navigator expects to take off from here for a non-stop flight to Bermuda and return. Errol Boyd, Canadian Royal Air Force veteran, may go as co-pilot.

For several days activity around the old Bellanca monoplane, which in the Spring of 1927 under Clarence Chamberlin's piloting established both a world's duration and a world's distance record, had given rise to reports that it was going on a long flight. Williams has been active in the preparation plans, but has either said nothing or denied all reports that he was planning a spectacular flight.

Two months ago Captain Lewis Yancey, William Hamilton and Zeh Bouck flew to Bermuda in a Stinson seaplane and in the accomplishment spent a night floating on the open ocean. Last year Williams and Yancey flew from Old Orchard Beach across the Atlantic to Spain and the next day went on to Rome.

Since then they have made no long flights together, and Williams's plan for a round-trip non-stop flight between Bermuda and New York in one day is regarded in aeronautical circles as an attempt on his part to out-perform his former flying comrade.

A representative of Williams said however, that the flight was merely an experiment to test the feasibility of establishing a regular passenger service with amphibians between New York and Bermuda this Fall. Williams believes such a service would be profitable with twenty passenger planes.

For several days Dr. James H. Kimball has been studying weather conditions between New York and Bermuda, and this afternoon he announced that except for local showers the weather was generally good over the 700-mile stretch of open water. Williams at once set tomorrow for his take-off.

The flier will carry a small bag of letters to Sir Louis Jean Bols, Governor of Bermuda, from Mayor Walker and Fred L. Foster, manager of the aviation department of Richfield Oil. Williams plans to circle low over Hamilton and drop the mail bag. He expects to spend about an hour over the island and then point the plane toward Roosevelt Field again.

The distance each way in land miles as Dr. Kimball charts it is 780 miles. Williams expects to average about eighty-five knots. Against him he will have southerly winds at the start, but they will be moderate, it is indicated. These same winds will be of some help on the return flight.

"There is only one thing to worry about," Dr. Kimball said tonight. "Williams is likely to find rain here when he returns and in the darkness that will make it difficult for him to find the field. However, Williams is versed in the art of blind flying. Lieutenant Connors holds a master's license as a navigator and appears well qualified for his assignment. I think they will be able to make the trip without trouble as far as the weather is concerned."

Williams expects to take off with more than 400 gallons of gasoline and 40 gallons of oil. With three passengers added, the Columbia will be carrying a total load of nearly three tons, something of a feat for a plane with a 200-horsepower engine and a 46-foot wing span.

WILL INCREASE PLANE FARES

T. A. T.-Maddux Lines to Raise Charges 5 to 7c a Mile Sunday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 11 (AP).—Fares on the air-rail line of the Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux Lines will be increased from 5 and 6 cents to 7 cents a mile beginning Sunday, officials said today.

A new passenger carrying record was established during May, when the line carried 5,474 passengers over 244,286 miles, officials said. The previous record was 5,164 passengers over 243,443 miles during last April.

The local ticket offices of the T. A. T.-Maddux airlines refused to comment upon the reported increase in fares last night. They said that bookings were still being made at the old rate, but pointed out that such reservations were subject to changes in rates without notice.

TWO WISCONSIN FLIERS DIE.

GREEN LAKE, Wis., June 11 (AP).—Two men were killed this afternoon when their plane crashed near the Lawsonia Airport, five miles north of Green Lake.

The dead are Harry Baldwin of Monroe and Edward Brusso of Appleton.

Brusso is believed to have been the pilot.

LODI AUDITOR TELLS OF PREMIUM PLAN

Asserts Engineer Blocked It When Mayor Suggested $10,000 Be Paid to Bank Head.

CHANDLESS RECORDS ASKED

Justice Parker Orders Bank to Produce Them—McCutcheon to Be Called Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 11.—The question whether a premium had been offered to the Little Ferry National Bank to purchase the $200,000 worth of Lodi Township sewer bonds came up for the seventh time today at the Supreme Court hearing into the sewer transaction. Six previous witnesses had denied the premium was offered or had denied knowledge of it.

A. George L. Baine, Lodi auditor, admitted today that a premium had been proposed but had been balked by Arthur Noack, township engineer.

"Mr. Noack says that you asked him to place the sum of $10,000 in the sewer estimates as a bonus for Charles Rosenberg, chairman of the board of directors of the bank," said Harold Price, the Supreme Court Commissioner, who is conducting the inquiry.

"That's not so," Mr. Baine replied. "I said that such a certification would be quite illegal; that it couldn't be done and that if it was done I'd report it to Commissioner Darby to take action on it, unless the engineer certified it."

"Unless the engineer certified it? What did you mean by that?" Mr. Price asked.

"Why, if the engineer certified the premium and his estimates called it stone and sewer pipe I wouldn't have any official knowledge of it in that form."

"You were discussing it right there at the meeting?" Mr. Baine had testified that the meeting took place in Mr. Noack's office; that Mayor Monnett of Lodi and other officials were present.

"Yes," replied Mr. Baine.

"And who asked Noack to certify the premium as stone and sewer pipe?"

"Mayor Monnett."

The Mayor, testifying on the same question some time ago, had denied that he had made the suggestion.

Commissioner Price then asked the witness if he had not expressed astonishment at hearing Mr. Noack asked to approve an agreement between the town and the bank.

"They never had any compunction previously about consulting Noack on legal matters," he answered.

Eventually the Little Ferry National Bank did buy the bonds, State Senator Ralph W. Chandless obtaining for the institution a deposit of $200,000 of State funds, to make the purchase possible. It was for this service that Senator Chandless got $10,000 from Lodi Township.

Senator Chandless has refused to yield his bank records, but Supreme Court Justice Parker issuer an order today demanding that the bank officials produce the amounts at the hearing. They may be offered in evidence tomorrow. Commissioner Price said he hopes to learn in this way what became of the $10,000.

State Controller John J. McCutcheon is expected to be a witness next week. Letters sent to him by Senator Chandless regarding the $200,000 deposited in the Little Ferry National Bank already have been placed in evidence.

CRASH KILLS MARINE FLIER.

Lieut. G. D. Chappel Loses Life Practicing at Quantico.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Second Lieutenant Guy Dewitt Chappel of the Marine Corps, was killed in an airplane crash at the Marine Corps flying field at Quantico today.

He was flying a Standard Marine Corps fighting plane in practicing fighting tactics when, on attempting to recover from a power dive, it is believed structural failures developed, rendering the plane unmanageable.

Lieutenant Chappel was born at Hot Springs, Ark., was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1927. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Marie Chappel.

SAYS COURT ERRED IN PUNISHING GIRL

District Attorney Brower of Brooklyn Assails Justice Levy in Kidnapping Case.

DEMANDS CHILD'S RETURN

Children's Court Justice Calls Intervention "High-Handed"—Mother Obtains Writ.

Aroused over the action of Justice Samuel D. Levy of the Children's Court in Manhattan in holding as a delinquent a 14-year-old girl who had been kidnapped and thrown from an automobile, District Attorney Brower of Brooklyn intervened yesterday in behalf of the mother by demanding the return of the child.

Mr. Brower described the girl as an innocent, obedient child, who, through no fault of her own, had been mistreated by criminals and then made the innocent victim of "official blundering." Instead of attempt to apprehend the kidnappers, he asserted, the machinery of the law had been directed against the girl. He criticized Justice Levy for his handling of the case and Detective Frank J. Sullivan of the Missing Persons Bureau for swearing that the child willfully had left home and remained with the kidnappers, whereas, he asserted, actually she had been taken forcibly from the street after visiting her grandmother.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Catherine Millet of 135 St. James Place, Brooklyn, obtained a habeas corpus order yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Cropsey in Brooklyn, which was made returnable today in the Supreme Court in Manhattan. The District Attorney joined the mother in that action by submitting an affidavit describing the case and claiming jurisdiction. The girl, Elizabeth Millet, is now in the custody of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, against which the proceeding is directed.

The District Attorney's affidavit said that on June 5 the girl left her home to visit her grandmother and was kidnapped by two unidentified men on her way back. She was held by them for two days, and on June 7 was thrown from an automobile at Cedar and William Streets in Manhattan and told to "go home."

A patrolman found her sitting in a doorway, dazed and crying, according to Mr. Brower. He turned the girl over to the Bureau of Missing Persons which previously had been notified of her disappearance. Detective Sullivan swore out a petition, Mr. Brower said, which alleged that the girl "deserted her home without just cause and without the consent of her parents, and while away from home she so deported herself as willfully to injure and endanger her morals and health."

According to Mr. Brower, the girl's mother had been notified and she was on hand when the case came up, but was not permitted to testify and the girl was not informed as to her right. Justice Levy finally remanded the girl to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, according to Mr. Brower, although that court "did not have jurisdiction of this child and the process based thereon is wholly void."

Justice Levy said last night that the case had been handled in the usual way and that Mr. Brower's intervention was both "high-handed and unusual." Justice Levy said that the case had not been finally disposed of and that the child was remanded to the children's society only temporarily "in the hope that the kidnappers would turn up." He denied that the case was outside of his jurisdiction and asserted that the Children's Court had acted for the child's interests.

ASK HOOVER TO PRESS WELFARE LEGISLATION

Women Representing 13 National Organizations Praise Work of the Children's Bureau.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Women representing thirteen national organizations visited President Hoover today to ask his aid in obtaining legislation to carry on the maternity welfare work begun under the Sheppard-Towner act before Congress adjourns.

The women stated that the children's bureau of the Department of Labor is the only acceptable administrative agency for continuing the Federal program for hygiene of mothers and children.

Mrs. Glen L. Swiggett of Washington, legislative chairman of the American Association of University Women, who acted as spokesman, said that the national association has actively supported and worked for the program they urged for the past ten years.

All the associations are represented on the maternity and infancy subcommittee of the women's joint Congressional committee.

The members of the delegation, in addition to Mrs. Swiggett, were:

Miss SELMA BORCHARDT, American Federation of Teachers.
Miss LITA BANE, American Home Economics Association.
Mrs. S. HODGIN STANTON, Council of Women for Home Missions.
Mrs. E. E. DANLY, National Board of the Y. W. C. A.
Mrs. J. W. BINGHAM, National Congress of Parents and Teachers.
Miss MARGUERITE OWEN, National Consumers' League.
Mrs. SIDNEY CONE, National Council of Jewish Women.
Mrs. ROSCOE ANDERSON, National League of Women Voters.
Miss ROSE SCHNEIDERMAN, National Women's Trade Union League of America.
Mrs. ROBERT K. NOBLE, Service Star Legion.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who was also at the White House, also urged the immediate enactment of legislation continuing the principle of maternity welfare work under the administration of the children's bureau, in which, he said, the federation "has great faith."

COSTE GETS YEAR'S AWARD.

International Air Federation Rates Him Above Byrd and Eckener.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 11.—The International Aeronautic Federation, in convention here, awarded to Dieudonné Coste today its Grand Medal of Honor for outstanding achievements in aviation in 1929.

The federation's medals went for 1927 to Charles A. Lindbergh and for 1928 to Bert Hinkler.

Special mention was made of the exploits of Dr. Hugo Eckener, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the Spanish fliers Jimenez and Iglésias and to the Austrian glider expert, Kronseld.

Captain Coste's long-distance flight from Paris to Manchuria won him the award, but he also received mention for his capture of world endurance records.

Hamilton Club Refusal Gives Setback to $2,750,000 Expansion Program.

The $2,750,000 expansion program of the Crescent Athletic Club, which is sponsored by Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, the president, and which provoked dissension in the ranks which culminated in court proceedings, received a second setback when the Hamilton Club rejected the proposal to merge with the Crescent organization, without even the formality of a vote by its members, it was learned yesterday.

Although the board of governors of the Hamilton Club turned down the merger proposal at a meeting on June 6 and then notified Justice Cropsey of the decision, the rejection was not made public until yesterday.

The notice of this decision, signed by George Hewlett, president, said that "there is not enough sentiment among our members in favor of a merger to warrant submitting such a proposal to a formal vote."

The Crescent Athletic Club proposed the merger as part of its $2,750,000 expansion program, which included purchase of property near Huntington, L. I., for a new country clubhouse; sale of the present country clubhouse on Shore Road, merger with the Hamilton Club, and erection of a new town house on either the present site, Pierrepont and Clinton Streets, or on the Hamilton Club site, Remsen and Clinton Streets.

Teh program was finally approved by a vote of 908 to 699 on May 21, after the Supreme Court had denied an injunction to Howard E. Jones, representing the opposition, to restrain the club from carrying out the provisions of the merger.

It was said at the Crescent Club yesterday that the rejection of the merger will not affect the plan to build a new town house or a new country club.

The question now before the survey board is whether to erect a new town house on the present site. Another phase of the matter is that the club owns a large equity in the valuable Hamilton Club property.

APPROVAL IS LIKELY ON ROCKEFELLER GIFT

Walker Indicates at Sinking Fund Meeting Park Offer Will Be Accepted Tomorrow.

John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s offer to give the city fifty-six acres in uptown Manhattan for park purposes was laid over on the calendar of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday on the advice of Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly, who said the Board of Estimate must act on the offer first.

Mayor Walker indicated that approval would be voted at tomorrow's special meeting of the Board of Estimate and that a special meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission would be called next week, at which its formal approval would be given. The land is on Washington Heights and includes the former Billings estate overlooking the Hudson near Dyckman Street. Four acres are reserved as a site for an art museum.

Action on the applications of two companies seeking ferry franchises were laid over until the commission's first meeting in the Fall, after Albert Goldman, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, had advised against giving franchises to private operators, because the city was now making a profit on both lines. The East Thirty-fourth Street Vehicular Ferry, Inc., asked a franchise for the East Ninety-second Street-Astoria ferry and the Classon Point-College Point ferry, but withdrew the latter application. The Electric Ferries, Inc., sought a franchise for the East Ninety-second Street-Astoria ferry. Under municipal operation Commissioner Goldman reported that this line earned $245,327 in 1929, with a 100 per cent increase in its traffic in the last four years. He called the financial return from the Classon Point-College Point line excellent, saying that its revenues had increased 300 per cent in the last four years.

The commission approved a lease of space on the first floor of 54 Lafayette Street, Manhattan, for the first free municipal employment agency to be set up by the Department of Public Welfare. Two other agencies are to be opened when suitable locations are found.

SCHOOL BOARD COSTS DECLARED TOO HIGH

Corporation Counsel Knox of Niagara Falls Addresses Mayors' Session at Utica.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., June 11.—Boards of Education should not be permitted to run up expenses and bond issues without regard to other expenses of the municipalities of which they are a part, George W. Knox, corporation counsel of Niagara Falls, said at the Mayors' Conference here today.

Mr. Knox accused school boards of spending money for the erection of monuments to the "high moguls of the Education Department at Albany." He said that 35 per cent of the expenses of his city were for education.

Mayor Walker of New York was elected member of the advisory committee, which includes also Mayors Donnelley of Utica, Harris of Watertown, Roesch of Buffalo and Reynolds of Hastings-on-the-Hudson.

Mayor Harris, the new president of the conference, was directed to appoint a committee to study the home rule constitutional amendment and local laws and recommend changes to eliminate defects. It was voted to hold the 1931 meeting at Glens Falls.

At the closing session in the evening Milo R. Maltbie, chairman of the Public Service Commission, spoke of "State Regulation of Public Utilities," and Attorney General Hamilton Ward on "Municipal Liability."

SLAIN YOUTH INDICTED.

Crain to Drop Charge Against Boy Shot by Detective in Speakeasy.

When he learned yesterday that the grand jury had returned a burglary indictment against 16-year-old Joseph Casey of 351 West Fifty-seventh Street, District Attorney Crain announced that he would appear before Judge Donnellan in General Sessions and request that the indictment be dismissed. Mr. Crain explained that the defendant was the youth who was shot and killed by a detective early last Sunday in the holdup of Mingo's alleged speakeasy in East Tenth Street.

The boy was arrested on June 2, eight days before he was shot by Detective William Murphy, in connection with the theft of $300 in materials from a dress shop at 143 West Forty-ninth Street, and was at liberty in $1,500 bail, when he was killed.

REHEARING DENIED LONG ISLAND ROAD

Transit Board Regards Appeal From Service Order as Move to Upset State Control.

HOLDS STAND INCONSISTENT

Railroad Expected to Seek Court Relief From Ruling to Equip 100 New Cars and Longer Trains.

The Transit Commission denied yesterday the application of the Long Island Railroad for a rehearing in connection with the commission's order of April 24 requiring the purchase of 100 new cars, the operation of fifteen-car trains and other service improvements. A similar denial was voted by the Public Service Commission, which sat jointly with the Transit Commission at the original hearings.

The denial of the application was based upon an opinion by Transit Commissioner Leon G. Godley, who described the company's argument for a rehearing as "an effort to get before the Interstate Commerce Commission, as the Long Island Railroad has done in similar matters."

"If the Interstate Commerce Commission is to take jurisdiction of matters concerning the Long Island Railroad and oust the State bodies," the opinion declared, "then State regulation of this railroad, which is entirely within the State of New York, becomes a farce. I do not think that this commission should accept this conclusion unless and until the United States Supreme Court so holds."

At the joint hearings which resulted in the order calling for an expenditure of about $20,000,000 by the company the jurisdiction of the two State commissions was not disputed but was challenged in the application for rehearing, which asserted that the Interstate Commerce Commission had sole jurisdiction over the question of changes at the Pennsylvania Station terminal.

Another contention in the rehearing application was that the orders were confiscatory and placed undue burden in interstate commerce. Commissioner Godley's opinion treated the application as an effort to escape State regulation, and declared that the company's position now is inconsistent with that which it took at the original hearings.

Although officials of the Long Island did not comment yesterday on the denial of the application, it is expected that they will seek relief either in the courts or before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

WOMAN POSTMASTER AIDE.

Employe In Mount Vernon Office Forty Years Is Named Assistant.

Postmaster Leroy Powell of Mount Vernon announced yesterday that Miss Vida I. Warner of 29 East Fourth Street for the last forty years employed in the Mount Vernon Postoffice, had been named Assistant Postmaster, through a special order from the United States Postoffice Department at Washington.

She has seen the Mount Vernon Postoffice grow from a third-class office with small receipts to a first-class office with the annual receipts in excess of $300,000. She is believed to be the only woman in this section who is an Assistant Postmaster.

Miss Warner was appointed a clerk in the postoffice in 1889. She was assigned to the money order department and for twenty years had charge of this branch of the office. In 1910 she was appointed secretary to the Postmaster.

ANDREWS'S DEATH IS LAID TO POISON

County Physician at Fair Haven, N. J., Finds It Was Taken Accidentally.

TRIED TO MAKE GEMS

Steel Man's First Wife, "Princess Vetsera," Committed Suicide at Paris Victory Ball.

Special to The New York Times.

FAIR HAVEN, N. J., June 11.—The death here yesterday of Donald Shields Andrews, wealthy chemical eigineer who received much newspaper notoriety in 1915 when as a senior at Yale he married the "Princess Vetsera of Austria," was caused by cyanide of potassium poisoning, it developed today.

Dr. Harvey W. Hartman, Monmouth County physician, issued a certificate of accidental death after an autopsy which found the cyanide. Prosecutor Jonas Tumen said that although the investigation was still open, he also was convinced that death was accidental. Mr. Andrews had no business or domestic troubles, he asserted. He had, however, been under the care of a physician recently for a nervous disorder. He was 36 years old.

Tried to Make Gems.

Mr. Andrews, who was in the steel business with offices at 1 Park Avenue, New York, was found dead in his $200,000 laboratory on the banks of the Shrewsbury River here in which he has recently spent much time endeavoring to make precious stones synthetically. He had gone to work there at 4 A. M. with his friend and associate, John Ross of Red Bank.

In mid-afternoon Mr. Ross returned to the laboratory after a brief absence and found Mr. Andrews dead on the floor.

Chief of Police Joseph Herdon was notified. He learned that a drinking glass partly filled with water was on the floor beside the body. On a reading table rested a glass which had contained ale, and in a waste basket there was another drinking glass which had contained "possibly traces of cyanide of potassium," according to Dr. Hartman. A container of the poison stood on a table in the laboratory. It appeared to have been opened recently.

Mr. Andrews and his wife, the former Miss Hilah Reeder, lived on an estate in Rumson, two miles from the laboratory. Mr. Andrews was the son of Matthew Andrews of Cleveland, a business associate of Senator Marcus A. Hanna. He was a senior in the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale when he first came into public notice.

Eloped With Princess.

At that time he was reported held prisoner by private detectives employed by his family to prevent him from marrying Mrs. Alma V. Hayne, also known as the "Princess Vetsera of Austria." He eluded them, however, and married Mrs. Hayne in Mamaroneck on April 24, 1915.

Mrs. Hayne declared that she was the natural daughter of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and the Baroness Marie Vetsera, who were found dead together in a hunting lodge in 1889. She had divorced a captain in the British Flying Corps before her elopement with Andrews. She was several years Mr. Andrews's senior.

The couple sailed for Europe and a month later he returned alone and he and the Princess later were divorced. Mrs. Andrews had said that she had married Andrews only to keep him from carrying out a threat of suicide if she rejected him.

She took poison at the Victory Ball in London on Armistice Day, 1919.

Mother Coming for his Body.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 11.—Mrs. Matthew Andrews left her home in Gates Mills today to bring the body of her son here. It is understood that the body will be brought to this city for burial. Matthew Andrews died last year while on a vacation in Florida.

ELECTRIC COMPANIES IN INTERNATIONAL DEAL

Westinghouse and English Agree to Exchange Technical Data—Stock Also Involved.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 11.—American electrical interests achieved a new form of penetration into British industry today when the English Electric Company, Ltd., announced an agreement with the Westinghouse enterprises giving it the benefit of the extensive research work carried on by Westinghouse in its American laboratories.

The agreement carries with it an offer of 10 per cent participation in the English company's ordinary stock at par, but does not involve financial control by the American concerns. The companies agree to exchange technical information on steam turbines and electrical apparatus.

The arrangement also includes the granting of licenses for the use of patents and for the manufacture and sale of various products in the course of existing commitments of the two concerns in various parts of the world.

The English company has important factories in Rugby, Bradford, Coventry, Stafford and Preston. The American companies involved are the Westinghouse Electric International Company of New York and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of East Pittsburgh.

Named to Committee on Courts.

Peter Forrest, counsel to the Twenty-third Street Association, has been designated by that organization to serve upon a committee to be formed to obtain better administration of justice in the civil courts, it was announced yesterday. The plan to form such a committee is the outgrowth of a movement started by the State Chamber of Commerce.

NATURALIST RETURNS WITH CONGO GORILLA

J. L. Buck of Camden Also Brings Four Tons of Reptiles After 5,500-Mile Trip by Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 11.—What is said to be the fifth gorilla to be brought into this country alive—a playful youngster about three and a half years old and weighing almost sixty pounds—is rapidly becoming acclimated at the home of Julius L. Buck, Camden naturalist and wild game dealer. "Bushman," the gorilla, a native of Moyene, French Congo, has just been landed here with a varied assortment of other animals and about four tons of venomous and harmless African reptiles by Mr. Buck and his son, Warren Buck, who have returned from a periodical collecting trip.

Covering 5,500 miles by automobile in a seven-month journey through Central Africa, the naturalists introduced what they believe to be a new style in African travel for game hunters. They took along no kitchen equipment of any kind.

"And we didn't go hungry once," said the elder Mr. Buck. "We were welcomed by native tribesmen, traders and other folk, and always had plenty of food. We found it a very satisfactory method of travel, one which simplifies matters greatly.

The two Camden men were the only white men in the party, which sometimes included as many as 100 natives, when some particularly dangerous or difficult trapping project was afoot. All of the animals were taken alive.

Bushman refuses to accept overtures of friendship from any of the 200 ordinary chimpanzees, baboons and other members of the monkey family that made the trip with him.

Among the snakes at the Buck's homestead, later perhaps to go to various zoological gardens, are specimens of the deadly horned viper, green mambas, spitting cobra, and rock and royal pythons.

ALIEN HEARING PLAN FAILS.

Proposal for Evening Term of Citizenship Court Abandoned.

Plans for a special evening term of the Supreme Court to consider 5,817 applications of aliens for naturalization were abandoned yesterday by County Clerk Lester W. Patterson of the Bronx when he failed to obtain the cooperation of the Federal authorities.

Mr. Patterson said some applicants had been waiting fifteen months and he had received complaints concerning "fixers" in the corridors of the Supreme Court, who were obtaining fees on promises to expedite the admittance of aliens to citizenship. The extra hearings, Mr. Patterson said, would mitigate this evil, but nevertheless he would act to correct it.

Presiding Justice Dowling of the Appellate Division had approved the special term and was prepared to designate a justice to preside. Additional Federal examiners were denied, however, and the hearings will be continued at the regular day sessions, held weekly in the Bronx on Friday.

The day sessions will terminate at the end of this month. Unless special arrangements are made to consider applications, persons who do not receive papers this month will not have the right to vote next November.

HOTEL FOR GIRLS TO OPEN.

New Salvation Army Residence for Those Earning $35 Weekly or Less.

The John and Mary R. Markle Memorial Residence of the Salvation Army, provided for young business women of limited income, will be dedicated by Commander Evangeline Booth on Saturday. The building, at 123 West Thirteenth Street, will be open for occupancy by the end of the week. The funds for its erection were donated by Mr. Markle as a memorial to his wife. Residence in the building will be limited to women under 35 years old who earn maximum salaries of $35 per week.

The structure and its furnishings provide all modern hotel conveniences, such as roof garden, gymnasium and swimming pool, and there will be an operating staff of sixty-five under Adjutant and Mrs. Harold Smith, who for nine years have superintended a large Salvation Army home in Washington, D. C. The building, with restaurant and laundering facilities, has a capacity of 325 girls.

SAYS WORKERS GET 57% OF OUR INCOME

I. W. Brown Tells Advertising Club New Social Ideas Have Developed Here Since War.

SEES EDUCATIONAL GAINS

Charles E. Murphy Is Installed as President—Retiring Head Gets Autograph of Franklin.

A new political and social philosophy that has grown up since the World War exists in the United States today, according to James Wright Brown, owner of the publication Editor and Publisher, speaking yesterday at a luncheon of the Advertising Club of New York, 23 Park Avenue, of which he is the retiring president.

New officers who were elected on May 13 were installed. A large number of men prominent in advertising circles witnessed the presentation of an ivory gavel by Mr. Brown to the new president, Charles E. Murphy, lawyer, for many years a leader in the club.

"The evidence of this new political and social philosophy," Mr. Brown said, "is shown in the increased percentage of the national income which goes to the workers and in the number of persons enrolled in institutions of learning.

"Twenty years ago 49 per cent of the national income went to the owners of industry and 51 per cent to the workers. Today the owners receive but 43 per cent and the workers 57 per cent.

"Today, too," he declared, "50 per cent of our young people of high school age are enrolled in high schools—an increase of 20 per cent over 1917 and 40 per cent over 1902. In institutions of higher learning, attendance is larger here than in any other part of the world.

"Much of this is due to our right of free speech and free press. American advertising and journalism has done much to mold public opinion, and in that has aided much in the progress and thinking of our country."

A leather folio containing original autographs and letters of men, now dead, who were leaders in journalism was presented to Mr. Brown. Among them were a letter signed by Benjamin Franklin and a twenty-four-page manuscript written by Horace Greeley.

The new officers installed were:

CHARLES E. MURPHY, lawyer, president.
LEE J. EASTMAN, president of Packard Motor Sales Corporation, vice president.
OLIVER B. MERRILL, advertising manager Youth's Companion, vice president.
JOHN A. WILKINS, vice president Charles Francis Press, treasurer.
WILLIAM D. M. SIMMONS, sales manager Underwood Typewriter Company, director.
RALPH TRIER, president New York Theatre Program Corporation, director.

ASSERTS ALL PIANOS HAVE 'TEMPERAMENT'

W. B. White, Acoustics Expert, Tells Dealers Here No Other Instrument Is So 'Intelligent.'

The piano is the "most intelligent, most versatile and most musical" instrument enjoyed by human beings, the annual music industries convention was told yesterday by Dr. William Braid White, acoustics expert of the American Steel and Wire Company. In an illustrated lecture entitled "What Science Says About the Piano," he discussed the fundamental principles of sound, upon which the piano depends for its tone.

No player, no matter how skillful, can play the same piece in the same manner on the piano more than once, according to Dr. White. He told the gathering, meeting at the Hotel New Yorker, that each musical instrument has a "temperament" of its own which is constantly changing as expressed in different tonal responses.

How to meet the problems of economic deflation was discussed by members of the convention at an all-morning meeting. Parham Welein, president of the National Association of Music Merchants, presided. Merchants reported that the music industry has not been hit as hard as other industries. Recovery of trade activity is anticipated by Fall, they declared.

Dr. Walter Damrosch will address the convention at the annual dinner of the music industries tonight. Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Richard Crooks, concert tenor, and Sadah Schuchari, violinist, and other musical stars will take part in a program which will be broadcast.

TEAR BOMBS USED TO EVICT WOMEN

Sisters, Barricaded in Atlantic City Home, Fight 6 Police and 3 Other Law Officers.

ONE SHOOTS AT BESIEGERS

Both Jailed After Ejection From Home in Dispute Over Estate to Which They Are Heirs.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11.—Six policemen, two constables and an under sheriff, reinforced by tear bombs, were required to evict two middle-aged women from their home at 3,201 Pacific Avenue, this afternoon, when the women barricaded themselves and defied the police to force them out.

The house, according to police, is the centre of litigation over the settlement of an estate. The heirs, the Misses Mary and Leonore Smythe, who live in the house, and a sister and brother in Philadelphia are divided as to the right of the trustee, the Tradesman's National Bank and Trust Company of Philadelphia, to dispose of the property to effect the settlement.

A writ of assistance, to forcibly eject the two women, was given to Constables Glick and Hoffmann and Under Sheriff Malvern Woodruff to serve.

The three knocked on the door of the house about noon. Admittance was refused, so they entered by breaking a window. On the third floor they found the women locked in a room. They ordered them to open the door and again met with a refusal. Then they forced the door and read the writ.

The sisters asked for two hours grace to pack personal belongings, and this was granted. When the packing was done they were again told to leave, but they insisted that they owned the house and no one had a right to evict them. Force was attempted, and according to police, Leonore Smythe, who is 38 years old, proceeded to battle the trio. She was arrested and taken to Police Headquarters, where she was lodged in jail on charges of assault and battery.

The men then returned for her sister. Constable Glick, on his way to the third floor, looked up and saw the muzzle of a pistol pointed at him.

"How would you like to get this?" Mary Smythe screamed.

Glick made a dash for the weapon and the woman pulled the trigger, the bullet going wild. The constable ran down the stairs with bullets flying after him. Police were called and detectives Ruby and Butcher and Policemen Witham, Lewis, Freeman and Raphael responded. They tried to gain entrance, but were met by a volley of shots. Tear bombs were put into action and police then entered, expecting to find the woman unconscious. An hour's search, however, failed to locate her and men were posted in every room to make a more thorough search.

Finally she was discovered beneath the front porch by Witham and a pistol was found in a room on the third floor. The woman was taken to the city jail charged with an attempt to kill. She would not speak when questioned.

Another force of policeman was called to control the crowd which had gathered to witness the battle. Some one, in the excitement, pulled a fire box. The fire apparatus added to the confusion.

Birmingham Bars Hall to De Priest.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 11 (AP).—J. M. Jones Jr., president of the Birmingham City Commission, said today that Oscar De Priest, Negro representative from Illinois, would not be permitted to use the municipal auditorium for a scheduled address here July 17. The commission president did not amplify his statement other than to say that if the auditorium had been reserved for the occasion, the reservation would be canceled. De Priest is scheduled to address a Negro fraternal convention.

LAKE CARMEL is a large body of water almost two miles in length just above Carmel, the picturesque County Seat in Putnam County.

Westchester and Putnam Counties have always been, and always will be, the first choice of the discriminating and wealthy, and the ambition and hope of those who never could afford to enjoy this most beautiful of sections surrounding New York City.

The Daily Mirror realizing this, and wishing to be of some valuable service to its readers, set about with the avowed purpose of securing some such spot for those who looked with eager eyes to what seemed a forbidden Paradise.

The Daily Mirror Did It

We accomplished our purpose. We obtained Lake Carmel and plan to make of it a monument of which we shall be proud. We are, therefore, happy to offer our readers lots along the 5¼ miles of the beautiful shore front of Lake Carmel. Our property is only 50 miles from New York and at an altitude of from 600 to 800 feet, making it an ideal and healthful summer resort.

The Lake and Park

Lake Carmel has several sandy beaches along its shores which will be improved by the Daily Mirror with boat houses for the free use of property owners. The Daily Mirror is laying out a Park, entirely surrounding the Lake, for the exclusive use of the lot owners, and many summer houses along the beautiful shores. As Lake Carmel will be reserved for the exclusive use of lot owners, fishing will always remain unexcelled for that reason. There will be several children's playgrounds near the safe, gently-sloping bathing beaches, and diving boards and floats in deeper water for those who enjoy swimming.

Club House

On a promontory overlooking Lake Carmel, the Daily Mirror is building and furnishing a large stucco Clubhouse in keeping with the character of the development.

As the Daily Mirror insists upon having Lake Carmel in keeping with developments in the neighborhood, we will sell no less than two lots to one buyer and restrict the property to residences, with the exception of just the small amount necessary for business purposes.

A Real Investment Opportunity

Remember that most of the lakes in Westchester and Putnam counties are owned by the City of New York and therefore not available for boating and swimming. Therefore, waterfront property and property near lakes in this vicinity which can be used by residents is very scarce, and those few hitherto available have commanded tremendous prices. In a short time all of the available lots at Lake Carmel will be sold, but the demand for the property where the waterfront is available will continuously increase. You can judge what effect this will have upon increasing values.

Demand Will Be Greater Than Supply

Therefore, act at once. Either fill out and mail the attached coupon for further particulars and a road map to visit Lake Carmel, or call at or telephone to any of our branch offices listed above.

10,000 WITNESS EXERCISES

Academic Procession Precedes Bestowal of 2,958 Degrees—Prize Winners Announced.

Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, was made a Doctor of Laws at New York University's ninety-eighth commencement, held yesterday morning. Six others received honorary titles, 2,958 students got degrees. Ninety-three certificates were awarded.

A crowd estimated at about 10,000 filled the tent in which the exercises were held, and scattered out on the lawns and west slope of the campus beneath the Hall of Fame. Just before Secretary Adams was called forward to receive his degree, one of his dirigibles—the Los Angeles—drifted slowly through the fine mist overhead in the general direction of West Point.

In giving the degree to Mr. Adams, Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown spoke of his latest service at London and added, "Heaven grant that our Senate may ratify that treaty without delay." The other recipients of honorary degrees were Mrs. Ruth Pratt, the Rev. Dr. Henry Howard, Edwin Markham, Thornton Wilder, Thomas Cochran and Herbert Putnam.

The exercises were preceded by the usual academic procession, the members of the faculty starting from the library and the students from Ohio Field. When the marchers had taken their seats on the platform and in the front part of the tent, their friends and relatives filled in the rear.

Dr. Merriam in Address.

Dr. John Campbell Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, spoke on the general subject of "Making a Living—or Living."

"I believe that now, as at no other time in history, we see the difference between merely completing the cycle of an individual human life through 'making a living,' as contrasted with the opportunities for service and enjoyment through planning 'living' of the life with reference to ultimate accomplishment and the joy of doing," he said. "Not at any other time has this seemed so clearly essential for the individual and for the race.

"Four outstanding results will come from building into the period of 'making a living' a continually expanding structure concerning particularly the intellectual and spiritual life.

"It will contribute to better understanding of the situation of each individual, so that with a wider vision we may select the things for which we have greatest capacity, and through which we can have largest accomplishment. It is by this means that we allow ourselves the maximum opportunity for carrying the responsibility to our fellow-men by assuming the true responsibilities of citizenship.

"It will increase opportunity for continuing enjoyment of those things which represent the flowering of human effort in arts and sciences, philosophy and religion. And it opens up an ever-broadening realm of interest in living which may conceivably double the life in years as well as in the measure of joy for every portion of it."

The Rev. George Alexander, president of the council of the university, delivered the invocation. Then commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps of the United States Army were made by Captain August B. O'Connell of the Thirty-sixth Infantry, acting for Lieut. Col. Staley A. Campbell, Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the college.

Dr. Brown Presents Diplomas.

Chancellor Brown conferred the degrees upon the students, who were presented by their various deans.

"You are going out into a world in which a college graduate is no longer a rare and marvelous visitant," Dr. Brown said. "Wherever you may go, you will compete with Bachelors of Science and of the arts, with masters and doctors of every variety from some hundreds of other colleges and universities. Some of these graduates you will find are men and women of education. You will find other men and women who, while not graduates, are nevertheless constantly, passionately, remorselessly educating themselves.

"Beware of entering any race with an educated competitor unless you are willing to take the pains and trouble to become educated yourselves. For your education, the most of it, is yet to come. We have done our best to give you a fair start, but now your education begins in earnest, and the responsibility for carrying it on now rests upon your own shoulders. The task of assimilating, mastering, humanizing, rationalizing, spiritualizing the raw stuff of experience lies before you."

The seven recipients of honorary degrees were presented by Dr. Alexander and the degrees were conferred by Chancellor Brown. The words of presentation and citation in the order in which they were bestowed follow:

Ruth Baker Pratt—Graduate of Wellesley College; promoter of civic righteousness; first woman member of the New York Board of Aldermen; member of the House of Representatives of the United States, is presented for the degree of Master of Humane Letters.

Woman's place, no doubt, is in the home as well as man's. But what shall be done with a faithful and competent wife and mother who has such excess of vital energy—of spirit, sense, and political acumen—as to sway the suffrage of intelligent constituencies? The appropriate thing would seem to be to make her alderman, member of Congress, and how much more, no man can tell; and that this university of her home town should add its tribute of recognition, not only because of her recorded achievements, but still more because of the human qualities from which they spring.

Henry Howard—Graduate of Wesley College, Melbourne; pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church; author, preacher and man of God, is presented for the honorary degree of Doctor in Divinity.

The characteristic fauna of your native Australia shows an ability to leap incredible distances; but no member of that genus can fitly symbolize your leap of the spirit, regardless of distance and difference, by which you have come directly into the heart of New York and into the hearts of New Yorkers. Pastor, preacher, lover and explorer of the soul of man, the well-spring of your Christianity overflows sectarian as well as geographical boundaries, and that to the refreshment of those who come within its influence.

Edwin Markham—A poet born, not made, who has voiced the aspiration of the toiling multitude, is presented for the degree of Doctor of Literature.

You and I cannot meet each other face to face without an inrush of recollections from the later days of the nineteenth century. At that time we were working together in California on a concrete and absorbing problem in education. I soon found that your educational practice had wings, and with the appearance of "the man with a hoe" you flew away to world-wide fame and a literary career here in New York. I have followed after you to this city of tall towers and living poetry, and now I am tempting your Pegasus with a pan of academic oats to come and join the educational world again, at least for this morning hour. You were a poet of America before your "Lincoln" was written, but with that memorable ode your fame became more than ever linked with the American tradition. With something of Lincoln in your spirit, you became for this generation preeminently our Lincoln's poetic interpreter. Academician without aloofness from the world, friend of mankind, one homely verse of yours will live alongside of your more formal compositions:

He drew a circle and left me out,
Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout.
But love and I had the wit to win,
We drew a circle, and took him in.

Thornton Wilder—Graduate of Yale University in the class of '20, incumbent of its classical fellowship in Rome, author of "The Cabala" and "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," is presented for the degree of Doctor of Literature.

Your survey of mankind has gone as far as Peru, from Rome and the Aegean to Peru. It has gone a great deal further in the wide range of the human spirit. The report you have brought back has the clarity, the strength, the native sweetness of the song of our own woodthrush. You have not only given high enjoyment in the reading of what you have written, you have given new hope and confidence in our outlook upon the future of American fiction. Novelist, classicist, dramatist.

Thomas Cochran—A graduate of Yale University who has attained eminence not only as a financier but also by worthy accomplishment in the realm of commerce, industrial development and philanthropy, is presented for the degree of Doctor of Letters.

Grandson of New York University, since your father was one of its honored graduates, we covet you in a closer relationship. Conspicuous as you are in the financial world, we greet you here as a fellow-member of the educational world. In your filial devotion to Phillips Andover Academy and Yale University you have acted not only as a generous patron but also as an attentive student of education, seeking to know the best and promote the best that such historic establishments can contribute to American life. From this central interest your thought has gone out to the wider range and responsibility of our American society in the improvement of the condition of the poor and the larger educational activities related thereto.

Herbert Putnam—Graduate of Harvard; jurist, author; consecrated to the companionship of books; for more than thirty years Librarian of Congress, is presented for the degree of Doctor of Letters.

When I first went to you some thirty years ago I bore a letter from an old-time Western Senator. He had assured me that if it was a position I was seeking, he could not help me, for under the new librarian appointments must come through the Civil Service Commission. Before presenting the letter I presented myself as an unknown citizen and seeker after knowledge. Within a quarter of an hour I found all the resources of the library at my disposal, and, as to the old-time Senator's letter, I can only say that when it was produced it did no harm. In the intervening years you have led our American Congress to an enviable position as patron of the higher studies in letters and the social arts and sciences. In so doing you have accomplished three notable results: You have heightened the prestige of the Congress by interpreting its cultural aims at their best; you have made in Washington a focus of American scholarship in which every educational institution in the land is participant and beneficiary; you have helped incalculably toward the making of that strong support of democratic institutions, the American practice of library administration. The human interest which you have added to all of these achievements is as unforgettable as it is inexpressible. Who would not rather sit with you at your round-table there in Washington than be a legandary hero of old Camelot?

Charles Francis Adams—Inheritor of a name made illustrious by patriotic service; graduate of Harvard, cum laude; scholar, jurist, executive, diplomat; Secretary of the Navy of the United States of America, is presented for the degree of Doctor of Laws.

I have done my best to characterize you as yourself alone, without reference to that illustrious lineage the weight of which you bear so lightly. But the endeavor is in vain. It is rendered doubly impossible by the appearance of James Truslow Adams's notable book on the Adams Family which has come from the press within the past week. The Adams paradox, which has had so great a part in our history, reappears and does its perfect work in you. Invincible individuality in unbroken continuity, tenacious loyalty to everlasting principle joined with a personal independence which defies classification. America has somewhat of the same paradox, but not enough of it. Harvard has a good deal of it. No wonder that you served your Harvard with such conspicuous fidelity as her treasurer for thirty years and more. Your highly original approach to the civilian headship of the American Navy was through victory in the sportsmanship of the sea. Now you have come back to us from London, where the Adams diplomacy has been known for four generations, and with you has come a treaty, in the making of which you have had a part of your own. Heaven grant that our Senate may ratify that treaty without delay!

For what you have been and what you have done and, most of all, for what you are.

Two others received honorary degrees during the year. They were General John Joseph Pershing, Doctor of Military Science, and Myrom Charles Taylor, Doctor of Commercial Science. Commander Richard E. Byrd is to receive the degree of Doctor of Engineering when he returns to New York from the South Pole. It will be presented in special convocation.

Yesterday's proceedings were broadcast by WOR.

ASSERTS EXPANSION IS COLLEGE EVIL

Dr. Hamilton Holt Tells Buffalo Graduates It Confuses Greatness With Bigness.

OPPOSES RESEARCH 'MANIA'

Dr. J. N. Evans of Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital Receives Lucien Howe Medal.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 11 (AP).—The three besetting sins of American college and university life, according to President Hamilton Holt of Rollins College, commencement speaker at the University of Buffalo today, are "the insatiable impulse to expand materially, the glorification of research at the expense of teaching and the lack of human contact between teacher and student."

Outstanding among the special honors conferred at the commencement exercises was the award of the Lucien Howe Medal in opthalmology to Dr. J. N. Evans, director of research and chief of the eye clinic of the Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital.

Dr. Holt said that expansion might have some justification as a means to an end, "but as the end itself it is a delusion, for it is nothing but a confusion of greatness with bigness. More students—the first result of an expansion program—do not necessarily mean better students."

Admitting certain advantages in "mere numbers," he pointed out that "as the enrolment multiplies the ratio of the individual student to the whole tends to approximate a cipher."

"Happily, the realization seems to be growing," he said, "that there are other measures of success besides the rate of expansion. Consequently a few institutions are already beginning to limit enrolment. But, although the menace of wholesale growth is finally being appreciated, another virus, the research mania, continues to thrive and to receive encouragement."

Dr. Holt declared that there are two types of professors. "The one derives his chief inspiration from learning, the other from life; the one goes in for research, the other for teaching.

"Strangely enough, the teacher-professors, the men who are primarily interested in teaching students rather than subjects, are usually not the ones who win promotions or calls from other colleges. Yet it is these rare souls who make the real impressions on the students," he said.

Dealing with what he termed the weaknesses of the recitation system of teaching, he said that "if the recitation system is bad, the lecture system is worse.

"It assumes that what one man has perhaps taken a lifetime to acquire, succeeding only by dint of painstaking observation, long continued reflection and possibly the use of his creative imagination, can be relayed or spoon-fed to another who has not gone through a like process."

VANGUARD OF ALUMNI ARRIVES AT PRINCETON

Father and Two Sons Land Here From India to Join Their Classes at Reunions.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 11.—The class of 1905 remained today the vanguard of Princeton's alumni classes returning for the reunions of the 183d commencement week, which officially begins Friday.

Arrivals at the 1905 headquarters in Thomson Hall today included Charles E. Scribner of New York City, chairman of the reunion committee. Norman Thomas of New York City, Socialist candidate for President in 1928, will arrive on Friday, while Karl Thompson and his two sons of Allahabad, India, have landed in this country and are expected here soon. Thompson will be a prominent contender for the cup annually given to the alumnus who comes the longest distance to his class reunion.

Three other alumni from a long distance who are expected soon are Lawrence Tweedy of London, Mellick Tweedy of Guayaquil, Ecuador, and Irwin McNeice, Philippine Islands.

A buffet supper tomorrow night at the home of Andrew C. Imbrie, secretary of the class, is the first event scheduled for the class of 1895. The reunion tent of the class of 1910 will open tomorrow night at 31 University Place.

The class of 1915 will begin its activities tomorrow. Headquarters will be established in the frame house between the Cottage Club and the Stadium.

West Pointers Get Auto Licenses.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 11 (AP).—Sixty-six members of the graduating class at West Point, came here today to receive licenses as automobile operators. No one flunked in the tests which were given individually.

CARDINAL SEES ERA AS OVER-SCIENTIFIC

Tells 515 Fordham Graduates Education Today Develops a Mechanical Civilization.

MATERIALISM IS DECRIED

Dr. Taaffe, in Main Address, Asserts Our Age Is Under Spiritual Blight Where Money Alone Is Goal.

Education, however thoroughly scientific, is incomplete and unsatisfactory and makes for a mechanical civilization, Cardinal Hayes told more than 500 graduates of Fordham at the commencement exercises held yesterday afternoon on the university campus. The Cardinal, who presided, spoke of the necessity of a deeper teaching in "a world so far adrift from Christ."

Dr. Thomas Gaffney Taaffe, who delivered the main address, declared that never has the world been deeper immersed in materialism and never has education been so regarded as a mere means for making money.

Dr. Taaffe, who graduated from Fordham in 1890, is Professor of English at the College of the City of New York and head of the Department of English at the College of Mount St. Vincent.

"Our age," said Dr. Taaffe, "is characterized by a spiritual darkness that is unique in the history of Christendom. We seem to have lost all sense of values. Time was when education connoted the search for knowledge, for beauty, for culture and especially that supernatural beauty that is the soul of culture. Now education, we are told, is merely the process of fitting a man for his place in the world, or, to translate the thought into blunter phrase, fitting him to make money."

"Today," he said, "the material has completely overshadowed the spiritual. We see it in the worship of material things, the greed for possessions and the indifference to the means by which they are acquired. Man has come to the fulfillment of that destiny that was foreshadowed for him centuries ago by the pagan poet when he pictured the companions of Ulysses changed into swine by the enchantment of Circe."

The only remedy in this age of "the final surrender of every decent aspiration, the wallowing in filth that is characteristic," he concluded, is an education that inculcates religion and morality.

The exercises were opened by the Rev. William J. Duane, S. J., rector of Fordham University. Six honorary degrees, three of Laws and three of Letters, were conferred upon Albert Conway, State Commissioner of Insurance; Mrs. Antonio C. Gonzales, Mother M. Suso, O. P., Mgr. John T. Slattery, Thomas G. Taaffe and the Rev. John J. Wynne, S. J.

The diplomas and degrees for 515 graduates were presented by Fathers Miles O'Mailia, Charles J. Dean and Matthew Fortier of the university faculty.

SETON HALL COLLEGE GIVES DEGREES TO 73

Dr. J. F. Haggerty of Newark and E. J. Sweeney of Bayonne Receive Honorary Law Titles.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., June 11.—Seventy-three degrees in course and two honorary degrees were awarded here today at the seventy-fourth commencement of Seton Hall College. The address to the graduates was given by Dr. James Francis Haggerty, Newark physician and surgeon, who received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Edward Joseph Sweeney, principal of Bayonne High School, also received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

The salutatory was given by John Thomas Madden, and the valedictorian was Eugene Victor Higgins. The candidates for degrees were presented by the Rev. James A. Hamilton, vice president of Seton Hall College, and the degrees were conferred and the awards presented by the Right Rev. Dr. Thomas H. McLaughlin, president of the college.

The following medals and honors were awarded:

'OLD GRADS' REVIEW WEST POINT CADETS

General Charles E. King, Class of '67, Heads Veteran Officers Present for Commencement.

GUN SALVO GREETS HURLEY

Secretary of War Arrives With Party of New Yorkers on William Todd's Yacht.

20 GRADUATES ARE TO WED

One in Hospital With Broken Leg May Be Married There in Ceremony Tomorrow.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

WEST POINT, June 11.—Under a smiling sun veterans of the World and Spanish-American Wars and some who bore scars of almost forgotten engagements with Indians when the redmen roamed the plains gathered here today as the hour approached when 241 cadets, members of the graduating class of the West Point Military Academy, are to receive their commissions in the army. The ceremony will take place at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, with Secretary Hurley officiating.

The reservation was alive with color and visitors in preparation for the event to which the young men have looked forward throughout four years of rigid training and hard discipline.

A salute of nineteen guns marked the opening of today's exercises, when at 10:30 o'clock in the morning Mr. Hurley came ashore from William Todd's yacht Salemo. With him were Colonel Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank and Trust Company of New York; Frank Taylor, New York Commissioner of Public Welfare; Casey Jones, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright Airplane Company; Philip Hoyt, First Deputy Police Commissioner of New York, and Major Doe Dalton, aide to Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commandant of the Second Corps Area.

The group was met by Colonel R. C. Richardson, commandant of the post, and escorted up from the river bank by a detachment of cavalry. The streets of the reservation were thronged with automobiles and with cadets and their parents, relatives and sweethearts.

Old Classes Greet Hurley.

Members of the classes of 1885, 1905, 1920 and 1925, which are holding reunion, formed before Cullum Hall to greet the Secretary and his party.

To the blare of cornets and trombones and the roll of drums of the military academy band, they marched, 500 strong, to the base of the statue of Colonel Sylvanus Thayer, "father of West Point Academy," where, after prayer by the Rev. A. B. Kinsolving, academy chaplain, Colonel Richardson read the names of graduates who had died during the past year. The list included Lieutenant Bert Muse, member of the Army football team, and of Stanley Ayre, lacrosse captain, both of whom died in aviation accidents.

Chaplain Kinsolving laid a wreath at the foot of the statue.

With the Secretary of War watching from the balcony of the cadet mess hall, the "old grads" then reviewed the cadet corps, which marched out across the parade ground with the precision for which it is famous.

Some of the alumni, worn with age and wizened by sun and wind in campaigns of manyy years ago, offered a sharp contrast to the trim and stalwart youths in their starch-white trousers and brass-buttoned gray coats.

General King Is Oldest "Grad"

The names of those in the reviewing line suggested a military history of the past sixty years. Oldest among them was General Charles C. King of the class of 1866. Alert despite his years, he stood with the traditional West Point posture, shoulders square and chin back as the cadet choir of 170 voices sang "The Corps" and "Alma Mater." In his lapels were the blue rosette of the Congressional Medal of Honor and the campaign badge of the Indian wars. He fought the Apaches at Stauffer's Butte and Black Mesa and in the engagement at Sunset Pass, Ariz., in 1874, was severely wounded. He was in command of a brigade in the Spanish-American War.

Among other veterans who with mixed feelings watched the cadets swing by were General Mason M. Patrick, former chief of the air service; General Andrew Hero Jr., former chief of the coast artillery, whose son is a member of the corps; General John L. Chamberlain, former Inspector General; General Samuel E. Tillman, former superintendent of the academy, and Generals Herbert Deakyne, Johnson Hagood, E. S. Godfrey, J. Pitman, J. E. Kuhn, W. A. Holbrook, C. H. Muir, C. McK. Salzman, F. M. Caldwell and Hugh L. Scott.

Among the "old timers" there was a note of sadness as word spread of the sudden death last evening of Colonel J. M. Andrews, who collapsed just after arriving at the Post Hospital to ask for treatment because he was "not feeling well." His class, that of 1890, was holding a reunion dinner at Newburgh at the hour of his death.

Plebes Assert New Rights.

As far as the cadets themselves were concerned the most important event of the day was the graduation parade, when the entire graduating class reviewed the next of the corps. No less for the first-year men or plebes than for the youths who tomorrow are to become army officers, it was a momentous occasion for the fourth-year men. It meant the last formation as cadets.

For the plebes it marked the end of ignominy and assorted forms of oppression at the hands of upper classmen. No longer were they slaves to pop at bid and call and take abuse in silence. At the end of the parade they gathered in the sallyports and asserted their new position in the traditional manner, making remarks such as would hitherto have brought misery upon them.

The upper classmen responded by shaking their hands and greeting the plebes, who have now entered upon the dignity of second-year men, as friends and nearly as equal.

The fourth-year men also marked the occasion with ritual. In their case it was the throwing away of their cadet caps.

Other events which added to the color of the occasion included the dedication of memorial windows in the post chapel. Representatives of the class of 1905, which presented a window several years ago to the class of 1805, unveiled a memorial today to the class of 1905. On behalf of the graduating class memorial windows were dedicated to the classes of 1840 and 1930.

The alumni met at luncheon. During the afternoon the members of the graduating class were guests of honor at a reception. The graduation dance of "hope" was held tonight in Cullom Hall.

Twenty Are to Be Married.

About twenty of the graduating men have additional cause for celebrating in that in the netx two or three days their weddings, forbidden while undergraduates, are to take place.

Nine of the ceremonies will be held in the chapels on the post. The plans for one of these, however, were disrupted by an accident yesterday. The victim was Cadet Paul Russell Weyrauch, son of Brig. Gen. Paul S. Weyrauch of the Washington State National Guard. His knee was broken from a kick by a passing horse in the final equestrian exhibition of his cadet career.

Cadet Weyrauch was to have married on Friday Miss Lucy Hodges-Mercer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Mercer of Shreveport, La., and niece of Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aide to the President and former commandant of cadets here. The wedding had been looked forward to as a brilliant social event.

Whether or not it would be postponed or would take place beside young Weyrauch's hospital cot has not been determined.

Minnesota Co-ed Is Graduated Despite Failure as a Swimmer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 11 (AP).—Mary Humphrey has been graduated after all.

The University of Minnesota co-ed who seemed about to be deprived of her diploma because she couldn't swim 106 feet, float and dive from the side of the college's swimming pool, has received her degree because Dean Melvin E. Haggerty of the College of Education relented.

Dean Haggerty felt Miss Humphrey should receive her degree after the publicity she received, which he severely criticized. She passed in all her studies, but failed to meet the requirements for swimming, demanded of all women graduates.

DECRIES FRATERNITY KEYS.

Georgia Tech Head Addresses Builders' Convention at Biloxi.

BILOXI, Miss., June 11 (AP).—Members of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, in convention here today, heard Dr. Martin L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, say in an address today:

"If you want to be a success in life, drop your fraternity key down a well, work hard to become editor of the school paper, captain of the football team, president of your class, leader of college dramatics, be popular on the campus and cultivate your personality."

Advantages of the tower type of construction in large cities were considered today by the association, with the belief expressed that "towers are here to stay" and in the future will be more efficient and economical.

ROCKEFELLER JR. TO SPEAK.

Will Address Dartmouth Graduates, Including His Son.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., June 11.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. of New York City will deliver the main address at the commencement luncheon of the Dartmouth senior class on Monday.

The luncheon will mark the last time that the seniors will gather informally as a group, and in addition to Mr. Rockefeller, President Hopkins, Thomas Flint of the class of 1880 and Clarence McDavitt, president of the Alumni Association, will speak.

Mr. Rockefeller, whose son, Nelson, graduates this year, will speak on behalf of the parents of the graduating class members.

CLERGY ASK CHURCH TO ESCHEW POLITICS

Spokesmen of Three Faiths Agree That State Functions Should Be Let Alone.

REGARD DIVORCE AS EVIL

Episcopal, Methodist and Presbyterians Reach Unanimity on Points on Which They Had Differed.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11.—Complete separation of Church and State is urged in the report of the Joint Conference of Churchmen, issued here today after the delegates had spent three days discussing church unity. The Protestant Episcopal Church, the Methodist Church North and the Presbyterian Church were represented.

"We find complete agreement," said the report, "upon the importance of the separation of Church and State as guaranteed in the Constitution of the United States. We find the common conviction that the Church of Christ has a definite responsibility to guide the conscience of individual Christians and a corporate responsibility to endeavor to infuse through society the principles of God's will. Utterances of the highest representative bodies in our several communions reveal a common conviction that the function of the Church is not to goven or seek to govern political action, but to further the influence of Christian principles upon society."

The conference was called, on invitation of the Episcopal Church, to straighten out ancient differences. The conclusions on this subject were outlined in the report as follows:

"In the matters coming before us for consideration, we find ourselves and the communions we represent in their formal pronouncement in substantial agreement.

"So far as other than theological and ecclesiastical factors were causes of the original separation of the bodies we represent, we are agreed that they are no longer operative in any such degree as to block the way to an organic unity.

"Our three communions are as one in recognizing the authority of the Church to teach and guide individuals in the development of Christian life, and to exercise discipline in cases of violation of the fundamental precepts of that life. We find that in all three communions the tendency is obvious to substitute for such discipline as ex-communication the methods of love, persuasion and voluntary penance as being more expressive of our Lord's teachings.

"In comparing pronouncement on attitudes or laws of our communions upon some more important moral questions of the day, we discover:

"Entire unanimity of judgment upon the importance of the Christian home and the meaning of the Christian marriage as the lifelong union of a man and a woman. We find complete agreement in the recognition of the evil of divorce and are all humbly and seriously striving to find the mind of Christ and to follow it in legislating upon this serious matter.

"In regard to international peace, with varying emphasis as inevitable, all of our communions have made pronouncements concerning the importance of the law-governed world. All are agreed in the desire to find a substitute for war in the settlement of international disputes."

CARDINAL HAYES SAYS NATION'S FAITH GROWS

Churches Used More Than Ever, He Tells 54 Graduates of Cathedral College.

Cardinal Hayes declared that America is a religious country and that the churches are being used more than ever despite the many outside distractions, in an address last night to the fifty-four members of the graduating class of Cathedral College, who will enter St. Joseph's Seminary at Dunwoodie, in Westchester County, this Fall to study for the priesthood.

The graduating exercises were held in the Cathedral High School, Lexington Avenue and Fiftieth Street. Cardinal Hayes presented the diplomas.

The Cardinal Hayes Medal for general excellence was awarded to Jeremiah J. Brennan, with Joseph E. O'Brien receiving honorable mention; the Cardinal Farley Memorial Gold Medal for scholarship through the entire course was won by Francis F. Reh, with John J. Voight receiving honorable mention, and the Oratorical Gold Medal, presented by the Alumni Association, went to Harry J. Wolff, with John J. Voight receiving honorable mention.

DEGREE TO CLAUDE BOWERS

University of South Carolina Honors Editor for Book.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 11 (AP).—Claude G. Bowers, editorial writer for The New York Evening World, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the graduation exercises of the University of South Carolina today.

Dr. D. M. Douglas, president of the university, said the award was made in recognition of Mr. Bowers's book, "The Tragic Era."

The degree of Doctor of Laws was also conferred upon William R. Shepperd, professor in Columbia University.

Mr. Bowers delivered the commencement address.

Boston College Awards.

BOSTON, June 11 (AP).—Boston College awarded the largest number of degrees in its history today at its fifty-third commencement when it gave 332 degrees.

NEW STATE COLLEGE SUGGESTED IN JERSEY

Rockefeller Foundation to Be Asked to Study Need for Medical School at Rutgers.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11.—The broadcasting of health talks is one of the most effective means of counteracting the "dangerous outpouring of quackery," declared Dr. Henry O. Reik of this city, executive secretary of the Medical Society of New Jersey, the oldest organization of its kind in the country, at the opening of its 164th annual meeting at Haddon Hall today.

"Whether or not New Jersey is to be congratulated upon not having a medical college is a mooted question," he said. "Some of us have looked on the absence of such an institution as beneficial to the State and the medical profession, while others have felt that conditions might be improved by such a central organization around which to rally.

"Recently we were approached by a representative of Rutgers University with the suggestion that this matter be carefully and thoroughly investigated.

"As the result of further conference with President McBride of this society, it was agreed to request the trustees of this society to appoint a delegate to join with a delegate from Rutgers and one from the Board of Regents of New Jersey in the preparation of an appeal, and its presentation to the Rockefeller Foundation asking that body to make an investigation as to whether it appears desirable to establish a medical school in association with the State university."

The nominating committee recommended the election of Dr. George N. J. Sommer of Trenton as president, to succeed Dr. Andrew F. McBride of Paterson.

NO LITHUANIA PROTEST.

Consul Here Says His Country Did Not Act Regarding Tariff.

Lithuania made no diplomatic representations to the Department of State through her Minister at Washington on the pending tariff schedules, Paul Zadeikis, Consul General for Lithuania, said yesterday at the final session of the Lithuanian-American Economic Conference, held at the Hotel Governor Clinton, here.

He explained that the reason why his country had not followed the action of others in this respect, was due to the fact that Lithuanian exports to the United States totaled only about half a million dollars, consisting of wood pulp valued at about $289,000 and hides valued at about $150,000. These items, he said, were not affected by the proposed tariff.

O. G. Marell, secretary of the Swedish Chamber of Commerce of the United States, spoke at the luncheon for the delegates and the Lithuanian Minister to the United States, Bronius Balutis, addressed the afternoon session.

WESTCHESTER CAST APPEARS IN PAGEANT

"Spirit of Mamaroneck" Depicts Purchase of Town From Two Indians in 1641.

350 VILLAGERS TAKE PART

Prizes Are Awarded at the County Progress Exhibit in the Garden Clubs' Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 11.—More than 5,000 persons applauded "The Spirit of Mamaroneck," a pageant with a cast of 350 persons presented tonight at the Westchester progress exposition under the direction of the Mamaroneck Lions Club.

The pageant depicted the history of the Sound shore village. James Fenimore Cooper, played by S. Charles Hanna, saw depicted scenes from his famous books. The purchase of the town from the Indians, Wompoquem and Manhattan, by John Richbell, in 1661, was also depicted. Kingsley Lloyd, Oreste Poccia and Walter Cornell were principal characters in this scene.

The pageant was written by Marguerite Moody and directed by Edward Story, Charles Gaa, Joseph Acampora and Lucia Ernest.

The program was presented today by the communities on the shore of Long Island Sound. Participants included the Davenport dancers of Port Chester, the girls' athletic team of the Purchase Community House, and the Pelham High School Band under the direction of A. J. Frogans.

The hostesses for the exhibit of the women's clubs of the county were:

LARCHMONT—Mrs. Adam Dabrowski, Mrs. L. H. Taylor, Mrs. John Holby.
PORTCHESTER—Miss Elizabeth Goodman, Mrs. Fred Sherwood.
MAMARONECK—Mrs. R. B. Kingsley, Mrs. W. H. Kirchner, Mrs. G. H. Van Buren.
HARRISON—Mrs. Oscar Berg, Mrs. Alfred J. Mordey.

The garden club competitions were conducted under the direction of Mrs. Albert D. Frost, Westchester County chairman of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State. For the arrangement of flowers suitable for a formal dinner table with no accessories Mrs. J. O'Reilly, Mamaroneck Garden Club, was awarded first place; Mrs. Steven Viele, John Burroughs Garden Club of Yonkers, second, and Mrs. Thomas G. Davis of Tarrytown, third. Honorable mention was given to Mrs. H. Earle Dickenson and Mrs. James Campbell of the White Plains Garden Club.

For the artistic arrangement of flowers combined with branches of flowering shrubs in wicker baskets Miss Nellie Kuh of the New Rochelle Garden Club was awarded first place, Mrs. James Albert Campbell, president of the White Plains Garden Club, second; Mrs. E. C. King, Larchmont Garden Club, third, and honorable mention to Mrs. L. S. Frank, Larchmont Garden Club, and Mrs. J. O'Reilly, Mamaroneck Garden Club.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH YOUR BODY

THOUSANDS of people have simply drifted into the habitual use of laxatives without realizing how dependent upon them their bodies were becoming. Be warned. Laxatives cause upsetting changes in the system. That is why it is so dangerous to use them regularly — even those that seem mild at first.

Don't drift into habits you will surely regret. The safest plan is not to take laxatives except under your doctor's supervision. Only a physician can tell when you need a laxative and what laxative you need.

If you are inclined to be sluggish, you can safely take Squibb's Liquid Petrolatum. It is not a laxative but a harmless lubricant. Doctors universally approve it for general use in combating constipation. It doesn't form habits. Doesn't build fat. It will help you overcome the laxative habit.

Get Squibb's Liquid "Pet" from any druggist. The name Squibb is important. For Squibb's Liquid "Pet" is entirely odorless and tasteless.

"Scenery Unlimited on the Scenic Limited"

—so say seasoned travelers to and from Colorado, Utah and California on the famous rail route thru the HEART of the Scenic West. Overnight from St. Louis, the Scenic Limited reaches Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver. Going on, it passes thru the incomparable Royal Gorge—up the Grand Canyon of the Arkansas River, across the Continental Divide, down the Canyon of the Colorado River, past Castle Gate, into picturesque and historic Utah.

A brief stop in Salt Lake City without change of sleeper permits you to enjoy a noonday organ recital in the Mormon Tabernacle. You then cross, by rail, Great Salt Lake and glittering white miles of huge salt beds before you reach the high Sierras and then—follow the gold rush trail of "forty-niners" down the beautiful Feather River Canyon—and cross California to the blue Pacific—third day out from St. Louis.

TWO FAST TRAINS DAILY

In addition to improving the schedule of the popular year 'round Scenic Limited, another fast train—The Westerner—will be placed in operation June 22 from St. Louis to The West.

CAPTAIN IS ACCUSED AFTER CRASH AT SEA

By F. RAYMOND DANIELL.

trol with a few ships standing by than with just the wide open sea."

Captain Brooks asserted, according to Captain Lyons, that Mr. McNeill instructed him to send a message to the company offices in code instead of broadcasting an S O S.

The log indicated, the inspector said, that the Fairfax heard the warning siren of the Pinthis, fog obscured, at 6:57. The crash came at 7:05 Standard Time. Yet Captain Lyons said he believed a fair compilation of the speed of the Fairfax would show she was proceeding at ten knots an hour when she struck the Pinthis. The ship's full speed is twelve knots an hour.

Injured Brought to Port.

The injured were brought into port by the Gloucester, one of the fleet to which the Fairfax belonged. With them came the more fortunate ones who had escaped the searing flames which enveloped the forward port side of the passenger ship after the tanker, owned by the Lake Tankers Corporation of Fall River, exploded and shot blazing gasoline into the air to fall "like an umbrella of flame" on and alongside the Fairfax.

From these harried souls, who had escaped bodily injury, stark-eyed from the grizzly sights they had seen, the first details of the tragedy of the sea were learned. The stories they told were conflicting in may respects. All seemed on the verge of hysteria, except for a few marines and sailors who chanced to be on board and who seemingly remained calm throughout the chaos which followed the crash, and while men and women, some aflame, were leaping from the burning ship into a burning sea.

Some of the passengers denounced Captain Brooks and the crew of the Fairfax. Others praised the personnel of the ship for their bravery and coolness in the crisis. United States steamboat inspectors will seek tomorrow when they open their formal investigation to learn the true facts of the disaster, the worst since the Lamport & Holt liner Vestris sank off Cape Hatteras, more than a year ago. Frederick H. Tarr, United States Attorney, meanwhile was collecting the stories of witnesses with a view to possible criminal action.

A few passengers alleged that the ship's officers made no effort to calm their hysterical charges or guide their actions in the emergency. Other travelers told of members of the crew snatching at life belts and one passenger asserted that a group of panic-stricken sailors and Negro stewards rushed at a lifeboat full of people and started to attack them with hatchets.

This latter story probably was induced more by hysteria than fact, for the ship's officers explained that when one of the lifeboats was about to be lowered the falls had jammed and sailors with hatchets had been sent to chop it free.

Flames Envelop Deck.

The collision occurred about 9 o'clock last night. The Fairfax had left its pier in the harbor and was nosing across Massachusetts Bay through the fog, her engines throttled down to six knots an hour and her siren shrieking through the impenetrable fog. Suddenly there was a crash. It was followed by an explosion and a volcanic burst of fire that spread as it rose like a canopy of flame.

It fell on the port side of the Fairfax forward. Passengers who had been standing there, straining their eyes for the red and green lights that mark the opening end of the Cape Cod Canal, found themselves suddenly afire.

The whole port side of the ship burst into fire a moment later, and as the passengers ran aft and to starboard in panic the sea flared up in flames, the gasoline from the explosion-rent tanker rising to the surface and catching fire.

The tanker never was seen again, nor was the searchlight of the blazing, stricken Fairfax able to pick up any of her crew or locate any of their bodies. Later, when her boats were lowered over the starboard side, where the absence of fire made it possible, the searchers had no better fortune.

Even tonight it had not been definitely established that the sunken tanker was the Pinthis, although her failure to be sighted or to report her position made it seem fairly certain that it was she. The Pinthis passed through Cape Cod Canal into the bay early last evening, and was known to have been somewhere near the spot.

Leap Into Flaming Sea.

What followed immediately after the collision was a scene of terror such as only the combination of fire and water can produce. Screams of the injured mingled with the shouts of the officers giving commands. Some of the crew and possibly some of the passengers ran helter-skelter about the decks, men leaped overboard in their momentary madness, leaving possible safety for almost certain death in the blazing waters that licked the hull of the Fairfax. Fourteen members of the crew of the Fairfax and eleven men and women passengers jumped.

Two who took this course, however, managed to save themselves by swimming, their lungs almost bursting, under the surface for more than 200 feet until they had cleared the blazing patch of water. Near them when they came to the surface was a lifeboat. It had been set afire by the blazing waves through which it had floated, but they swam to it and helped put out the blaze before it rendered the craft unseaworthy.

In that they floated about for hours until they were picked up in a fishing boat and brought half dead to Boston late this afternoon. These two men, J. V. Eubank and Joseph Coker, members of the crew, staggered into the company's office late in the afternoon just after they had been given up for lost.

Eleven Bodies Brought In.

The fishing schooner Rainbow came into port this afternoon with the bodies of seven men, two women and a baby. A squat little craft, bound for Georges Banks, the schooner sighted the blazing oil and shifted her course toward it. The bodies were found floating in a lane about two miles long.

Late tonight five of them were identified as those of Miss Mary Craven of Boston, Mrs. William J. Meagher of Milton, Lieutenant and Mrs. Mulvanity and their child, of Nashua, N. H.

One woman died on the trip up the bay on the Gloucester and another died in Carney Hospital this afternoon from burns received when she raced through blazing corridors in an effort to save her 14-months-old son.

SIDE OF LINER ENVELOPED BY FLAMES AFTER CRASH WITH TANKER.

The S. S. Fairfax at her pier in Boston yesterday after the collision with an oil tanker Tuesday night. The charred lifeboats and rails show the result of the sheet of fire which swept the ship on the side nearest the sinking tanker when the latter's cargo burst into flames.

Half an hour of desperate effort by members of the crew of the Fairfax and the men among her seventy-one passengers was required to get the fire, which was sweeping her rails and inflammable superstructure, under control. Three more hours were taken in beating them out. In that time the passengers huddled together trying to avoid the scorching heat. No rescue ship was standing by and, although the Fairfax carried lifeboats of steel, it was feared that disaster would follow lowering them into the sea of liquid fire that blazed about the steamer's hull.

The first sheet of flame had fused the radio antenna of the Fairfax. Two marines and John Popp, chief radio operator of the U. S. S. Childs, aided the radio operator of the Fairfax in rigging an emergency set, which was later utilized. In this as in other emergencies nearly a dozen naval officers, sailors and marines rendered invaluable aid to the passengers and officers.

No medical supplies were carried aboard the Fairfax, but the ship's nurse, Miss Dorothy Mannix of Fitchburg, and Miss Ruth Brown of Newcastle, Pa., a stewardess, aided by some of the women passengers, hurried to the galley and the dining room, corraling a tub of lard and every drop of olive oil they could find with which to treat the burns of the victims.

Some of the passengers were trapped on an upper deck which was on fire. Some were able to get down by hanging by their arms from the deck above and throwing themselves inward to the deck below.

Passengers and members of the crew assisted them. In this group was J. W. Walker, a United States Navy sailor. He had assisted several women to comparative safety when he leaned far out to seize a stout woman who was dangling at arms' length beyond reach of the lower rail.

Walker seized the woman. He teetered on his feet. Others near him reached quickly to save him, but they were not quick enough. The sailor and the woman he had tried to save plunged headlong into the blazing sea beneath them. Helpless, the witnesses to the tragedy turned their heads away. Miss Brown, the stewardess, told the story.

Rescue Ship Arrives.

So the hours passed, with a new horror every few minutes to add to the hysteria aboard. Finally, long after the fire was out and the worst danger was passed, the Gloucester came alongside. The sea was calm and it was possible to jockey the ship alongside the Fairfax on the lee side, which chanced also to be free of fire.

Then a gangplank was made to bridge the gap between the two craft lying side by side. Those who were able to do so walked across. The injured were carried over for the run to Boston.

Then the Gloucester started back, leaving the Fairfax and most of her crew to struggle back to port under her own power. The crippled ship, with a ten-foot hole in her bow on the port side, reached her pier this morning. Although the gash in her hull was near the water line, she had not made water as fast as her pumps threw it out, and it was said that she was at no time in danger of sinking.

Victims Die in Hospital.

The first to die at the Carney Hospital was Mrs. Ida Berkowitz, aged 22, of Roxbury, Mass. She was burned trying to save her 14-months-old son, M. Robert Berkowitz. A few hours afterward the child died also.

Side by side in the hospital were Mrs. Lillian Batson, aged 32, of Salem, and a Negro waiter, Julian Meares, aged 19, of Greensboro, N. C., who prevented her from leaping overboard.

Lieut. John Marsh of the navy was aboard the Fairfax with his wife. At the collision both rushed from their stateroom to the deck and the blazing oil seriously burned Mrs. Marsh, who is in the hospital now. Lieutenant Marsh was on his way to Annapolis to take a post-graduate course there. He highly praised the conduct of the officers aboard the Fairfax and said that everything was done that could have been done.

Miss Beatrice Anderson, aged 22, of Jamestown, R. I., who received serious internal burns and is on the danger list at the hospital, is the daughter of Commander L. B. Anderson of the navy.

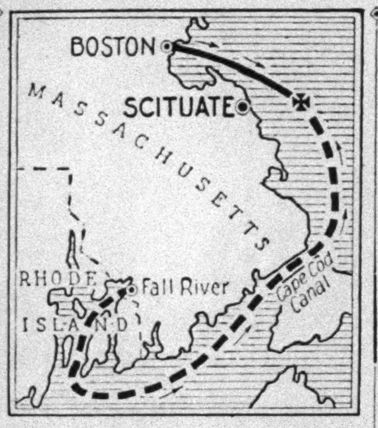
Some of the passengers recalled seeing a man and woman clutching a small child between them, leap over the rail of the Fairfax and disappear beneath the flaming waters. It was believed that this was Lieutenant S. Mulvanity and his family.

Mrs. Ann Dayton, wife of Dr. Neil A. Dayton of Waltham, was among a group of passengers trapped on the back deck forward where the fire was hottest. In the scramble that followed the explosion, with men and women, their clothes aflame, running hither and there on the deck, she lay prone in the position in which she had fallen at the impact of the two ships.

As she lay there she saw a hysterical young woman grasp the hand of a seaman and drag him over the rail to death. A moment afterward she saw the family of three plunge over the side.

The top deck was a mass of flames and her escape was cut off. Officers on the deck below implored her to swing from the rail and jump for her life. She stepped over the side and grasped the hot steel bars, but only for a moment, as the flesh of her hands was seared and she had to let go.

Below her was the sea of burning oil. She began to fall. A valiant Negro seaman of the Fairfax, whose name is known only as Redmond, caught her legs as she slid past. The momentum of her fall carried him over the side also, but two shipmates grasped him and pulled the two to the deck and safety.



The point where the crash occurred in a dense fog. The tanker was out of Fall River; the Fairfax, a coastwise liner, had sailed from Boston.

TALES OF HORROR TOLD BY SURVIVORS

Heroism and Cool-Headedness of Marines and Sailors Lauded by Passengers.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 11.—The first grim details of the tragedy which followed the collision of the Fairfax and the Pinthis were brought to this port today by survivors of the disaster.

Hysterical after a night of terror, only a few miles from shore but beyond help for hours, they told of deeds of heroism by some, and spoke of cowardice on the part of others. None had a very clear idea of the sequence of events, but in each one's mind some particular horror he had witnessed stood out above the others.

One of the most connected stories was told by D. R. McNeil, vice president of the Merchants and Miners Line, who was a passenger aboard the Fairfax. He denied the allegation of some of the passengers that Captain Brooks had failed to broadcast an S O S. One was sent, he declared, but heat from the burning oil melted the radio antenna and silenced the clicking key before the call for help could be repeated.

"I was in the music room forward," said Mr. McNeil, "about 7 P. M. [8 P. M., New York time], and a musical program was being given that was sounded by the amplifiers to all parts of the ship. I left the music room and stepped out on the deck and just as I did so there came the collision and then the explosion.

Says Explosion Came at Once.

"It may have been a minute after the collision that the explosion came, but it seemed scarcely any time at all. We struck the tanker, I should say, amidships. I didn't have time to notice whether anybody on the tanker was in sight or not. What I saw was the explosion, followed by a geyser of burning oil shooting up in the air for fifteen or twenty feet, I should say.

"I saw this mass of fiery fluid was coming toward our ship, so I jumped into my stateroom, which was on the upper deck forward, and closed the door, and by that act, I think, saved my life. The flaming oil enveloped our entire starboard side.

"The immediate thought of the officers of the Fairfax was to give battle to the flames. They ordered the ship's crew to fire quarters and went into action to extinguish the flames. Then they turned their attention to seeing that the passengers were equipped with life preservers.

Repaired Radio Antenna.

"After the fire was pretty well under control and the danger well past, the navy men and members of the crew repaired the radio antenna and then the radio man sent out a code message to the steamer Gloucester of this line, directing her to come to the assistance of the Fairfax immediately. We knew the Gloucester had been late in starting and that she must be in the vicinity of the disaster.

"As to life preservers, there were plenty of them around, but the crew had to use axes and bars to break in stateroom doors that people had locked on going out, in order to get at the life preservers inside to distribute to the passengers. So far as I know there was no panic and no altercation between any members of the crew or between members of the crew and the navy men, as has been reported by some.

"If any women had their life preservers taken from them by any of the crew, as has been alleged, I am unaware of it, and cannot explain it except as a result of panic.

"Considerable time elapsed after the message was sent to the Gloucester before that vessel arrived alongside the Fairfax. I should say it was about two hours and three-quarters. The people who jumped overboard did so on the port side. The flames did not penetrate inside the Fairfax."

A version of the disaster differing in some respects from Mr. McNeil's was told by several passengers. Sergeant A. F. Abbott of the Marine Corps, on his way to Norfolk with his wife to meet a transport that was to take them to China, said:

"I didn't see a ship's officer for the first hour after the collision. Then they seemed to be running around uselessly. The marines and sailors aboard organized a fire fighting forcer, and with the aid of other men among the passengers and some of the crew we got the fire out after three hours.

"Then I went above and found three officers whispering together. One was Captatin Brooks. I said, 'If I were the skipper of this packet, I'd go below and talk to the passengers and try to calm them. They don't know whether we're going to float or go down in the next five minutes. A lot of the women are hysterical.'

"He didn't say a word—just walked away.

"The ship should never have left her pier in that fog anyway."

Mrs. Abbott recalled that a young husband and wife with a small child who had sat near their table at dinner were on the forward deck at the time of the accident. They were not among the survivors aboard the Gloucester, she said, for she had looked over her fellow-passengers in a search for the baby face, which had haunted her.

From 5 to 15 Leaped Overboard.

From five to fifteen persons, men and women, leaped over the port rail of the burning Fairfax, according to First Sergeant Harry Hutchcroft, one of the marines aboard the ship.

"I was in my stateroom when the collision occurred," said Hutchcroft. "It was not a great crash; still you could tell something had struck.

"I ran on deck to find the port rail entirely in flames. The heat was intense. The fire extended to the rigging of the ship and to doors and windows of staterooms. The ship seemed a mass of flames.

"The antenna had burned off and several marines went aloft to fix it. The water all about the ship was aflame. Men, women and children were leaping over the side rather than be burned aboard ship.

"A man and woman with a child about 2 years old, apparently a family, all went into the water together. I suppose they were all drowned."

With Hutchcroft were Sergeants George Fansworth, John Abbott and Lester Kipp and Private E. W. McLellan.

A story of panic and heroism at sea was told by Sergeant Kipp.

"We were in our stateroom on the port side when the crash ocurred. My buddies and I went topside and found the ship surrounded by flames, and women and members of the crew running madly around the deck, some of them badly burned.

"The oil tanker was a solid blaze and the water around the two boats was a sheet of flame, with huge billows of black smoke coming from the blazing oil.

"I actually saw four persons leap over the side of the Fairfax, one wearing no life belt. Flames had enveloped them and they shrieked with agony. Maybe some of them were burned to death before they hit the water.

"Four or five nurses aboard were heroines of the tragedy. They were as good as marines any day. With an absolute disregard for their own safety, these nurses buckled down to the business of treating the burned and injured and probably saved a good many lives. They ought to get medals."

Two of the survivors at the Hotel Essex were among those who helped restore the radio antenna. They were Arthur T. Saulnier of Brockton, a marine stationed at Norfolk, Va., and Frederick Henry Jam of Quincy, a naval enlisted man. Both were bound for Norfolk, Saulnier after two weeks leave spent at home.

"A panic broke out on the starboard side of the liner," Saulnier said. "I cannot praise too highly the lady attendants of the Fairfax. They were very cool and calm and consoled the women passengers. They did even greater work than the men, in my opinion.

"Fire sent sparks across the deck to the port side and ignited ropes holding the port side lifeboats, burning them and making them useless. My chum and I assisted passengers into the lifeboat and lowered them half way to the water in the event they would have to be put into the water.

"In the meantime the radio antenna fell. We both rushed to the pilot house, got the radio operator and put back in place the antenna as best we could so messages could be sent out. This was our first disaster and it certainly was a harrowing experience."

Denounces Officers and Crew.

Edward J. Cullen, chief quartermaster of the plane carrier Lexington, who was on his way back to Norfolk to rejoin his ship, was strong in his denunciation of the officers and crew of the Fairfax.

"I did not see the captain of the Fairfax on the bridge at the time of the accident, nor did I see him on the deck.

"I was on the forward deck when the crash came. Five marines, two civilians, Farrell and myself were the ones who put out the fire.

"There may have been one or two of the ship's crew, but not more. There was no discipline. Everybody seemed lost."

Two Washington Girls Saved.

Two Washington girls who have been spending part of their vacation here were among the survivors. At the Hotel Essex Sara Poynton and Iona Browne told their story as follows:

"We were bound for Norfolk, Va., and home. We were in the reading room at the time of the crash. We felt something was wrong, but didn't know exactly what. In a moment a ship's attendant came into the room and placed life-preservers on us and ordered us to stay inside.

"A few minutes later another attendant came down and escorted us to the deck. There was great confusion there in the darkness.

"The lady attendants of the Fairfax did wonderful work. When the rescue ship arrived we were taken from the lifeboats and transferred. This is our first accident and we hope it is the last."

FAIRFAX A MODERN CRAFT.

Tanker Victim Was Carrying High Test Gasoline.

BOSTON, June 11 (AP).—The steamship Fairfax, which rammed and sank the tanker Pinthis is one of a fleet of five sister ships of the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Company. She was put in service in September, 1926, has a length over all of 363 feet, a beam of 52 feet and is of 5,600 gross tons.

Built especially for passenger service, but also carrying freight, the Fairfax is one of the latest transatlantic type. During the Winter she sailed between Baltimore and Florida points.

The Pinthis was loaded with a full cargo of 504,000 gallons of high test gasoline, Captain Fred M. Gower, superintendent of the marine division of the Lake Tankers' Corporation of Fall River, owners of the vessel, said tonight.

In his opinion, sparks flying from the plates of both vessels ignited the gasoline released from the tanker by the impact.

List of the Dead and Injured in Disaster When the Fairfax and Pinthis Crashed

FLAMES RIDE THE SEA 20 HOURS AFTERWARD

Oil-Fed Fire Field, Tossing Eerily in Mists, Is Peril to Coastwise Shipping.

Special to The New York Times.

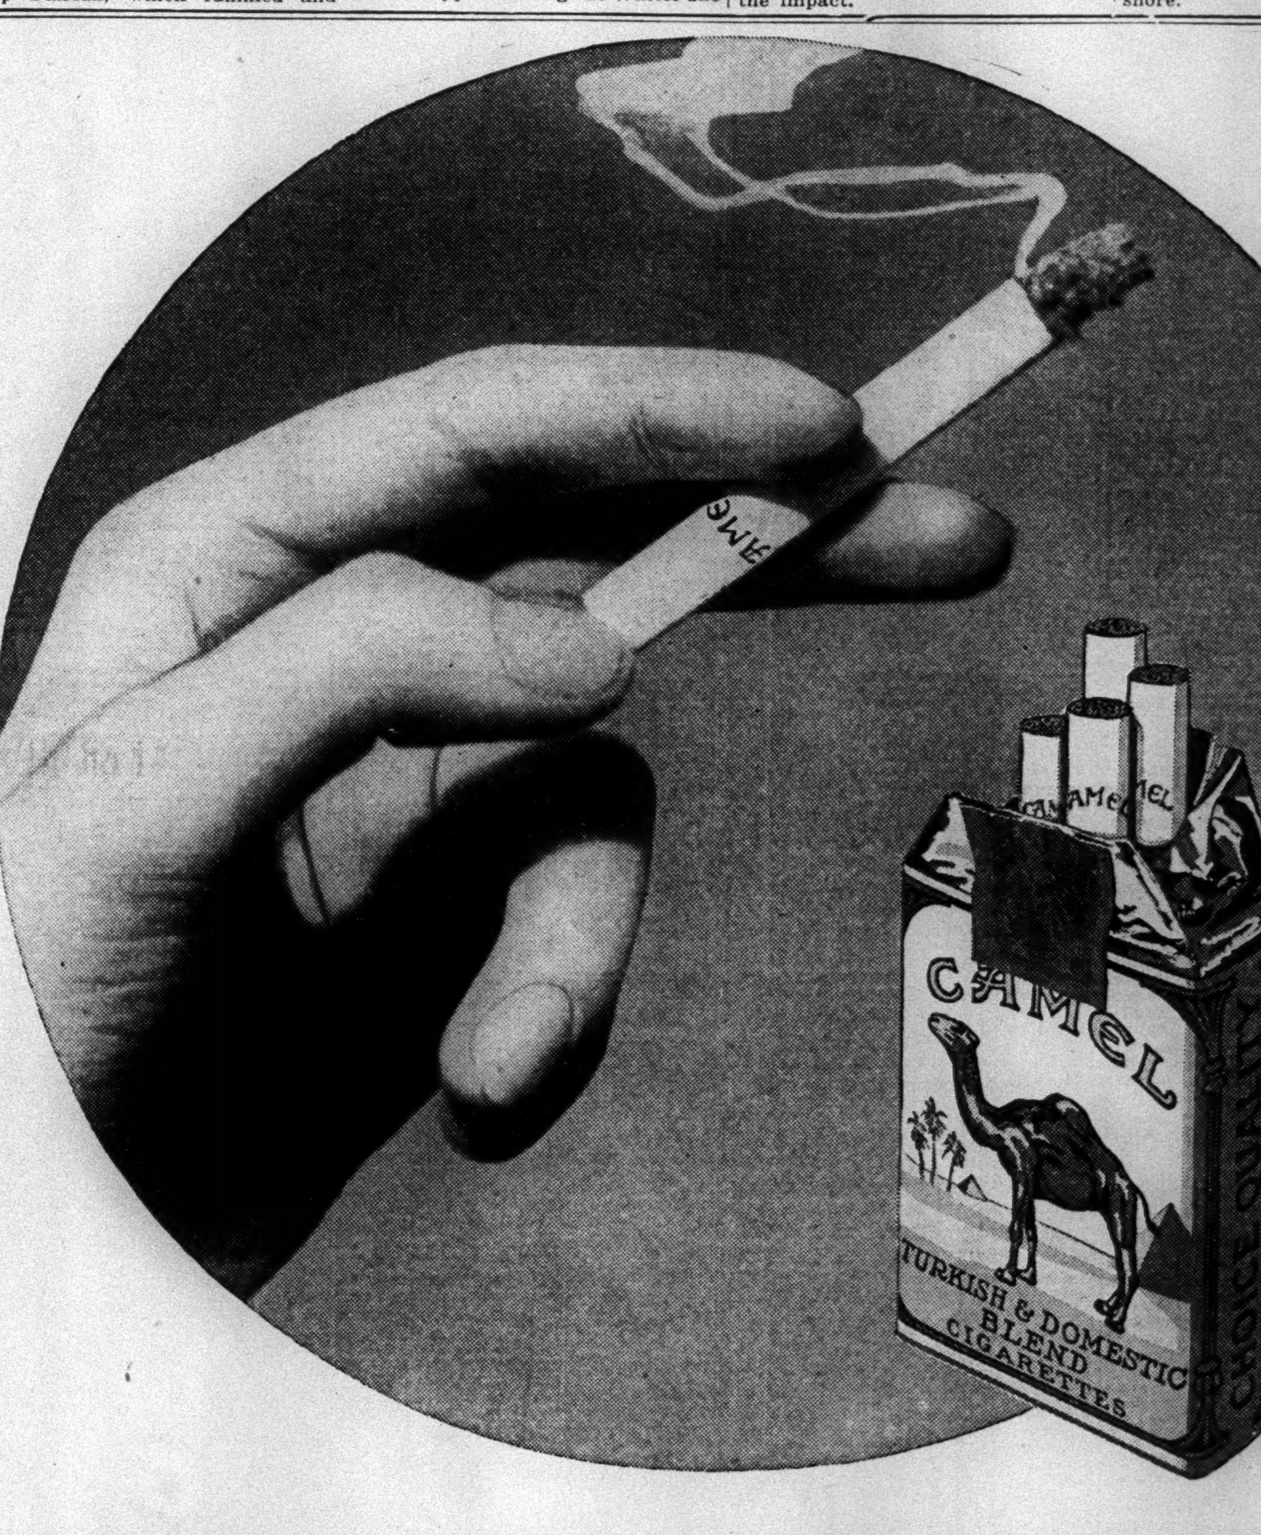
BOSTON, Mass., June 11.—Southeast Buoy, the Lorelei which called twoscore or more to frightful death, whistled on all today seven and one-half miles off Scituate, while a funeral pyre of flaming oil leaped 30 feet in the air, belching inky smoke over the spot where the night before a frightful toll of life was taken in the most appalling sea disaster in recent years.

Less than 200 yards east of the buoy the sea this afternoon was a seething flame, fed by the tanker's 10,000 gallons of oil which continually oozes to the surface. Over an area of two miles the rolling waves are alive with oil which has not yet ignited. Only the whistling buoy stood guard during two hours today when a lobster boat hired by newspaper men circled the blazing area which offers a serious menace to coastwise shipping, still hidden, as it is, in fog.

Not a single Coast Guard boat was near the flames, which undoubtedly will burn until all of the tanker's cargo reaches the surface.

About four miles off shore the first of the oil appeared to show that the scene of the disaster was near the buoy. In the black scum with flecks of purple lazily floated bits of charred substances. A short distance on a piece of the wreckage was sighted. It proved to be a four-foot section of a ladder, which, although no identification marks were found, was believed to be a remnant thrown clear when the Pinthis exploded.

The smell of burning oil smoke filled the air, and suddenly a pillar of smoke, black and gray in turns, floated out of the fog, and, fanned by an east breeze, swept toward shore.



The smoke's the thing!

The taste, the aroma, all the natural goodness of tobacco's finest qualities are in the delightful smoke that curls lazily from your Camel Cigarette. Let it drift luxuriously about your face . . . taste it, smell it, revel in it . . . smoke as much as you like! Whether it's the first Camel of the day or the last one at night, every sense you have will tell you that here is everything you have wished for in a cigarette.

America's Cup Defense Candidate Enterprise Beats Rival Yachts in First Race

ENTERPRISE BEATS RIVAL BOATS EASILY

Finishes Far Ahead of Other New America's Cup Yachts in Their First Race.

DEFEATS VANITIE BY 6:29

Wins Contest on Sound by 8:10 on Corrected Time—Outfoots Whirlwind by 12:07.

WEETAMOE 20:32 ASTERN

Resolute, Old Defender, Is Last—Spectator Fleet Exceeds 200—Racers Meet Again Today.

By JAMES ROBBINS.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN COVE, L. I., June 11.—Flying a great ballooner and a spinnaker out forward of her mainsail, Enterprise won the first race of the new America's Cup yachts today on Long Island Sound. She slipped away at the start like a lark on the wing, and with just a lap of water under her bow, as when a low breeze blows, she swept on in the track of the sun, leaving a wake of hopes temporarily dashed behind her.

Running for home far in the lead, she had a canvas sign slung over her side that read:

"Please keep astern."

If it was a request to the other racers, rather than to the huge spectator fleet, they obliged most courteously.

Over a triangular course of 23.45 miles that provided all points of sailing, Enterprise beat Vanitie, one of the old cup boats, by 6 minutes and 29 seconds actual time. Of the new boats she defeated Whirlwind by 12 minutes and 7 seconds and Weetamoe by 20 minutes and 32 seconds. Resolute, the 1920 cup defender, was last.

Vanitie Sails Under Handicap.

Vanitie, penalized by the tape measure sailors so that she was forced to allow all the other racers 1 minute and 41 seconds, was third when more than half of the distance had been covered. Whirlwind, with fewer tuning up spins than the other new craft, had made a good showing and was second.

When Vanitie seemed to come to life, she fairly flew along over the sun-swept blue water and passed Whirlwind, but could never get within hailing distance of the free running leader.

Enterprise simply spreadeagled the fleet. She finished first by 8 minutes and 10 seconds, counting Vanitie's penalty.

Over 6.8 miles to windward, she beat Whirlwind by 2 minutes and 31 seconds; Vanitie, 2 minutes and 51 seconds; Weetamoe, 11 minutes and 5 seconds, and Resolute, 18 minutes and 57 seconds.

Reaching 5.85 miles, she gained 14 seconds more on Whirlwind, while the latter increased her early margin over Vanitie by 1 minute and 15 seconds, Weetamoe, far in the ruck, covered that reaching leg in 12 seconds faster time than Enterprise, however.

Enterprise Faster With Wind.

Then running 10.8 miles, Enterprise legged it before the wind in 2 minutes and 9 seconds' quicker time than Vanitie, which had put on her burst of speed. Vanitie made the run 7 minutes and 13 seconds faster than Whirlwind.

While the race was unofficial, as far as a defender trial went, being only a so-called preliminary event scheduled by the New York Yacht Club, it attracted the largest spectator fleet ever gathered for a yacht race on the Sound.

There were more than 200 sightseeing craft, made up of excursion steamers, led by the Hudson River Day Line boat Peter Stuyvesant; steam, motor and sailing yachts. The Coast Guard patrolled the course, but it was like catching butterflies with a net full of holes.

Motor boats darted in every direction, some blind to consequences and others deaf to orders. At one time they had Weetamoe penned in all kinds of a sea wash. She was out of the running, though, at the time.

Sky Clear and Wind Light.

When the racers gathered before noon there was a clear dome of sky, after days of rain. While clouds, drained dry of moisture, rimmed the horizon, there was a southeast breeze of only seven miles an hour, but though it was light the water was lively.

The yachts came out from City Island and Glen Cove. Harold S. Vanderbilt was at the wheel of Enterprise, Paul Hammond guided Whirlwind and George Nichols was at the helm of Weetamoe. The old boats were handled by their owners, Vanitie by Gerard B. Lambert and Resolute by E. Walter Clark. W. Starling Burgess, who designed Enterprise, sailed on her, and L. Francis Herreshoff, who drew the plans for Whirlwind, was on her. Clinton H. Crane, Weetamoe's creator, watched her from his motor yacht.

A course was selected with a start at Parsonage Point off Rye, N. Y., and with legs to a buoy off Oyster Bay, between Centre Island Point and Lloyd Neck and to Long Neck Point, off Noroton, Conn. The finish was back at Parsonage Point.

As the five racers wheeled and made for the start at 12:10 P. M., Mr. Vanderbilt had Enterprise going fast. She crossed the line seventeen seconds after the whistle. Vanitie was to windward of her. Whirlwind, down to leeward, was the second boat away. Vanitie was third, Resolute fourthe and Weetamoe last.

Resolute and Weetamoe Tack.

Resolute and Weetamoe tacked after crossing the line to stand across the Sound toward the Long Island shore. All had three head sails except Whirlwind, which was under one large jib and forestaysail, without jib topsail.

When Resolute stood back to follow the leaders, Weetamoe crossed ahead of her. On the hitch Whirlwind was out in front, but was not ahead on the course as Enterprise was to windward of her. Vanitie was hanging on to windward astern of Enterprise.

By the time they were opposite Great Captain Island, off Greenwich, Whirlwind was down to leeward by herself and Weetamoe and Resolute were in a stern battle to themselves.

Whirlwind went about and stood over toward Enterprise and Vanitie. As Whirlwind approached, Enterprise went about instead of crossing Whirlwind's bow. The latter crossed ahead of Vanitie.

Once on the new tack there was the first close comparison between Enterprise and Whirlwind. The former was pointing higher into the wind. Whirlwind showed a better pulling mainsail than Enterprise. It had a pucker down near the foot forward, but it had a belly aloft that pulled her along. Enterprise's was flatter.

Vanitie Increases Speed.

Vanitie here turned into a windward lane of the other two, and began going like a race horse under the whip. She seemed to have a little more breeze, and her rail was almost down, while little of the underbodies of Enterprise and Whirlwind showed in the light air.

Vanitie moved up just astern of Whirlwind, and then went about on a short hitch, hoping for another windward slant. Whirlwind shot about and Enterprise immediately turned to maintain not only her lead but her position on the wind. Whirlwind passed just in front of Vanitie. The next time Enterprise turned first, Mr. Vanderbilt heading her for the first mark, which loomed up amid the hills of Lloyd Neck.

Enterprise hitched around the mark at 1:15:10. Her sheets were started a little and she headed off on the second leg to the Connecticut shore east of Stamford. Whirlwind, Vanitie, Weetamoe and Resolute were strung out behind her. They were content to carry the same headsails on the close reach, not springing any of the new headrigs such as the Genoa jibs.

On this leg Weetamoe closed up some ground. John Parkinson, the former Harvard football star, a member of her afterguard, took her wheel and held her true on her course, as well as filled away evenly.

Enterprise Rounds Second Mark.

Enterprise rounded the second mark off Connecticut at 1:47:55. Whirlwind still was second, but only 1 minute and 35 seconds ahead of Vanitie.

Weetamoe, fourth, covered this leg in 32 minutes and 33 seconds, while Enterprise took 32 minutes and 45 seconds. Whirlwind was 32 minutes and 59 seconds on the reach, and Vanitie 34 minutes and 14 seconds. All three of the new boats thus beat both old ones reaching, a point of sailing for which Vanitie was famous.

On the run home Whirlwind set her spinnaker along with the rest and then took it in and held up to windward. Her only chance left to overtake the Enterprise was for the wind to fall and then haul to the southward, where, by her manoeuvre, she would have been in the best berth.

But the breeze held true. Whirlwind gave up trusting to a streak of luck in her favor, set her wing kite and went on.

Weetamoe then held up high as Whirlwind had, instead of bearing down on the finish in a straight line. She went over close to the Long Island shore. The air did waver a bit, coming more from the eastward.

Enterprise Takes in Spinnaker.

Off Bluefish Shoal, west of Great Captain Island, Enterprise took in her spinnaker and jibbed. She had been heading somewhat high off the course. Vanitie was the only one making a bee line of it. Although free of the wind, the boats also were fighting a strong ebb tide.

Enterprise went on without her spinnaker for a way, and then set it on the other hand. She crossed the finish line soon after amid a shrieking of whistles for miles around, Vanitie coming in second, ahead of Whirlwind.

On the run home Enterprise took 1 hour, 38 minutes and 56 seconds. She was fastest of all flying free, with Vanitie making the next best time and Whirlwind showing only 17 seconds faster than Weetamoe.

The yachts are to race off here again tomorrow along with the rest of the New York Yacht Club fleet in its seventy-ninth annual regatta.

The rating measurements of the new boats were given out as 76. Vanitie rates 78.6 and Resolute 75.9. Vanitie, therefore, has to allow 4.14 seconds per mile to the new boats, and 4.3 seconds to Resolute.

YANKEE, UNDER TOW, GOES ON MUD FLATS

Cup Yacht Grounded in Neponset River, but Is Floated Off During High Tide.

TAKEN BACK TO LAWLEY'S

Deck Cleat and Few Boards Ripped Off Pulling Craft From Flats Are Replaced Quickly.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 11.—The Boston sloop Yankee, contender for America's Cup defense honors, under tow by her tender Doodle, went aground on the mud flats of the Neponset River inside the second channel buoy shortly after clearing Lawley's Yard for City Island at noon today.

The big Class J sloop was floated off, however, on the afternoon high water with no damage to the hull. A deck cleat and a few boards were ripped off in pulling the yacht clear of the flats and this necessitated her return to Lawley's for repairs.

Once back at the yards the torn decking quickly was replaced and the cleat installed. The squadron, including the sail loft tender Dandy and the Doodle, now are scheduled to get under way for City Island tomorrow.

The Yankee had negotiated the turn in the river twice before without trouble, but it is thought that the Doodle was going a little too fast and the Yankee was just off the channel when the helm of the submarine chaser was put hard down. The soft mud fortunately prevented any injury to the glossy hull.

PAIRINGS LISTED IN WIGHTMAN PLAY

Mrs. Moody Meets Miss Fry and Miss Jacobs Faces Mrs. Watson Tomorrow.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 11 (AP).—Pairings for the Wightman Cup tennis matches to be played here Friday and Saturday were announced tonight.

The pairings for Friday:

Singles.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, United States, vs. Miss Joan Fry, England.

Miss Helen Jacobs, United States, vs. Mrs. Holcroft Watson, England.

Doubles.

Miss Edith Cross and Miss Sarah Palfrey, United States, vs. Miss Fry and Miss E. H. Harvey.

The pairings for Saturday:

Singles.

Miss Jacobs vs. Miss Fry.
Mrs. Moody vs. Mrs. Watson.
Miss Palfrey vs. Miss P. Mudford.

Doubles.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs vs. Mrs. J. A. Godfree and Mrs. Watson.

Some difference of opinion was reported today between Mrs. Moody, captain of the American team, and Louis B. Dailey, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Mrs. Moody wanted Miss Elizabeth Ryan for her doubles partner, but Dailey felt he should not depart from the official attitude at home that America must be represented only by players actively engaged in the game in their own country. This, of course, bars Miss Ryan, who is living in England.

Even without Miss Ryan, the Americans will be favored to win the series, which consists of seven matches—five in singles and two in doubles.

Members of both teams were practicing today on the Wimbledon courts, where the series will be contested.

JONES CARDS A 71 IN PRACTICE ROUND

Plays on Royal Liverpool Links in Preparation for British Open Next Week.

HOYLAKE, England, June 11 (AP).—Several of the American contestants who next week will compete in the British open golf championship practiced on the Royal Liverpool and Wallasey courses today, the two links which will be used in the qualifying rounds Monday and Tuesday.

Bobby Jones sampled the Royal Liverpool layout and returned a score of 71. He said his play was really bad, but the round was saved by good putting.

George Von Elm, playing with Jones, declared he did nothing "to write home about."

Leo Diegel, Horton Smith and Macdonald Smith played around the Wallasey course, Mac Smith leading the others with a score of 74.

Jones declared that he found the Royal Liverpool course in excellent shape. He will try the Wallasey course before the end of the week. A downpour of rain this morning curtailed the day's practice but proved of great benefit to the greens, which had become hard and fast from the recent dry spell.

BRUSH TAKES PRIZE AT QUAKER RIDGE

Ties Hall for Low Gross at Golf, Then Gains Trophy by Matching Cards.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., June 11.—Deprived of his title as Westchester's amateur champion, George Brush is making merry in all the one-day events in the district.

A week ago the Westchester Country Club ace won a poker set by virtue of leading the field in a one-day tournament and today he added a cigarette case to his fast-mounting collection of trophies by winning the low gross honors in another one-day event at the Quaker Ridge Golf Club.

Brush and Stanley Hall, his diminutive club-mate, actually tied for the low gross score, each holing the course on which the qualifying test for the national open will be played on Monday in 77 strokes.

Where Brush gained the trophy was when it came to matching the two tying cards. Both had 5s at the first hole, but George got a 3 at the second, where Hall took a 4. W. J. Mahoney, another Westchester Country Club golfer, won second low net with a score of 81—10—71.

Donald Carr, president of the Westchester Association, might have tied for the honors had he not missed a short putt on the seventeenth. His total was 78, a stroke below the score of J. S. Whitham of Tamarack.

MRS. JACKSON TIES FOR MT. KISCO LEAD

Former Champion's 90 Equaled by Mrs. Stevens in First Round of Tournament.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., June 11.—Another of the medal play tournaments that have gained considerable favor among the women golfers during the last few years was added to the district's invitation events today by the Mount Kisco Golf Club.

Hailed by the thirty-seven contestants as a course of championship calibre, the links provided considerable difficulty for most of those who saw it today for the first time, and Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, the former national champion, and Mrs. Edward Stevens, who won the Bermuda title during the past Winter, ended the first of the two scheduled eighteen-hole rounds leading the field with scores of 90 each.

Among those who were among the leaders tonight and who are in a good position to win the tournament tomorrow are Mrs. C. A. Slosson of Greenwich and Mrs. B. F. Briggs of Pelham, trailing only by a single stroke and bracketed at 91; Miss Frances Snyder, the young Apawamis player, and Mrs. J. F. Renwick of Bedford both tied with 92, and Miss Lillian Holland of Knollwood, who, despite two 8's, finished with a 93.

The prizes at stake include those for the best net scores for the two days, and Miss Evie Hollins of Timber Point, with 94-12—82, had the low net yesterday, while Mrs. Slosson, with 91-8—83, and Miss Snyder, with 92-9—83, were next.

RYE, N. Y., June 11.—Don M. Parker, president of the New York State Golf Association, scored an 85, low gross, to win the Manhattan Club Cup in the Manhattan Club one-day golf tournament, in which seventy-five golfers competed over the Westchester Country Club's west course today.

2 WOMEN GOLFERS SHARE JERSEY LEAD

Miss Parker and Mrs. Goss Turn in 80s for First Round of Title Play.

MISS DUBEY SCORES AN 85

Miss Beach Next With 89 at Essex Fells — Pace Setters Lower Women's Course Mark.

Special to The New York Times.

ESSEX FELLS, N. J., June 11.—The Women's New Jersey Golf Association championship, a stroke competition of fifty-four holes, began today with ninety-five starters, but before the day was over the race for the title apparently had resolved itself into a duel between two players who returned sensational scores of 80.

The pace-setters on the Essex Fells links were Miss Martha Parker, the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association champion, playing from the Spring Lake Club, and Mrs. Wright D. Goss Jr. of Baltusrol, who was a national semi-finalist a few years ago. Each player went out in 39, almost flawless golf for the first nine, on which men's par is 37.

Until today the record for women players over the Essex Fells course was 84, held by the home course champion, Miss Gertrude Dubey. Miss Dubey had an 85 today and she seems to be the only other contender with a chance to overtake Miss Parker and Mrs. Goss. Miss Katherine Beach of Montclair scored an 89.

Mrs. Courtland Smith of Glen Ridge, who won the title two years ago, returned a 91, and the defending champion, Mrs. Richard F. Decker of Baltusrol, required a 99, leaving her far down the list. Mrs. Decker won the tournament last year from a field that included all the stars who were present today.

Mrs. Goss reached the last hole needing a 4 for a 79. She had a seven-foot downhill putt for a 3 for a total of 78, but took three putts, her first sliding past the hole so far that she missed coming back. That was her second three-putt green of the incoming nine.

MISS TAUBELE BOWS IN MET. TITLE PLAY

No. 4 Seeded Star Beaten by Mrs. Scherber, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, in Clay Court Tennis Tourney.

MRS. HIRSCH WINS TWICE

Puts Out Miss Bingham, 6-1, 6-1, and Mrs. Keller, 6-3, 6-1, to Gain Quarter-Final Round.

Play in the metropolitan women's clay court tennis championships reached full swing at the University Heights Tennis Club yesterday after two days of rain as the field filled the second-round brackets and started in the third.

Only one upset marked the competition, but that was a serious one, inasmuch as it brought about the elimination of Miss Norma T. Taubele of Sears Cup fame and recently crowned Eastern champion.

The hard-driving left-handed star, fourth in the seeded list, lost to Mrs. K. T. Scherber of England, 6—1, 3—6, 6—4, in a match that found the usually steady Miss Taubele out-steadied by Mrs. Scherber.

Mrs. Carolyn S. Hirsch gained the quarter-final round, beating Miss Mary E. Bingham, 6—1, 6—1, and Mrs. Mary Keller, 6—3, 6—1.

THE SUMMARIES.

TARANGIOLI BEATS HUNTER IN 3 SETS

Nation's Second Ranking Player Bows in Sharp Upset in Met. Title Tourney.

VICTOR PLAYS FLAWLESSLY

Seligson, Feibleman, Kynaston and Lang Among Those to Reach Quarter Finals.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

In the most stunning reversal of form of the 1930 season, Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle fell a victime to his own physical condition and the flawless backhand of Edward G. Tarangioli yesterday as play was resumed in the metropolitan clay court championship at the New York Tennis Club. The score was 6—3, 4—6, 6—2.

It was a vastly different Hunter that went through the motions of playing against the slightly built, seriously concentrating young law student from New York University. Ten pounds undew eight as the result of illness that he contracted in the South late in April, the second ranking player of the country was hardly more than a shell of the Hunter who fought his way to the final round of the national championship in 1929 and 1928.

The forehand drive with which he has pounded most of the best players of America and many of Europe into submission was pitifully weak as was the case with his backhand.

Hunter's Second Match of Day.

This was the second match of the day for Hunter, for before meeting Tarangioli he had gone up against Lincoln Halberstadt. In winning this contest at 6—1, 6—3, the Davis Cup veteran had shown distress signals also and when he walked off the court after his second match it was evident that he could not go through with his doubles engagement. After a conference with Frank Bonneau, the tournament chairman, he and Herbert L. Bowman defaulted to Harry Sachs and Ingo Hartmann.

Allowing for the plight of Hunter, credit must be given, nevertheless, to Tarangioli for the splendid tennis he put forth. Even as weak as he was, the New Rochelle player might have won the match had not the New York University lad been so steadfast in his control and played with such good judgment.

Victor's Control Superior.

So superior was the control of the younger player and so much better was his length that Hunter, lacking the severity and accuracy to prevail at a driving game, had no alternative but to push himself on and seek close quarters. He paid dearly for his temerity, for his first volley was never sufficient to win and he seldom had the chance to make a second one. Tarangioli's marvelous backhand line drive and forehand cross-court shot frustrated him right and left and left him in untenable ground whether he went to the net or remained at his baseline.

Ten players were left in the singles when play was suspended at nightfall and both Edward F. Rodgers and Edward Burns, who defeated Watson Washburn and Bowman, respectively, on Sunday, were missing from the ten. Rodgers fell before Dr. William Rosenbaum, while I. Biltchik accounted for Burns. Julius Seligson, E. W. Feibleman, Jerry Lang and Percy L. Kynaston were among those to reach the quarter-finals.

Sharkey 8-5 Favorite to Beat Schmeling for Title Tonight; 75,000 Expected

SCHMELING, SHARKEY WILL FIGHT TONIGHT

To Battle for World's Heavyweight Title Before 75,000 at the Stadium.

RECEIPTS MAY BE $700,000

Secretary of War Hurley and German Ambassador to Be Guests of Mayor Walker.

SHARKEY IS 8-5 FAVORITE

Odds Against His Scoring Knockout 4 to 1—Speculators Get as High as $125 per Ticket.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

A heavyweight champion will be crowned in the ring at the Yankee Stadium tonight, to occupy the throne abdicated two years ago when Gene Tunney forsook the ring, undefeated monarch of the boxing world.

Jack Sharkey, Boston ex-sailor, and Max Schmeling, sturdy German lad, are to battle fifteen rounds for Tunney's discarded championship title. Their battle, expected to start between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, is being waged in the interests of charity, for from the proceeds is expected to come a handsome profit for the Free Milk Fund for Babies, Inc., a charitable undertaking, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman.

The Milk Fund committee, in conjunction with the Madison Square Garden Corporation, is directing the encounter, and, regardless of the outcome, New York is assured of the contest in which the champion determined tonight will first defend his honors, because the Madison Square Garden Corporation has both Sharkey and Schmeling under contract to defend the title for that institution.

Notables to Be Present.

A crowd which will compare favorably with other gigantic gatherings of pugilistic history in numerical strength and distinguished character is expected to witness the struggle. Among the spectators will be Mayor Walker, whose special guests will be Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, and Frederick von Prittwitz und Gaffron, the German Ambassador at Washington. Dr. Paul Schwartz, German Consul in this city, will also be present. Others expected are Gene Tunney and his wife, the former Polly Lauder, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

And there will be, from all advance indications, the usual co-mingling of the rich and the poor, the prominent and obscure, in that representation of every-day life which has come to be typical of boxing gatherings particularly.

Announcement from Vice President Frank J. Bruen of the Garden carried assurance yesterday that the receipts will exceed $700,000 and the crowd will number 75,000. He had the records of his box-office sales and bank deposits to support this estimate. The report of last Tuesday night showed that $432,000 had been actually placed in the bank, $163,000 was outstanding on gilt-edged I. O. U.'s for ticket allotments and $16,000 was due at the box office for reservations.

These figures placed the advance sale in excess of $600,000 and, with favorable weather today, the indications are that close to $100,000 more will be taken in at the box office.

Gates to Open at 4 o'Clock.

There remain plenty of ringside tickets at a face value of $26.25 each to be sold. In addition to these there are the admissions at $2.10 each, which will be placed on sale this afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Stadium gates are thrown open. The $5.25 tickets were exhausted yesterday and the $16.35 tickets, the only other price on sale, have been sold out for several days.

Ticket speculators are gettig fancy prices for desirable seats. Ringside seats in the first five rows are bringing as high as $125 apiece and as far back as the tenth row ringside seats are netting $80 to $100. These tickets have a face value of $26.25 each. Two tickets priced at $16.35 yesterday brought $40, and tickets of a face value of $5.25 are being sold for $8 and $10, depending on the location.

The weather forecast for today is increasing cloudiness. In the event of rain, the contest will be held tomorrow night.

In addition to fighting for the title and the independent wealth it promises, Sharkey and Schmeling are fighting for 25 per cent of the receipts each. It is estimated that each gladiator will receive $150,000, a tidy fortune for the prospective rivals, regardless of the outcome.

Betting on Bout Light.

Betting on the contest has been light, in sharp contrast to the brisk demand for tickets in an ever-increasing interest. Sharkey is the favorite to win, at odds of 8 to 5, but investigation yesterday revealed betting practically at a standstill.

On the prospects of a knockout ending the match odds of 4 to 1 against Sharkey knocking out Schmeling were offered, and odds of 6 to 1 were offered against Schmeling knocking out Sharkey.

Both Sharkey and Schmeling were in this city yesterday. Each reported in prime condition after intensive training campaigns and confident of victory. Sharkey expressed himself satisfied with his condition and so did Schmeling.

This satisfaction and confidence extended to the managers and trainers of the prospective rivals. They will weigh in this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Yankee Stadium.

BAN ON JACOBS LIFTED.

Schmeling's Manager to Be a Second in Ring as License Is Restored.

The last obstacle to complete satisfaction in the direction of Max Schmeling's struggle for the heavyweight title against Jack Sharkey tonight at the Yankee Stadium was removed yesterday when Joe Jacobs, American manager of the German lad, received a license as a second from the State Athletic Commission. Chairman James A. Farley and Commissioners William Muldoon and John J. Phelan issued the permit.

Statements on Fight Tonight By Principals and Managers

The following statements on the eve of battle were made to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday by Jack Sharkey and his manager, John Buckley, and by Max Schmeling and his manager, Joe Jacobs:

SHARKEY—I hope to win in clean-cut fashion. I expect a hard fight and expect to give one. I will stop Schmeling in an early round if he can't absorb punishment.

BUCKLEY—Sharkey will win before five rounds have elapsed.

SCHMELING—I never ended a training period in better condition. I will do my best. I never make any predictions as to whether I will win or lose any fight.

JACOBS—Max will knock Sharkey out inside of ten rounds.

SHARKEY EXERCISES BY STROLL IN PARK

Visits Officials at the Garden, Then Views Giants-Pirates Game at Polo Grounds.

Judged from outward appearances, Jack Sharkey yesterday might have been on the eve of just another ordinary ring battle, rather than the most important ring encounter of his career. The big, good-natured Boston heavyweight spent the day before his clash tonight with Max Schmeling with a minimum of exercising.

In fact, Sharkey's only exercise was a visit to Central Park early in the morning, for a walk of perhaps twenty minutes, on which he was accompanied by Trainers Al Lacey and Tony Polozzolo. For the rest of the day Sharkey visited and enjoyed himself, letting others provide the entertainment.

Sharkey retired at his quarters in the Bretton Hall Hotel following a show Tuesday night, and was up early. Following his jaunt in Central Park, he joined Managers Johnny Buckley and Jack Conway in a visit to Madison Square Garden, where he spent a short time before noon with President William F. Carey, and Vice President Frank J. Bruen.

After luncheon Sharkey and his entourage went to the Polo Grounds to see the Giants play the Pirates, and last night the Boston boxer with a party of five friends, attended Ed Wynn's "Simple Simon" show.

Sharkey appeared in excellent condition and, rather than being concerned over his approaching battle, seemed actually indifferent. The attitude of savage irritability which has been a characteristic of his in the past on the eve of battle, was conspicuously missing.

Sharkey took particular delight while at the Garden in pounding Manager Buckley and buffeting the rotund pilot about in a good-natured way. The Boston heavyweight's greatest boast was the possession of three tickets in the front row ringside section, a far better location, Sharkey reminded his manager often, than Buckley could produce.

RECORD CROWD 145,000.

Dempsey-Tunney Fight at Chicago in 1927 Drew Largest Attendance.

The Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight at Chicago in 1927, which was the most successful bout ever held in the United States from a financial standpoint, also holds the distinction of attracting the largest crowd—145,000. The first Dempsey-Tunney bout, held in Philadelphia in 1926, is next in attendance with 130,000. Only one other bout, the Willard-Firpo clash in Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, reached the 100,000 mark.

The attendance at leading bouts during the past few years follows:

Tunney-Dempsey, Chicago	145,000
Tunney-Dempsey, Philadelphia	130,000
Willard-Firpo, Boyle's Thirty Acres	100,000
Dempsey-Carpentier, Jersey City	90,000
Dempsey-Firpo, Polo Grounds	90,000
Dempsey-Sharkey, Yankee Stadium	80,000

Milk Fund (1924) Yankee Stadium	60,550
Leonard-Tendler (1922) Jersey City	60,000
Leonard-Tendler (1923), Polo Grounds	58,000
Berlenbach-Stribling, Yankee Stadium	55,000
Tunney-Carpentier, Polo Grounds	50,000
Tunney-Heeney, Yankee Stadium	50,000
Sharkey-Stribling, Miami	35,000
Sharkey-Scott, Miami	30,000

SCHMELING TIRED ON ARRIVAL HERE

Is in High Spirits, However, and Gets Pleasure in 6-Hour Train Trip From Camp.

SEES MOVIE IN EVENING

German Boxer Plans a Short Walk Today Before Weighing In for the Title Bout.

A long, tiresome railroad journey from Binghamton, N. Y., to this city occupied the greater part of the day before the battle for Max Schmeling, the German lad who is to attempt to win the world's heavyweight title tonight against Jack Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium.

Schmeling spent more than six hours riding to New York by special car over the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, making the journey in the seclusion of a drawing room.

Accompanying Schmeling were his American manager, Joe Jacobs; trainer and pal, Max Machon, and Detectives Caswell Jacobs and Roger Meehan. The party arrived at Hoboken, N. J., at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At Hoboken the private chauffeur and car of Joe Halpert, wealthy dress manufacturer and friend of Schmeling's, was awaiting the German lad, and whisked him and his party to an unknown destination.

On the trip to this city Schmeling was in high spirits and got considerable pleasure clowning around with his traveling companions.

Schmeling was tired from the ride when he reached the home of a friend, where he had arranged to spend the night before the bout. He attended a movie last night and went early to bed.

Today Schmeling plans only a short morning walk before he is summoned to the weighing ceremonies at the Yankee Stadium at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The German boxer's party radiated a quiet confidence in Schmeling's ability to defeat Sharkey and take the heavyweight title out of America for the first time since Tommy Burns, a Canadian, enjoyed recognition as heavyweight champion during the retirement of James J. Jeffries.

FAITH IN SCHMELING WAVERS IN GERMANY

Press Hopeful Countryman Will Stay 15 Rounds, but Sees Sharkey as Favorite.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 11.—Germany's boxing enthusiasts are preparing for a sleepless night as they tune in on the radio at 3 o'clock Friday morning to follow every phase of the Schmeling-Sharkey fight. Many groups and clubs will gather privately and in restaurants, which will keep open for the unusual event.

Only a half a dozen of Max's most intimate friends will be permitted to spend the night at Frau Schmeling's apartments. The group will include Paul Damsky, boxing promoter; Peter Eijk, president of the German Boxing Commission, and THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent.

While there is hardly any German who does not hope for his countryman's victory, there seems to be little confidence in Max's chances, excepting, of course, among his mother, brother and closest friends.

The best that the Berlin press looks for is that Max will stay the entire fifteen rounds and lose only on points.

The papers point out Sharkey's greater experience and technique and his dangerous left, while Schmeling's fighting tactics are described as one-sided.

"But," says the Boursen Courier, "even if Schmeling loses, he still remains one of the world's greatest heavyweights, and his defeat should not be taken as a tragedy."

To honor Schmeling, Promoter Paul Damsky has arranged a card of international boxing events at Berlin's bock brewery for Thursday night.

Frau Schmeling today cabled the following message to Max: "My dear son, for the fight all the best wishes of your mother, brother Rudolph and Nanny."

MILLIONS TO HEAR BROADCAST OF BOUT

Radio Network to Carry Details From Coast to Coast and to Europe.

When Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling step into the ring at the Yankee Stadium tonight to battle for the world's heavyweight championship, millions throughout the world will follow the proceedings by means of the radio.

Radio networks in this country will carry the word picture of the battle from coast to coast, and in addition a special announcer, speaking in German, will tell the story for fight fans in Germany.

Broadcast of one of the preliminary fights will start at 9:30 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time, with the main contest between Sharkey and Schmeling following.

A particular effort will be made to reach Germany, Harry Sperber, sports editor of The New York Staats-Zeitung and Herold, having been engaged to tell the happenings in German.

His account will be carried by special wires to WGY, Schenectady, where short-wave stations will send it to Germany for rebroadcasting by the Richs Rundfunk Gesellschaft.

There will be four stations of the General Electric Company in operation at Schenectady. One of these will be WGY in the NBC chain. The other three will be international transmitters which are reported heard regularly in most countries of the globe. They are W2XAC on 34 meters, W2XAD on 19.56 meters and W2XAF on 31.48 meters. Letters from many listeners in South America, the islands of the Caribbean, and Europe have reached WGY officials asking to have the fight put on the short waves so they might hear a description of it.

Miss Carmen Ogden of Rochester, N. Y., will be at the ringside to tell over the radio what fashions predominate at the fight. Graham McNamee and Paul Dumont will alternate in describing the crowds and the actual battle for American listeners. McNamee will picture each of the fifteen rounds, and Dumont will speak between rounds.

The list of stations in the broadcast network, announced late yesterday follows:

WEAF, WJZ, WRZ, WBZA, WHAM, WBAL, KDKA, WEEI, WJAR, WTAG, WCSH, WFI, WRC, WGY, WGR, WCAE, WTAM, WFJC, CKGW, WRVA, WPTF, WJAX, WFLA-WSUN, KSL, KTAR, KGO, KFI, KPO, KGW, KOMO, KHQ, KFSB, WBT, WIOD, WWJ, WSAI, WGN, WLS, KWK, WREN, KFAB, KOA, WOAI, WBAP, KTHS, WJDX, WSB, WMC, WSM, WTMJ, KSTP, WEBC, WHAS, WAPI, WSMB, WDAF, WHO, WOW, KYW, KSD, WIBO, WOC.

Only Five Bouts Ever Passed Million Mark, Dempsey Figuring in All

Only five bouts in the history of boxing have drawn receipts exceeding $1,000,000. Jack Dempsey figured in each of the huge gates, of which the largest was attracted by his encounter with Tunney in Chicago in 1927. On that occasion the gross financial return was $2,658,660.

Dempsey's clash with Tunney in Philadelphia on Sept. 23, 1926, was held before a crowd which paid $1,880,000. Jack Sharkey's efforts against Dempsey in 1927 attracted a gate of $1,083,529.

The receipts for big boxing bouts in the past follow:

Tunney-Dempsey, Chicago	$2,658,660
Tunney-Dempsey, Philadelphia	1,880,000

BERG OUTPOINTS HERMAN PERLICK

Defeats One of the Kalamazoo Fighting Twins in Bout at the Queensboro.

DORFMAN DEFEATS FARR

Gains Decision Over Clevelander in Semi-Final—Henry Perlick Bows to Siegel.

Jack (Kid) Berg, whirlwind English lightweight, made a strong rally in the closing rounds to defeat Herman Perlick of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the main bout of ten rounds at the Queensboro Stadium last night.

Fighting before a crowd of 8,000 persons, the British boxer and his American rival waged a spectacular struggle that was filled with action all the way, and which saw Berg pressed as uncomfortably as he has been in any of his bouts since his second invasion of this country.

Perlick fought Berg punch for punch and gained a good lead on the Englishman. The latter came back midway during the bout and belabored Perlick with an assortment of body blows. The Englishman's greater stamina told, and he inserted a vigor into his attack in the last two rounds which was too much for Perlick to overcome. The weights were 138¼ for Berg and 138½ for Perlick.

Sammy Dorfman, east side lightweight, defeated Johnny Farr of Cleveland in the ten-round semi-final. Dorfman outboxed his rival easily and kept him on the defensive continuously. Dorfman weighed 136½ pounds and Farr 133½.

Willie Siegel, east side lightweight, hammered out a victory over Henry Perlick, twin brother to Herman, in the first ten-round bout.

Perlick's left eye was nearly closed in the fifth round and he was dropped for a no count in the seventh. The weights were, 139½ for Siegel and 139 for Perlick.

Leo Dazzo of Corona, 130½ pounds, defeated Steve Clifford, Jersey City, 131, in a six rounder. The opening four rounder saw Phil Stark, east side, 122, stop Danny Essin, 121½ of Bensonhurst in one round.

106th Infantry Wins Rifle Shoot.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., June 11.—With a score of 1,605 out of a possible 1,800, the rifle team of the 106th Infantry, National Guard, of Brooklyn, today defeated other teams from New York, New Jersey and Delaware on the 200-yard range. The team representing the Tenth Infantry, Albany, took second place, scoring 1,551 points.

De Palma, U. S. Driver, Wins 10-Mile Auto Race in Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., June 11 (AP).—Repeating his feat of Monday, Ralph De Palma, veteran driver of Detroit, easily won the Rameses Temple championship sweepstakes today. Racing on the Canadian National Exhibition half-mile dirt track, De Palma roared around the twenty laps in 10 minutes 25.5 seconds.

Freddy Frame, De Palma's only serious rival, was forced out in the second lap when his machine developed motor trouble. Bob Shaw of Penn Yan, N. Y., was second, a lap behind the winner. Norval De Lelys, Seneca Falls, N. Y., finished third. Six of the starters finished the ten miles.

SCHAAF IS WINNER, DEFEATS LOUGHRAN

Gains Decision in Ten Rounds at Philadelphia as Crowd of 15,000 Looks On.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, outpointed Tommy Loughran, former world's light heavyweight champion, in the ten-round final at the Sesqui Centennial Stadium tonight before a crowd of 15,000 fans.

Loughran, bleeding from a cut over his eyes, battled gamely but could not master his youthful opponent.

Schaaf won five rounds, Loughran four, and one was even. The winner weighed 200 pounds and Loughran 189. It was their third meeting, each previously having won a ten-round decision.

Frankie Cawley of Pittston, Pa., won a ten-round decision from Phil Mercurio of Elizabeth. Cawley weighed 189 pounds and Mercurio 187.

Tom Hawkins of California outpointed Jake Warren of New York in ten rounds. Hawkins outweighed Warren by 32 pounds, scaling 220.

Babe Hunt of Oklahoma, easily defeated Carl Carter, New York, in ten rounds. Hunt weighed 196 pounds and Carter 197.

FARIELLO KNOCKS OUT FRANKEL IN SECOND

Wins Feature Bout at Lenox Sporting Club—Turco Outpoints Terranovo—Hassell Victor.

Frank Fariello of Fordham stopped Ben Frankel of the Bronx in the second round of the feature bout of eight four-rounders at the New Lenox Sporting Club last night.

After Frankel had gone down for a count of nine, Referee Jack O'Sullivan stopped the contest to save him from further punishment. Fariello weighed 135½ pounds, three more than Frankel.

James Turco of Yorkville outpointed Jack Terranovo in the semi-final. Turco, former amateur star, weighed 125¼, with his opponent a quarter of a pound heavier.

In the other bouts Harry Hassell, 195¾, Harlem, won the decision from Joe Jeanette, 206¼, of St. Louis; Al Rockman, 131½, of Williamsburg, outpointed Long Sing Que, 126½, of China; Tony Gossette, 134, France, rallied to gain a draw against Charles Bedi, 133, of Yorkville; Jack O'Connell, 148½, Harlem, stopped Jack Morant, 148½, Harlem; Danny Ray, 175, east side, outpointed Jerry Garfield, 173, Brooklyn, and Jack Henken, 120½, east side, outpointed Matty De Santi of Harlem, 118½.

Abella Beats Brown on Foul.

Buster Brown, Baltimore lightweight, lost on a foul to Lud Abella of the Philippines in the third round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Dreamland Park, Newark, last night. Brown weighed 134½ and Abella 135.

Ninth Straight Victory Scored by Giants; Robins Beat Reds; Tigers Stop Yanks

GIANTS TRIUMPH FOR 9TH STRAIGHT

Tie Season's League Record as Deluge of Base Hits Sinks the Pirates.

OTT'S HOMER SCORES 3

Leach's Great Work at Bat and Afield Also Helps Hubbell Achieve Victory.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Yesterday's opening game of the Pittsburgh series at the Polo Grounds became a rout, the Giants winning, 9 to 2. It was their ninth straight victory and it tied the season's National League winning streak record.

Mel Ott's homer in the eighth, a line drive fired far into the upper reaches of the right field stands, drove home the last three runs and made the victory look easy. But in the first six innings, when the game was tight and runs came in single portions, the bright-spangled hero of the 11,000 fans was the rugged, hustling young man playing left field in the McGrawmen's line-up.

Leach Starts His Good Work.

Fred Leach was the man whose bat sounded the first loud note against the pitching of Heinie Meine. He hit a double and two singles his first three trips to the batters' box. Bill Terry, swinging lustily behind him, drove him home in the first and again in the fifth with a single and a triple respectively.

The Pirates were right on the Giants' heels in those stages of the game, and twice it was Leach who jumped to Carl Hubbell's aid when the visiting bats threatened to put the Pirates even with the Giants in the run column.

In the fifth, with two out, Hubbell walked Grantham and Waner. Traynor looped a fly half-way between Jackson and Leach. Leach came galloping headlong toward the infield, snatching the ball at ankle level as it dipped near the grass. That dangerous pop-up became merely the third out instead of a trouble-making hit, which would have tied the score.

Tying Run Checked in Sixth.

In the sixth, with two out, Flagstead's single scored Suhr, cutting the Giants' lead to one run. Hemsley, carrying the tying run, rounded second and dashed for third. But Leach scooped up the ball on the run and fired it unerringly to third, where Lindstrom's deft hand tagged out the flying Pirate.

The Giants got sixteen safeties, hitting safely in every inning. Everybody except Critz batted in the seventh. Seven went to bat in the eighth.

BALTIMORE TAKES PAIR.

Sand's Homer in Eighth Beats Bisons in Second Game.

BALTIMORE, June 11 (AP).—Baltimore took both ends of today's double-header from the Buffalo Bisons, 11 to 6 and 5 to 2. The first game was a free-hitting affair, while the night-cap was a mound duel between Stewart Bolen, who won his eleventh game, and Walter Leverette.

Heinie Sand's homer in the eighth with two on won the second game, breaking a 2-2 deadlock.

SINGLE BY LOPEZ WINS FOR ROBINS

Delivers as Pinch Hitter With 3 On in 9th and Upsets Reds in Close Contest.

VANCE HURLS 7TH VICTORY

Brooklyn Ace in Superb Form as Team-Mates Back Him in Stellar Style on Field.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Backed by some of the best support accorded any pitcher at Ebbets Field in many a day, with Rube Bressler and Babe Herman as the outstanding defensive stars, Dazzy Vance yesterday came through to his seventh victory of the season when the Robins achieved a ninth-inning victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The score was 2 to 1 and the winning tally was singled across the plate by Al Lopez, pinch-hitting for Vance with the bases filled and one out.

Vance went into the eighth inning with a potential 1—0 shutout in his hands, but his old time Nemesis, Curt Walker, inserted into the contest by Manager Howley as a pinch-hitter for Leo Durocher, slapped a home run far into Bedford Avenue to tie the score.

Scores on Short Fly.

The Robins scored their first run in the second inning in an odd fashion. Bissonette and Bressler singled. Then Finn lifted a pop fly to Pat Crawford just back of second. Bissonette dashed off third and when Crawford hesitated, set sail for home. Crawford threw both late and wild and the Robins' first baseman scored standing up on one of the shortest sacrifice flies on record.

In the Robins' ninth, with one run needed to win and Eppa Rixey pitching in place of Ray Kolp, removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, Rube Bressler walked. Finn dropped a bunt in front of the plate and when Sukeforth tried to get Bressler at second, both runners were safe. Manager Robinson then sent Warner in to run for Bressler and Moore to bat for Slade.

Flowers Purposely Passed.

Moore also bunted for a sacrifice, advancing both runners and Jake Flowers, batting for DeBerry, drew another pass, as Rixey made no great effort to pitch a hitable ball to him.

At this juncture, with the crowd of 15,000 yelling loudly for a hit, Master Lopez stepped in with a clean single to left and the game was over.

Rally Falls With Score Tied at 6-All—Gehrig Hits 14th Homer in Eighth.

6 HURLERS SEE SERVICE

New York Uses Four, Opening With Carroll—Stone Gets Triple With 2 On for Detroit.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, June 11.—There was a violent upheaval on the Western front today, but one that brought no new triumphs to the banners of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, as the Tigers overwhelmed the Yankees in the first engagement of the series by 13 to 7.

The master stroke of the struggle came in the last of the seventh when, with the score deadlocked at 6-all, the Tigers exploded a seven-run rally. This floored all the Yankees in a body save Lou Gehrig, who as a parting gesture on the part of the vanquished invaders dropped his fourteenth homer of the season into the right field bleachers in the eighth.

Umpire Owens Injured.

So furious was the fighting that six hurlers, four for the Yanks and two for the Tigers, had to be sent into the fray, and during one of the most devastating moments of the afternoon one umpire was brought down. This occurred in the upper half of the seventh when a screeching liner off Harry Rice's bat struck Brick Owens, umpiring at second base, in the leg. The arbiter went down in a heap and play had to be called for several minutes before he could be helped off the field.

Thanks to an energetic three-run outburst by the Yankees in the third, in which singles by Lary, Ruth and Gehrig and a triple by Lazzeri did most of the damage, Owen Caroll, former Tiger, entered the fourth holding a 4-2 lead.

But in this round Carroll started to waver and Shawkey hurriedly replaced him with Vernon Gomez, who at once got into trouble which yielded the surging Tigers four tallies, a mighty triple by Stone with two on featuring the attack.

10,000 Watch Battle.

This put the Tigers two in front, but in the seventh Sorrell lost both in a manner that exasperated the crowd of 10,000 beyond measure. For though the Yankees got only one hit in this frame, this by Rice, four passes, forcing in two tallies, enabled New York to tie the score at 6-all.

INDIANS TRIUMPH; BAT GROVE HARD

Administer Second Defeat in Row to Athletics' Star in Series Opener.

CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP).—Cleveland cut one game from the Philadelphia Athletics' lead in the American League race by battering Bob Grove into his second successive defeat today in the series opener, 6 to 2. While the Indians were finding Grove and Shores for twelve hits, Willis Hudlin effectively scattered the Athletics' ten blows.

Cleveland had the game clinched through three single-run innings, but when Shores succeeded Grove in the eighth the Indians added three more for good measure.

MAMAUX OF NEWARK CHECKS JERSEY CITY

Holds Losers to Seven Scattered Hits and One Earned Run—Selkirk Gets Homer.

Al Mamaux held Jersey City to seven scattered hits at West Side Park, Jersey City, yesterday and the Newark Bears emerged triumphant, 4 to 3, in the one-game series between the two clubs.

Mamaux displayed perfect control and the only earned run he allowed was George Selkirk's homer over the right-field wall in the fourth inning.

Johnny Allen was the losing pitcher, being reached for nine hits. The Bears scored the winning tally in the seventh after two were out when Jordan, Zitzmann and Windle singled in succession.

The Toronto Leafs open a three-game series with Jersey City today.

AIR-TIGHT BATTLE GOES TO SENATORS

Hadley and Braxton Pitch in Sterling Fashion to Take Measure of White Sox.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP).—Washington won a nip and tuck battle from the White Sox today, 2 to 1. Hadley and Braxton pitched air-tight ball.

For seven innings Hadley allowed only two hits but he was taken out when Kerr and Jolley hit in the eighth.

Dutch Henry pitched fine ball, too, allowing ten hits but keeping them well distributed over the nine innings.

NEWTOWN CAPTURES P. S. A. L. SEMI-FINAL

Conquers Brooklyn Tech Nine, 6-5, for Right to Play Roosevelt for City Title.

CAPONIGRI FANS 13 BATTERS

St. Ann's and Brooklyn Prep Win C. H. S. A. A. Division Crowns—To Meet in Final.

The Brooklyn Technical High School baseball team, Brooklyn P. S. A. L. champion, was defeated by the Newtown High School nine, Queens Division titleholder, 6 to 5, in a nine-inning P. S. A. L. semi-final contest at Farmers Oval, Glendale, yesterday.

A crowd of 5,000 spectators saw the Newtown nine gain the right to oppose Theodore Roosevelt High School on Saturday for the city title.

Al Caponigri, Tech pitching ace, replaced Jerome Corcoran on the mound in the first inning and fanned thirteen Newtown batsmen in the remainder of the game. Zitek struck out eleven of the losers.

St. Ann's Captures Title.

Xavier Rescigno blanked Manhattan Prep with three hits as St. Ann's Academy triumphed, 1 to 0, in the play-off for the Manhattan Division C. H. S. A. A. baseball championship at George Washington High School Stadium yesterday. Manhattan Prep won the city C. H. S. A. A. title last year.

The triumph gave St. Ann's the right to meet Brooklyn Prep, the Brooklyn C. H. S. A. A. champion, for the city title. The game will probably be played on Saturday.

Yale Swimmers to Take Part In Events in Western Cities

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 11.—Yale's swimming team will give exhibitions or take part in meets in Detroit on June 26; Milwaukee, June 27; Denver, June 30, and San Francisco, July 3 and 4, on its way to the international intercollegiate swimming meet in Honolulu on July 17, 18 and 19. This was announced tonight by Manager M. J. Roberts, who, with Coach Robert Kiphuth, will accompany the team of fourteen swimmers.

Coach Kiphuth has arranged a commencement week meet for Monday, June 16. George Kojac of Rutgers and Ray Ruddy and Al Zorilla of New York City will compete with the Yale stars.

CUYLER'S HOME RUN GIVES CUBS VICTORY

Blow With Two on Bases in 3d Provides Winning Margin Over the Phils.

LOSING STREAK IS ENDED

Root Hurls Triumph for Chicago—Klein's Triple Gives Philadelphia Its Only Runs.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11 (AP).—Charley Root put the Chicago Cubs back in their winning stride today after three straight defeats when he hurled his team to a 6-to-2 victory over the Phillies.

Kiki Cuyler's home run in the third inning with Blair and English on the bases gave the Cubs their winning markers. Later in the game they pieced together three more runs to make the margin safe.

Chuck Klein's triple with Sothern and Sherlock on in the third inning accounted for all the runs scored by the Phillies.

You mean.. there's No Rivet..at all?

No sir! The rivet is banished from Spalding Cushion-necks ... making possible the first Steel-shafted Irons that combine the advantages of the steel shaft with all the sweet feel of the finest hickory.

The little rivet that joins the head to the shaft has been part of the steel-shafted club for a long time. But in Spalding Cushion-neck Irons the association ends—the rivet goes out, to make possible the only steel-shafted irons with the sweet feel of the finest hickory.

And what great news that is to the big majority of golfers who already use steel-shafted woods.

They swear by the steel shaft in woods because it puts the swinging weight into the head and aids controllability ... because it lessens wind resistance ... because it can't warp ... and because it is more uniform and permits more perfectly matched sets.

But despite their enthusiasm for steel-shafted woods, they haven't had much good to say for steel-shafted irons. Because in irons, all sweetness of feel is missing—the metal-to-metal contact of steel shaft against steel head causes shock and vibration that turn every shot sour.

But Spalding has removed all shock, all sour feel, and all objection to the steel shaft, by removing that rivet. Spalding, by removing the rivet, gives to the golfing world the sweet-feeling, straight-shooting, steel-shafted Irons it has been waiting for!

Naturally, the Cushion-neck idea has been imitated. But the catch with the imitations is, that they do everything but eliminate the shock—they all have the rivet in there—and none of them can achieve the same sweet feel as Cushion-neck without encroaching upon Spalding patents. Just ask your Professional what he thinks of these great clubs.

Queens County Handicap Won by Kildare, 25-1 Shot, as Aqueduct Meeting Opens

KILDARE, 25-1 SHOT, FIRST AT AQUEDUCT

Wins by Nose From Kai Feng in Queens County Handicap, Opening Day Feature.

BALKO, FAVORITE, IS THIRD

Sortie and Comstockery Follow Closely—Everytime, 8-1, Takes Opener, With Byrd Second.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Those who like thrills with their racing were well supplied on the opening day at Aqueduct yesterday when five of the seven horses in the Queens County Handicap finished noses apart. When the judges finished counting the noses there was another thrill, for the Newtondale Stable's Kildare, a 25 to 1 shot and the absolute outsider in the field, was adjudged the winner.

Kai Feng, from the Rancocas Stable, was placed second and then came the 8 to 5 public choice, Balko, from the Sagamore Stable, which was swallowed up in the rush of horses in the last sixteenth when he was in the lead and apparently a winner.

After Balko the order of finish was Sortie, Comstockery, Distraction and High Strung, the two last named being the only horses really out of the race, and both were well backed, Distraction being the 13-5 second choice, somewhat as a result of running over his home course, and High Strung because he bore the colors of Robert L. Gerry, who was at the track to see his juvenile champion of 1928 perform.

Kildare Earns $7,350.

Kildare earned $7,350 by the victory, which the feather of 95 pounds helped him appreciably to win. Conversely, Balko's top weight of 123 pounds told in the drive down the long Aqueduct stretch, where Kildare ran at his throat with a twenty-eight pound pull in the weights. That is a lot of weight for any horse to give away and for Balko it proved too much. Kildare's time at the end of the mile was 1:38 3-5 and the result makes the second year in a row that a lightweight has taken the race. Last season it was Comstockery, with 97 pounds, which beat all the high weights. Comstockery was next to the outsider in the betting yesterday and bore 104 pounds.

The start was good, with High Strung showing first in front, with Balko second. Before the first furlong had been completed Balko was on top and High Strung was beginning to show signs of the sluggishness which was to bring him up last at the end. They went on to the bend with Balko first, Kildare second by dint of saving ground along the rail and Sortie and Distraction running neck and neck.

When straightened out in the stretch Balko was second, having lost ground when Bejshak went wide. This gave Kildare the lead, but Balko ran him down and came on to look like the winner. Meanwhile about every other horse in the race made a move and they came on like a wave.

Sortie Finishes Strongly.

Balko faltered under his weight and young Tony Passero got another notch out of Kildare and he dropped his nose in front of Kai Feng, which Fator got up with one of his best finishes. Sortie finished just as fast on the outside, and the judges had a hard time of it, for Comstockery also was up in the final strides to make a bid for honors.

The whole afternoon saw a great knocking about of the favorites, only two of the six winning, the Fair Stable's Byrd being the first to fall in the curtain raiser. He was 11-5 in the betting, but was beaten two lengths by J. P. White's Everytime, an 8-1 shot. Hilaria, another 8-1 shot, got third, while Perkins, the 18-5 second choice, was out of the money.

In the second race, the Wingfoot Steeplechase, Autumn Bells, the 7-10 favorite, was the winner when Stoney Lonesome, fastest of the three that ran against him, fell. The mishap gave Rollicking Princess second place, and as Thomas Paine was the only other starter and stood up, he got third.

Abduction, the 2-1 favorite in the third race, was a winner, but he gave his backers heart failure when Sonny Workman made a Garrison finish with Friar Bacon, a 12-1 shot, and was beaten only a head. Alpine Girl was third.

The big race followed, with a test for maiden fillies fifth on the program. Lee Rosenberg's Sun Parched, at 10-1, won by a head from Patricia Agnes, a 30-1 shot. Stefana, a first-time starter, was third, while Angry Plume, the 11-5 favorite, was fourth.

Gallant Fox and Whichone To Meet in American Classic

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP).—Gallant Fox and his most formidable 3-year-old rival, Whichone, will meet again in the second annual running of the American Classic at Arlington Park July 12, officials of the Chicago track have been advised by owners of the two thoroughbreds.

The Classic, a race of one mile and a quarter for 3-year-olds, will have an estimated gross value of $86,900, of which $70,000 will be added money. Ten are expected to start. Blue Larkspur won the inaugural running, beating a field which included Clyde Van Dusen, Windy City and Dr. Freeland.

NUSAKAN IS FIRST; PAYS $50.06 FOR $2

Irwin's Entry Scores Upset in Washington Park Feature, Beating Crack Sprinters.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP).—C. B. Irwin, the Wyoming cowboy turfman, gave the talent a severe jolt at Washington Park today when his 5-year-old sprinter Nusakan captured the Morrison Hotel Handicap. The distance was six furlongs and Nusakan conquered a band of reliable sprinters in achieving his victory. Club House, another outsider, was second, and old T. S. Jordan earned the minor portion of the purse. The time for the three-quarters was 1:12 4-5.

Nusakan paid $50.06 in the mutuels.

By The Associated Press.

Wednesday, June 11. First day. Weather clear; track slow for first three races; good thereafter.

9754 FIRST RACE—The Kingston Handicap; $1,200 added; 3-year-olds and upward; six and a half furlongs. Start bad; won easily; place same. Winner, b. or br. c., 4, by High Time—L'Independante. Trainer, F. J. Kearns. Time—0:24⅘, 0:48⅘, 1:14⅘, 1:20.

Ind.	Starters.	Wt.	P.P.	St.	¼	½	¾	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys.	O.	H.	Cl.	Pl.	Sh.
(9592)	Everytime	106½	4	4	4^{4}	3½	3^{2}	1^{hd}	1^{2}	K'tsger	10	10	8	3	8-5

(6616)	Grey Watch	109	3	3	2^{1½}	4^{2}	6	6	6	L.Fator	9-2	6	6	2	1

Everytime broke slowly but worked his way up on the outside and drew out in the final furlong to win nicely in hand. Byrd broke last and was lengths in back, but closed a big gap. Hilaria beat the gate by several lengths, but weakened badly at the end. Perkins had scant chance with the start. Grey Watch had speed for three furlongs, then quit.

Owners—1, J. P. White; 2, Fair Stable; 3, W. R. Coe; 4, M. Field; 5, S. Ross; 6, Rancocas Stable.

9755 SECOND RACE—The Wingfoot Steeplechase; purse $1,500; claiming; 4-year-olds and upward; about two miles. Start bad; won easily; place same. Winner, br. g., a., by Ballot—Autumn II. Trainer, J. Healy. Time—4:14.

*Lost rider.

Autumn Bells was much the best. He was rated in front and, fencing well, drew away after clearing the last jump. Rollicking Princess showed early speed, but dropped back in the last mile, then moved up fast and was an easy second. Thomas Paine lacks speed on the flat. Stoney Lonesome swerved out at the jumps and lost her rider two jumps from the finish.

Owners—1, G. Brook II; 2, S. Ross; 3, B. G. Guth; 4, F. A. Cark.

9756 THIRD RACE—Purse $1,000; claiming; 2-year-olds; five furlongs. Start good; won driving; place same. Winner, b. c., by Crimper—Resist. Trainer, P. M. Burch. Time—1:00⅗.

Ind.	Starters.	Wt.	P.P.	St.	¼	Str.	Fin.	Jockeys.	O.	H.	Cl.	Pl.	Sh.

9718	Backfire	112½	6	7	7	7	7	Burke	15	15	10	4	2

Abduction ran without blinkers today. He broke fast, came to the middle of the track and, standing a long drive gamely, just lasted to win. Friar Bacon, under strong riding, finished fast. Alpine Girl saved ground all the way and ran a good race. Meek had no mishap. The Afghan broke from the outside post position.

Owners—1, H. E. Talbott Jr.; 2, Mrs. V. Emanuel; 3, G. D. Widener; 4, W. Garth; 5, Belair Stud; 6, C. H. Thieriot; 7, California Stable.

9757 FOURTH RACE—The Queens County Handicap; $5,000 added; 3-year-olds and upward; one mile. Start good; won driving; place same. Winner, br. g., 4, by Star Master—Hibernia III. Trainer, N. Tallman. Time—0:23⅗, 0:47, 1:12⅘, 1:38⅗.

9642^{2}	High Strung	118	4	1	2^{2}	3^{2}	4^{3}	7	7	McAtee	3	6	6	2	1

Scratched—Maya.

Kildare, under light weight, ran along with the pace, saved ground all the way and just lasted to win. Kai Feng, outrun for the first half mile, came with a rush in the final furlong and just failed to get up. Balko had his usual speed, ran out on the stretch turn, came again in the stretch and finished gamely. Sortie, nicely ridden, closed with a rush. Comstockery had no mishap. Distraction was hard ridden and had no excuse. High Strung had plenty of speed, but tired badly.

FREE-FOR-ALL TROT CAPTURED BY BRONX

Wins First and Third Heats to Take Feature at Northampton Light Harness Races.

PETER INGROMAR TRIUMPHS

Leads Field in Three-Year-Old Trot—Better Win Is Victor in the 2:09 Pace.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 11.—Bronx, the veteran Belwin gelding, proved the winner of the free-for-all trot, which featured the program of light harness races of the Bay State Circuit today. Driven by Rodney, the gelding won the first heat, took third in the second and then came back to win the third and final.

After being fifth in the first heat, the Peter Volo colt, Peter Ingromar, came back to win the next two and capture the three-year-old trot. Better Win showed to advantage in the 2:09 pace. The colt led the field in the first heat and then was last in the second. In the final he recovered his form to again win.

MEADOW BROOK POLO SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Three or Possibly Four Games to Be Played If Fields Are Sufficiently Dry.

Three and possibly four games are tentatively scheduled to be played among various polo combinations on Meadow Brook Club fields this afternoon, but the final decision will not be made until 11 o'clock this morning. The turf on Cochran Field yesterday still was very wet, with small lakes formed in various places.

After an inspection of the field this morning, it will be decided whether to hold the contests or await the regular opening of the Westbury Challenge Cup and Meadow Brook Club Cup tournaments on Saturday. Much interest has been aroused among followers of polo in the announcement of the draw for the first round in these two tournaments.

Aside from the fact that these tournaments always have proved interesting and exciting in themselves, this year they have a particular importance in that they will show the playing ability of riders who may be called upon to defend the Westchester Cup against Great Britain this Autumn.

Captain Tommy Hitchcock wishes to reduce the field of candidates to its lowest possible number just as rapidly as possible, so that those who remain in the running may be concentrated upon and the final weeding-out process developed in time to allow thorough preparation for the international tournament.

If contests are played this afternoon they will be started two hours earlier than planned. This is in deference to many players and followers of the teams who wish to attend the Sharkey-Schmeling fight in the Yankee Stadium this evening. Therefore the first match is scheduled to start at 3:30, the second at 4:30 P. M. and the others at 5:30 and thereafter.

The lone game scheduled for Sunday at the Fleischman Field of the Sands Point Club, a first-round Westbury Challenge Cup match, will be started at 4 o'clock, having been scheduled for this field through the courtesy of the Meadow Brook Club. In this game the Shelburnes will oppose the Meadow Brook Ramblers.

JAEGER IS VICTOR IN 30-MILE RACE

Georgetti Trails Winner at Newark Velodrome—Flat Tire Deprives Deulberg of Triumph.

A flat tire on the twenty-sixth mile deprived Franz Deulberg of victory in a thirty-mile bicycle grind in one of the features of last night's program at the Newark Velodrome. The German rider turned in a great race for that distance, but finally had to go to the rear, with Charles Jaeger, Vailsburg star, pulling to the front to defeat Franco Georgetti of Italy.

PACING MARK SET ON ELYRIA TRACK

Chancellor Cigar Makes Best Time of Year for Half-Mile Oval in Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

ELYRIA, Ohio, June 11.—Chancellor Cigar, champion pacer of last season, defeated his foremost rival, Patchen Boy, in the 2:09 pace, feature event on tonight's Short Ship Circuit card, scoring his seventeenth consecutive triumph. The sensational colt paced the first mile in 2:05¾ and the second in 2:04¼, breaking the track record and turning in the fastest performance on a half-mile track this year.

Dr. H. M. Parshall, who piloted Chancellor Cigar to victory, also scored with Widow Brooks in the 2:18 pace.

Yale Nine Defeated by Brown; Princeton Wins

BOWIE HOLDS YALE AND BROWN SCORES

Allows Only Five Safeties to Register 1-0 Victory in Game at Providence.

WINNERS TALLY IN THIRD

Rasmussen Hits Triple and Crosses Plate on Freedman's Sacrifice—Five Double Plays Made.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 11.—The Brown nine shut out Yale, 1 to 0, today in a game marked by fine pitching and especially brilliant fielding. Bowie was in brilliant form, allowing the Eli team only five hits.

Five double plays were made, of which four were turned in by the winners.

Brown's run came in the third inning. Rasmussen drove the ball far into right field for three bases and scored when Freedman hit a long sacrifice fly to right field.

Yale's best opening came in the sixth. With one out Bowie walked McKenzie and Booth in succession and each advanced a base on Walker's sacrifice. Vincent then walked to fill the bases. McKenzie, however, was caught at the plate on Snead's grounder to Caulkins and Bowie then struck out Maine to retire the side.

PRINCETON EIGHTS IN DOUBLE SESSION

California Also Drills on Lake Carnegie, Trying Starts—Navy Due Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 11.—Princeton's varsity and freshman crews worked twice on Lake Carnegie today, the first double drill since Spring vacation. Short brushes and starts featured the workouts.

Both crews took a seven-mile paddle to the dam and back this morning. Coach Logg took advantage of the warm weather and smooth condition of the lake to give his sweep-swingers a hard drill this afternoon, their first stiff workout since examinations.

Coach Logg said that tomorrow's drill would be the last hard one before the triangular regatta with California and Navy here Saturday.

California also took two workouts today, although Coach Ebright lightened the assignment considerably. In the drills both this morning and this afternoon the Golden Bears concentrated on racing starts at not more than five or ten strokes at a time. This morning the varsity had a one-minute sprint at a 35 pace. Both boats worked together in the drills.

Navy will join the oarsmen at the Class of '87 boathouse tomorrow and try the water on Lake Carnegie in the afternoon.

Shoemaker, Sick, Makes Way for Wilson of Third Varsity.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 11.—The Cornell varsity shell was without the services of Commodore Hod Shoemaker today. Shoemaker, who has been stroking the varsity since the Carnegie Cup regatta at Princeton, is not well and is expected to be out of the shell for about a week. He has been replaced by Wilson, stroke of the third varsity.

Scott, 3, and Parsons, 7, in the varsity switched places today for the two long workouts which comprised the training routine.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

BEING in the nature of rambling thoughts on the heavyweight situation of the moment:

Sharkey is more experienced than Max Schmeling, sometimes known as Otto the Umlaut and a young man who thinks that the Tunney-Muldoon trophy would benefit by an ocean voyage. John L. Sullivan was more experienced than James J. Corbett. Bob Fitzsimmons was more experienced than Jim Jeffries. Sullivan lost. Fitzsimmons lost.

Sharkey will be heavier than the Teutonic invader. Sullivan was heavier than Corbett. Corbett was heavier than Fitzsimmons. Jeffries was heavier than Johnson. Willard was heavier than Dempsey. Dempsey was heavier than Tunney. Pounding can beat down poundage.

Schmeling is a crude boxer. Jim Jeffries was no boxer. Neither was Jess Willard. Jack Dempsey's defense was a sustained attack. Tommy Loughran is or was a fine boxer. Sharkey knocked him out.

Reports have it that Schmeling was knocked around by his partners in the training camp. Heeney was knocked around by his sparring partners. So was Phil Scott. They lost.

More Evidence.

Sharkey looked to be hitting harder and boxing better than ever in his training period. Dempsey looked to be in great shape before the first Tunney bout, in which bout he appeared to be one of those famous hollow shells. Sharkey was hitting harder and boxing better than ever before the Scott bout in Miami. He was very bad in that bout.

There have been nine world's heavyweight champions, counting Tommy Burns. Most of them were hitters rather than boxers. Sharkey is more of a boxer than a hitter. Schmeling is a hitter and no boxer at all. History favors the hitters. One heavy punch can offset all the previous fine boxing of the day or evening.

Some think that Sharkey should be better in this fight because he has picked up in weight. That was what spoiled Tommy Loughran, who was a world's champion at 175 pounds and just another heavyweight at 185 or thereabout.

Training.

Secret agents report that Schmeling did no roadwork, no punching of the heavy bag and not enough sparring in his training for this affair. He played golf instead. Tunney did plenty of roadwork for all his fights, worked hard on the heavy bag and experimented with punches and counter-punches in his daily bouts with sparring partners. Jim Jeffries did no roadwork for his come-back against Johnson. Willard wasn't strong for roadwork. Both were slaughtered. It may have been a coincidence.

Before the Miami fight Jack Sharkey banged his fist against the side of an auto and shouted gleefully to a friend: "Hard as iron! I'm hitting better than ever before." He didn't land a good punch in the melancholy mix-up.

Sharkey lost his head in his bout with Dempsey and again in his scramble with Scott. He has a tendency to blow up under a mental strain. Schmeling is of the stolid type mentally as well as physically. If Max doesn't fall down, will Sharkey blow up?

Still Wondering.

Willard was crude and strong. Firpo was crude and dangerous. Schmeling has courage and a punch. Paulino couldn't push him around. He must be fairly strong. He may be very crude compared to Sharkey, who is a far better boxer than most heavyweights.

Schmeling has been imitating Dempsey's weaving style of attack, but it isn't natural to him and may be a handicap. Dempsey was throwing punches as he was weaving in. Schmeling, when last seen in actual combat, was merely weaving. He had to stop, look and listen before he took aim and in many cases the target had moved on.

Sharkey's record is far more impressive than Schmeling's record. He has fought better men. That may be because he fought in this country, where it was easier to find them. How much does experience count? Jim Jeffries won the world's championship in his eleventh fight. But times have changed. It's a different game.

Cloudy and Warmer.

Sharkey has plenty of money. He is older than Schmeling. Perhaps he has lost some of his early ambition. Still, the prospect of winning a world's heavyweight championship would stir up almost anybody.

No one knows how Schmeling will stand up if Sharkey hits him with a right like the one that floored Tommy Loughran. If Sharkey could hit a fellow like Loughran, he should be able to park a dozen such blows, if needed, on the chin or cheek of a slower fellow like Herr Max.

Sharkey can take a good blow and keep going. The only worth-while whack of the last Miami fight was a right-hander by Scott that landed flush on Sharkey's left cheek. It angered the Bostonian more than it hurt him. Of course, Mike McTigue was really a light heavyweight, but he was bowling over big fellows with that famous right of his in his old age. He hit Sharkey with it a dozen times, and each time Sharkey fought back harder.

The Bostonian knocked over Delaney and Loughran, but he wasn't much against Heeney, Risko, Christner and Scott. Schmeling has been steady-going.

No Conclusion.

Most of the ball players are picking Sharkey to win under wraps. That's odd, because they usually are for the hitters, in baseball and in the ring. Furthermore, they picked Dempsey twice to beat Tunney, which would indicate that they are not infallible.

Sharkey fought better when conditions were against him and the rooting was in favor of his opponent. It was the cheering for Maloney in Boston that made Sharkey so bitter against a fellow-townsman and civic hero. It was the case of an outcast seeking revenge. He got it.

Some suspicious bystanders favor Sharkey because he is fighting a foreigner who can expect nothing but the worst of it, according to ring history. Scott and Firpo are offered in evidence. But how about Tom Heeney? He was treated royally and had no complaint to make.

Sharkey might win on points or by a knockout. Schmeling might win by a knockout. It doesn't seem possible that he could win on points. A decision on a foul would be a heavy blow at the whole boxing industry. With an in-and-outer like Sharkey in a bout, any choice is just a wild guess. It wouldn't even be safe to say that a new world's heavyweight champion will be crowned at the Yankee Stadium this evening. It may rain.

SYRACUSE OARSMEN AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Four Crews Under Ten Eyck Arrive in Camp to Prepare for Races June 26.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 11.—Both the weather and the river relented today and the oarsmen in training for the intercollegiate regatta of June 26 took full advantage of conditions.

Before the sun had set the eight crews in training were joined by four more as the 80-year-old Jim Ten Eyck led his Syracuse men into camp.

Today the first of the varsity time trials were staged. Soon after 5 o'clock Columbia's varsity came pounding down over the course, paced well by the fine-looking freshman crew in training. There was a strong tide running out and the water was very smooth.

The three crews of Columbia joined in the festivities, the junior varsity dropping out at the bridge, where the long last mile starts, and the varsity and freshmen continuing on to the finish. Coach Glendon did not announce the time.

Rusty Callow mapped a full day of work under the fine conditions which greeted the oarsmen today, and Penn's eights put a good deal of mileage behind them, probably fifteen or sixteen. Tonight, at the finish of the workout, they were tempted into sprinting through the latter part of the course.

No new changes were announced in any of the camps. Triska still was in the Columbia varsity and the boat looked pretty good in its trial. But Glendon may yet decide to put Lozier back in the first boat.

Syracuse has made an early arrival in camp this year. The crews arrived during the afternoon and work was immediately started at rigging the shells so that they could take to the river tonight.

The varsity, junior varsity, freshman and substitute boats later went for their first Hudson paddle.

YALE AND HARVARD STAGE TIME TRIALS

Both Varsity Crews Hold Tests Over Four-Mile Course on the Thames.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 11.—Both Yale and Harvard's varsity crews had time trials over the Thames River four-mile course today. Conditions were favorable for fast time in each instance, but the results of the tests were not announced at the boathouses.

Yale's trial today was downstream and it was the fourth time the varsity eight rowed the whole course since its arrival May 28. The beat was kept close to the 32-mark for the entire distance.

Harvard's varsity eight rowed a steady stroke, ranging from 30 to 32, tonight when it covered the course in an opposite direction from that rowed by Yale. It was a regular try-out for all of Harvard's crews tonight, as the junior varsity combination and freshman eight also reeled off two-mile speed tests. No changes were reported in any of Harvard's boats.

HONOR FOUR N. Y. U. STARS.

Hormel, Forscher, Faber and Seley Receive Scholastic Awards.

Four New York University athletes were among those honored with special prizes at the ninety-eighth annual commencement exercises of the university yesterday. They were Henry D. Hormel, football; Joseph L. Forscher, lacrosse; Benjamin Faber, co-captain of the fencing team, and Gabriel P. Seley, tennis.

Hormel received the Gamma Eta Sigma fraternity gold medal, awarded to the varsity athlete who has the best record in all-around scholarship in the School of Commerce. Forscher received the Sandham oratorical prize for excellence in formal orations. Faber won the Minnie Kramer Cowin prize for the best essay in the field of political science, while Seley, with the highest scholarship in biology, received the Wortis Biological Prize.

PRINCETON RALLIES TO DEFEAT TEMPLE

Overcomes Two-Run Margin in Fifth and Pushes On to 4-2 Triumph.

MOLES RETIRES IN FIRST

Tiger Pitcher Walks First Three Men and Losers Convert Wildness Into Scores.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 11.—Princeton tallied four times in the fifth inning to overcome a two-run lead and defeated the Temple nine, 4 to 2, today. Four hits, a walk and a Temple error accounted for the Tigers scoring in the inning.

The visitors jumped into the lead in the opening inning, scoring twice without making a hit. Ted Moles, who turned Rutgers back with only seven safe blows on Saturday, was wild, and, after he had walked the first three men to face him, was replaced by Bowman.

Bowman walked the next man to force in Leaness from third. The second tally came soon after when Godfrey forced Young at second and Rambone came home.

Hits by Hendey, O'Toole, Morse and Wittmer figured in Princeton's winning rally.

ARMSTRONG'S 147 TOPS ENGLISH CRICKET PLAY

Leicestershire Star's Batting Against Surrey Features First-Class Matches.

LONDON, June 11 (Canadian Press Cable)—Splendid batting by Armstrong of Leicestershire, who scored 147 runs against Surrey, featured today's first-class cricket matches. Newman of Middlesex also turned in a fine performance, his 110, not out, being a major part of Middlesex's first innings score against Essex.

The first day closing score:

Lancashire vs. Sussex at Manchester; Lancs 186 for 5 wickets (Watson, 68).

Gloucestershire vs. Kent at Bristol: Gloucester, 198 (Sinfield, 58; Freeman, 6 for 97); Kent 21 runs for no wickets.

Warwickshire vs. Yorkshire at Birmingham: Yorkshire 364 for 9 wickets (Mitchell, 76).

SEES PSYCHOANALYSIS NO MARITAL MEDIATOR

Oberndorf Tells Neurologists of Science's Role in Domestic Discord.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11.—While judges in domestic relations courts increasingly tend to refer cases of marital difficulties to the psychiatrist and the psychoanalyst, it should not be considered the primary concern of the scientist whether the practice leads to recasting of marriage regulations, Dr. C. P. Oberndorf of New York said today at the convention of the American Neurological Association.

"The only position which the psychoanalyst can assume in these matrimonial tangles is to bring to consciousness those unconscious factors which produce social discord," Dr. Oberndorf declared. "It is not the function of the psychoanalyst to assume the rô of guide either in keeping the couple together or in advising separation."

He predicted that the desire for monopoly will eep the monogamous marriage alive for many centuries, "perhaps with somewhat altered stipulations."

Divorce is on the increase, Dr. Obendorf said, because it no longer brings social stigma and because women have become economically independent.

A Man With a Bad Temper Is Better Than a Man with no temper at all, for with care and patience the worst of us all have some good nature that can be brought upon to overcome the bad-natured, ill-mannered hastiness of speech and animosities of human beings who have grown up to make themselves more disagreeable than they know. There are "natural heart singers" and unconscious growlers. The greatest need of this present-day world is more smilers, singers, patient, good-natured, strong-minded men and women. Teachers train the children to be such.

PRESTES ACCLAIMED BY CITY AND NATION

President-elect of Brazil Is Welcomed Here With Civil and Military Honors.

DELAYED 5 HOURS IN FOG

He Hails Our Friendship as He Boards Macom on Way to Reception at City Hall.

HURRIES ON TO WASHINGTON

Is Greeted by Stimson at Union Station—Will Exchange Calls With Hoover Today.

To signify that the friendship between Brazil and the United States "is already more than a tradition and constitutes truly a patrimony" and to officially return the visit of President Hoover to Brazil, Senhor Julio Prestes de Albuquerque, President-elect of Brazil, landed for the first time on American soil here yesterday and was greeted with all the pomp with which New York receives her distinguished guests.

Fog-bound off Ambrose Channel light for more than five hours, Dr. Prestes's ship, the Almirante Jaceguay, with her escort of two Brazilian and two American cruisers, did not reach Quarantine until 3 o'clock in the afternoon instead of between 8 and 10 in the morning, as scheduled. The President-elect, his 22-year-old son, Fernando, and five others in his party were welcomed aboard the Macom by representatives of the Federal and City Governments, the army, the navy and the State Department, headed by George Akerson, secretary to President Hoover.

Broadway Acclaims Party.

Crowds of home-going office workers lined the Battery, and Broadway from the Custom House to the City Hall was packed with people and strewn with ticker tape as the official party passed.

In a speech of welcome in the Aldermanic Chambers Mayor Walker stressed the importance of the visit as a gesture of friendship between the two peoples and joked with Dr. Prestes on his lateness.

"I concede to you, sir," the Mayor said, "a championship which heretofore had been given to me." Dr. Prestes left immediately after the exercises for Washington in a special train, where he will be received today by President Hoover.

The program of welcome was arranged by the Mayor's Committee on the Reception to Distinguished Guests, in cooperation with Federal officials, the Pan-American Society, the American Brazilian Society and the Merchants Association. When the Macom left the Battery at 9 o'clock yesterday morning to steam down to Quarantine, several score members of the welcoming committee crowded the deck. The party included:

GROVER A. WHALEN, chairman of the committee.
GEORGE AKERSON, secretary to President Hoover.
WARREN D. ROBBINS, representing Secretary Stimson.
Major Gen. HANSON E. ELY, commanding the Second Corps Area.
Rear Admiral LOUIS R. DE STEIGUER, commandant of the Third Naval District.
S. GURGEL DO AMARAL, Brazilian Ambassador to the United States.
Dr. SEBASTIAO SAMPAIO, Consul General of Brazil in New York.
FRANK C. MUNSON, head of the Munson Steamship Lines and chairman of a committee of business men of the American-Brazilian Association.
WILLIS H. BOOTH, president of the Merchants' Association.
Lieut. Col. CAMPBELL B. HODGES, military aide to President Hoover.
Commander JOSE DO COUTO AGUIRRE, Brazilian naval attache.
R. E. SCHOENFELD of the State Department.
A. STUART DURRANT, vice president of the International General Electric Company.
Commander A. T. BEAUREGARD, U. S. N.
Lieut. Col. CHARLES C. MOORE, U. S. A.

The two last have been named naval and military aides to Dr. Prestes during his visit. Representatives of aviation companies were also on board.

The Fire Department Band played jaunty tunes as the tug steamed down the bay and photographers were busy adjusting their apparatus. As the Macom reached Quarantine it was found that a thick fog, hanging low over the Narrows, had so reduced the visibility that no vessels were able to enter the harbor. During the forenoon, while the committee waited and lunched as best it could at a small delicatessen shop near the quarantine station, the fog lifted sufficiently to permit the Berengaria and a few other vessels to come in and anchor above Fort Wadsworth.

It was not until well on in the afternoon, however, after Mr. Whalen had been forced to leave in a police launch for the Battery in order to attend a wedding in Philadelphia, that it was learned that the Almirante Jaceguay was anchored with her four escorts off Ambrose Light waiting for a weak sun to banish the fog. In the meantime, plans for the reception at the City Hall at the scheduled hour of 11:30 had been canceled by George F. Mann, who took Mr. Whalen's place as head of the Mayor's committee.

Ship Finally Appears.

The Brazilian-Lloyd liner finally loomed out of the afternoon haze after 3 o'clock. Before her, the two-starred flag of Rear Admiral O. G. Murfin flying at its main truck, steamed the cruiser Trenton, followed by the Marblehead. Astern of the liner followed two Brazilian cruisers in dark war-gray, with the red lead of their water line outlined vividly against the oily water of the channel. They were under the command of Rear Admiral Heraclito Belfort. The American cruisers joined the other vessels late yesterday about 200 miles from Sandy Hook.

As soon as the Almirante had anchored the Macom drew alongside and seven of the welcoming committee boarded her to formally greet Dr. Prestes. Accompanied by the President-elect and his party, they immediately returned aboard the tug and the trip up the harbor was started. As the Macom pulled away from the liner, the Fire Department band played the "Star-Spangled Banner" and the cruisers fell in astern and ahead of the tug. During the forty-five minute trip to the Battery, Dr. Prestes posed for photographers and told newspaper men that his visit has no political or international significance other than that of friendship.

Speaking in Portuguese, which was translated by Ambassador Amaral, the President-elect said:

"The development of the friendship of the two countries widens continuously, not only as regards our economic intercourse, but also in the commerce of ideas and in the effort of our two countries in favor of Pan-Americanism. Friends since our independence, friends the United States and Brazil will be for all times, thanks to the thriving force of their ardent idealism and to their boundless confidence in the constructive power by democracy."

He declined to discuss the present economic condition of Brazil or the pending United States tariff bill, repeating that he was making "only a visit of friendship."

As the Macom neared the Battery, a national salute of twenty-one guns was fired by the leading Brazilian cruiser, the Bahia. It was answered gun for gun by Fort Jay, and a little later, as the Macom drew abreast of Governors Island, the batteries again blazed out in a twenty-one gun personal salute to the President-elect. As the second Brazilian cruiser, the Rio Grande do Sul, turned into the East River to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where the two vessels will be berthed during the visit of Senhor Prestes, the fireboat John Purroy Mitchel, lying off the Battery, spouted five streams of water into the air in salute.

Dr. Prestes disembarked quickly at Pier A and entered an automobile with Mr. Mann, the Brazilian Ambassador and Mr. Akerson. A battalion of infantry from Governors Island, a company of sailors and a company of marines from the Brooklyn Navy Yard and two bands, which had been waiting since early mornign, came to attention as the bands played the Brazilian national anthem and The Star-Spangled Banner.

The military escort under the command of Major Thomas G. Bond, U. S. A., wheeled into Broadway with more than seventeen cars following them. Only a handful of the crowd that had been waiting since the morning were among the spectators, but the tall office buildings along the downtown canyon disgorged thousands, who lined the sidewalks and taxed the police lines. Fluttering streams of ticket tape poured from office windows and Trinity Church was wreathed with paper streamers as Dr. Prestes passed.

Walker Greets President-Elect.

He arrived at the City Hall about 5:18, where a weary force of 300 policemen held back a large crowd. Dr. Prestes, his son and party were escorted to the Aldermanic Chamber, where the President-elect was presented to Mayor Walker through Mr. Mann and Ambassador Amaral. Then, in an address broadcast over WNYC, the Mayor "thrice-welcomed" Senhor Prestes, telling him that New York respects Brazil and is proud of the Brazilians living here. Senhor Prestes responded briefly in Portuguese, which was translated by the Ambassador, thanking the city "cordially for the magnificent reception."

He was then whisked away to the Pennsylvania Station, where, together with Mr. Akerson, Mr. Robbins and other government representatives, he boarded his train for Washington. He left the station at 6:04 P. M. for a four-day visit to the capital, after again receiving honors from soldiers of the Sixteenth Infantry and from the Eighteenth Infantry Band lined up in the concourse. The dirigible Los Angeles braved the mist of the lower bay to fly over Quarantine yesterday morning about the time Senhor Prestes was expected. It returned later to pass over the City Hall, while the President-elect was being welcomed by the Mayor.

In addition to two Brazilian photographers who are accompanying Dr. Prestes and his son, the President-elect's official party includes Ayeo Freitas Valle, José Cochrane do Alencar, Decio Moura, Lazary Guedes and Dr. Martins Fortes. They are expected to return to New York late Sunday and will stay at the Ambassador. Senhor Prestes will inspect West Point next Monday and will be entertained at a dinner at the Hotel Commodore on Tuesday. He is expected to sail for a tour of England and France on the Olympic on June 20.

Mrs. Prestes Sails for Paris.

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 11 (AP).—Mrs. Julio Prestes, wife of the President-elect of Brazil, and her two daughters sailed today for Europe on the Cap Arcona. Senhor Prestes, now in New York, will meet his family in Paris. On her way to the United States Mrs. Prestes was taken seriously ill and was obliged to leave the steamer at Pernambuco.

Washington Greets Prestes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—After a delay of more than five hours, occasioned by the dense fogs in New York Harbor which kept his party from landing, Dr. Julio Prestes, President-elect of Brazil, arrived here at 9:25 o'clock tonight and was welcomed at the Union Station by Secretary Stimson and other officials of the State Department and of the army and navy.

A marine guard lined the track from the platform of the special train which brought the party from New York, and outside the station Troop F of the Third Cavalry and a battalion of field artillery came to attention as the distinguished visitor and his entourage emerged from the Presidential entrance, while the army band played the national anthem of Brazil.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock Dr. Prestes will go to the White House to pay his official call on President Hoover, who will at once return the visit, and the program for the week will then be carried out without further change.

3,733 Blue Law Violations In Trenton on Three Sundays

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 11.—Results of a canvass of Sunday blue law violations made by Trenton police at the request of Director of Public Safety George B. LaBarre on each of the last three Sundays and made public today disclosed that 3,733 offenses, or more than 1,200 each Sunday, were committed against the antiquated State vice and immorality act.

The canvass was made after motion picture theatres in Trenton suddenly opened on Sundays and church people vainly protested to Director LaBarre to close the theatres.

The principal violators, the canvass disclosed, were candy, tobacco and delicatessen stores, about 500 of which remained open each Sunday. Railroads were guilty of about 200 violations each Sunday and garages selling gasoline and oil of about 100 violations each Sunday. Other offenders were restaurants, theatres, trolley and bus lines, bootblack stands, tennis and baseball players, commercial photographers, canoeists, bowlers, golfers, musicians in the public parks and persons going fishing.

STATE TO DECORATE BYRD ON JUNE 24

Governor Will Award Distinguished Service Medal to Explorer in Ceremony at Capital.

PLANS MADE FOR THRONGS

Admiral and His Party Will Go to Albany on a Destroyer to Be Guests of Executive.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 11.—The State's Distinguished Service Medal will be conferred upon Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd at a ceremony to take place in Capitol Park, June 24, Governor Roosevelt announced today. Details are now being worked out and the full program will be announced later. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is the only other man outside of the State's military or naval forces who has received the medal.

Governor Roosevelt said he had just received news that Admiral Byrd will be able to reach Albany on the date set. The explorer will arrive on a destroyer and be a guest at the Executive Mansion, with members of his party, which will include Admiral Byrd's mother, his wife, his brother, former Governor Harry Byrd of Virginia, and Mrs. Harry Byrd.

The ceremony will be one of the most notable that has ever taken place in Albany. It will bring to the city thousands of visitors who wish to catch a glimpse of the man who has flown over both the North and South Poles, as well as the Atlantic Ocean.

Rear Admiral Byrd will bring with him a memento of the South Pole flight.

"He promised me," said Governor Roosevelt today, "he would bring me something that he took over the Pole with him. I already have a letter he carried when he flew over the North Pole, and a flag he carried with him on his transatlantic flight. I propose to have all three framed together."

According to tentative plans, a National Guard regiment will be drawn up in front of Capitol Park during the ceremonies. State police also will be brought from all parts of the State to help handle the crowds. The Governor's military staff will accompany him when he leaves the Capitol to make the presentation.

37 UP-STATE CITIES TO PAY HONOR TO BYRD

Mayors in Fort Stanwix-Oriskany Area Issue Proclamations for Flag Day Tribute.

The Mayors of thirty-seven municipalities in the Fort Stanwix-Oriskany area of New York State in proclamations have urged residents to do honor on Flag Day, which is Saturday, to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who was a guest at the 150th anniversary celebration of the area at Fort Stanwix, Aug. 6, 1927.

A letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES from Charles S. Donnelly, Mayor of Utica, asks that congratulations be forwarded to Admiral Byrd, and commends THE TIMES for its "correct and constructive daily contact with the most remarkable voyage of successful discovery ever planned."

"For June 14 of this year," he writes, "we, the Mayors of thirty-seven municipalities in the counties of Oneida, Herkimer, Fulton, Montgomery and Schenectady, whose basic line of transportation is the Mohawk River, have made proclamation to all of the 500,000 residents that on Flag Day, June 14, 1930, they make an extraordinary display of the Stars and Stripes to do honor to the flag and to the man who has so outstandingly and courteously carried it over our earth's polar confines."

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, at Sea, June 11.—The City of New York and the steamship Eleanor Bolling, with Admiral Byrd's homeward-bound Antarctic expedition, were at noon today at Lat. 29.97 N., Long. 75.30 W., 338 miles south of Diamond Shoal (Cape Hatteras).

CITY OPENS ITS CLINICS FOR PLASTIC SURGERY

Dr. Greeff Emphasizes That Free Services Are Not to Be 'Beauty Treatments.'

Free plastic surgery clinics established at hospitals throughout the city are now in operation, according to an announcement yesterday by Dr. J. G. William Greeff, Commissioner of Hospitals. Dr. Greeff also announced the locations of the new clinics. The commissioner's announcement brings to fruition a plan which he announced early this year for giving free service to those unable to pay high medical fees for correcting facial disfigurements.

The new clinics are in charge of Dr. James F. Grattan, director of the Division of Plastic Surgery of the Department of Hospitals, who will supervise the work at Bellevue Hospital. The post which Dr. Grattan holds was created for him early this year by Commissioner Greeff.

The clinics and those in charge of them are as follows:

MANHATTAN—Bellevue Hospital, 421 East Twenty-sixth Street, Dr. James F. Grattan, director, in charge; Dr. Max Marsh, assistant surgeon. Metropolitan Hospital, 430 East Eighty-eighth Street, Dr. C. A. Chamberlin, in charge; Dr. M. Maltz, assistant surgeon.
BROOKLYN—Kings County Hospital, Clarkson and Albany Avenues, Dr. Walter A. Coakley, in charge; Dr. Louis F. Crasson, assistant surgeon.
BRONX—Lincoln Hospital, 141st Street and Southern Boulevard, Dr. G. Aufricht, in charge; Dr. J. Friedman, assistant surgeon.
QUEENS—City Hospital, 220 East Fifty-ninth Street, Manhattan, Dr. John B. Lauricella and Dr. C. R. Straatsma.
RICHMOND—Gouverneur Hospital, Gouverneur Slip and Front Street, Dr. W. W. Carter, in charge; Dr. N. Japhe.

Dr. Greeff emphasized yesterday that the treatments were not to be "beauty treatments." Their principal purpose, he said, was to erase or relieve facial disfigurement that interfered with employment.

Pershing Has a Talk With Tardieu.

PARIS, June 11 (AP).—Premier Tardieu today received General Pershing at his office in the Ministry of Interior. This was the General's first call upon M. Tardieu since he became head of the government, although he had known him previously for years. They had a half-hour talk, but nothing was announced as to their conversation.

TAXI CHARGE DENIED BY GENERAL MOTORS

Counsel Contradicts Allegation by Yellow Concern of Coercion to Get Cab Concessions.

SCORES 'CRY-BABY' TACTICS

Rivals Could Not Renew Franchises on Business Basis, He Says—Decision on Stay Reserved.

The General Motors Corporation denied yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lydon the charge that it had coerced railroads and steamship lines into awarding taxicab concessions to its subsidiary, the Terminal Cab Corporation, as alleged in the suit filed recently by the Yellow Taxi Corporation of New York.

Justice Lydon reserved decision on the Yellow Taxi Corporation's plea for a permanent injunction to bar the Terminal Cab Corporation from operating under a concession recently obtained from the Furness-Bermuda Line at Pier 95, North River. The temporary restraining order now in force will remain effective until Justice Lydon's decision is handed down. He gave both sides until today to submit briefs.

Albert F. Jaeckel, of counsel for the Yellow Taxi interests, told Justice Lydon that General Motors had forced the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads to turn over cab concessions at their terminals by threatening to divert its huge shipments of automobiles over their lines. Similar threats, he declared, were made against the Furness-Bermuda Line.

The Yellow Taxi contract with the Furness-Bermuda line was an oral agreement terminable at will, Henry B. Hogan, counsel for General Motors, told Justice Lydon. The Yellow Taxi contracts with the New York Central for concessions at Grand Central Terminal and the West Shore ferry station had expired before the Terminal Cab Corporation received the concessions, he declared. The same situation, Mr. Hogan said, existed at the Pennsylvania station.

"They could not obtain renewals on a business basis and now they are 'cry babies' in court," he declared. "They are claiming that these carriers were coerced into refusing to continue their contracts when they know as well as any one else that no one tried to coerce anyone."

Denying that Yellow Taxi employes had been solicited to leave their jobs and work for the Terminal Cab Corporation, Mr. Hogan asserted that such solicitation would have been legal because there were no employment contracts between the men and the company.

Mayor Walker's commission on taxicabs held another executive meeting at City Hall yesterday to discuss evidence taken during its recent public hearings. Another executive session will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Perkins Heads Safety Group.

Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner, was elected president of the New York State Safety Congress at a meeting of the advisory committee of the congress held yesterday at the offices of the State Labor Department, 124 East Twenty-eighth Street. Deputy Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews was elected vice president, and J. D. Hackett, director of the Bureau of Industrial Hygiene of the Labor Department, was chosen secretary.

VINELAND TRUST CO. CLOSES ITS DOORS

Shut by State Superintendent When Officers Fail to Make Good $200,000 Deficit.

"BAD LOANS" ARE BLAMED

Drop in Securities and Realty Also Factor—200 Depositors Crowd About Institution.

The Vineland Trust Company of Vineland, N. J., failed to open its doors yesterday after its affairs had been taken over by the New Jersey State Superintendent of Banking, Frank H. Smith. Mr. Smith at his New York office estimated yesterday that the capital of the bank had been impaired to the extent of at least $20,000, in addition to the entire surplus and undivided profits of the $1,000,000 institution.

The closing of the doors of the institution followed the failure of the officers and directors of the institution, the largest of the three in Vineland, to supply the money Mr. Smith estimated was necessary to put the bank in sound condition. At a meeting in Trenton on Tuesday he asked the directors to supply more than $200,000. This, he said yesterday, they were either unwilling or unable to do.

Mr. Smith laid the closing of the bank to "bad loans" and the decline in securities and real estate due to the business slump. He said that the most charitable statement about the affairs of the bank would be that it had been "badly managed."

Former Judge Herbert C. Bartlett, who was special prosecutor in the Atlantic City municipal investigation; Benjamin Stevens, Cumberland County prosecutor and former Mayor; Frank Wanser, the postmaster, and J. Pierson Reed, the president, are among the officers and directors.

In official quarters it was said that the loss would be about $200,000, unless some of the notes held to be of little value turn out to be better than expected. This sum would be sufficient to wipe out all of the stockholders in the bank, and might make it impossible to return 100 cents on the dollar to the depositors.

Mr. Smith said that the liquidation of the assets would be begun immediately, and that any notes not paid on demand would be protested. Inspectors were assigned to the bank about the first of the year, Mr. Smith said, and at least one man has been working steadily there since. Several months ago Charles Barraclough, the treasurer of the bank, resigned.

The Vineland Trust Company was organized about twenty-five years ago. According to its report of March 27, it had a capital of $100,000 and a surplus of $100,000. Its deposits of that date were $1,800,619, divided among about 3,500 depositors.

After Barraclough's resignation, it was announced that President Reed had suffered a breakdown and could not actively manage the concern. Since then its affairs have been run by the board of directors. Superintendent Smith explained that the $100,000 surplus of March 27 was only a book surplus and was far more than what his examiners have found to be the true condition of the bank.

Within half an hour after the bank failed to open its doors yesterday morning, 200 persons, mostly depositors, gathered in front of the building but received no information except the notice that the bank had been taken over by the State Banking Superintendent. Four policemen were assigned later to handle the crowd.

The savings of Vineland school children were in the bank, and the children, many in tears, formed part of the crowd in front of the institution.

First in the Morning Field Throughout the World

THE NEW YORK TIMES in five months of this year published 11,725,621 agate lines of advertising—more than any other morning newspaper in the world and an excess of 3,842,448 lines over any other New York newspaper (morning or evening). For many years The New York Times has maintained leadership among all New York newspapers.

In May also The Times was world leader in the morning field, publishing 2,450,704 agate lines, exceeding any other New York newspaper by 796,723 lines.

The high quality of the advertising published in The New York Times is more significant than its tremendous volume. Thousands of lines of announcements are excluded monthly because they do not meet The Times standards of acceptance.

FLY CASH TO MIAMI AS 4 BANKS CLOSE

Airmen Arrive From Jacksonville With $2,000,000 to Halt Runs on Others.

$6,000,000 MORE ON WAY

Oldest Bank in South Florida and Three Branches Fail Because of Heavy Withdrawals.

MIAMI, Fla., June 11 (AP).—The Bank of Bay Biscayne, oldest financial institution of South Florida, and three subsidiaries in metropolitan Miami failed to open for business today. The subsidiaries are the Miami Beach Bank and Trust Company, the Bank of Coral Gables and the Biscayne Trust Company.

Notices posted on the doors of the institution said the action had been taken by directors "for protection of depositors" and because of "recent substantial withdrawals."

A fifth banking house, the Bank of Homestead, closed after being open an hour, with the statement that it would reopen in a few days. Homestead is 30 miles south of Miami.

The Bank of Bay Biscayne listed total resources of $17,182,292.53 and deposits of $15,037,198.93 as of March 27, 1930, in its last quarterly report.

President James H. Gilman declined to give later figures as to the bank's condition or an approximation of the amount of recent withdrawals. Capital stock was listed as $1,000,000 and surplus and profits at $1,145,093.60.

In a statement issued by the subsidiaries at the same time, the Biscayne Trust Company was listed as having $1,520,041 deposits and $1,962,148 resources. The Miami Beach Bank and Trust Company showed $2,349,943 deposits and $2,539,281 resources. The Bank of Coral Gables listed deposits of $606,598.94 and resources of $743,759.

Heavy withdrawals were reported by other banks of the city, but the arrival of $2,000,000 in cash by airplane from the Jacksonville depository of the Federal Reserve Bank this afternoon, with the announcement by Governor E. R. Black of the Federal Reserve Bank in Atlanta that a total of $6,000,000 in cash was en route here, was expected by banks to allay fears of depositors before tomorrow.

The City National Bank remained open after its regular closing hour to give depositors opportunity to withdraw their money if they chose. President Hugh Gordon Jr. said withdrawals had been approximately $350,000 and that funds were available for all depositors seeking them.

C. Reed Taylor, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank in this district, came here today by air from Tampa and went into conference with officials of the Bank of Bay Biscayne, a member of the Reserve System.

Arthur W. Saarinen of the State Banking Department took charge of affairs of the closed bank and subsidiaries.

City and County Funds in Banks.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., June 11.—Postal savings deposits here today showed a marked increase, with $100,000 in new accounts, but this money was turned back into the three national banks of the city with an expression of confidence by postal officials here.

County Commissioners reported that there was $500,000 of county money in the Bank of Bay Biscayne when it closed, with accounts of other county officials showing more than $100,000 additional deposits. The city of Miami deposits amounted to $418,992.91. All these funds were said to be secured by first-class collateral.

The Bank of Bay Biscayne was founded May 2, 1896, only seventeen days after the first train reached Miami, and was older than the municipality itself. It survived all financial flurries following the collapse of the speculative real estate market and was regarded as one of Florida's soundest institutions.

ELLIOTT WITNESS PUTS QUESTIONS TO HIMSELF

State Closes Case Against Four for Kidnapping Passaic Banker Last June.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 11.—The unusual spectacle of a witness, who is of counsel for the defense, cross-examining himself marked the closing today of the State's case against four defendants on trial before Judge Joseph A. Delaney in the Court of Quarter Sessions for the kidnapping of Willard H. Elliott, Passaic banker, last June. The defendants are Harry Kuller, Joseph Bongiorno, Joseph Jackovicz and Angelo Lapaduro.

Harry H. Weinberger, founder and former president of the New Jersey Bankers Securities Company, which once owned the Hobart Trust Company, of which Elliott was vice president, is defense counsel in the present trial for Kuller. He was called to the witness stand this afternoon, the last of twenty-two witnesses for the prosecution.

Assistant Prosecutor James M. Dunn questioned Weinberger about his presence at a conference at which the purchase of the Katz Brewery here for $300,000 was discussed. The prosecution contends that Kuller's motive in the kidnapping was Elliott's refusal to approve a loan of $15,000 Kuller had sought from the bank to participate in the purchase.

After the prosecutor had brought out Weinberger's presence at the conference the latter turned to Judge Delaney and obtained permission to cross-examine himself. Then, in response to his own questions, he declared that he had attended the conference as the attorney for Max Silverman, that Silverman was to have been the sole purchaser, and that Kuller was present only as an agent.

Weinberger then opened the defense by demanding that the State elect which of the six counts of the indictment it would rely upon and against which of the four defendants. When Dunn replied that the State upheld all counts against each of the defendants Weinberger moved that this was inconsistent with the evidence. He was overruled by Judge Delaney. Weinberger then moved for Kuller's acquittal on the ground that the State had failed to prove the commission of a crime or the existence of a corrupt agreement among the defendants. He was still arguing his plea when adjournment for the day was taken.

Will Rogers Gets Inside Data On Mr. Coolidge, Also 'Degree'

To the Editor of The New York Times:

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 11.—Just been over to Northampton and had a fine visit with Mrs. Coolidge. She showed me their lovely new home and grounds.

Mr. Coolidge had gone down to New York to attend the monthly insurance directors' meeting. I asked her if he ever missed one. She laughingly said: "Not for $70." I asked her what he did about the meetings when he was in California. She said he sent in his double.

I hated to have missed him, but I wouldn't have found out anything if he had been there. In fact, I think I got a great break.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—I was up there getting an honorary degree from Smith College.

CHECKS UP VISITORS TO VAUSE'S COURT

Tuttle Questions Bench Aides in Effort to Learn Who Called on the Judge.

RECALLS SHIP OFFICIALS

Wants to Examine Them on $187,000 Paid by United American Lines as Part of Lease Fees.

Determined to leave nothing undone to obtain an explanation of the facts behind the $250,000 fee received by Judge W. Bernard Vause from the United American Lines for negotiating pier leases for the company, Charles H. Tuttle, United States Attorney, continued yesterday his inquiry in two directions.

He again summoned officials of the line before the grand jury to cast additional light on vouchers and bills covering $187,500 paid by the company to Judge Vause as part of the fee, and also had before the grand jury Judge Vause's court secretary and two court clerks.

The testimony of the court officials was intended to gain information concerning the kind of persons who called on Judge Vause while he was performing his judicial duties, as well as those who were present in the courtroom on certain occasions.

The steamship officials were H. M. Robinson, former president of the United American Lines; Christian J. Beck, vice president, and H. R. Hanlin, executive secretary. They were ordered to bring with them their personal account books as well as those of the company.

The court secretary who appeared before the grand jury yesterday was Edward J. Allen. The clerks were James Carberry and William Caulfield. Mr. Tuttle would not discuss the nature of their testimony beyond revealing its general character.

Another witness before the grand jury yesterday was Harold Kennedy, trustee in bankruptcy for the bankrupt Columbia Finance Corporation. For his connection with the $400,000 failure of this corporation Judge Vause is to go on trial, together with nine other defendants, on the charge of using the mails to defraud. Mr. Kennedy was ordered to bring with him the minutes of his hearings and other documents in his possession.

It was learned in dispatches from Albany yesterday that Governor Roosevelt will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Vause within the next two weeks.

BURGLARS HURL SAFE IN PATH OF PURSUER

Fire From Auto at Policeman and Escape After Robbery in Weehawken.

On his motorcycle, exposed to the gunfire of two burglars in a fleeing automobile, Policeman John Cahill of the Jersey City Traffic Bureau pursued the fugitives at seventy miles an hour along Newark Turnpike yesterday until they abandoned their loot and their car.

They had stolen a small safe about fifteen inches in height a short time before from the home of Jack Dunne, wealthy retired brewer of Kingswood Road, Weehawken. The safe contained 1,000 shares of Philip Morris Company. The burglars escaped by dumping it into the path of the pursuing policeman. As Cahill slowed his motorcycle to avoid a collision with the obstacle, the burglars fired two shots at him. Cahill fired back.

At a fork where the new State highway bridge meets the Hackensack River the two fugitives left their car and disappeared.

The abandoned automobile, a five-passenger La Salle, is believed to have been stolen. It was sold, Inspector Underwood found, by the Packard Motor Sales Company of Detroit to a man believed to be living in New Rochelle.

POLICEMAN HELD AS THIEF.

Long Beach Man Accused of Taking Lumber—Aide Faces Minor Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., June 11.—Two members of the Long Beach police force were arraigned in the County Court today on charges of complicity in lumber thefts reported by residents of Long Beach last month.

Sergeant John Doris was charged with grand larceny for the theft of lumber from a house in the course of construction on Lafayette Boulevard, and Patrolman Michael Doyle was charged with omission of duty for his actions on the night the theft was committed. Both men, already suspended from the Long Beach department, were released on bail, Doris in $5,000 and Doyle in $2,000.

Will Welcome Foreign Delegates.

Henri Prince, managing director of the Ritz Tower Hotel, has accepted Mayor Walker's invitation to act as sub-chairman for France of the Mayor's committee to welcome foreign delegates to New York before the eleventh annual Federation Interalliée des Anciens Combattants in September at Washington, D. C. Tenement House Commissioner William F. Deegan, who is chairman of the committee, made this announcement yesterday.

TUTTLE GIVES CRAIN WITNESS ON WALSH

Considers Man So Vital to County Inquiry He Has Him Escorted to Prosecutor's Office.

CRITICISM OF THE MAYOR

Citizens Union Demands That He Force Chairman Out and Order a Housecleaning.

BALDWIN THREATENS MOVE

Declares If Aldermen Do Not Act He Will Appeal to Governor for a State Investigation.

United States Attorney Tuttle attached such importance to the testimony yesterday of Augustus Misch of 875 Elton Avenue, the Bronx, a witness in the government's investigation of matters relating to the Board of Standards and Appeals, that he had Assistant United States Attorney John A. Wilson escort Mr. Misch directly from the grand jury room to the office of District Attorney Crain. Mr. Tuttle also wrote Mr. Crain he was convinced that Mr. Misch's statements about Chairman William E. Walsh of the Board of Standards and Appeals and about Dr. William F. Doyle, chief practitioner before that board, were of vital importance to the District Attorney's investigation.

Mr. Wilson and his witness did not see Mr. Crain, but were received by Assistant District Attorney Albert B. Unger. No statement was made after the visit by either State or Federal authorities, but it is believed that Mr. Misch will be a witness today before the county grand jury.

Mr. Tuttle also informed Mr. Crain that he was having photostatic copies made of papers produced by Mr. Misch and impounded by the Federal grand jury and that he would furnish the District Attorney with some of these copies today. Mr. Tuttle wrote Mr. Crain that he was sending Mr. Misch to him "because the subject matter [of Mr. Misch's testimony] concerned directly the State laws." Mr. Misch was said to be a mechanical engineer.

The appearance before the Federal grand jury yesterday of Internal Revenue Department representatives was understood to mean that Dr. Doyle's income tax returns and those of other persons as well are being carefully examined in the hope of ascertaining the identity of at least some of the persons with whom he split his fees. Mr. Tuttle said the grand jury had not voted an indictment against any one as yet.

New Attacks on Board.

While the two criminal investigations went forward yesterday despite Mr. Walsh's refusal to waive immunity and Dr. Doyle's refusal to answer before the Federal grand jury even those questions he had been ordered to answer, two new attacks were launched against the Board of Standards and Appeals, in each of which Mayor Walker was criticized for his alleged failure to take any action on complaints made to him.

The Citizens' Union, in a letter to the Mayor, urged that he demand the resignation of Mr. Walsh and order a complete "house cleaning and reorganization" of the Board of Standards and Appeals. Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d. announced at a luncheon of the municipal affairs committee of the Brooklyn Young Republicans' Club, at its headquarters, 131 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, that unless the local laws committee of the Board of Aldermen acted favorably today on his recent resolution for an investigation of the Board of Standards and Appeals, he would appeal to Governor Roosevelt to order such an inquiry by State Attorney General Ward.

The Citizens' Union letter to the Mayor recalled that more than ten days had elapsed since the District Attorney announced that his investigation had revealed that Mr. Walsh had for over three and one-half years been permitted to occupy an apartment "worth not less than $4,000 a year, upon payment of only $1,500 per year," and that "the apartment occupied by Mr. Walsh is in a house for which a variance from the building regulations had been previously obtained by the notorious Dr. Doyle from the board over which Mr. Walsh presides.

"We respectfully submit," the letter went on, "that these circumstances, coming as they do to climax years of public distrust of the Board of Standards and Appeals under the chairmanship of Mr. Walsh, emphatically require you without further delay to demand Mr. Walsh's resignation, and to remove him from office if he should decline to resign.

"More than three years ago, the Citizens Union called attention to the deplorable state into which the board had fallen. We expressed the opinion that the situation called for action on your part; that the public interest, as well as the reputation of your administration, demanded that you undertake a thorough investigation at once. Instead of taking the initiative, you have permitted matters to drift in the face of recurring complaints and criticism.

"We respectfully submit that Chairman Walsh's retirement is long overdue and that a complete house cleaning and reorganization of the board under your direction, without further delay, is essential."

Baldwin Denounces Board.

In his remarks at the luncheon Alderman Baldwin denounced the alleged irregularities of the Board of Standards and Appeals and criticized severely Mayor Walker's failure to remove the chairman of that body.

The municipal affairs committee of the Brooklyn Young Republicans' Club unanimously endorsed a call on the Attorney General's Department for an investigation involving the granting of a gasoline station permit at Sixty-fifth Street and Thirteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, by the Board of Standards and Appeals. The resolution was forwarded to the Governor.

Alderman Baldwin explained that Governor Roosevelt had the authority to order Mr. Ward to investigate and indicated that his appeal to the Governor would be in the form of a public letter. Mr. Baldwin cited the questioning of Dr. Doyle by Mr. Tuttle as proof that a public scandal existed behind the activities of the Board of Standards and Appeals.

"Walker refuses to take cognizance of our demand," said Mr. Baldwin, "and Walsh sits there at the board meetings presiding in his flippant and amusing manner. The board is dominated by Walsh and every member votes as the chairman does."

A SENATOR WHO HESITATES.

At last accounts, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania had not "quite" made up his mind what position to take in the speech on the tariff which he is expected to deliver today. People must respect his efforts to convince himself of his duty, one way or the other. That a Pennsylvania Senator should even have doubts about voting for a high tariff is a spectacle so novel as to be in itself refreshing. Mr. Reed has made a brief statement of the points in the tariff bill which he wishes especially to examine with care. So far as the industries of his own State are concerned, he is not yet persuaded that they would not fare better under the existing tariff, let alone, than under the proposed new one. But his main hesitation arises from his confessed fear that the pending bill, if made law, would lead to an immense disturbance of our foreign commerce, and so to a further delay in the return of prosperity in this country.

This is a wholly new concern on the part of American protectionists. Their old defiant cry was: "What have we to do with abroad?" Now they are waking up to the fact that we have everything to do with it. That discovery is one that has been made by several Republicans, erstwhile unblinking protectionists, who have lately been on important official business in Europe. It was notably the case with Senator Reed as delegate to the London naval conference. In the course of his contacts with representatives of other nations, he must have gained an entirely changed conception of the interlocking of commerce throughout the whole world. A similar falling of scales from the eyes seems to have occurred with our Ambassador to France, Mr. Edge. While he was in the Senate he was a docile supporter of high protection, primarily for his own State of New Jersey, and also for the entire country. But no sooner had he gone to France and made a study of conditions there, consulting with various Chambers of Commerce and associations of manufacturers and producers, than he began to talk about America's need of buying as well as selling, and of finding profit in a mutual exchange of goods with France, kept as uninterrupted as possible. Not unlike his experience was that of another former Republican Senator, Mr. Sackett, sent as Ambassador to Germany. He passed through London on his way to Berlin, and shortly after he had reached the latter city began to utter what protectionists of other days would have regarded as rank heresy. To him, as to Mr. Edge, something like a sea change appeared to have happened, so that he could talk about the necessity of balancing exports with imports almost in the free-trade manner.

Striking demonstrations have been made of the fact that many of our own great manufacturers and exporters have come to the same point of view. All their public expressions of fear lest the higher tariff lead to foreign reprisals and slow down overseas trade just at the time when it is most vital to us have strongly reinforced the conclusions arrived at, for other reasons, by economists and business men and thoughtful Americans abroad. To their arguments, to their point of view, there is one man at Washington who, above all others, cannot be insensible. Mr. Hoover has repeatedly, as Secretary of Commerce, Presidential candidate and President in office, gone on record upon this question.

He knows that a flowing foreign trade means abundant employment at home. In one of his speeches during the 1928 campaign he said that curtailment of exports to South America inevitably would mean idle automobile workers in Michigan. The illustration could be multiplied indefinitely. If our foreign market is curtailed, our domestic markets will be choked. No one understands this connection of the two better than the President. In his conferences with Senator Reed the two men must very seriously have debated this aspect, and possible consequence, of the pending tariff legislation. Whether either or both of them will be able, on account of party pressure and political difficulties, to follow their clear judgment in this matter, we do not yet know; but what they would do if left with an absolutely free hand, there can be little question.

TO WIN OR LOSE IT ALL.

With an irresistibly comic gravity the chief of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey lays all its hopes and blessings upon the head of the Hon. John Franklin Fort, Dry Republican candidate for Senator. The time for filing independent petitions ends tonight. The chief complains of the evil election laws, sanctioned by Republicans and Democrats alike, to repress the activities of philanthropic, non-partisan associations like the League. Independent petitions must be filed before the primary. They must be signed by 800 persons. The signers cannot vote in the primary. To rob Mr. Fort of those 800 votes would be a gift to the forces of unrighteousness.

So the League must either injure its favorite or let "the Dry standard go by default." Mr. Fort has been "too courageous" as the bearer of that standard, for the League to be unkind to him. As a matter of fact, there will be an independent Dry candidate for both the short and the long terms. The stern and unbending Drys will not be without the consolation of being counted next Fall; and their quality will more than make up for their deficiency in numbers. Mr. Fort is an excellent gentleman, but as a Dry he is not too courageous. He is far from courageous. Seeing, as he thought, a chance to slip in between two Wets, he took it. If he is beaten in the primaries, he will support the Wet candidate. This is good primary etiquette; but if he had not been a Republican first and a Dry only secondarily, he would have kept out of the primary and run independently as a Dry.

What is his position? He is a Hoover Republican of 1928 clinging to the prohibition plank of that year. Mr. Frelinghuysen and Mr. Morrow have moved away from that. They are Hoover Republicans who have exercised the right, admitted by Mr. Hoover himself, of proposing change and reversal of the policy of national prohibition, constitutional and legal. After the primary Mr. Fort will "bow gracefully to the verdict," swallow his principles and vote for the winner. This is good party practice, but the courage of it is not manifest. One hates to see the Anti-Saloon League unequally yoked together with unbelievers. Mr. Frelinghuysen, too, has brave flashes. After long association and unfortunate collision with the Republican bosses, he is going about making the portentous "charge" that Mr. Morrow is the candidate of those bosses.

Theirs was the atrocious crime of picking out the fittest man for the post. The people can rise in their might and repudiate the choice in the primaries. If they won't—if for once the organization, State and county, has "pandered to" the wishes of "the rank and file"—we shall have to face with what composure we can the distressing subsidence of "Joe" Frelinghuysen, following, all too soon, that of "Old Joe" Grundy.

THE NEW CHIEF MAGISTRATE.

Joseph E. Corrigan's record in public life is one of stormy independence, courage and a long line of useful decisions in the municipal courts. He is popular enough with Tammany now to have been selected as Chief Magistrate by a Tammany Mayor with the approval of Leader Curry. But no longer ago than 1925 mention of his name for Police Commissioner was vetoed at "the Hall" on the ground that he was "too irregular." Twice, prior to that time, he bitterly attacked Democratic police administrations, and once he ran as an independent candidate for District Attorney against Tammany's choice. His battle with Mayor Gaynor over vice conditions will not be forgotten by admirers of rough-and-ready verbal combat. Chief Magistrate Corrigan's attitude toward public affairs has often reminded observers of Mr. Jerome, under whom he served for four years. His promotion to be Chief Magistrate seems to promise a vigilant and fearless administration in the public interest. If Judge Corrigan retains as Chief Magistrate those qualities which in other offices he has displayed, the general tone of the municipal bench may be improved.

In his active life he has been founder and first editor of The Columbia Law Review; prison reformer; forward in the hunt for crime; scourge of the perjurer, and harsh critic of the police. Once he offered his aid, a Democratic magistrate, to Henry Curran's committee of inquiry into local crime conditions. Once he attacked his late predecessor for not sitting frequently enough. It was Judge Corrigan who said from the bench, what many others felt but dared not say, that the sale of tickets for police benefits had become a nuisance. It was the new Chief Magistrate who once locked the doors of the Night Court and cut the telephone wires so that a raid on a protected disorderly house might be made without an advance "tip-off." From him have come common-sense decisions releasing persons arrested for playing cards in their homes or clubs, and denunciation of the Dry laws for clogging the wheels of justice. When he wasn't doing all this, Judge Corrigan was sailing boats or, in clubs and at private dinner parties, making paralyzing remarks about politics which were passed admiringly and wonderingly from tongue to tongue.

In 1917 his campaign posters were torn down by Tammany workers. In 1930 his choice to succeed the late Chief Justice McAdoo is hailed in the Wigwam. There is no evidence that Judge Corrigan's independent and honest viewpoint has changed. It appears to be a case of a Daniel come to judgment. His opportunities for good work are now increased.

THE GERMAN "MOBILIZATION" LOAN.

Agreement at Paris by the international bankers, on the terms and allotment of the first loan in order to capitalize Germany's reparation payments, introduces a new and extremely interesting phase in the adjustment of war obligations. From the first a more or less vague idea existed that the indebtedness between governments created by the war might eventually be converted into bonds negotiable on the general investment market. Our own first war loan statute of 1917, after providing for advances by the United States Government to affiliated foreign governments, provided also that the Treasury might at any time "sell at not less than the purchase price any of such obligations." This implied the shifting of the loan to private investors. No step has ever been taken in that direction with our loans to other governments. But the proposal made by the Young commission, for partial conversion of the German reparation indebtedness into bonds to be subscribed by the investing public, is distinctly such a measure.

The bonds which are now to be offered for this purpose on nine markets of the world aggregate something over $300,000,000, and are therefore only a small fraction of the total payments charged against Germany in the Young plan. Not all even of the prescribed annuities could be utilized for such an operation; because the Paris plan, for the purpose of safeguarding Germany's finances, provided that a substantial part of the annual payment should be postponable under certain circumstances and with certain restrictions. That part of the payments naturally could not be made the basis of an open-market loan. On the basis of the "non-postponable annuity," it is calculated that the limit of obligations which could be thus refunded on a 5½ per cent interest basis, with sinking fund allowed for, would amount to about $2,200,000,000. The presumption, therefore, is that the successful floating of this initial "mobilization loan" would in due course be followed at reasonably long intervals by other operations of the sort. This initial operation is to be effected chiefly on the French and American markets, each of which is to offer to investors slightly more than $98,000,000 of the new German 5½ per cents. Great Britain is to care for $58,000,000; Holland, Italy, Belgium, Sweden, Switzerland and Germany itself will take smaller amounts. It was undoubtedly the purpose to make the initial transaction one of world-wide scope.

No plans appear to have been formulated for future mobilization issues; they would naturally await the result of this first and therefore highly important issue. It is possible, however, that subsequent operations of the kind will bring some surprises, even to financial markets. Some of our Congressmen have perturbed themselves over the picture of an American market drained of its credit resources by repeated and enormous requisitions for this purpose. The limit of possible issue of such loans, and the not alarming amount to be taken by our market in the first one, suggest of themselves that the apprehensions have no rational basis, even supposing our own participation hereafter to be the same.

As a matter of fact, however, even that is doubtful. A prediction from a well-informed quarter has already been published that American investors will not again be called upon to participate. One of the delegates to the Paris conference, in reviewing the reparation settlement, has quoted French authorities as expressing the expectation that, of the $2,200,000,000 possible maximum of such issues, "French investors themselves will absorb perhaps three-quarters or even four-fifths." It must be remembered that France obtains more from the proceeds, even of this first "mobilization" loan, than her investors' share in the subscription. Furthermore, it is possible to effect a much larger French subscription through accepting, in payment for the 5½ per cent German mobilization bonds, the 3 and 4 per cent French Government rentes already held by the country's investors. The extent to which these considerations will shift to France the greater part of future offerings of the kind remains to be seen. Perhaps it will not have been forgotten that when France placed her huge foreign loan of 1872, to raise the necessary funds for the 5,000,000,000-franc war indemnity imposed by Prussia, the greater part of the subscription came from the German market.

CITIES AS SPECIALISTS.

There was never any serious doubt that Detroit would retain in the 1930 census the place of fourth among American cities which she won ten years ago. In Los Angeles recently the fumes of intoxication over passing Cleveland and the conquest of fifth place in the country drove some of the more susceptible temperaments to predict fourth place in succession to Detroit. But Los Angeles will be well below the 1,300,000 inhabitants first announced, and Detroit is safe by an indicated margin of more than a quarter of a million. She is well on the way to rolling up the second half of her second million people. She is more than a great American city. She is among the world cities.

Unlike the three leaders in the United States, our fourth city represents in her growth a specific factor added to the general progress of the American people. New York is the measure and resultant of the growth of the United States. In lesser degree this is true of Philadelphia. The growth of the West is measured by Chicago. No doubt there may be discovered any number of specific reasons contributing to the prosperity of the metropolis of the United States and of the Queen City of the West. For New York there would be the Erie Canal of our school histories, and her rôle as the chief entry port for the vast foreign migrations that have helped to people this country. And always there may be cited railroads and the proximity of coal, both hard and soft, and central geographical position. But those favorable factors are, as a rule, to be found wherever a great city has sprung up; they are useful as an explanation after the event. Being generalities, they have not the merit of the single explanation which lies behind the prosperity of the two newcomers, Detroit the capital of Automobilia, and Los Angeles the capital of Filmiana. To be sure, one may argue. Were not America as a whole dripping with prosperity, there would not be so many motor cars and movie films for Detroit and Los Angeles to manufacture. But the retort is obvious. Without the films, and certainly without the automobiles, American prosperity would be notably short of what it has been.

In any case, Detroit and Los Angeles stand, in respect to the source of their well-being, in a class with cities like Pittsburgh, Birmingham, and, considerably behind, the Patersons, Passaics, Lowells, Fall Rivers. Our three biggest cities represent the United States geographically. These other cities represent the American people occupationally—they represent automobiles, motion pictures, steel, cotton, silk. The newer the commodity represented, the more rapid the growth.

HOW TO SAVE FIRE ISLAND?

The Long Island State Park Commission has done well in deciding to hold further hearings before coming to a definite decision to bridge Fire Island Inlet and extend the parkway on Jones Beach all the way down Fire Island to Smith Point. The project is one of great importance, but involves a number of complicated and almost irreconcilable interests.

As a general proposition, the extension of a fine roadway down this magnificent stretch of beach has incomparable advantages for the public. But at least three opposing considerations must be weighed. The first is the technical difficulty of so laying down the road as not to spoil the beauty of the dunes and the beach front. The second is the injury to such communities as Point of Woods, long established on Fire Island, which derive much of their value from isolation. The third is the claim put forward by individual land owners that the beach, dunes and marshes should be left isolated so that they may the better be enjoyed by hunters, campers and fishermen.

Fire Island is one of the most interesting and picturesque bits of water front on the Atlantic Coast. In the central and eastern portion the dunes are high and rolling. Everywhere the growth is distinguished by variety of color and form of the trees, shrubs and plants. Scrub pines, twisted and flattened out by the winds, send prodigiously long, snake-like roots down the beaches in search of nourishment. Squat junipers and wind-swept red cedars flourish in the sands. Everywhere is the brilliant green bayberry bush—unfortunately, too often overgrown with poison ivy. There are beach plums without end, and—finest of all—groves of holly trees which have escaped the axe of the Christmas tree decorators. In fact, on Fire Island is the last remaining stand in New York State of the native holly which once was common from Long Island and Cape Cod southward.

To preserve this area unspoiled is the real problem. Putting as much of it as possible into State parks would seem to be the logical solution. But so narrow is the area that there is the danger of much destruction of the native growth unless the roadway be laid down with infinite care and thoroughness. If a through parkway means the destruction of much of the present character of Fire Island, the project should be abandoned.

Objections by the residents of communities like Point of Woods cannot be ignored. They contend—and to answer them is almost impossible—that a right of way through their isolated settlement will ruin it for them. Surely they are entitled to enjoy their property as it now is. Here again perhaps a little ingenuity on the part of the planners, together with a little goodwill on the part of the property owners, might make it possible to devise a plan which would not altogether spoil the secluded character of a lovely settlement.

At the hearing to be held next week these points can be more fully discussed. The peculiar conditions of the terrain make the problem particularly difficult. It is by no means so simple as the establishment of the Jones Beach Park and Parkway. Bathing and recreational facilities are not the sole consideration. The determining factor is the necessity of preserving the beauties of Fire Island for all time. This may well prove one of the toughest nuts the Long Island State Park Commission has yet had to crack.

GREEK AND TURK.

Less than a decade ago a historian of the Balkans, abandoning every pretense of explaining their contests for supremacy, added that these peoples have "without respite or relief "trod the mill of the same struggle, "as terrible as it is insoluble, down "to our own day." At the time of that writing, 1922, it did seem as insoluble as ever, but the news of yesterday gives hope that respite has been found and perhaps a permanent solution.

A friendly accord between Greece and Turkey makes all other international reconciliations seem possible, for one would have said that this "pact of friendship" was the least likely to be achieved. With the exiling of more than a million Greeks from their homes, their lands and their profitable trades in Turkey, and the forcible transplanting of a half million Turks from Greece to Anatolia, it would be assumed that not till a whole generation had died would the bitterness of the hatreds on both sides be so far quieted that any such agreement would be possible. But it is now obvious that the return of the Greeks of Asia Minor to the motherland has, with the aid given by a sympathetic Europe and America, been a blessing to Greece herself; and that the transfer of the Turkish stock to Anatolia has not been without advantage to Turkey. It was probably the most extensive exchange of populations ever effected. Each country finds itself with a more highly homogeneous population. And now that accord has been declared between the two peoples, they can both look forward to a less troubled future.

This may prove to be but the preface to a wider league of friendliness. The Balkan congress which Venizelos proposes may write a new chapter in the history of Europe and give a new meaning to the word "Balkans," which has for generations had more than a geographical implication, and has suggested incessant hostility between neighboring States and frequent border troubles. A Balkan Federation would furnish a cornerstone for the new economic structure envisioned in the United States of Europe.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Heavyweight Championship. So far as the New York State Athletic Board is concerned, tonight's fifteen-round boxing match between Jack Sharkey of Boston and Max Schmeling of Berlin is for the heavyweight championship of the world. All the Americas will probably follow the classification made by New York's Boxing Commission; and most of Europe will do the same. In England, however, there is a feeling that Phil Scott, the British champion, and not Sharkey, would be in the ring tonight had it not been for a disputed decision at Miami last Winter when the Briton fought the Bostonian.

Since everywhere else it is generally believed that Sharkey is Scott's master, this disaffection will not rob the title won tonight of much of its prestige. And, what is more important, it will not affect its market value. For a million or two in the next few years is the estimated earning of the young man whose hand is raised by the referee at the Yankee Stadium.

For some reason, although the newspapers, the radio and the talkies have given much space to the championship bout, it has not been so feverishly discussed as similar events in the past. Perhaps one explanation is that the vagaries of the stock market have kept busy an appreciable portion of the population that takes a keen interest in these fights. Another is that Schmeling is somewhat untried in comparison with the American. Of course, if he should win, he would assume (as have the Europa and the Graf Zeppelin) some of the significance of the New Germany. And Berlin, at any rate, would declare carnival.

The Disaster at Sea. No recent sea disaster has been more shocking than the ramming of an oil tanker in Massachusetts Bay by the steamship Fairfax in a fog. The tanker burst into flames, and soon the waters around her were covered with blazing oil. Nor did those on board the Fairfax all escape. Some are missing, others severely burned.

The Fairfax was moving cautiously through the fog when she collided with the tanker. There is plenty of sea room in Massachusetts Bay. Probably no thought was given to the possibility of an explosion and fire on the tanker.

Here was a horrible sea disaster that broke upon its victims without warning. If two airplanes instead of surface vessels had been involved, the hazards of aviation would again be stressed. Marine casualties are common all over the world, and it may be doubted whether comparisons would show that those who go up into the air in ships are in much greater danger than those who go down to the sea in ships.

Kansas Has a Bird. Everybody knows that Kansas has a flower, for the sunflower has been used to advertise the State. It seems that it also has a bird, not the featherless, trousered kind that occasionally migrates and enlivens other States, but a real one, the State bird. The Leavenworth Times has been inquiring in sarcastic accents the use of the meadowlark as an emblem of Kansas. It suggests abolishing, not the bird itself, but its service as a symbol.

Such notions could not pass unreproved by William Allen White. He agrees that the meadowlark was a bad choice, but Kansas ought to have some representation on the wing. "Bill" offers the horse-fly. And if there are to be State flowers and State birds, why not a State vegetable? Head lettuce or leaf lettuce, with a preference for the latter, would suit him.

Some time ago this city, through restaurant ballots, nominated cabbage as its vegetable. This carried its team-mate, corned beef, to victory by its popularity. That is all right for cold weather, but for this time of year New York can well afford to choose something lighter. If Kansas and Mr. White will permit, it should be that same leaf lettuce, so abundant in his State, so rare in New York eating places, and it should be served with vinegar and bacon and a little sugar, and thoroughly wilted. As for a bird, if they take the horse-fly, we might elect the mosquito.

Studying Foreign Shops. A course of study of merchandising methods abroad is offered by the University of Pittsburgh this Summer, with credits given for successful completion of the course. One of the professors is to conduct a group of students, most of whom are department store employes, through the shops of England, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia and Sweden.

Such a trip is certain to be educational in some respects, as most of the students have never been abroad before. But it seems doubtful whether they can learn much about foreign methods of retail selling by spending a few days in each of a dozen different cities. Special luncheons and addresses by leaders in the merchandising field abroad have been arranged, but how many of the students will be able to understand what is being explained to them?

These young men and women might learn more, and they would surely have a better time, if they were turned loose to make purchases in the stores they are studying. They would quickly understand how the Paris salespeople lead the buyer to the cashier to pay, instead of accepting the money and returning change themselves. Much more can be discovered by a personal tour of the shops than by lectures on their methods.

Utica to Observe Centenary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In view of the centennial celebration in 1932 of the settlement of the city of Utica, N. Y., it may be of interest to note that one hundred years ago that city was surpassed in every way by both Whitesboro and New Hartford. In 1832 flint was employed with punk boxes to light fires, lucifer matches were mere sticks with sulphur tops. A night watchman looked after the safety of the people. Anthracite was coming into use. Drinking of strong liquor was greatly in vogue. There were no lectures, no concerts, no plays. On March 1, 1832, Joseph Kirkland, a graduate of Yale, became Mayor of Utica. The Seneca Turnpike, the great highway through central New York, owes its existence to Kirkland. He was one of the founders of Hamilton College and helped in the development of many business activities in Utica. FRED L. PALMER.

THE SUSSEX SHEPHERD.

He sleeps today in waxen shroud;
His gentle hands are full
Of snowy may; with finger-hold
Upon a wisp of wool

He carries to the Heavenly Throne
To show the waiting Lord
He could not leave in lambing-time
To hear the Blessed Word.

No lark will ever waken him;
The mists will climb the sky;
And in the dew-pond on the Downs
His shadowed sheep go by.

TARIFFS AND WAGES.

Standard of Living Basis for Revision Is Seen as Inconsistent.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In his address accepting the Republican nomination for the Presidency, on Aug. 11, 1928, Mr. Hoover said: "Foreign products raised under lower standards of living are today competing in our home markets." In his address in Boston, on Oct. 15, 1928, he referred to the Underwood tariff as follows: "The competition which it provided was competition with foreign wages and standards of living." In his message to Congress at the opening of the special session in April, 1929, the President said: "No discrimination against any foreign industry is involved in equalizing the differences in costs of production at home and abroad and thus taking from foreign producers the advantages they derive from paying lower wages to labor."

From the foregoing quotations it is clear that Mr. Hoover has advocated tariff duties to protect Americans against the lower standards of living abroad, against foreign goods produced at low costs because of the low wages paid by the foreign employers to the foreign laborers.

But in his acceptance address of Aug. 11, 1928, Mr. Hoover also said this: "We have seen a growing realization by labor that the maximum use of machines, of effort and of skill is the road to lower production costs and in the end to higher real wages." Also, in his Newark address, on Sept. 17, 1928, Mr. Hoover said: "If we are able by labor-saving machinery and reduction of the wastes in industry to decrease the cost of production of an article, we know by long experience that a train of consequences of the highest importance follows. Wages in that industry rise, prices decrease, consumption increases at home and in our foreign markets, the demand for labor is enlarged and our standards of living are improved."

From the foregoing quotations it is clear that Mr. Hoover was proclaiming his belief that increased efficiency and higher wages in an industry are accompanied by lower costs of production. If such a belief is correct, then increased efficiency and higher wages abroad would be accompanied by decreased costs of production abroad. In other words, higher foreign standards of living would mean that we would be compelled to raise our tariff duties still higher in order to maintain the present degree of protection against foreign goods.

So how can it truthfully be said that we need tariff duties to protect us against the lower standards of living abroad? Would it not be more straightforward and more accurate to say that if we want the American market open only to American manufacturers and producers, in the case of any specific article or industry, then we shall need protective duties? Isn't the familiar argument about the need of a tariff to protect us from the lower foreign standards of living a misleading argument which is largely the cause of the present "tariff madness" in Washington?

Mr. Hoover in his Newark address of 1928 also said: "Cease exporting automobiles to South America or Europe, and automobiles workers are out of employment in Michigan." Isn't that a sound declaration, and one which should have weight at this time? Of course a return to the low duties of the Underwood tariff would throw many persons out of work in America. But would not a tariff revision upward also throw many persons out of work in America?

Age Cannot Wither.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The article on longevity and life expectation in The Times called to my mind an interesting experience of my own.

When I was about 20 years old I applied for life insurance and was very promptly turned down because my replies to the questionnaire, "Have you had asthma, bronchitis, consumption, dysentery," &c., down to something in Z, showed that I had never had anything wrong with me except, perhaps, measles. Indignant, I put the question at that time prevalent corresponding to "How come?" I thought I was the best kind of risk. Imagine my surprise when I was told that the company did not know my capacity to resist disease!

Only when I produced a photograph of our family monument in the old country, on which the top inscription referred to my Uncle James, 93, and the others ran well over 70, was I accepted.

At 62 I was a well-known long-distance oarsman. At 64 I married my present wife. At 80 I am considered by examining physicians nearly as good as new.

The Leisurely Life.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Chiding, or chaffing, George Lansbury, leader of British labor, for confessing an aversion to manual toil, "Topics of the Times" apparently regards such a sentiment anomalous in a professing Socialist. May I then, not gratuitously, call attention to a canonical Marxist essay entitled "The Right to Be Lazy," from the strong and subtle pen of the late Paul Lafargue, learned ironist, Left Wing parliamentarian and son-in-law to Karl Marx himself? Further, I ask him please to observe that the full title of William Morris's vision of future socialized England is "News From Nowhere: An Epoch of Rest."

Decrying physical drudgery, as a partisan of the work people, Mr. Lansbury clearly sounds no strange note in the Socialist chorus of complaint. Indeed, the most cursory conning of Marxian propaganda should reveal the fact that a vastly wider distribution of leisure is the fundamental object of the Socialist movement. E. F. GAHAN.

HOLDS PREJUDICES ARE HARMING CITY

J. H. Cohen, Port Authority Counsel, Declares There Are Many, Widespread and Unjust.

SEES INHOSPITALITY HERE

Business Leaders at Trade Board Luncheon Hail Movement to Advertise New York.

Commercial, political and social prejudices are hampering the progress of New York City, declared Julius Henry Cohen, general counsel of the Port of New York Authority, at a luncheon yesterday of the New York Board of Trade at 41 Park Row.

"It is idle to deny that there is concrete, wide-spread and damaging prejudice against New York outside of its borders," Mr. Cohen said. "Much of this feeling is based on the unjust suspicion that New York seeks to dominate the remainder of the country. We should try to dissipate this feeling and to cause the city, as the great metropolis that it is, to be looked upon with pride throughout the whole country."

Mr. Cohen said other ports were attempting to belittle New York's capacity to handle its shipping, and that bills introduced in Congress by New York legislators incurred hostility simply because they were initiated in New York. He admonished New Yorkers, however, for a lack of real hospitality toward visitors, saying:

"The average New Yorker is so pressed for time in and out of business hours that when his friends call upon him all that he usually does for them is to shake hands and then turn cold. Our personal hospitality needs improvement. Among New Yorkers we find none of that studied effort to entertain and be hospitable that is so marked a feature of the attitude toward visitors abroad and in many parts of the United States."

Wants Entire State Promoted.

Colonel Edward C. Carrington, president of the Hudson River Night Line, declared that the greatness of New York and its commercial power had made the city "too self-satisfied." He accused the city of failing to defend itself against the efforts of other ports to take away its shipping. He thought it important to advertise the climate, waterways and water power of the State as well as the attractions of the city. He said that even up-State communities were unfriendly to the city and urged a conference with civic bodies outside of the city to promote the whole commonwealth.

Reginald Fairfax Poindexter of Norfolk, Va., criticized the city's manner of welcoming distinguished guests. He thought the practice of bombarding visitors with ticker tape in lower Broadway was undignified. Likewise, he considered the procedure of bringing visitors to the Battery on a "tugboat" and surrounding them with policemen an unbecoming process. He suggested that the city purchase a yacht, such as the Mayflower, to convey guests to the shore.

A proposal, initiated by the New York Board of Trade, to advertise New York City to the world and dispel prejudices was acclaimed by business leaders at the luncheon.

A committee on plan and scope, representatives of business interests, appointed by W. J. L. Banham, president of the Board of Trade, on May 27 to formulate the procedure of the campaign, will meet again on Monday with representatives of steamship lines, railroads, hotels and other interests. Neil Mooney, assistant general passenger agent of the New York Central Lines, is chairman of the committee.

Hundreds of posters depicting the allurements of foreign cities adorned the walls of the Board of Trade headquarters yesterday for the large gathering of members to study and make comparisons with what New York has to attract the visitor.

City Planning Bill Opposed.

The board rejected a resolution presented by Harry B. Chambers, its counsel, committing the organization to support the city planning commission bill. Jacob H. Haffner led the opposition. He said the bill would create a one-man commission with no power except to suggest ideas to the city government. He thought a commission desirable, but suggested that the measure be held in abeyance until public sentiment could bring about a more powerful planning board.

The board adopted resolutions approving the action of the House in passing the bill to reduce passport fees; supporting a proposal to deposit clean ashes on West Island in Jamaica Bay; supporting the city Sanitation Commission's project for a uniformed sanitation squad; providing for a study of a plan to "stagger" apartment leases and providing for a committee to study the advisability of holding a commercial fair in New York to facilitate foreign trade.

The meeting was the last on the board's schedule until Fall.

PROCLAIMS "FLAG DAY."

Gov. Roosevelt Asks Observances Throughout the State on Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 11.—Governor Roosevelt, in a proclamation issued today asking observance of the birthday of the American flag, as "Flag Day," urged a State-wide display of the national colors and appropriate exercises in the schools.

"There exists in the heart of every American a positive affection for the American flag, intensified with the passing of the years," the Governor's proclamation read.

"As our inspiration for the maintenance and preservation of liberty—our impulse for the performance of greater things in the interest of freedom, peace and humanity—the birthday of the American flag means much to us all."

"Now therefore I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of the State of New York, do hereby proclaim Saturday, June 14 as Flag Day and urge the people of the State to celebrate this one hundred and fifty-third anniversary by a State-wide display of the flag and the conduct of exercises, particularly with our schools as centres of observance."

H. CLAY FOLGER DIES AFTER AN OPERATION

Resigned as Head of Standard Oil of New York to Plan a Shakespeare Memorial.

HAD RARE BOOK COLLECTION

Proposed to Make Works of Dramatist and Poet Available to Students of Literature.

Henry Clay Folger, former president of the Standard Oil Company of New York and owner of one of the world's great collections of Shakespeareana, died yesterday in St. John's Hospital, Brooklyn, after an operation. He went to the hospital two weeks ago from his country home at Glen Cove, L. I. He would have been 73 years old next Wednesday.

The near relatives who survive are the widow, who was Miss Emily C. Jordan of Elizabeth, N. J., at their marriage in 1885; a sister and two brothers. Funeral services will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the chapel of the Central Congregational Church, Hancock Street, near Franklin Avenue, Brooklyn. The city residence of Mr. and Mrs. Folger has for many years been at 24 Brevoort Place, Brooklyn.

Mr. Folger was born in this city, a son of Henry C. and Eliza J. Clark Folger. After graduating from Adelphi College, Brooklyn, he entered Amherst, where he received the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts in 1879 and 1881, respectively. On July 1, 1879, probably only a few days after leaving college, he entered the oil business as a clerk in the office of Charles Pratt & Co. in Brooklyn. That Autumn, without giving up his clerkship, he began the study of law at Columbia, and two years later the degree of Bachelor of Laws, cum laude, was conferred on him.

Mr. Folger was at various times a director and officer of a number of large oil companies of the Standard group. On Feb. 25, 1909, he became a director of this company, and he has continued on the board until the present time. He became vice president of the company on Feb. 23, 1911, holding the office until Dec. 1911, when he became its president. He continued as president until May 31, 1923, when he assumed the chairmanship of the board.

He resigned the chairmanship on March 30, 1928, to devote himself to the further development of his Shakesepear collection and his plans for rendering it perpetually available to students.

The interest of Mr. Folger in Shakespeare began when he was at Adelphi College. The later work of gathering and arranging his library was always for him, as for his wife, a labor of love. He enjoyed the books themselves, enjoyed collecting them, and, perhaps most of all, he relished the thought that the magnificent result of his efforts would always be accessible to American students and lovers of Shakespeare, to people who shared his own great interest in the poet.

There is little doubt that the Folger collection, of some 25,000 volumes, is the finest in the United States. In extent it rivals that of the British Museum. Herbert Putnam, librarian of the Library of Congress, said of it: "In the quality of its items it is not surpassed even by the British Museum." George H. Sargent, the bibliographer, said that no man can hope ever to accumulate another such collection. There are 200 known first folios in existence. Mr. Folger owned thirty-five of them. In 1919 he paid the Rosenbach Company of Philadelphia $100,000 for the unique Gwynn volume of nine plays, published in 1619.

Mr. Folger wrote many monographs on Shakespeare. For his achievements as a collector and authority on Shakespeare he was made a Doctor of Literature by Amherst in 1914. He was a member of the Grolier Club, Nassau Country Club and Alpha Delta Phi fraternity.

Two years ago announcement was made that Mr. Folger would erect in Washington on ground in the rear of the Library of Congress a building to house his collection, and would make an endowment for its maintenance and development.

JOHN E. MORGAN.

Pleasantville School Head Dies as About to Enter Masonic Lodge.

Special to The New York Times.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y., June 11.—John E. Morgan, principal of the Pleasantville High School and of the two elementary schools associated with it, dropped dead of heart disease tonight as he was about to enter the Pleasantville Masonic Lodge to attend the celebration of the lodge's twentieth anniversary. He was 59. A widow and a son, Franklin Morgan, who graduates from the high school this month, survive.

Mr. Morgan came here in 1911 as principal of the only school then in Pleasantville. The educational facilities of the town have been greatly expanded under his direction. He was not only an able executive but exceptionally gifted in the leadership of pupils of all ages. He organized the high school band, at one time the only self-supporting high school band in the State.

He was born near Buffalo and was educated for his profession at the Buffalo State Normal School. He was a former president of the Westchester County Teachers Association, and a member of several similar organizations.

CANCELS FOOTBALL TALKIE.

Paramount Acts After Notre Dame Officials Refuse to Cooperate.

Special to The New York Times.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 11.—A talking motion picture entitled "Toplitzky of Notre Dame" has been canceled on the verge of production because of objection raised by the president and officials of Notre Dame University. The story, written by George Marion Jr., centred around a football player and his mates, and the Paramount film company had expended a considerable sum in making scenes of Notre Dame-West Point and other actual football games, which were to be woven into the story. The film company recently asked cooperation of university officials at South Bend in recording shots and sequences there. They were informed that the cooperation could not be given, since Notre Dame does not desire itself celebrated for football prowess, but prefers recognition for scholastic standing and achievement in science.

Football pictures such as "Brown of Harvard," "Annapolis," two films based on West Point life, and one at Princeton have been released in the last two years.

SEEKS $3,000,000 AID FOR PORTO RICANS

Col. Roosevelt Urges Congress to Appropriate Fund to Fight Hunger and Disease.

Plans for a $500,000 bond issue to be used in the exploitation of farm lands in an extensive cooperative farming program in Porto Rico were announced here yesterday by Governor-General Theodore Roosevelt. Here on a short visit, he spoke at a meeting of the Catholic Porto Rican Child Welfare Association at the Bankers Club, 120 Broadway.

Colonel Roosevelt urged appropriation by Congress of $3,000,000 for Porto Rican relief, saying that failure to grant the requested aid would cause economic chaos in Porto Rico and the deaths of thousands of children. He said that 60 per cent of the children there are undernourished as a result of economic depression since the last cyclone.

Pointing out that poverty, lack of educational privileges and disease are the "trinity of evils" facing the islanders, the speaker declared that no measurable advantage can be gained in the fight against these evils without American aid.

Of the 1,500,000 residents in Porto Rico nearly 1,000,000 are suffering from some disease, he said. While 40 per cent of the budget goes for educational purposes, still so little money is available that only 38 per cent of children of school age can receive an elementary education, he added.

The $500,000 bond issue, Colonel Roosevelt said, will be employed basically in the buying and rehabilitation of farm lands, while some of the money will be used in extending practical rural schools throughout the country.

A "great" improvement in Porto Rican conditions is looked for as a result of a program for cooperative farming, now being introduced, he said. A homestead commission has been appointed and now is assigning small tracts to individuals for development. About 20,000 small plots of farm land already are in cultivation under the new system. When the full program is working it is hoped, Colonel Roosevelt said, that the natives will at least have enough to eat to keep themselves from starvation and "perhaps steadily climb to a higher economic standing than they now have."

John G. Agar, banker, presided at the meeting. The Welfare Association was formed recently to combat disease and poverty in Porto Rico. Its principle objective at present is to obtain support for the building of a children's hospital on the island.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried Kohn to Give a Dinner and Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Siegfried Kohn of Newark, N. J., will give a dinner and a reception on Sunday night there at the Hotel Riviera to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

Mrs. Kohn is the former Miss Bertha Kuffy. The couple have four sons, the Rev. Dr. Jacob Kohn, the Rev. Dr. Eugene Kohn and Léon A. and Sylvan Kohn, and twelve grandchildren. Several persons who were present at the wedding fifty years ago will be at the dinner, including Mrs. Emanuel Abels, who was matron of honor and who celebrated her own fiftieth anniversary last year, and Sarah, Herman, Nathan and Dr. Joseph Kuffy, sister and brothers of Mrs. Kohn.

HORACE E. DEMING, REFORMER, IS DEAD

New York Lawyer for Nearly Half a Century Dies at His Home at 80 Years.

A REFORM CLUB FOUNDER

Special Counsel to Attorney General in Investigation of New York City District Attorney's Office in 1901.

Horace E. Deming, a practitioner at the New York bar for nearly half a century and a leader of many reform movements of the last generation, died yesterday at his home, 924 West End Avenue, following a general breakdown due to his age, 80 years. He retired in 1925. Surviving are his widow, Caroline Springsteed Deming, whom he married in 1878; three daughters and two sons, Guy S., an engineer, and Harold S. Deming, a lawyer.

Mr. Deming was born at Palmyra, N. Y., and was educated at Harvard College, Graduate School and Law School. He had been a member of the bar for only a year when he manifested his lifelong zeal for improving the condition of our government by helping organize the Brooklyn Young Republican Club, of which he became president and chairman of the executive committee. In 1884 he was chairman of the executive committee of the National Committee of Republicans and Independents. The following year he served as counsel to the commissioners of accounts in the investigation of the corporation counsel's office.

Later Mr. Deming was a founder successively, of the Commonwealth Club, which inaugurated ballot-reform in New York; the New York Reform Club, and the committee on municipal program. In 1894 he was counsel to the Senate committee that investigated the administration of the civil service law in the State and drafted the bill which was made the basis of the present law on the subject. In 1899-1900 he served on the executive committee of the Merchants Association in the movement that prevented the city from being obliged to secure its water supply from private corporations. In 1901 he was special counsel to the Attorney General in the investigation of the New York City District Attorney's office. He wrote "The Government of American Cities," and was joint author of "The Municipal Program." He was president of the Alumni Association of Phillips Andover Academy in 1905-06, and had been a member of the Council of the National Civil Service Reform Association. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

MAGISTRATE SULLIVAN OF JERSEY CITY DEAD

A Leader in Hague Organization —Democratic County Chairman Fifteen Years.

Magistrate Leo Sullivan of the First Criminal Court in Jersey City, a leader in the Hague Democratic organization and chairman of the Hudson County Democratic Committee for the last fifteen years, died yesterday morning in St. Francis's Hospital, Jersey City, after a six months' illness.

He recently underwent an operation for appendicitis and was believed to be recovering when a relapse occurred Tuesday night. Mayor Hague and several other city officials were at his bedside when he died.

Judge Sullivan would have celebrated his fifty-first birthday next Sunday. Born in the First Ward of Jersey City, he attended St. Peter's parochial and high schools and St. Peter's College, graduating from the college in 1901.

After working as clerk for the United States Express Company and the Cunard Line, he studied law at Fordham University, graduating in June, 1913, and being admitted to the bar the next November.

Early in his career Judge Sullivan entered politics. He joined the Hague forces when Hague was in a bitter contest for supremacy with the Wittpenn organization.

He was elected as an Assemblyman in 1915. Two years later the Hague forces were in complete control of the city commission and Mr. Sullivan was appointed to the bench.

JUDGE JOSIAH COHEN OF PITTSBURGH DIES

One of Nation's Oldest Active Jurists Was 89—Prominent in Jewish Charities and Affairs.

PITTSBURGH, June 11 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Judge Josiah Cohen, said to be the oldest active jurist in Pennsylvania, and next to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, the oldest in the country, died here today in his ninetieth year. Death was attributed to heart disease. He was serving his third term in the Allegheny County court of common pleas.

Judge Cohen was born in Plymouth, England, on Nov. 29, 1840, and came to the United States in 1859. Seven years later he was admitted to the bar in Pittsburgh. Together with Isaac M. Wise he was one of the founders of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and a member of the executive committee since its inception.

In 1882 he was chosen chairman of the Republican executive committee of Allegheny County and two years later he was a Presidential elector for Pennsylvania. In 1901 he became a judge of the orphans' court and six years later he was elevated to the common pleas bench. He was re-elected in 1917 and in 1927 for ten-year terms.

Judge Cohen was a former member of the Central Board of Education of Pittsburgh and for twelve years served as president of the Gusky Orphanage. He was a high official in the B'nai B'rith and a director of the Jewish Charities of Pittsburgh, of the art department of the Carnegie Institute and of the Y. M. H. A. For twenty years he was president of Congregation Rodef Sholom. With his wife, who survives him, he recently donated $20,000 to the Allied Jewish Campaign, being one of the first contributors to the $6,000,000 campaign.

APPLETON CLARK DIES IN GERMANY

Member of New York Bar for 40 Years Stricken Suddenly at Bad Nauheim.

WIFE IS GOVERNOR'S COUSIN

Miss Ellen Roosevelt With Couple—Mr. Clark Was Long Prominent in Legal Circles.

Appleton Le Sure Clark, prominent member of the New York bar, which he joined more than forty years ago, died suddenly in Bad Nauheim, Germany, on Monday, according to a cablegram from his wife, Mrs. Grace Roosevelt Clark, a first cousin of Governor Roosevelt, received here yesterday by their son, Russell C. Clark. Mr. Clark, whose office was at 17 John Street and residence at 326 Westervelt Avenue, New Brighton, S. I., was 64 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark, accompanied by Miss Ellen Roosevelt, sister of Mrs. Clark, sailed for Europe on May 21, intending to return about Sept. 1. Although Mr. Clark had been in poor health for a year, his condition had not been considered serious. Mrs. Clark and Miss Roosevelt are expected to arrive here with the body about June 25.

The late Thomas Russell Clark and Marie E. Le Sure Clark, were the parents of Mr. Clark, who was born in Long Island City on Aug. 28, 1865. After attending the old New York Latin School in Manhattan, he attended Columbia University, receiving his A. B. in 1886 and his LL. B. in 1888.

Practiced Alone for 25 Years.

For the last twenty-five years Mr. Clark had practiced alone. Previously, for about ten years, he and former Judge Van Vechten Veeder were partners in Clark & Veeder.

Mr. Clark was appointed a receiver in bankruptcy several times. In June, 1911, when he was receiver for the Ironclad Manufacturing Company of Brooklyn, the head of which was Mrs. E. C. Seaman, known in her journalistic days as Nellie Bly, Mrs. Seaman sought to have him ousted, but the Federal Court upheld him.

He was Special Master in the suit brought in 1925 by the New York and Richmond Gas Company to enjoin the enforcement of the legal dollar rate, and declared the dollar gas law to be confiscatory and unconstitutional. Three Federal judges upheld him. For the last five years he had been a member and for the last year chairman of the committee on character and fitness of prospective lawyers in the Second Appellate Department of the Supreme Court.

Appointed to the Bench.

Mr. Clark, a Republican, was a Justice of the Court of Special Sessions for three days at the end of 1903 by appointment of the late Mayor Seth Low. Mr. Low reappointed him on the following New Year's Day, and the incoming Mayor, George B. McClellan, a few days later made a different appointment. The case was taken by Mr. Clark to the Court of Appeals, which decided Mayor Low's power to appoint had expired.

Mr. Clark was a member of the City and Richmond County Bar Associations, a director of the Staten Island Academy of Arts and Sciences and of the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church and secretary of the Episcopal Archdeaconry of Richmond. He belonged also to the Republican, St. Nicholas, Columbia University, Episcopalian and Delta Psi clubs and was vestryman of Christ Church, New Brighton.

He and Mrs. Clark were married in Hyde Park, N. Y., on Dec. 4, 1895. A son, Roosevelt L. Clark, died a year ago. Besides his widow and son, Russell, he is survived by three grandchildren, Russell Clark Jr., Jean Ellen Clark and Roosevelt L. Clark Jr.

JUDGE IRA RYNER.

Chicago's Appellate Court Member Dies of Nervous Breakdown.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Judge Ira Ryner of the Appellate Court died early today in the Evanston Hospital from a nervous breakdown superinduced by kidney trouble. He had been on the bench since 1921.

In 1928 he left the chancery division of the Circuit Court for an assignment in the criminal court, where he remained until his elevation to the third division of the Appellate Court, to which he was reappointed only last Tuesday.

Judge Ryner was an alumnus of the University of Nebraska. He was born in Mississippi in 1879 and came to Chicago twenty-three years ago after being graduated from Harvard Law School. Interment will be in Cedar Rapids, Neb., where the jurists' parents are buried.

Goddard Weld Saunders.

Goddard Weld Saunders of 25 Prospect Place, Tudor City and Southampton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Saunders of New York and Chicago, died early yesterday morning at the Murray Hill Sanitarium, where he had been operated upon last week for acute appendicitis. He was 32 years old. He attended the Allen Stevenson School here and the Groton School, and was graduated from Yale in 1922. Later he went to the Harvard School of Business Administration. He was a member of the Yale Club, the West Side Tennis Club of Forest Hills, the St. Nicholas Society, Society of Colonial Wars and the new Atlantic Beach Club. Mr. Saunders's mother was the former Miss Florence Fuller, a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants.

William Boyd Baker.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—William Boyd Baker, for forty years connected with the United States Customs Appraisers' Office, died in Bryn Mawr yesterday. He was about 69 years old. A member of an old Philadelphia family, he was graduated from Princeton University in 1882. THEFT OF $308,000 REVEALED BY SUICIDE

Cheboygan (Mich.) Bank Closes After Savings Official Ends His Life.

FEARED AN EXAMINATION

Department Head Fled to Country Home When He Learned Books Were to Be Gone Over.

Special to The New York Times.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., June 11.—A shortage of $308,000 in the funds of the First National Bank of Cheboygan was announced today by Henry Quinn, Federal Bank Examiner, and I. H. Erratt, cashier of the bank, at the conclusion of an investigation which followed the suicide yesterday of Clyde Milliken, manager of the savings department and for twenty-five years an employe of the bank.

The bank was immediately closed by order of the board of directors and placed in the hands of Examiner Quinn. The directors also issued a statement predicting depositors would be paid in full.

Milliken's body was found Tuesday by a workman, who went to his Summer home at Burt Lake to make repairs. He had shot himself.

Bank oficials believe the $308,000 shortage is the total amount misappropriated by Milliken in thefts covering a period of years.

Suspicion of Milliken was not aroused until Monday, when the bank's officers called in a Federal examiner, and the savings department manager, learning of the plans to examine his books, suddenly left the bank.

Members of Milliken's family and friends consulted bank officials Tuesday in an effort to make up the shortage, then believed to be $127,000. Later Quinn discovered additional thefts.

Erratt said he did not believe Milliken had speculated in the market, and his friends were unable to understand what he had done with the money.

Bank officials believe the institution will be able to pay off depositors without loss and plans already are under way to reorganize. In the meantime the bank will remain closed.

Milliken was prominent in business and sport circles and was president of the Boosters' Club. He was believed to have accumulated a comfortable fortune through business ventures and the announcement of his debts and the misappropriation of funds shocked the community.

MISS SALLY BUTLER ENGAGED TO MARRY

New York Girl's Betrothal to Charles C. Hoge Jr. Is Announced by Her Parents.

BOTH OF NOTED ANCESTRY

Fiancee Is a Member of Junior League—Dinner Dance Tonight for Bridal Couple-to-Be.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Butler of 45 East Eighty-second Street and Fishers Island, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sally Tappen Butler, to Charles Courtenay Hoge Jr. of this city. Miss Butler is a granddaughter of Mrs. Samuel W. Fairchild and the late Mr. Fairchild, through whom she is descended from Thomas Fairchild, who came to the United States from England in the early part of the seventeenth century and settled in Stratford, Conn. She also is a descendant of Anneke Jans, one of the earliest settlers of Manhattan Island.

Miss Butler is a granddaughter of Charles Russel Butler, who is a descendant of Lord Russel, Duke of Bedford, who founded New Bedford, Mass. Another ancestor of Miss Butler was David Mackie, who came from Scotland in 1638 and settled in Southampton. Miss Butler attended Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Hoge is the son of Mrs. Lupton Hoge and of Charles Courtenay Hoge. He is a grandson of Mrs. Benjamin Prince of this city and the late Frank M. Lupton. He also is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Courtenay Hoge. Through his mother Mr. Hoge is descended from many of the earliest settlers of Long Island and Massachusetts, including Philip Eliot and Roger Ludlow, first Deputy Governor of Connecticut Colony.

On the paternal side Mr. Hoge is related to the Spencer family of England, of which the Duke of Marlborough is the present head. One of his great-great-great-grandfathers was a signer of the State Constitution of Virginia. Mr. Hoge attended Lawrenceville School and is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler will give a dinner dance tonight for their daughter and her fiancé.

LACOSTE TO WED GOLF STAR JUNE 30

Ceremony for Former World Tennis Champion and Mlle. de la Chaume in Paris.

CHURCH CHIMES TO RING

Romance Began Three Years Ago After Bridegroom-Elect Helped Take Davis Cup to France.

PARIS, June 11 (AP).—Chimes of Ste. Clothilde Church will ring at noon on Monday, June 30, to announce the wedding of Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, French golf queen, and Rene Lacoste, former world's tennis champion.

Their romance began on the way back from the United States in 1927 after Lacoste's victories over William T. Tilden and William Johnston had been the main factor in bringing the Davis Cup to France for the first time and after Mlle. de la Chaume had made a most creditable showing in the women's golf championships of the United States.

The romance was continued in the world of society, to which the families of both belong, the Lacostes being leaders in the automobile and airplane motor industry of France and the de la Chaumes an old family dating from the Bourbon régime.

The engagement was announced in September. The wedding, originally fixed for January, had to be postponed twice, owing to the bridegroom's ill-health, a severe cold having developed into bronchitis.

The ceremony will be very simple. "We want as little display as possible," Mlle. de la Chaume said recently. The bride's dress, of white satin, also will be simple, although the work of one of the most fashionable dressmakers along the Champs Elysees.

Invitations have been sent to most of the ranking tennis players of the world. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who will be busy at Wimbledon defending her title, will be unable to attend. Wimbledon is likely to prevent many other tennis stars from being present.

The future bride expects to compete next Monday in the French international championships at St. Germain and on June 21 at Chantilly for the cup donated by her father.

M. Lacoste, in reply to a query, said: "Yes, I am through with tennis, absolutely, for this year."

Then he added, a little sadly: "And perhaps for good."

Other Wedding Plans

Fox—Cabot.

Miss Genevieve Fox, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyttleton Fox, who will be married to Quincy Sewall Cabot on June 19, has chosen her sister, Mrs. William Marclay Harding, the former Miss Constance Fox, for matron of honor. Her only other attendants will be Miss Cathleen Fox, a younger sister, and Miss Frances Gillmore.

George Cabot will be best man for his brother, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Cabot of this city. The ceremony will take place at Villa Mille Fiore, the Southampton home of Miss Fox's grandparents, former Justice and Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, and will be witnessed only by members of the two families and a few close friends. A reception will follow.

Rosenlund—Goddard.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Rosenlund of Worcester, Mass., have sent out invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Evelyn, to De Witt R. Goddard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morrell Goddard of this city. The wedding will take place on June 28 in Worcester. Miss Rosenlund is a graduate of the Katharine Gibbs School in Boston. Mr. Goddard is a graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Shandley—McGirr.

Miss Anna Rose Shandley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Shandley, will be married on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany, Second Avenue and Twenty-first Street, to George W. McGirr, son of Mrs. Bridget McGirr and the late Patrick H. McGirr, New York police captain.

A nuptial mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Lawrence Hogan. The bride-elect will be attended by Miss May Hickey as maid of honor. John McGirr will be best man for his brother. Bernard Shandley and William McGirr will be ushers.

There will be a breakfast at the Hotel Astor.

Hollander—Abrams.

Mrs. Anna Hollander of 98 Riverside Drive and Municipal Court Justice Lewis A. Abrams yesterday took out their marriage license at the Municipal Bureau, and signified their intention of being married on June 27 at Mrs. Hollander's residence.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Samuel Newman and the widow of Adolph Hollander. Justice Abrams is a widower, the son of Adolph Abrams.

Crowther—Swope.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 11.—Miss Irma Latane Crowther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Guy Crowther of Guilford, will be married to Granville Swope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forest Swope, also of Guilford, tomorrow evening in Christ Protestant Episcopal Church by the Rev. H. W. H. Donegan, the rector, who will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. Robert Leetch of the Guilford Presbyterian Church.

Boggs—Hoff.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Roger Williams Boggs for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Adams Boggs, to Arthur Lee Hoff, son of Mrs. Charles Worthington Hoff of Guilford and the late Mr. Hoff.

The ceremony will be performed on July 2 in St. Thomas's Protestant Episcopal Church, Richmond, Va.

MRS. FREDERICK EDMONDS ROELKER.

Miss Katrinka Van Cortlandt Suydam, who traces her ancestry back to early Colonial days, and Frederick Edmonds Coudert Roelker, a lineal descendant of General Nathaniel Greene, quartermaster on the staff of General Washington, were married yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas's Church in the presence of a representative gathering of old New York families. The bride, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrick Suydam of this city and Highwood House, Mount Kisco, N. Y., is of early Dutch ancestry on the paternal side, being related to the Van Cortlandt, Schermerhorn and Rapelje families, and through her mother is a great-granddaughter of Arthur A. Denny, who founded the city of Seattle, Wash.

Mr. Roelker is a son of Mrs. C. Coudert Erskine and the late William Greene Rouelker, and is a descendant of General Coudert, aide-de camp of Napoleon. He is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Leonce Coudert of this city and a grandnephew of the late Frederic R. Coudert, international lawyer. Mr. Roelker is a direct descendant of John Greene, a surgeon of Salisbury, England, who came to this country with Roger Williams in the early part of the seventeenth century.

Bishop William T. Manning, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, the rector, performed the ceremony. There was a full choral service. The bride was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a princess gown of cream-colored satin and a veil of old family rose point lace over another of tulle. The veils fell from a Dutch cap of lace to the end of the long round train. The bride wore a necklace of pearls and a diamond corsage ornament and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids with mauve centres.

She was preceded down the aisle by the bridesmaids, the Misses Cornelia Prime, Martha Milliken, Hildegarde Kobbee, Christine Hoguet, Grace Ruggles Lane and Happy Shannon of this city, Elizabeth Scott of Boston and Hester Browne of Louisville, Ky., and Mrs. Edwin Howell Tompkins, who was matron of honor; Miss Chella Barott of Montreal, as maid of honor, and Patricia Suydam, young sister of the bride, who was flower girl. The bridesmaids wore frocks of green pleated chiffon with green horsehair picture hats turned off the face. The costumes of the matron and maid of honor were similar, of yellow chiffon. The flower girl's frock also was of yellow chiffon. They all carried arm bouquets of mixed Spring flowers.

Mr. Roelker, who is a member of this year's graduating class at Yale, was attended by his room mate Mayo Harris, as best man. The ushers were William Greene Roelker, brother of the bridegroom; Charles Pelham Curtis, his brother-in-law; Webb Trimble of Seattle, Wash.; Mannix Walker of Washington, D C.; George Lowther 3d, W. Joshua Barney Jr., Victor H. Sutro, Harry Dorsey Watts Jr., Duncan Sterling Jr., E. Boudinot Fisher, Dudley Buck Blossom and Douglas Wilson of this city.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at 3 East Seventy-seventh Street.

Mr. Roelker and his bride, after a motor trip through Canada, will live at 242 East Seventy-second Street.

Ward, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Willis M. Follmer, 520 East Eighty-sixth Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Raymond Forman.

Miss Natalie Follmer, a niece of the bride, was maid of honor and her only attendant. Sheldon M. Ward was best man for his brother. A small reception followed.

After their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ward will live in Garden City, L. I.

Stevenson—Davis.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 11.—The wedding of Miss Lois Elizabeth Davis, daughter of the late Rev. John D. Davis of the Princeton Theological Seminary and Mrs. Davis, to the Rev. Donald Day Stevenson, son of the Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, and Mrs. Stevenson, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton. The ceremony was performed by President Stevenson, assisted by the Rev. Charles R. Erdman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Professor Philip H. Davis of Vassar College gave his sister in marriage.

The bride wore a gown of eggshell satin trimmed with old family lace. Her veil was of tulle and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias. Her maid of honor was Miss Nancy Goheen of Vergurla, India, and the bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Coney of Princeton, Miss Eleanor Latane of Baltimore, Miss Celeste Page of Washington, and Miss Matilda Day of New York.

Mr. Stevenson's best man was his brother, Theodore Dwight Stevenson.

A reception at the bride's home on Mercer Street followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Davis will sail on June 31 for Scotland to visit relatives and then take a Mediterranean cruise and sail from Port Said, Egypt, for Canton, China, where Mr. Stevenson will be a member of the faculty of Lingnan University.

Miss Davis was graduated from Miss Fine's School in 1926 and from Bryn Mawr College June 4.

Mr. Stevenson was graduated from Yale University in 1925 and later studied at the University of Edinburgh, Oxford, Princeton Theological Seminary, and during the last year at Chicago Theological Seminary, and was ordained to the ministry in April at the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago.

Moran—Gary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11. — Miss Helen Gary, daughter of Hampson Gary, former American Minister to Switzerland, was married at noon today to Bernard Austin Moran of New York City at the home of the bride's parents on Massachusetts Avenue, Mgr. Edward Buckey of St. Matthew's officiating. Owing to the recent death of Mr. Moran's mother, Mrs. John Austin Moran of New York, only a small group of intimate friends and members of the two families were present at the wedding.

Following the ceremony and wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Moran left for New York. They sail tomorrow on the Paris for a honeymoon of two months in Europe. Upon their return they will pay a brief visit in Washington and later go to New York, where they will make their home in the future.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., June 11.—Miss Ellen Margaret Brady of West Franklin Street, Bound Brook, and Leo Edward Gaffeney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Gaffeney of 1,137 Stilford Avenue, Plainfield, were married this morning in St. Joseph's Church at a nuptial mass celebrated by the Rev. James A. Harding.

MISS DEVEREUX WEDS R. WANAMAKER 2D

Distinguished Assemblage Witnesses the Ceremony at Whitemarsh, Pa.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Miss Alexandra Van Rensselaer Devereux, daughter of Mrs. Radcliffe Cheston Jr. of Sandy Run, Oreland, this afternoon became the bride of Rodman Wanamaker 2d of this city and New York. The Rev. Nathaniel B. Groton, the rector, performed the ceremony, before a distinguished assemblage in St. Thomas's Church at Whitemarsh, including guests from Europe as well as social leaders of several American cities.

The bride was given in marriage by Alexander Van Rensselaer. Her gown was of white satin and her veil, which was of tulle, fell from a cape effect of old family lace, the headdress being held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, which extended around the back of the head. She carried an ivory prayer book, from which fell a shower of white satin ribbons, caught with sprays of lilies of the valley. At the reception after the ceremony she carried, instead of the prayer book, a small round bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Mrs. James E. Gowan, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Betty Wickes of Baltimore, maid of honor. The bride's other attendants were Mrs. John H. W. Ingersoll, a cousin; Mrs. Alexander J. Cassatt, Mrs. R. Stockton Rush and the Misses Pauline Munn, Elizabeth W. Elkins, Mary M. Hart and Cynthia Pratt of this city and Lily Polk of New York.

Thomas B. Wanamaker Jr. was best man for his brother. The ushers were Joseph Harriman, William Rhinelander Stewart, Samuel Welsh, Edward M. McIlvain Jr., James M. Burden Jr., Alfred O. Hoyt, Frederick S. Whitlock, Charles A. Clark Jr., Allister Mackintosh, Jerome Preston, Lewis T. Preston and Thomas Hitchcock Jr., all of New York; John Wanamaker of this city and New York, Gurnee Munn of Washington, and John H. W. Ingersoll, Archibald G. Thomson Jr., half brother of the bridegroom, and A. J. Antelo Devereux Jr., brother of the bride, all of this city.

The reception, which was held at Sandy Run, was large.

Upon their return from a wedding trip in Europe, Mr. Wanamaker and his bride will occupy a house which they have taken on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leaming Montgomery in Villanova.

INDEPENDENCE WEEK IS URGED BY CURTIS

Vice President Suggests That July Fourth Celebrations Be Extended.

GIVES VIEWS IN A LETTER

Declares He Would Like to See All Flags in Nation Waving During Longer Thanksgiving Period.

Extension of the celebration of Independence Day into a "full week of patriotic thanskiving" in order to mark "the most sacred of all national holidays," is suggested by Vice President Curtis in a letter to Hiram Brown, president of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, and made public yesterday.

Declaring that he would "like to see every flag in the entire nation waving during this 'patriotic week'," the Vice President suggested to Mr. Brown the mobilization of the entire amusement field in behalf of the movement. His letter follows:

The Vice President's Chamber,
Washington, May 27, 1930.

My dear Mr. Brown:

The day set aside to commemorate the signing of the Declaration of Independence is by far the most sacred of all national holidays, and the thought comes to me that this year we might well prolong that memorable day into a full week of patriotic thanksgiving.

I would suggest that we might draft into a mobilization the entire field of amusements where great crowds gather, the leaders of the radio audiences and the motion picture enthusiasts. In reaching these great fields we would reach into the very heart of every hamlet and city, into every farmhouse and home.

Your name has been suggested to me by my friend, Captain James J. Archibald, on account of your leadership of one of the great purposes of the radio, motion picture and theatrical fields, and therefore in touch with others in the same line of endeavor.

I would like to see every flag in the entire nation waving during this "Patriotic Week."

Very truly yours,
CHARLES CURTIS.

In reply, Mr. Brown assured the vice president of his desire to cooperate, saying that he had forwarded copies of the letter to all division managers in his own organization and officials in other amusement circuits.

BUYS AMERICAN PLAYS.

Theatre Guild Purchases "Distant Drums" and "Conjur."

The purchase of two new American plays is announced by the Theatre Guild. They are "Distant Drums," a drama of pioneer days by Dan Totheroh, and "Conjur," a Negro play by Margaret Freeman.

Other American plays now owned by the Guild are "Dog Eat Dog," by Katherine Clugston and Hamilton Crook; "In the Meantime," by Claire and Paul Sifton; "Elizabeth the Queen," by Maxwell Anderson; "Green Grow the Lilacs," by Lynn Riggs, and "The House of Connelly," by Paul Green. The latter three plays are definitely scheduled for production next season. Other new manuscripts are expected from Mr. Anderson, Eugene O'Neill and Sidney Howard.

CYRIL MAUDE GOES HOME,

Expects His Film of Comedy, "Grumpy," Will Make a Hit.

Cyril Maude, English actor, sailed yesterday for London in the Cunarder Mauretania with Mrs. Maude, after making at Hollywood a film of "Grumpy," one of his most successful comedies. He said he believed the picture would make as big a hit in America as "The Green Goddess." The producers told him that a new career had opened for him. He will return in October to film "Aren't We All?" "The Beauty and the Barge" or some other of his comedies.

Grainger, Pianist, Has Arm in Sling.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 11.—Percy Grainger, pianist and composer, who resides here, appeared on the streets this afternoon with his arm in a sling, but ended the anxiety of inquiring friends by saying that he had a strenuous season ahead of him and was "just resting up."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Reunion," S. K. Lauren's play, will be placed in rehearsal for a Summer tryout on Monday, June 23, by Bela Blau and his associates. In the cast will be Charles D. Brown, Cora Witherspoon, Edward Pawley, Rachel Hartzell, Alan Ward and Mark Smith. The play will be directed by Mr. Blau.

Mabel Grainger will replace Lillian Gish in "Uncle Vanya" at the Cort Theatre tonight.

The dances for "Hi-There," a revue from the Pacific Coast which is scheduled for Erlanger's Theatre in August, will be staged by Lon Murray.

Giuseppe Sterni, an Italian actor, who recently made his first appearance on Broadway in an English-speaking rôle, will be seen in the dramatization of "A Farewell to Arms." Mr. Sterni will have the part of Lieutenant Rinaldi.

William Harris Jr. has deferred his tryout of the Zoë Akins play, "The Greeks Had a Name for It," until September.

The juvenile actors of the Heckscher Theatre will appear in five productions this Summer at the Heckscher Summer Camp, Adams Corner, near Peekskill. The first of the productions, "Pinafore," will be given on July 5.

Vladimir Rosing, artistic director of the American Opera Company, will conduct a Summer course in acting from July 1 to Sept. 1 at Magnolia, Mass.

SCREEN NOTES.

Lily Damita will sail for Europe tonight on the Paris to visit her mother and friends in the south of France. She will return to New York late in August. She recently completed work in "Sons o' Guns," the musical comedy, and will be cast in the screen version of the show with Al Jolson.

A preview of "The Big Fight," James Cruze's latest production, was presented last night at the New York Athletic Club. The picture has been adapted from the Belasco play which featured Jack Dempsey. Guinn Williams plays the Dempsey rôle in the film and opposite him in the prize-ring sequence is Tony Stabeneau.

Columbia Pictures, Inc., has obtained the exclusive rights to film the Sharkey-Schmeling fight tonight. The pictures will be exhibited beginning tomorrow at fifty theatres throughout the State. The Earl Carroll Theatre and Werba's Brooklyn Theatre will show the pictures daily from 10 A. M. to midnight.

FIVE SHOWS TO END RUNS ON SATURDAY

'Fifty Million Frenchmen,' Financed by Warner Brothers, to Be Made Into a Talking Picture.

"Fifty Million Frenchmen," one of the two musical comedies financed during the last season by Warner Brothers, will end a run of twenty-six weeks at the Lyric Theatre on Saturday night. The show, which was produced by E. Ray Goetz for the Warners at a reported cost of $264,000, will not be sent on tour next season, but will soon be made into a talking picture. Of the players now appearing here William Gaxton is the only one thus far definitely engaged, it is said, for the film version.

Other closings this week in the Broadway playhouses will be "Virtue's Bed" at the Hudson Theatre, the Ed Wynn show, "Simple Simon," at the Ziegfeld; George M. Cohan's revival of "The Tavern" at the Fulton and "The Blue Ghost" at the Forrest. "Virtue's Bed" will go to the Brighton Theatre on Monday for a week's engagement in place of "Jungle Love," previously announced. The opening of the last-named play at the Brighton has been postponed until June 23, by which time it is expected that the production, now playing in Atlantic City, will have been extensively revised.

'SECOND LITTLE SHOW' TO OPEN ON AUG. 25

'About Town,' With Several Authors and Principals of First 'Little Show,' Is Announced.

"The Second Little Show," it was learned yesterday, will open at the Royale Theatre on Monday, Aug. 25, after two weeks out of town, beginning Aug. 11. Players at present engaged for the new edition of the revue include Al Trahan, Ruth Tester and Carl Randall.

According to announcement from Max Gordon yesterday he will produce in early October a revue, tentatively called "About Town," which will employ several of the authors and principals who contributed to the successful first "Little Show." Mr. Gordon has engaged Fred Allen, Clifton Webb and Libby Holman, all of whom will close in "The Little Show" in Chicago on Saturday, to appear in his revue, which will be compiled by Howard Dietz and, it is understood, have music by Arthur Schwartz. Hassard Short will stage the revue for Mr. Gordon, who will be associated with the Erlanger office in its production.

O'NEILL IN SPANISH A HIT.

Buenos Aires Hails "Anna Christie" as the Theatrical Event of Years.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, June 11.—The Buenos Aires newspapers give unusual space to reviewing last night's production of Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie" in Spanish, which received an ovation from a crowded house.

The Spanish company, headed by Lola Membrives, gave a fine presentation, despite the almost insurmountable difficulties of translating the Norse seamen's picturesque dialogue into Spanish and of portraying O'Neill's vigorous characters through Latin actors.

Nevertheless, the critics considered the presentation one of the outstanding events of years in the Argentine theatre. La Nacion devotes two entire columns to its review. The other papers unanimously express the hope that the success of this venture will result in the presentation of others of O'Neill's works.

HAYS BARS "INGAGI" FILM.

Movie of Jungle Life Called Nature Faking by Business Bureau.

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (AP).—Fred Beetson, executive vice president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, said today he had received a telegram from President Will H. Hays announcing that "we will not show the motion picture 'Ingagi,' which depicts African jungle life.

The National Better Business Bureau declared in a statement the picture was "nature faking."

Princeton Theatre Group Elects.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 11.—Morris Houghton, '31, of Indianapolis, Ind., has been elected president of the Princeton Theatre Intime, undergraduate dramatic organization, it was announced here today. Joshua L. Logan, '31, of Shreveport, La., president-elect of the Triangle Club, was named to serve as vice president. Others elected include: Robert Van Cleve Whitehead, '31, of Trenton, N. J., business manager; George S. Roudebush,' 31, of St. Louis, Mo., publicity manager; Alfred N. Darlymple, '31, of East Orange, N. J., production director.

WINS $1,875 FELLOWSHIP.

Geoffrey Platt's Design Takes First Award in Columbia Competition.

For his design of a large building suitable for a municipal symphony orchestra, Geoffrey Platt of 131 East Sixty-seventh Street has received the Schermerhorn Fellowship in Architecture at Columbia University, it was announced yesterday. The fellowship has a value of $1,875, to be used in foreign travel and study.

Gerald Jacob Vicker of 882 Kelly Street, the Bronx, placed second in the competition, in which eighty-five took part. C. Bolton White of Los Altos, Cal., took third prize; William S. Morris of 220 East 204th Street, the Bronx, was fourth, and Henry Allen Tuttle of 338 Madison Street, Brooklyn, was fifth.

All are members of the graduating class in the Columbia School of Architecture this year.

MUSIC NOTES.

Julienne Jaume (Mrs. Marcel M. Bild), French diseuse, will appear today at the Bronxville Elementary School in a recital of seventeenth and eighteenth century folk-songs. Mme. Bild will sing in the Breton costume of Pont-Aven, and her program will include the Breton composer Botrel's "Petit Grégoire" and "Paimpolaise." Her husband will play the accompaniments.

The annual dance recital of the pupils of Mme. Julia Hudak will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the Wanamaker Auditorium. The performers will appear in medieval costume to music by Erkel, Lavotta and Brahms.

MUSIC CONTESTS NEAR END.

Final Session Tonight—More Winners Announced.

The final session of the New York Music Week Association's interborough contests will take place at Steinway Hall tonight.

In the contest for ensemble groups held at Carnegie Chamber Music Hall, Tuesday evening, the winning pair in elementary sonata for pianoforte and violin were John Griffith Murray and Robert David Gillman. The advanced sonata pair were Rose Schapiro and Dora Schwartz.

The contest for four violins was won by the Old Masters' Violin Ensemble. The Chaffee Trio won the advanced trio contest, the Academic String Quartet won the advanced quartet contest and the Madison Septet the cup of its class.

Soloists who attained high winning marks were Bernard Kundel, advanced viola, and Elinor Aller, a former gold medal winner, competing on this occasion for her gold certificate in the senior 'cello class. Mention should be made of the Harlem Violin Ensemble, which lost the silver cup by one-fifth of a point. The judges found some difficulty in deciding between this organization and the Old Masters' Violin Ensemble, its only competitor.

THIEVES TAKE AUTO AND $40,000 IN GEMS

Jewelry Salesman Says Car Was Driven Away as He Rang Brother's Doorbell.

CHASED IT FOUR BLOCKS

Relative Asserts Three Men in Another Auto Trailed Stolen Machine in Bronx.

An automobile in which were two leather brief cases containing diamonds and jewelry valued at more than $40,000 was stolen yesterday morning by four thieves who trailed the machine from Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street to 1,920 Harrison Avenue, the Bronx, where it was left parked and unguarded for a few minutes.

The disappearance of the automobile and jewelry was reported to Detective Lieutenant Thomas Feeley of the Highbridge station by Harry Epstein of 1,290 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, a salesman for the Princess Ring Co., Inc., of Providence, R. I., which has a branch office at 48 West Forty-eighth Street. Mr. Epstein reported that he drove from the West Forty-eighth Street office to the home of his brother Milton at 1,920 Harrison Avenue, with whom he had an appointment at 10 o'clock. He arrived there on time, parked the car at the door and left the key in the ignition switch. He told detectives he was not out of sight of the car while he rang the door bell. He said he saw a man enter his automobile and start the motor. The salesman jumped on the running board, but was pushed aside, he said. Hailing a passing automobile Mr. Epstein hopped on the running board and gave chase. He told the police he saw his car turn east into Burnside Avenue. He abandoned the search at Davidson Avenue, four blocks away, where he notified Patrolman Mahoney of Traffic H.

Mr. Epstein, his brother Milton, and the latter's father-in-law, George Mark of 1,731 Harrison Avenue, were questioned at the Highbridge station. The brothers said they intended to visit the jewelry store of Michael Quintana, 207 East Fordham Road, where they were to offer some of the rings for sale.

Mr. Mark said he saw an automobile containing four men back into Harrison Avenue from Burnside Avenue. He said one of the men got into the Epstein car and drove off, the other three following in their machine. The police believe that the four men trailed Mr. Epstein from the time he left his office.

The jewelry is covered by insurance. Mr. Epstein said the automobile he drove belongs to his sister, Lee Epstein, who lives at the same address.

RETRIEVES HIS $1 BILL AFTER CHASE ON FOOT

Bronx Candy Merchant Follows Negro With Trick Pistol for Half Mile, Scorning Autos.

Otman Johnson, 26 years old, a Negro, of 2,400 Seventh Avenue, seized a $1 bill from the cash register of Abraham Cohen's candy store at 1,187 University Avenue yesterday after pointing a pistol at Mr. Cohen. Then he ran for half a mile, but Mr. Cohen followed and got his money back.

The robber ran west on 167th Street. Victor Klappenberger, 2,766 Bainbridge Avenue, who was passing by in his automobile, took up the chase, blowing his horn. Other horns echoed and autos wheeled into line. Mr. Cohen tucked up his apron and kept up the pace—on foot.

Patrolman Walter Kuntz stopped a taxicab and took its four passengers along on the chase; Detective Lieut. Feeley and Detective Wubbenhurst jumped into another auto.

When Johnson reached Sedgwick Avenue he ran in the direction opposite to the police station, into the New York Central's freight yard. The pursuers left their autos and followed on foot, their ranks augmented by a dozen railroad workers armed with spikes and other railroad properties. Johnson did some smart tricks around freight cars. A siren screeched just as he headed for the Harlem River across the tracks. That meant that Sergeant Kennelly and his emergency squad were on the way.

Johnson looked at the water and gave up. He was at the foot of 165th Street. He was clutching the $1 bill. Johnson's pistol was found on the tracks, but it wasn't a firearm at all. The top of it flipped back and the inside was filled with cigarettes. Mr. Cohen took back his money and there was a triumphal march to Highbridge station, where Johnson was booked for robbery.

HUGHES SAILS FOR EUROPE.

Chief Justice, on Vacation, Among Passengers on Leviathan.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes sailed yesterday on the United States liner Leviathan, accompanied by Mrs. Hughes and their daughter, Elizabeth. Justice Hughes said that he had "nothing to say" except that his trip was merely a vacation and that he would return about the middle of August to attend the annual meetings of the American Bar Association in Chicago.

Hope Hampton, former movie star and now an opera singer, sailed with her husband, Jules Brulatour, inventor. They will be in Europe for several months, where Miss Hampton will sing in Liége, Deauville, Vichy and Monte Carlo.

Others on the ship included Mrs. Frances E. Warren and Miss Mary Pershing, mother-in-law and sister of General Pershing. The Simmons College Cowboy Band of Abilene, Texas, sailed for a tour in England and the continent.

CITY BREVITIES.

A new swimimng pool constructed on Governors Island through the cooperation of the army personnel and the Y. M. C. A. will be dedicated tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Thirty newly appointed missionaries of the Episcopal Church are attending a conference which opened yesterday and will continue today at the Gramercy Park Hotel and at the church headquarters, 281 Fourth Avenue, for instruction as to conditions they will encounter in the various foreign fields in the Pacific Islands, China, Japan and the Philippines.

Miss Jeanne Tannenbaum of Hunter College won the gold medal awarded to the best musician entering the junior group in the piano division of the New York Music Week Association contest.

JUDGE EWALD OFFERS AID IN STOCK INQUIRY

Says He and Relatives Bought Mines Company Securities—Healy to Appear Today.

The investigation by Charles H. Tuttle, United States Attorney, into the affairs of the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., to determine the character of its stock sales promotion, is expected to begin making progress today when Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader and Deputy Commissioner of Plant and Structures, will appear in Mr. Tuttle's office ready to go before the grand jury. Mr. Healy agreed to appear voluntarily and no subpoena was issued for him.

Mr. Tuttle announced yesterday that he received word from Abraham Grenthal of 475 Fifth Avenue, counsel for Magistrate George F. Ewald, whose connection with the mining company and that of his brother, Dr. L. A. Ewald, Mr. Tuttle is also investigating, that the magistrate would appear at Mr. Tuttle's office today or tomorrow. In accepting service of a subpoena for Magistrate Ewald, Mr. Grenthal said that Judge Ewald would cooperate in every way with the government.

"Judge Ewald resigned as a director of the Cotter Butte Mines in 1929, after the Bar Association of this city discouraged the practice of a judge identifying himself with a business," Mr. Grenthal said. "Judge Ewald purchased stock in the corporation—as did a number of his relatives."

One witness, whom Mr. Tuttle regarded as important but whose identity he would not reveal, was taken before the Grand Jury yesterday. The witness was said to have informed Mr. Tuttle before entering the grand jury room as to the disposition of part of the $500,000 received by the corporation through stock sales to investors.

The Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., is a solvent organization and is a growing concern with good prospects, according to its promoters. Harry C. Cotter, president of the company, declared yesterday at the company's office, 11 West Forty-second Street, that the investigation launched by Mr. Tuttle was "just politics" and that the company had nothing to conceal.

BOOK OF MONTH CLUB PLANS 20% REBATE

Head of Organization Explains Profit-Sharing System Is Not Cut in Prices.

Robert K. Haas, president of the Book-of-the-Month Club, announced yesterday a profit-sharing system, effective July 1, whereby club members will receive a 20 per cent credit on the "book-of-the-month," which may be applied on the purchase of any succeeding "book-of-the-month."

Mr. Haas said this deferred rebate is made possible at this time by an expected increase in the club's volume of distribution together with a change in the method of purchases from publishers.

"Although this change in the Book-of-the-Month Club plan comes at a time when a few publishers have announced drastic price reductions in popular fiction," said Mr. Haas, "we should like to make it plain that our profit-sharing system should not be interpreted as a cut in prices, which will benefit anybody but our publishers. We can make a single large edition of 50,000 or more copies, whereas the publisher cannot take this chance but must make successive editions, each one smaller than ours; also, our distributing costs are less. Because we do not wish to undersell the publisher on his own book, after he has cooperated with us by submitting it to our judges, we are not cutting his retail price but giving a credit to the subscriber which can be used on the next book, or accumulated."

40 CALLED TO CAMP DIX.

Business and Professional Men to Undergo Training as Officers.

Forty business and professional men of New York and vicinity were directed to report at Camp Dix, N. J., July 6, as commissioned officers of the 307th Infantry, Seventy-seventh Division, United States Army Reserve, in orders issued yesterday by Major General Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps Area at Governors Island.

The New York members of the Reserve Corps have been called, with their consent, for two weeks of field service under regular army officers. While at camp they will take part in manoeuvres and tactical problems designed to fit them to lead troops in the event of an emergency mobilization.

Lieut. Col. Crawford Blagden of Babylon, L. I., heads the 307th Infantry officers, who also include Lieut. Col. Henry C. Turner of 1,758 East Twenty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, and Major Mark R. M. Williams of 360 Furman Street, Brooklyn.

Why Electric Output Is Gaining

The ever-growing domestic demand for heavy-duty electric appliances such as refrigerators, radio sets, washing machines and electric ranges, has been instrumental in maintaining electric output at record levels.

The average annual electric consumption per domestic customer in the United States has increased from 429 kilowatt hours in 1927 to 502 kilowatt hours in 1929. This represents a gain of approximately 17% in two years which has augmented the central station load by more than 1,000,000,000 kilowatt hours annually.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Renewed and Heavy Decline on Stock Exchange—Money Unchanged, Silver Lower.

The renewed and at times violent decline which occurred on yesterday's stock market seemed to prove that the previous day's recovery had been caused by precautionary "covering" of professional operators for the decline, rather than by strong support from other quarters. When it appeared, at the opening of yesterday's market, that no further sign of large-scale buying was visible, the selling movement was at once resumed. It continued throughout the day and, in the active shares, more than canceled Tuesday's advances. The market did not as a rule close at the lowest; in many shares a good part of the day's extreme declines was recovered. But the reaction had carried down numerous active stocks 10 points or more before prices showed signs of turning.

It can only be inferred from this action of the market that the struggle to determine intrinsic values, in the present more or less obscure trade situation, has not yet been fought out. The difficulty with the stock market, even in its recent stages, was created by the entire unsettlement of ideas regarding such values which prevailed before last Autumn. Experience on other occasions of the sort has taught that the subsequent period of uncertainty cannot always be definitely measured. The present test has been applied with a violence that had long been unfamiliar; Wall Street had grown more accustomed, during the two years ending with last Summer, to application of such methods for the driving up of prices. In both cases the results caused surprise and perplexity, but the one process is perhaps the unavoidable complement of the other.

There was again no clue to the market's action in the day's outside news. The usual midweek reports from industry were published, and their character was pretty much the same as in other recent weeks. Current rate of steel production for the country as a whole was placed at 69 per cent of capacity; it was 72 a week ago, 80 in April and 82 at the high point of February. The trade's activity habitually slows down at this time of year; although production was something like 90 per cent in this week of 1929, it was placed at 75 or 80 two years ago.

Railway traffic again made a less cheerful comparison with years before 1929. The fact that the week covered by yesterday's car-loading statement contained the Memorial Day holiday renders comparison less exact; but its results were much the smallest, except for 1924, of any corresponding week since 1922, and the decrease from last year was 13 per cent. The completed May returns of this weekly freight movement hardly foreshadow any improvement in gross railway earnings from other recent months.

The wheat market declined, notwithstanding the fact that the government's estimate on yield, the previous afternoon, had been below expectation. Yesterday's price was the lowest in nearly three weeks and 4½ cents under last week's highest. The spot price for cotton was the lowest since March. Sterling exchange again touched the low price of the year, and the Bank of England gave up $1,000,000 more gold for export.

CHANGES IN CORPORATIONS.

H. C. Couch Joins Board of St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad.

Harvey C. Couch has been elected a director of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Leonard Adkins, and has been appointed a member of the executive committee, succeeding Eugene V. R. Thayer, resigned.

L. A. Woolams, vice president and treasurer of the California Packing Company, has resigned, effective the end of this week, to become a general partner in the Bancamerica-Blair Company.

A. D. Geoghegan, president of the Wesson Oil and Snowdrift Company, has been elected chairman of the Canal Bank and Trust Company of New Orleans.

C. E. Stephens, N. G. Symonds and W. R. Marshall have been appointed commercial vice presidents, a newly created office, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Mr. Stephens will have charge of the Atlantic Division, Mr. Symonds the Central Division and Mr. Marshall the Pacific Division.

Sidney Weinberg of Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Wesson Seyburn of Detroit have been elected directors of the B. F. Goodrich Company to fill vacancies caused by the resignation of A. H. Noah and C. E. Cook. Mr. Weinberg has also been elected a director of Continental Can Company, Inc., and added to the executive committee in place of Waddill Catchings, resigned.

Robert A. McCord of Macon, Ga., has been admitted to partnership in the firm of Fenner & Beane.

Edward L. Ballard was elected a member of the board of directors of the City Housing Corporation, a limited dividend company, at a special meeting of the board yesterday. Mr. Ballard is chairman of the Merchants Fire Assurance Company and the Washington Assurance Corporation.

F. E. Powell, chairman of the board of the Anglo-American Oil Company, Ltd., has been elected a director of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

David H. Lovell, formerly with the Lee, Higginson & Co. office in Providence, will become associated with the New York sales department of White, Weld & Co. on June 16.

James D. Remsen is now associated with A. C. Gebhardt & Co. as statistician and economist.

J. Franklin Trainor has become associated with the uptown office of Jackson Brothers, Boesel & Co.

Edmund W. Keese, who has been credit manager of the Seward National Bank, has been promoted to assistant cashier.

Carl A. Pfau and Mitchell P. Crist have been elected vice presidents of Hill, Joiner & Co.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Stock prices were driven down yesterday below the level from which they recovered on the day before, and the net declines, in spite of a smart rally at the close, were the widest of the year, so far as the active list was concerned. Transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 4,777,390 shares. The weakness, which was most acute in the fifth hour of trading, was again attributed to bearish professionals, who returned to the attack with more vigor than they have displayed at any period of the current reaction. Fifty representative issues showed a net loss of $7.09, the widest since Dec. 12. Before the last-minute rally which checked the decline, many of the market leaders, including United States Steel common, had sunk to the lowest levels of the year. Wall Street looked in vain for any development, aside from bear raiding, to account for the weakness.

Morgan Support Seen.

A dramatic episode of the market collapse of last Autumn is said to have been repeated yesterday, and with similar results, when an order for 60,000 shares of United States Steel common was placed shortly before the close. Since the bid is reported to have been placed through Richard Whitney, who is often referred to as a "Morgan broker," it was assumed that he was acting for J. P. Morgan & Co. interests. Just how much stock was bought was a matter of conjecture, but the price rose rapidly in the last fifteen minutes and closed at 163½, or 2½ points above the reported bid price. The report of the bid by Mr. Whitney, who is president of the Stock Exchange, spread swiftly through the Wall Street district and had an electrifying effect on the market.

⁂

The Last-Minute Rally.

Leading stocks rebounded with surprising speed in the late dealings. United States Steel, after falling 5⅝ points from the day's high, recovered 3 points. Eastman Kodak dropped 17½ points from its high and regained 5¼. American Can declined 8½ points and recovered 4½. General Electric sank 5¼ and came back 1⅞. Warner Brothers Pictures declined 6⅞ points and recovered 2⅛. Johns-Manville dropped 8¾ and rebounded 2¾.

⁂

German Annuities Issue Today.

One of the interesting features of the German Government annuities issue which will be offered here today is the absence of all reference to "reparations" in the official literature on the loan. The circular issued by the banking syndicate has named the issue "German Government international 5½ per cent loan thirty-five-year gold bonds," and the descriptive matter studiously avoids referring to the loan as a reparations issue, since the use of this term would indicate responsibility for the war and would offend Germany and her sympathizers. The circular declares, however, that the loan is issued in conformity with the new plan, of the Hague agreement, which is a "complete and final settlement, so far as Germany is concerned, of the financial questions resulting from the war." A large demand for the bonds was evidenced by the premium at which they sold yesterday on a when-issued basis on the Produce Exchange.

Van Sweringens Go West.

Application yesterday by O. P. Van Sweringen, new chairman of the Missouri Pacific, to serve on the board of the Denver & Rio Grande Western emphasized the rapid swing which the Cleveland interests have made from East to West. Mr. Van Sweringen has resigned from his Eastern railroad boards and it is now expected he will go on the boards of the Texas & Pacific, Gulf Coast Lines, International Great Northern and other "Mop" controlled lines. A year ago the prediction that Mr. Van Sweringen would leap the Mississippi in this fashion would have aroused amusement in most railroad circles.

A Merger Lull.

With the Couzens resolution against the authorization of consolidations by the Interstate Commerce Commission hanging over the situation, merger proponents seem to have gone into temporary retirement. It was pointed out in railroad circles, however, that the resolution was aimed chiefly at the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific and it was suggested that elsewhere there might be considerable concealed activity. The next move may be an application by the Chesapeake & Ohio for control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie. The C. & O. applied for the road in the merger petition which had to be withdrawn because it did not contain financial details. There is nothing to prevent the C. & O. from coming forward now with a specific plan for acquisition of the Wheeling, the acquisition of other roads desired for its system being left for future action.

⁂

Selling Utilities Short.

Why the public utility group yesterday was the principal target of short selling was somewhat of a mystery in stock market circles. If any special reason therefor existed, it was thought, the utilities were sold short because of the high price-times-earnings ratio of the common stocks and the failure of the companies to approximate the rate of gain in earnings as shown in previous years.

⁂

Investment Trust Stocks.

Statistical observers noted that investment trust stocks did not decline so sharply in yesterday's market as they did on Monday, although the general market drop was greater. This has been taken as an indication that the constant downward trend of these stocks, which has continued generally of late even when the rest of the market turned upward, has created such a discount in the market price of investment trust securities in comparison with their asset values that until the market moves much lower investment trusts securities will show a tendency to hold their own.

⁂

Simplified Utilities.

The action of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation in putting together all the utility properties within each State provides a further instance of the desire of the companies to arrange their systems so that the public utility commissions charged with their regulation may have a simplified and complete organization to deal with. In certain States, the process is to unify utilities within a well defined area instead of creating a single operating company, in order to facilitate the task of the men directing operations. By and large, however, the power map is expanding to a point that makes it comparable to the map of telephone operations, although ownership of power companies may never be concentrated as in the Bell System.

MONEY.

Wednesday, June 11, 1930.

Noticeably heavier offerings of funds for Stock Exchange call loans made for a new low for this accommodation in the street trading, 2 per cent being reported the figure for a moderate amount. Trades were also arranged at 2½, but 3 per cent was the official rate on the Stock Exchange. Time money, commercial paper and acceptances showed no variation in rate or discount, business continuing on small scale.

German Government International 5½% Loan 1930

THIRTY-FIVE YEAR GOLD BONDS

United States of America Issue

Dated June 1, 1930 Interest payable June 1 and December 1 Due June 1, 1965

BANK FOR INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENTS, TRUSTEE.

A cumulative sinking fund, computed to be sufficient to retire the entire issue at or before maturity, is to be applied to the purchase of Bonds at or below 100% and accrued interest if available, or otherwise to the redemption at that price of Bonds drawn by lot.

Redeemable at 100% and accrued interest upon not less than 45 days' previous notice, on June 1 of any year through the sinking fund, and on June 1, 1935, and yearly thereafter in amounts of not less than $7,500,000 principal amount at the option of the Government.

Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

Principal and interest payable in New York City at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. in United States gold coin of the standard of weight and fineness existing on June 1, 1930, without deduction for any German taxes, present or future.

Dr. Paul Moldenhauer, Minister of Finances of the German Reich, has furnished the following facts regarding the German Government International 5½% Loan 1930, a more complete statement being printed in a circular dated June 12, 1930:

> The payment of the principal, interest and sinking fund of the Loan is the direct and unconditional obligation of the German Government to the bondholder, for which the full faith and credit of the German Government are pledged.
>
> Principal and interest of Bonds of the United States of America issue are payable in dollars. Payment may, however, at the option of the holder, be effected on any foreign market where any of the Bonds of the Loan are quoted in the currency of that market at the then current rate of exchange, as set forth in the General Bond of the Loan.
>
> These Bonds constitute part of the German Government International 5½% Loan 1930, which is to provide an aggregate effective amount equivalent to approximately $300,000,000 by the issuance of portions of the Loan (in bonds of various currencies, all of equal rank, without priority of any bond over any other as to the payment of principal, interest or sinking fund) in the following countries and in the following principal amounts: United States of America, $98,250,000; France, 2,515,000,000 francs; Great Britain, £12,000,000 sterling; Holland, 73,000,000 florins; Sweden, 110,000,000 kronor; Switzerland, 92,000,000 Swiss francs; Germany, 36,000,000 reichsmarks; Italy, 110,000,000 lire; Belgium, 35,000,000 belgas.
>
> Two-thirds of this Loan represents the capitalization of a portion of the unconditional annuities payable by Germany according to the New Plan, and the proceeds thereof will be paid to the Bank for International Settlements for the account of the Creditor Powers concerned. The remaining one-third of the proceeds of the Loan will be utilized by the German Government to provide for requirements of the German Railway Company and the German Post Office and Telegraphs.
>
> The German Government International 5½% Loan 1930 is authorized by Law of March 13, 1930 and by Law of May 30, 1930 enacted by the German Reich. The Loan is issued in conformity with the New Plan adopted by The Hague Agreement and with the Mobilization Agreement, both of January 20, 1930, between Germany and the signatory Creditor Powers, which Agreements were ratified by the above-mentioned Law of March 13, 1930, and, for the purpose of issuing the Bonds of this Loan, the German Government has executed its General Bond to the Bank for International Settlements as Trustee. The Hague Agreement, between Germany and the signatory Creditor Powers, states "the New Plan is definitely accepted as a complete and final settlement, so far as Germany is concerned, of the financial questions resulting from the War."

For further particulars, reference is made to the more detailed statement printed in the circular, a copy of which may be obtained upon application. The Bank for International Settlements has taken note of such statement and has agreed to act as trustee for the bondholders.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, SUBJECT TO THE CONDITIONS STATED BELOW, AT 90% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD 6.20% TO MATURITY.

Subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., at 10 o'clock A. M., Thursday, June 12, 1930, and closed in their discretion. The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to allot a smaller amount than applied for. All subscriptions will be received subject to the due issue and delivery to us of the Bonds as planned and to the approval by counsel of the form and validity of the Bonds and of the relevant proceedings and authorizations.

The amounts due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds to their order, and the date of payment (on or about June 26, 1930) will be stated in the notices of allotment. Interim Receipts, exchangeable for definitive Bonds when received, are to be delivered.

We recommend the exercise of your rights to subscribe to the 20-year 5% Convertible Debentures at 100 (par) now selling on the New York Curb Exchange at approximately 105.

These Debentures give you the privilege of converting into common stock at any time between December 1, 1930 and December 1, 1935, at prices starting at 27½ and increasing to 38¾. In addition to this the Debentures are entitled to receive interest at the rate of 5% per annum, until conversion. The stock presently is selling at about 2½ points above the earliest conversion price on the Debentures.

Stockholders may enter subscriptions to these Debentures through our Investment Department, and secure further information as to the value of their rights under this plan.

$100,000,000 LINE FOR GAS PLANNED

Company Formed to Construct System Linking Chicago to Texas Panhandle.

SEVEN GROUPS IN PROJECT

Natural Product Will Be Piped to Fifty Communities in the Middle West.

The Continental Construction Company has been formed to undertake the construction of a $100,000,000 natural gas pipe line from the Texas Panhandle to Chicago, a distance of approximately 1,000 miles, according to an announcement yesterday by Henry L. Doherty & Co. The project is the outcome of an agreement among Cities Service, Insull interests, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Texas Corporation, the Skelly Oil Company, the Phillips Petroleum Company and the Columbian Carbon Corporation. The People's Gas Light and Coke Company, an Insull property, will distribute the natural gas in Chicago, probably as a part of its general supply.

The line will have an initial daily delivery capacity of about 300,000,000 cubic feet, and it is estimated it will serve more than fifty cities and communities in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin. More than 210,000 tons of twenty-four-inch pipe will be used in the line, while an additional 100,000 tons of pipe, ranging from eight to sixteen inches in size, will be required for auxiliary and lateral lines. Deliveries of twenty-four-inch pipe and other equipment have already begun. The line will obtain its supply of gas from the Texhoma Company and associated companies, which have an aggregate of proved gas acreage totaling about 1,000,000 acres in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

The Natural Gas Company of America has been formed to finance and operate the line with funds being provided by the associated companies. There is no present indication of any offering of securities for financing purposes. The combined assets of the seven companies engaged in the project, all of them active as public utility, gas and petroleum operators, amount to approximately $4,000,000,000.

This is the third large natural gas pipe line project launched out of the Texas Panhandle field in the last several years. A natural gas pipe line connecting this field with Kansas City and adjacent territory was recently completed by Cities Service. Another line built by Standard Oil of New Jersey, Prairie Oil and Gas and Cities Service interests connects the Texas Panhandle field and Denver, Col., a distance of about 400 miles. A Cities Service subsidiary distributes gas from this line in Denver.

NEW GAS RATE FOR CHICAGO.

Company Proposes to Base the Charge on Heat Units.

The Peoples Gas, Light and Coke Company of Chicago has filed a new rate schedule with the Illinois Commerce Commission to be effective on July 15 if approved, under which the company proposes to bill its customers on a basis of heat units rather than the volume of gas consumed.

The important reason for this change, the company says, is that the gas supply of the company will be augmented by natural gas after completion of the pipe line from the Texas Panhandle to Chicago. The line is expected to be completed during 1931.

"The company's product then will be a mixture of natural and manufactured gas," George F. Mitchell, president, said. "It will have a substantially greater heating value a cubic foot than gas now supplied and the customer will use less gas by volume to obtain the same results. Under the new basis for billing, the customer will pay only for the heating value of gas regardless of the volume."

TO ADD TELEPHONE STOCK.

New York Co. Applies to Increase Capitalization to $575,000,000.

The New York Telephone Company filed notice yesterday in Albany of an increase in the authorized capitalization from $450,000,000 to $575,000,000, the additional $125,000,000 to be common stock. The total authorized stock henceforth will be 5,000,000 common shares and 750,000 preferred shares, of which 3,120,500 common and 250,000 preferred shares are outstanding.

All outstanding common stock is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. No offering of additional common shares is scheduled. At the close of 1929 the common stock outstanding totaled $280,600,000 in value and $90,700,000 additional was authorized for issuance by the Public Service Commission of New York early in March. This brought the total outstanding to within $3,700,000 of the total common stock outhorization.

Contract for Electric Cable.

The General Electric Company has obtained an order from the Union Gas and Electric Company of Cincinnati for three-conductor cable of 66-kilovolt capacity to replace four overhead circuits between the transformers of its Columbia Park generating station and its terminal transmission lines. It will be the first such installation in this country, it was said, and is to be used in filled ground which is subjected to immersion by flood stages of the river at certain times and to very dry conditions at other periods.

NIAGARA HUDSON TO MERGE HOLDINGS

Power Company Proposes an Operating Subsidiary in Western Part of State.

A STEP IN SIMPLIFICATION

Plan, Subject to Approval of Utility Commission, Provides for Stock Issue by New Unit.

The Niagara Power Corporation is to be formed as a new operating subsidiary of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, to consolidate the various electric power and light companies now controlled by the system in the westernmost sections of New York State, it was learned yesterday.

The consolidation is subject to the approval of the Public Service Commission, which has taken the proposal under advisement, and the plan provides for the issuance of additional capital stock by the Niagara Power Corporation and the acquisition of such shares by the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation.

The companies to be merged are the Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power Corporation, the Lockport and Newfane Power and Water Supply Company, the Buffalo General Electric Company, the Niagara Electric Service Corporation, the Niagara Falls Power Company, the Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company and the Tonawanda Power Company.

This is a further important step in the simplification of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, which has already resulted in the elimination of the Northeastern Power Corporation and the Mohawk-Hudson Power Corporation, which were intermediary holding companies. The operating properties of the last two companies are to be directly owned subsidiaries of Niagara Hudson Power, following approval of the Public Service Commission, and these operating subsidiaries in turn are expected to be consolidated into two operating companies, serving East Central and Northeastern New York respectively.

The Niagara Hudson Power Corporation was organized on July 16, 1929, as a holding company for the Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power Corporation, the Mohawk-Hudson Power Corporation and the Northeastern Power Corporation, which in turn were holding companies for electric power and light companies operating in the northern part of the State. The transactions undertaken will bring about the disappearance of those three holding companies and create three principal operating companies.

Additional properties acquired by the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation in the past year include a 30 per cent interest in the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company of Poughkeepsie and control of the Hudson Valley Coke and Products Corporation, the Frontier Corporation, the St. Lawrence Securities Company, the Fulton Light, Heat and Power Company and, through a nominee, the Moose River Power Company's properties.

CHANGES CONVERSION RATE.

I. T. & T. Announces New Terms for the Gold Debentures.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation announced yesterday that its ten-year convertible 4½ per cent gold debenture bonds are now convertible at the rate of $64.1564 principal amount of bonds for one share of the capital stock of the corporation without par value.

The change in the conversion price is due principally to the issue of additional stock by the corporation as of May 1, 1930. The conversion rate of the bonds formerly was at the rate of $66.666 principal amount of bonds for one share of no par value capital stock. The bonds were issued as of Jan. 1, 1929, and became convertible into common stock on July 1, 1929.

INDICATES $350,000 PROFIT.

American Corporation Advises Stockholders of Investment Plans.

Frank T. Hulswit, president of the American Corporation, in a letter to stockholders mailed last night, said securities in the investment account of the company showed an indicated market profit of more than $350,000. Based on the annual income from dividends on investments made as of June 11 and from interest on uninvested bank balances, the corporation is earning at the annual rate of 70 cents a share on 475,000 common shares now outstanding, Mr. Hulswit said.

The letter says that the corporation has exercised its options on substantial blocks of class B common stock of the American Commonwealths Power Corporation.

VIRGINIA MERGER PLANNED.

City Gas Company of Norfolk to Be Taken Over by Power Concern.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Virginia Electric and Power Company has been called for June 30 to consider a merger agreement with the City Gas Company of Norfolk, Va., all the common stock of which already is owned by the Virginia company. The companies are under Stone & Webster management.

The agreement provides for making additional preferred and common stocks of the merged company available for future financing and other charter changes. The common stock of the Virginia company is owned by the Engineers Public Service Company, a Stone & Webster, Inc., subsidiary.

Are You Taking Advantage of Present Bond Yields?

A YEAR AGO—The public was immersed in the stock market . . . High interest rates for call money strongly attracted the surplus funds of corporations and banks . . . Real estate and building activity employed large amounts of money . . . A peak volume of general business required extra operating capital.

TODAY—The situation is reversed . . . Interest rates, at home and abroad, are at their lowest level in years . . . Money is gradually releasing itself from other channels and gathering for conservative investment . . . The outlets for surplus funds have narrowed perceptibly to bonds.

This changed situation is not yet fully reflected in the bond market . . . Bond prices have not advanced substantially above the general level of 1929—the year of lowest average prices since 1925.

To the further advantage of bond investors, commodity prices have sharply declined to the lowest point since 1916—hence, bond income is worth more in purchasing power.

While it is always a good time to buy bonds, present market conditions are especially favorable to the bond investor . . . Outstanding values may be found, particularly among the sound, but less widely known issues, which are naturally slower to follow any major price trend . . . May we suggest issues to fit your requirements from our well-diversified list of current offerings?

Quarterly Bond Review—Now Ready

This book contains a more complete discussion of the present bond market . . . Presents a broad list of our current offerings, classified as to type—Government, Municipal, Foreign, Public Utility, Real Estate, and Industrial—with descriptions. A copy will be sent on request.

TRADING IN BONDS LIVELIEST OF WEEK

Industrials Irregular and Rails Are Active on the Stock Exchange.

GOVERNMENT ISSUES DULL

Fourth Liberty Loan Touches New High for the Year—German Securities Show Strength.

Greater activity than on any day this week featured the bond trading on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. General industrial issues were irregular, rails were more active, although price changes were negligible, while the government issues were dull and exhibited little price change. Convertible issues in all classes displayed an easier tone in sympathy with the easing off of stocks.

Trading in the government issues was small in volume, the Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼s, showing the greatest activity and closing 1/32d higher after establishing a new high for the year. On a very small volume the treasury 3⅜s gained 6/32ds and closed with the gain. Other issues were unchanged to a 3/32d loss to a 1/32d gain.

German issues were inclined to strength. German 7s closed the day with a gain of 1⅛ points, Electric Power of Germany 6½s and Rhine Westphalia 6s were fractionally higher.

Among the industrials the General Theatres Equipment convertible 6 per cent issue of 1944 broke severely, closing the day at 109¾, and the other convertible issues in this group were uniformly lower.

LINDSAY HEADS BOND CLUB.

Addinsell Elected Vice President and Oakley Secretary.

George N. Lindsay, vice president of Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, was elected president of the Bond Club of New York yesterday, succeeding Pierpont V. Davis. Other officers elected were Harry M. Addinsell of Harris, Forbes & Co., vice president; R. Lawrence Oakley of Maynard, Oakley & Lawrence, secretary, and Henry W. Brower of Laidlaw & Co., treasurer.

Mr. Davis was elected to the board of governors for three years, as was Laurence M. Marks of Lee, Higginson & Co.; Frank E. Gernon of Hayden, Stone & Co., and Henry S. Sturgis of the First National Bank of New York.

Republic of Cuba Bonds Drawn.

Holders of Republic of Cuba external sinking fund 5½ per cent gold bonds, dated Jan. 26, 1923, are being notified today that $177,500 principal amount of the bonds have been drawn by lot by J. P. Morgan & Co., fiscal agents, for redemption on July 15, 1930, at par. The bonds so drawn will be paid out of sinking fund moneys available, upon presentation and surrender with subsequent coupons attached, at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., 23 Wall Street, on or after July 15, after which date interest on the drawn bonds will cease.

Exact EVALUATION

The staff of Young & Ottley, Inc., is constantly studying the effects of changing economic and industrial factors in order to select by exact evaluation those high grade listed bonds, preferred and common stocks, which are most attractive for your specific purposes.

As this organization never acts as broker, dealer or underwriter, recommendations are entirely without prejudice.

To insure careful, individual attention, these services are limited to those interested in maintaining an investment in securities of $100,000 or more.

$50,000,000 TRUST IS ORGANIZED HERE

Management Type Concern Is Sponsored by Brookmire Economic Service.

STOCK OFFERED TO PUBLIC

One Million No-Par Common to Be Marketed at $54—No Senior Securities.

A new management type of investment trust, with capital of approximately $50,000,000, sponsored by the Brookmire Economic Service, was announced yesterday by H. W. Moorhouse, president of the service. The new trust will be called Brookmire Investors, Inc.

The trust has a capitalization of 1,000,000 no-par common shares, which will be offered to the public beginning today, at about $54 a share. The company will have no senior securities or debentures of any kind, unless a provision in the indenture providing against this is abrogated at a later date by a vote of at least two-thirds of the stockholders.

The Fidelity Union Trust Company of Northern New Jersey will be the custodian trust of the company. The trust company will hold at all times a list of securities, approved by the Brookmire Economic Service, from which the investment trust may select its portfolio. This will be subject to scrutiny at all times by investment trust stockholders. The list may be altered from time to time by the Economic Service.

One feature of the trust is a provision in the indenture that any stockholder may at any time sell his stock back to the company at a price of 1 per cent below asset value, regardless of what the market price of the stock may be at the time.

The indenture provides that the portfolio may never contain at one time more than 5 per cent of the company's capital in the securities of one company, or more than 15 per cent in securities in a single industry, railroads and public utilities excepted.

MUNICIPAL LOANS.

New Bond Issues to Be Offered to the Public by Investment Bankers Today.

Camden, N. J.

The City of Camden, N. J., awarded yesterday an issue of $6,868,000 4¼ per cent bonds, dated July 1, 1930, and falling due serially from July 1, 1931, to July 1, 1970, to a syndicate consisting of the Bankers Company, National City Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., Guaranty Company, Estabrook & Co., Dewey, Bacon & Co. and Hannahs, Ballin & Lee, at 100.28. The proceeds of the issue will be used for various municipal purposes.

The last issue of Camden bonds was made on July 6, 1927, when $2,153,000 4¼ per cent bonds were sold partly to M. M. Freeman & Co. and partly to George B. Gibbon & Co., on a basis which represented a net interest cost of 4.21 per cent annually to the city.

The new issue of $6,868,000 bonds will be offered today by the syndicate, priced to yield from 3.85 to 4.15 per cent, according to maturity. The bonds are tax free in New Jersey and are legal investment for savings banks and trust funds in New York, New Jersey and other States.

The bonds, which are issued for water works, public improvements, municipal buildings and school purposes, are direct obligations of the city of Camden. The assessed valuation of property within the city is $215,676,793 and the net bonded debt is $17,761,528.

Nassau County, N. Y.

A new issue of $1,700,000 Nassau County (N. Y.) highway and jail gold bonds, dated July 1, 1930, and due on July 1, 1942, to July 1, 1950, was sold yesterday to a syndicate consisting of B. J. Van Ingen & Co., Stephens & Co. and M. F. Schlater & Co. at 101.909. The second highest bid was that of M. M. Greeman & Co. and associates at 101.637, while the third highest was by the National City Company at 101.6099. The last issue by the county consisted of $2,040,000 4½ per cent road and bridge bonds, maturing from May 1, 1931, to May 1, 1945, which were sold to George B. Gibbons & Co. at 102.24.

The new issue will be offered today by M. F. Schlater & Co., B. J. Van Ingen & Co. and Stephens & Co. at a price to yield 4 per cent. The bonds are legal investment for savings banks and trust funds in New York. Nassau County has an assessed valuation of $856,076,468 and a bonded debt of $22,329,000.

Quincy, Mass.

Offering will be made today of a new issue of $600,000 city of Quincy (Mass.) tax anticipation notes, maturing on June 11, 1931, at a price to yield 2.80 per cent. The offering will be made by Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, who announced yesterday that they had purchased the issue.

Waltham, Mass.

Offering of a new issue of $400,000 city of Waltham (Mass.) tax anticipation notes, of which $200,000 will mature on Dec. 15, 1930, and $200,000 on Dec. 31, 1930, will be made today by Salomon Brothers & Hutzler at a price to yield 2.40 per cent.

Trust Shares Are Offered On a Part-Payment Basis

North American Trust shares may be purchased on the instalment plan with insurance covering the balance of payment in the event of death, according to a new plan announced yesterday by the Independence Fund of North America, Inc. The new plan is to be known as Independence Fund.

Under the plan the small investor may carry out a set investment program on an instalment basis of $10 a month or any multiple thereof. A blanket life insurance policy has been drawn insuring the payment of the contracted amount in case of death.

FIDELITY TRUST CO. TO ENLARGE CAPITAL

Directors Vote to Make Total $10,000,000 and Surplus Same Amount.

RIGHTS WILL BE OFFERED

Name of Bank Will Be Changed to Marine Midland Trust Co. About July 1.

An increase in the capital and surplus of the Fidelity Trust Company from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000, through an offering of rights to stockholders to subscribe to 200,000 additional shares for $50 a share at two new shares for each three held has been approved by the directors of the bank, which is a member of the Marine Midland group, it was announced yesterday by James G. Blaine, president of the bank. Mr. Blaine said that about July 1 the name of the bank would be changed to the Marine Midland Trust Company of New York.

Since Marine Midland, controlling a chain of eighteen New York banks, owns 98 per cent of the Fidelity stock, nearly all of the $10,000,000 realized through the offering will come from the treasury of the Marine Midland Corporation. The latter corporation has cash, call loans and government securities of more than $47,000,000, Mr. Blaine said.

Of the $10,000,000 obtained through the offering, $4,000,000 will be applied to the bank's capital, increasing it to $10,000,000 while $6,000,000 will go to surplus, increasing this item likewise to $10,000,000.

The bank's undivided profits on March 27 amounted to $1,695,083, so that the total capital, surplus and undivided profits, upon completion of the stock transaction, will be more than $21,695,000.

The Fidelity Trust Company, in its statement of March 28, showed resources of $72,894,968. It joined the Marine Midland group early this year. The latter group, which controls banks with total resources of more than $600,000,000, was formed last year as a bank holding company.

Mr. Blaine said the subscription rights would probably expire on June 27. He added that affiliation of his bank with the Marine Midland group has resulted in increased deposits. The increase in capital and surplus, he said, would make it possible for the bank to lend twice as much to individual customers.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Ohio Edison Company.

Gross earnings of the new Ohio Edison Company, in process of creation as a Commonwealth and Southern subsidiary to merge all of the utility properties in Ohio, were $20,294,896 for the twelve months ended on April 30, 1930, including the Ohio River Edison Company and excluding the transportation units, which had gross earnings of $5,219,181 for the period.

Gross income of Ohio Edison after expenses and taxes was $11,536,716, and net income, after depreciation and all charges, was $6,122,187, comparing with annual dividend requirements of $1,955,936 on the preferred stock to be outstanding. The new company will have a funded debt of $68,074,000; 303,380 preferred shares of $5 to $7.20 series, principally consisting of 154,256 shares of $6 series and 116,573 shares of $7 series, and 1,434,920 common shares, all of which will be owned by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation.

The common shares include 600,000 shares to be sold to the parent company for $15,000,000 in cash and 112,000 shares to be issued in part payment for the physical properties of the Ohio River Edison Company and the Ohio River Transmission Company.

Associated Telephone Utilities.

Consolidated gross earnings of the Associated Telephone Utilities Company for the twelve months ended on March 31 were $15,281,921, compared with $12,544,779 for the calendar year 1929, an increase of 21.81 per cent. Consolidated net income before depreciation was $2,748,626 for the twelve months to March 31, 1930, against $2,291,574 in 1929.

EXCHANGE RULING PUZZLES TRUSTS

Officials Ask Clear Definition of Conditions Under Which They May Buy Own Stock.

MANY WANT MODIFICATION

Contend Present Code Keeps Them From Protecting Shareholders in a Falling Market.

Several investment trusts whose stock is traded in on the New York Stock Exchange have in the current market depression found themselves in such a quandary regarding the interpretation of the Stock Exchange rule which forbids investment trusts to buy their own stock except under special circumstances that they are considering taking the matter to Stock Exchange officials, it was learned yesterday.

Although officials of the Exchange refused to make any statement in regard to these reports, it was said in other quarters that consultations between investment trust officials and representatives of the committee on stock list of the Exchange had already taken place relative either to the clarifying of the rule or to its modification.

Investment trust executives have said they do not know what constitutes the "exceptional and special circumstances" under which the new ruling will allow them to purchase their own stock. While all have expressed a desire to fall in line with the desires of the Exchange regarding the management of trusts, some are known not to have sent word to the Exchange that they will abide by this particular ruling.

Rule Attacked As Vague.

The most specific criticism of the ruling is that it is vague. Some trusts have gone so far as to point out that inasmuch as their banking affiliates are not exactly subsidiaries, there is nothing in the ruling to prevent these affiliations from buying the stocks of the trusts in which they are interested.

Several trusts have said they see no reason why it is not to the best intrests of their stockholders to buy in their own securities as a means of stabilizing a falling market, especially when the market price has dropped to the point where there is a large discount between it and the asset value of the stock.

Another criticism is that it is believed other types of corporations are not prohibited from buying in their own stock under such circumstances. On this point, however, legal opinion is reported to be at odds. Trust executives point out that the purposes of an investment trust are mainly to obtain as fair a return and appreciation as possible for stockholders. When their own stocks drop to a point at which they seem to offer promise of contributing to such a purpose, they say, trusts should be able to purchase them for investment to a limited degree.

On the general principle that trusts should not be allowed to buy so much of their own stock as to mislead the public and perhaps create a corner in their issue, trust leaders are agreed. They say this seems to be the precise pnurpose behind the Stock Exchange ruling, and in this respect admire the ruling.

Would Restrict Purchases.

The phrasing "exceptional and special circumstances," however, is felt by some to be misleading. One executive suggested the ruling should be altered so as to make it specific. He suggested, as an example, that trusts might be limited to holding 5 per cent of their own stock.

Another executive suggested that if trusts were restricted in the purchase of their own stock to prices 15 per cent or more below the asset value of the stock at the close of the day before the purchase the element of unfairness to the public would be eliminated.

The difficulty in having the stock of a trust purchased by its banking affiliate, it was said, is that the trust itself would not be able to benefit from the appreciation which might result from such an investment. Such bank buying, however, would tend to stabilize the market, it was admitted.

No cognizance of any disagreement with the ruling would be taken by Stock Exchange officials yesterday. How many trusts actually have protested or are planning a protest, and how many have not yet signified their intention of accepting the ruling, could not be learned.

$107,818,000 New Securities To Be Offered to Public Today

New offerings of securities totaling $107,818,000 will be placed on the market today by New York banking houses and syndicates. All of the offerings are bonds. They are classified as follows:

Foreign	$98,250,000
Municipal	9,568,000

MERGER IS PLANNED BY TWO BOSTON BANKS

Beacon Trust Directors Advise Shareholders to Accept Offer of Atlantic National.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 11.—The board of directors of the Beacon Trust Company voted today to recommend to shareholders that they accept an offer of the Atlantic National Bank for a merger o fthe two institutions, and a special meeting of the stockholders has been called for July 16 to take action on the directors' proposal which would become effective on July 31.

The terms offered by the Atlantic are two shares of Beacon to be exchanged for one share of Atlantic. The trust company has 150,000 shares outstanding, each of $20 par value. This would mean the issuance of 75,000 shares of the national bank's stock, which is of $25 par value, for the exchange.

The market price of Beacon stock is about $50 a share, and the price of Atlantic stock about $98. As each bank pays dividends of $3 a year, the exchange would mean a 50 per cent reduction in income to shareholders, it was pointed out, but would give them stock ownership in a much larger bank.

According to the latest Clearing House statement, Atlantic has $8,000,000 capital, $8,905,000 surplus and undivided profits and $107,604,000 in deposits, and Beacon has $3,000,000 capital, $3,626,000 surplus and undivided profits and $31,816,000 in deposits.

Charles B. Jopp, president of Beacon, will become a vice president of Atlantic, and all other members of the staff will be retained.

BUENOS AIRES, June 11 (AP).—Bids for 30,000,000 Argentine pesos (about $25,000,000) in 6 per cent municipal bonds for the city of Buenos Aires were called for today. Offers will be received until June 18.

HOLMES MADE HEAD OF STATE BANKERS

Olean Man Is Honored as Association Ends Convention in Quebec.

TAX BILL IS ENDORSED

Norris Measure, Limiting Federal Court Jurisdiction, Is Opposed in a Resolution.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

QUEBEC, June 11.—Mark M. Holmes, president of the Exchange National Bank of Olean, N. Y., was elected president of the New York State Bankers Association at the final meeting of the convention of the association held here today.

Mr. Holmes, who has been vice president of the association, succeeds William K. Payne, president of the Cayuga County National Bank. J. S. Stewart Baker, president of the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company, was elected vice president, and H. H. Griswold, president of the First National Bank and Trust Company, was named treasurer of the association.

The association went on record today as endorsing the Goodwin bill, now before Congress, which provides for a so-called specific tax for national banks. Under this bill, bank shares will be taxed instead of income directly.

In effect, the proposed measure will tend to equalize the taxation of national banks, it was said, particularly as it effects top profits on securities by the banks.

Opposition to the Norris bill was voiced by the convention in a formal resolution. This bill, it was explained, would remove from the jurisdiction of the Federal courts all civil cases involving parties in different States. Thus, if a man in New York State sought judgment against an individual or corporation in another State, the suit would have to be brought in the home State of the latter.

A resolution was passed authorizing the president of the association to appoint a committee of five to act with similar committees to be appointed by New Jersey and Connecticut bankers in the recommending of directors to be elected to the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and to acquaint members of the association with the qualifications of the candidates.

The convention also passed a resolution appropriating $2,000 to be distributed by the New York State College of Agriculture to farmers and girls who have completed the work under the junior farm project of the association.

A resolution was passed expressing appreciation of the work of Edward J. Gallien, who has been secretary of the association for many years and who has resigned, effective July 1, 1930.

The association presented the retiring president, Mr. Payne, with a set of silver candlesticks in appreciation of his work for the association.

RAIL RATES CALLED UNFAIR TO STEEL

Mid-West Manufacturers Say Recent Rises Put Heavy Burden on Their Products.

SOME TARIFFS UP 125%

Pittsburgh and Youngstown Are Reported as Principal Sufferers of New Levies.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 11.—The matter of alleged freight rate inequalities affecting the mid-West steel industry in particular has been brought forcibly to the attention of traffic departments of the steel companies since May 20, officials of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company said today. This is due to the imposition by the railroads at that time of higher rates on short hauls, which especially affected Youngstown shippers, and of higher intra-city rates, which increased the freight of Pittsburgh shippers especially. In the latter case, rates were more than doubled.

Rates have increased from 75 to 125 per cent on short hauls. Youngstown tonnage destined for Cleveland, a large market for Mahoning Valley mills, is affected by this increase. In all cases, the seller is obliged to meet the higher rates rather than the buyer, because of the keen competition.

Youngstown steel makers say there has been discrimination against them for many years in freight charges on limestone, which is used in large tonnages in the manufacture of pig iron. In this district, traffic managers contend, the inequalities are particularly burdensome on raw materials entering into iron manufacture. Between seven and eight tons of raw products are required for one ton of finished steel, and disadvantages to the producers are therefore obvious.

Strictly "dry land" cities such as Youngstown, are more seriously affected than those with water outlets, such as Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo, Toledo, Wheeling and others. For this reason the Youngstown manufacturers are seeking an outlet to the Ohio River, which will permit inbound shipments of coal from Pennsylvania and West Virginia, partly by barge, and will also afford reductions in carrying charges on outbound products. Youngstown pipe makers expect to benefit in particular through the shipment of pipe and other oil country goods on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to warehouses established in the Southwest.

The problem of freight rates is considered all the more acute here because of the growing importance of the Chicago and Milwaukee districts in steel manufacture and consumption.

COUNTER STOCKS GAIN AFTER EARLY LOSSES

Bank Shares the Chief Centre of Trading—Insurance Issues Off Slightly.

Bank shares held most of the attention in unlisted trading yesterday. Some strength was shown toward the close after a day of weakness. Prices closed at or near the previous close, with some minor recessions shown. There was more activity at the close.

Commercial National closed substantially higher. Liberty advanced and Bank of United States was firm. America, Central Hanover, Irving, Title Guarantee and Trust, Times Square, American Union, Chase, Manhattan, New York Trust, City, Public, Chemical and Bankers were lower. Guaranty lost substantially.

There were fractional losses in the insurance group. United States Merchants and Shippers, Halifax, Baltimore, Home Fire Securities and Home Insurance gained. There were losses by Hanover, Homestead, Aetna Fire, Providence-Washington, Preferred Accident, Central Fire, Northern and St. Paul Fire and Marine. Globe & Rutgers and Importers declined.

Changes in the industrial section were few and losses balanced gains. Trading was quiet. Welch Grape Juice, American Manufacturing and West Virginia Pulp and Paper were firm. A. O. Smith, American Manufacturing preferred, Dictaphone preferred, Great Northern Paper and Petroleum Derivatives were easier.

Utility preferred shares were somewhat higher and in demand until the close. Texas Power and Light preferred, Ohio Public Service preferred and Dayton Power and Light preferred were firm. Utility common issues were quiet and somewhat easier.

New York Merchandise and National Shirt preferred moved lower in the chain-store group.

Associated Dyeing Plan in Force.

The plan for the reorganization of Associated Dyeing and Printing has been declared operative by the committee appointed to draw up the plan. More than two-thirds of the outstanding ten-year 6 per cent notes and more than half the outstanding common shares have been deposited and an extension has been granted for further deposits until June 26. Legal proceedings to effect the reorganization will be instituted as soon as possible. William E. Dobbin, vice president of the International Trust Company, has been added to the reorganization committee.

Chicago & Northwestern Bonds.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company has sold to the First National Bank and Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, an issue of $1,425,000 equipment trust 4½ per cent certificates, series I, dated Feb. 1, 1930, maturing $95,000 annually from Feb. 1, 1931, to 1945, inclusive.

L. I. Lighting Merger Authorized.

The Long Island Lighting Company, controlled by Ellis L. Phillips and associates, has been authorized to merge with the Clinton Gas Company and the Patchogue Gas Company upon the acquisition of all outstanding securities of the two companies.

Chicago Company Increases Board.

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP).—Stockholders of the Corporation Securities Company voted today to increase the directorate to eleven from seven. The new directors are Edward F. Swift, Edward J. Doyle, John H. Gulick and Stanley Field.

General Motors Reports 218,392 Own Common Stock

Holders of common stock of the General Motors Corporation on Feb. 15 totaled 218,392, compared with 176,693 last Nov. 15, a gain of 41,699, according to a statement by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., a president. About 100,000 stockholders own ten shares or fewer, while almost 180,000 have fifty shares or fewer. Of the total number of common stockholders 84,319 are women.

On Feb. 15, 1929, there were only 82,415 common stockholders. The marked upward trend in the number of stockholders had its beginning in the first quarter of 1929, probably influenced, the statement explained, by the split-up in General Motors common stock on a two-and-a-half-for-one basis in January, 1929. The increases have come from all States in the Union and were greatest in the fourth quarter of last year, which was the period including the break in the stock market.

STEEL PIPE CONTRACTS PUT AT 1,000,000 TONS

Four Large Companies in Middle West Are Chief Beneficiaries of Large Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 11.—In a steel market marked otherwise by irregular conditions and intermittent demand, steel pipe requirements for gas, gasoline and oil lines constitute the most encouraging feature. It is estimated orders of the leading pipe producers exceed 1,000,000 tons. The principal stimulus has come from the construction of gas lines to serve mid-Western cities, some of those projected to extend hundreds of miles.

The principal beneficiaries of this activity in the mid-West are the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, Republic Steel Corporation, National Tube Company, A. O. Smith Corporation and others. New pipe business is filling gaps in the order books of these companies.

Revival of the pipe trade comes at a most opportune time for the steel trade. The expected revival in the Fall in other lines will serve to offset any moderation in the pipe business that may develop then.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT HAD BIG RISE IN 1929

Increase of 4,889,293 Tons From Total of 1928, Reported by Institute.

ROLLED IRON'S RATIO FALLS

Pennsylvania Increases Its Production of Finished Materials to 36 Per Cent of All.

Production of steel ingots and castings in 1929 aggregated 56,433,473 tons, compared with 51,544,180 in the previous year, an increase of 4,889,293 tons, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute. Of the total production, 54,850,433 tons were steel ingots, while 1,583,040 tons were steel castings. This compares with 50,325,393 and 1,218,787 tons respectively in 1928.

Classified according to processes, open-hearth production totaled 48,352,888 tons, against 44,113,956 in 1928; Bessemer 7,124,075 tons, compared with 6,620,195, while the balance was confined to crucible and electric production. Last year, 142 plants in twenty-six States and the District of Columbia made steel ingots, against the same number in twenty-five States and the District of Columbia in 1928.

Production of all kinds of finished rolled iron and steel amounted to 41,069,416 gross tons in 1929, against 37,662,916 tons in 1928. Plates and sheets accounted for 12,436,312 tons; structural shapes, 4,778,020; iron and steel rails, 2,722,138; wire rods, 3,134,409; nail plate, 9,827, and all other finished rolled products, 17,988,710.

Based on the production of all kinds of finished rolled iron and steel by States in 1929, Pennsylvania headed the list with 14,860,360 tons, followed by Ohio with 8,811,822, Indiana with 5,144,991 and Illinois with 3,232,611. The same States followed in their respective positions in 1928.

Of the total production of finished rolled forms in 1929, approximately 98.4 per cent was rolled from steel, compared with about 98.71 per cent in 1928. Approximately 36.18 per cent of last year's total production was rolled in Pennsylvania, against 34.70 per cent in 1928. About 21.46 per cent was rolled in Ohio, against 22.18 per cent in 1928.

Monday Made Last Day to Apply For Corporation Reinstatement

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 11.—Corporations that face dissolution and having their names made available for use by other corporations will have until Monday to retain their name and business rights, Thomas M. Lynch, Commissioner of Taxation and Finance, announced today.

More than 84,000 corporations were certified a year ago by the department as delinquent in that annual franchise tax returns had not been filed during the previous five years. These corporations were dissolved by proclamation in the State advertising bulletin in December and had six months to obtain the reinstatement of their charters.

BIG STEEL DEMAND HERE.

New York Credited With Large Part of Record Structural Demand.

New business that came into the structural steel market in the last week totaled larger than in any other week this year and exceeded by more than 20,000 tons the largest week of 1929, according to The Iron Age review of structural steel activity. The publication gives the total of new business as 112,000 tons. Awards during the week totaled 34,000 tons. The publication says:

"The bulk of the projected work is in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. In New York, inquiries include 25,000 tons for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company building, 10,000 tons for a building at 94 Broad Street, 7,000 tons for a new apartment building in the Tudor City section, 4,000 tons for an office building at 29 Broadway, 5,000 tons for a New York Telephone Company building, 2,500 tons for a United States Assay Office and 5,000 tons for a technical high school for boys in Brooklyn.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad will require 15,000 tons for a new terminal building in Philadelphia. Chicago projects include 6,000 tons for repairs to thirty school buildings, 6,000 tons for a bridge, 2,500 tons for a transportation building for the World's Fair and 4,000 tons for the National Bank of the Republic building.

"Outstanding awards were 2,800 tons for the Psychopathic Hospital in New York, 1,000 tons for a Loew theatre in Astoria, L. I."

STEEL PRICES HOLD AS OUTPUT EASES

Demand for Materials for Building and for Pipe Lines Continues Heavy.

INGOT PRODUCTION LOWER

Expansion in the Industry Is Expected in 30 to 60 Days by Discerning Leaders.

Structural work and line pipe are the principal sustaining influences in the steel market, according to the weekly market summary of The Iron Age, while the seasonal reaction is increasingly evident and affecting most branches of the trade. The publication states that, while actual awards of structural steel in the last week were not exceptional, the new work totaled 112,000 tons, which exceeds the largest new business of the kind in any week of 1929 by more than 20,000 tons.

The Iron Age weekly summary says in part:

"Pipe line business recently placed, estimated as 'approaching 1,000,000 tons, is taxing the capacity of the country. Producers of lapweld and seamless pipe in 8-inch and larger diameters are fully committed for four months. The Milwaukee fabricator of electrically welded pipe is also heavily booked and is running three shifts a day.

"Chicago plate mills are being pressed to supply the steel requirements for the electric product and are now insured of full operations through June and July. The large backlogs of Chicago plate producers were augmented last week by orders for more than 80,000 tons. In addition, a sizable tonnage of plates was placed with mills east of the Chicago district.

Trend Is Still Downward.

"Despite improvement in these two important outlets for tonnage, the trend of steel ingot production is still downward. The general average for the country at large is 69 per cent, compared with 72 per cent a week ago. The decline of 294,993 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation in May and the seasonal slackening in most steel consuming lines point to still further recession in output.

"The only question on which there is disagreement is how much further the decline will go and how long it will last. Leaders of the industry whose forecasts have proved dependable in the past predict that a gradual expansion in business will appear within thirty or sixty days and that Fall production will range from 75 to 80 per cent.

"Steel ingot production figures for May again emphasize that this year's record looks unfavorable chiefly because of comparison with 1929.

Decline in Ingot Production.

"The daily rate of output, 149,066 tons, was 24 per cent lower than the average for May, 1929. Production in the first five months, 20,352,960 tons, was nearly 16 per cent smaller than in 1929, but except for that year, 1928 and 1926 was the largest ever reported for such a period.

"Heavy melting steel scrap has held its advance at Pittsburgh, but has declined 25 cents a ton at Chicago. Old material markets in most centres are dull and without trend.

"Finished steel prices are still subject to concession, but have been free from additional open breaks except for a decline of $2 to $3 a ton on long ternes and a reduction in the East of $1 a ton on plates. Waiving of silicon differentials on pig iron has become more common, but base prices have undergone no further change.

"Both of The Iron Age composite prices are unaltered. Pig Iron, at $17.50, is $1.13 a gross ton lower than a year ago. Finished steel, at 2.214 cents a pound, is $3.96 a net ton below the level of twelve months ago."

Scrap Iron Group to Meet.

A joint meeting of the New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia and Reading chapters of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, Inc., will be held at Atlantic City on June 13. Dr. Hugh P. Baker, director of the trade association department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at the dinner, which will follow the business session.

YOUNGSTOWN SHEET TO SPEND $2,000,000

Plant for Manufacturing Electrically Welded Steel Pipe Will Be Erected.

144,000-TON CAPACITY SET

Process, to Be Put Into Use Next Month, Is Company's Own Development, It Is Said.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 11.—As a result of experiments that have been conducted for several years the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company will proceed at once to erect a plant for production of electrically welded steel pipe at a cost of $2,000,000, Frank Purnell, president, announced today. The unit will manufacture tubing from eighteen to twenty-six inches in diameter, and is only the beginning of installations by the company in the electric-welding field. Sheet and Tube is now the second largest producer of steel pipe. The plant will be erected at the Brier Hill works, where Sheet and Tube has a plate mill that will supply the steel needed in the manufacture of pipe.

The new unit will have a capacity of approximately 144,000 tons annually. Sheet and tube will add later smaller pipe mills for the manufacture of small diameter tubing by this process, which is the development of the company's own engineers. Contracts for equipment were awarded some time ago and it is expected to get the plant into production next month. The product has been subjected to severe tests, and is ready for commercial production, Mr. Purnell said.

The other large manufacturers of pipe steel by the electric welding process are the A. O. Smith Corporation of Milwaukee, the Republic Steel Corporation and the National Tube Company.

Sheet and Tube now has capacity for 500,000 tons of black pipe annually, 250,000 tons of hot rolled seamless and 75,000 tons of galvanized. When new capacity gets under way some of the company's older type lap-weld mills at its Campbell works will be abandoned.

MITCHELL DENIES BRANCH BANK PERIL

National City Chairman Warns House Committee Against Precipitate Legislation.

CALLS SLUMP A CORRECTIVE

Outcome Will Be a Stabilization, Preferable to High Prices, He Predicts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Changes in the banking systems in this country had better follow the trend of public feeling, than be forced by any "precipitate" legislation, C. E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank of New York, declared before the House Committee on Banking and Currency as it continued today its investigation of chain, group, branch banking in the United States.

Mr. Mitchell said that the United States truly has a "national feeling" "second to none" anywhere else in the world, but that local civic and neighborhood pride and "desire for autonomy" are prevalent throughout the country to an "outstanding and exceptional degree," and this should certainly be considered in working out any system for financial service to the public.

Certain committee members besought Mr. Mitchell to give his views on the recent slumps on the securities market. The banker urged the committee to look on such declines as "correctives" for accumulations of evils.

He expressed the view that, in the recent decline, overproduction contributed a large part, but he predicted that the outcome would be a stabilization which would be far preferable to high prices and uncertain prosperity.

"Frankly, it would seem clear that the small unit banks for outlying and rural districts have as a system outrun their exclusive position of popularity," Mr. Mitchell said. "Such banks must be operated cheaply but manifestly cannot be operated as cheaply, and at the same time as safely, as a system of them which are supervised by experienced and capable bankers.

"The most important of all considerations in valuing the services of a bank to a community is that it shall care for the funds entrusted to its custody in such manner that they shall always be safe and ready for return to the depositors on demand.

"The fact that a local banker is under greater pressure from local borrowers than a branch manager, supervised by an outside authority, may cause the interests of depositors to be imperiled for the accommodation of borrowers; indeed, the record of failures proves this to be frequently the case.

"Branch banking where permitted by law, and group banking in part as a substitute where branch banking is not permitted, and a combination of these developments sometimes working hand in hand, are gradually but assuredly taking hold alongside of the old unit system.

"It is not a movement to be feared. Banking is not a business which can be monopolized. The idea that local money or capital will be drawn away from the small towns to the large cities and that local needs will go uncared for is unwarranted. It is not at all likely that money will be drawn from a higher to a lower market, and since money is usually dearer in large centres than in the outlying districts closer relations between the two are most likely to result."

Discussing proposed legislation, Mr. Mitchell said:

"It is undoubtedly best that we gain experience gradually, with legislation keeping pace therewith. No reasonable objection, however, from the standpoint of public interest can be offered to the extension of the branch banking privilege for State and national banks alike beyond the present restricted areas."

NEWS OF MARKETS IN PARIS AND BERLIN

French Stocks Again Decline After Feeble Movement Toward Recovery.

TRADING VOLUME SMALL

German Boerse Opens Moderately Strong, but the Tendency Changes in First Hour.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 11.—After a feeble movement toward recovery, set in motion doubtless by more favorable reports from Wall Street and by the final agreement on the Young plan loan, conditions on the Bourse slumped again today. The volume of transactions was small, but at the close was slightly above yesterday's level.

Rentes advanced and managed to maintain the gains, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.90; 1918 4s, 101.25; 1920 amortizable 5s, 133.95; 1928 5s, 102.40; 1920 6s, 101.95; 1927 amortizable 6s, 106.10.

Declines on the Berlin Boerse.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 11.—After a comparatively good opening on the Boerse today, which was mainly due to the announcement regarding the release of sequestrated German property, the tendency changed in the first hour. With the exception of shipping stocks all issues lost the previous gains, while in many cases additional losses were registered.

North German Lloyd and Hamburg American closed with gains of 2 points each. The electricals were neglected and weaker following earlier improvement, with Siemens-Halske finally dropping to 239. Reichsbank shares, which were weak from the beginning, closed with a total decline of 6½ points. The potash group, chemicals, beer and spirits and the mining group also were weaker. Verkehrswesen dropped to 88.

CITY ICE PLANS NEW STOCK.

15,425 Additional Shares to Cover Property of Florida Companies.

The City Ice and Fuel Company is planning to issue 15,425 additional shares of 6½ per cent cumulative preferred stock, valued at $1,542,500, in exchange for the real estate, property and equipment of the New Electric Ice Company, Peninsular Ice Company, Service Ice Company, Captain Tom's Ice Plant, Tracy Ice Company, Fowler Ice Company and Pure Water Ice Company, of Miami, Fla.; the Coral Gables Ice Company and the Bird Road Ice Company, of Coral Gables, Fla.; the Hollywood Cold Storage Company and the Purity Ice and Cold Storage Corporation of Hollywood, Fla.; the Hialeah Ice Company of Hialeah, Fla.; the Dania Pure Ice Company of Dania, Fla.; the New Ice Company of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the Palms Ice Company of West Palm Beach, Fla.

The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange approved yesterday the listing of the additional shares on official notice of issuance.

BERLINER-JOYCE BOARD ACCEPTS OFFER HERE

Baltimore Aircraft Company to Be Taken Over by North American Aviation.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 11.—Directors of the Berliner-Joyce Aircraft Corporation of Baltimore approved today the offer of North American Aviation, Inc., of New York. The plan calls for the exchange of Berliner-Joyce Aircraft Corporation, Class A stock, share for share, for Class A stock of a new corporation to be formed. In addition, stockholders in the local company will receive an option to convert their new stock at two shares for one of North American Aviation, Inc.

North American Aviation, Inc., a leading aviation holding company, owns large blocks of stock in many manufacturing and operating aircraft companies, in addition to owning outright the Sperry Gyroscope Company, the Ford Instrument Company and the Eastern Air Transport Company, formerly known as the Pitcairn Aviation Corporation.

Simultaneous with the announcement of the deal it was given out that the final tests yesterday were successful on the XFJ-1, the new single seater fighting plane for the United States Navy, just completed by the Berliner-Joyce Aircraft Corporation.

Oil Merger Hearing to Be Held Here

ST. LOUIS, June 11 (AP).—Lon O. Hocker, St. Louis attorney, left for New York yesterday to prepare for a hearing before Special Master in Chancery Fred L. Williams of St. Louis in the suit of the government to prevent merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company. Mr. Hocker represents the Standard Oil. The hearings, he said, would be held in New York, beginning on June 19, and probably would last a month.

THREE BIG MERGERS LIST STOCK ISSUES

700,000 Sinclair Oil Common Pays for Acquisition of Pierce Petroleum.

PRINTING INK IN FUSION

Consolidates With Division of Newport Company—American Solvents Adds to Securities.

Listings of the securities of several industrial corporations approved by the governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday revealed the issuance of stocks in connection with three large consolidations. They are the acquisition of the Pierce Petroleum Corporation by the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, in exchange for 700,000 common shares of the latter company; the merger of the International Printing Ink Corporation and the Dyestuffs and Chemical Division of the Newport Company into the Consolidated Chemical Corporation, and the acquisition by American Solvents and Chemical Corporation of the Rossville Commercial Alcohol Corporation and General Industrial Alcohol Corporation.

The securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange and those marked to be admitted to listing on notice of issuance were as follows:

Securities Listed.

LOUISIANA & AKANSAS RAILWAY COMPANY—$13,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, Series A, due on Jan. 1, 1969.

ADDRESSOGRAPH INTERNATIONAL CORPORATION—520,000 shares of common capital stock, no par value.

UNITED STEEL WORKS CORPORATION (Germany)—$27,795,500 twenty-year 6½ per cent sinking fund debentures, Series A, due on July 1, 1947.

To be Admitted on Notice of Issuance.

UNION OIL COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA—Interim receipts for $15,000,000 5 per cent debentures, due on April 1, 1945, with capital stock subscription warrant.

PRICES AGAIN DECLINE ON THE CURB MARKET

Selling in Most of the Utility Leaders Starts General Downward Movement.

Resumed selling in most of the public utility leaders yesterday brought a resumption in the downward trend on the New York Curb Exchange, with many shares closing at or near their lows for the day. Novadel-Agene, Koppers Gas and Coke preferred, Tampa Electric and Wil-Low Cafeterias advanced against the trend.

The decline was led by Electric Bond and Share, American Gas and Electric and United Light and Power A. Other issues which eased were American Superpower, American and Foreign Power warrants, Brazilian Traction, Niagara Hudson Power, National Fuel Gas, Lone Star Gas, United Gas Corporation and other utilities.

In the oil group declines appeared in Vacuum, Humble, Gulf, Standard of Indiana, Cosden and Houston Oil of Texas. Trusts which declined included Electric Power Associates, Goldman Sachs and National Investors. Shenandoah common gained a fraction, as did United Founders, while Transamerica closed unchanged after heavy trading.

Among the industrials weakness appeared in American Cyanamid B, Anglo-Chilean Nitrate, Deere & Co., Ford of Canada, Fox Theatres A and Newmont Mining.

CURB SEATS TRANSFERRED.

Governors Also Elect Several to Associate Membership.

At the meeting of the board of governors of the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, the following regular memberships were transferred: Louis V. Sterling to E. Vail Stebbins of Logan & Bryan, and Alfred E. Waters, deceased, to Joseph McGarrity.

The following were elected to associate membership: Heywood H. Whaples, Roy T. Barnes & Co., Hartford; Gale Smart, R. H. Smart & Co., Chicago, and William J. Fitzsimons, Hulburd, Warren & Chandler, Chicago.

SEEKS VALVOLINE STOCK.

President of Company Recently Sold Would Buy 32,229 Shares.

E. W. Edwards, president of the Paragon Refining Company and the Valvoline Oil Company, is offering to buy for his own account 32,229 shares of the Valvoline company's common stock, now held by the Paragon Refining Company, according to reports from Cincinnati. The Paragon company was purchased recently by the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, presumably for Gulf Oil Corporation interests, but the Valvoline stock was not included in the purchase.

Mr. Edwards is offering to pay $200 a share for this stock, which represents 83 per cent of the outstanding stock of the Valvoline company.

SECURITIES AT AUCTION.

The following securities were sold at the auction salesrooms of Adrian H. Muller & Son yesterday:

Richmond Trust Company, Richmond, Va., 100 shares, 35¼ per share.

Silver Lake Gardens, Inc., common, 390 shares, $500 lot.

United Investors Securities Corporation, Class "B", 500 shares, $1,000 lot.

AUTO EXPORTS SHOW INCREASE FOR APRIL

$25,039,616 Total for Cars and Trucks Compares With $21,928,386 in March.

ALLIED PRODUCTS DECLINE

Decrease of $2,521,307, or 6.3%, in General Automotive Figure Results.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—April automotive exports from the United States showed only slight variance from March, and shipments for the first four months are well maintained, according to figures released today by the automotive division of the Department of Commerce.

The total valuation of automotive products exported during April amounted to $37,443,661, a decrease of $2,521,307, or 6.3 per cent, as compared with the March figures. This decline was entirely accounted for, it was explained, by the falling off in the shipments of miscellaneous products. The combined exports of passenger cars and trucks for the period under review amounted to $25,039,616, as against $21,928,386 during the preceding month, and $17,749,210 in February.

"Our overseas trade in passenger cars was practically unchanged, in comparison with business in March," said the division, "due to the improved exports of the low and high priced classifications, which offset the recession in the medium-priced group. In the truck group a greater demand was noted in the medium and large capacity models, which resulted in a higher total than that recorded during March."

Canada retained its position as leading market for American passenger cars, with Belgium, Argentina, Denmark and Sweden following in the order named. A substantial increase in demand was registered by both Germany and Japan, with gains of 118 per cent and 335 per cent, respectively, over March.

The truck requirements of the eight leading markets were materially improved, with the exceptions of Australia and Sweden. Shipments to Denmark, Belgium and Argentina, the first three markets of importance in this classification, were greater than in March, as well as in comparison with April of last year.

Shipments of "other automotive products" dropped from the March total of $18,036,582 to $14,404,045 during April.

CORPORATION REPORTS.

T. A. T.-Maddux Air Lines.

Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux Air Lines report 5,474 passengers carried in May, compared with 5,164 in April, which was the previous high record, and 244,286 miles flown, compared with 243,443 in April. The last week of May established a new weekly record for passengers flown, when the total reached 1,431. In the five months ended May 31, 19,307 passengers were carried and 971,242 miles flown.

American Airways.

American Airways, Inc., reports for May 6,935 passengers carried, as compared with 6,741 in April. Revenues increased about 4 per cent, due to slight growth in length of the average ride.

To the holders of

HUDSON VALLEY COKE & PRODUCTS CORPORATION

First Mortgage Fifteen-Year 7% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds Issued under First Mortgage and Deed of Trust Dated as of July 1, 1924.

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION.

Notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to the terms of the above indenture, Hudson Valley Fuel Corporation, individually and as successor to Hudson Valley Coke & Products Corporation, has elected to redeem all of the bonds issued and outstanding under said indenture, on the first day of July, 1930, at the redemption price of 110% of the principal amount of such bonds, plus accrued interest to said redemption date.

Accordingly, on July 1, 1930, the date fixed for redemption, all bonds heretofore issued and now outstanding under said indenture will become due and payable at the principal office of The Union Trust Company in the City of Cleveland, State of Ohio, and upon presentation of such bonds at such principal office of The Union Trust Company at 925 Euclid Avenue in the City of Cleveland, Ohio, with all appurtenant coupons maturing after said redemption date, the principal amount plus premium upon redemption of ten per cent of the principal amount, plus accrued interest to such date, will be paid by The Union Trust Company to the bearer of each bond so presented, unless such bond shall then be registered, in which case such payment will be made to the registered owner, but in either case only upon the surrender of such bond with all appurtenant coupons maturing after said redemption date. Provided, however, that no unpaid interest instalments represented by coupons maturing on or prior to the said date of redemption shall be included in or paid as a part of said redemption price, unless coupons representing such instalments shall be attached to and presented with bonds so presented for redemption.

From and after the date of redemption designated herein, interest on all of said bonds shall cease and the holders of coupons maturing after such redemption date will not be entitled to any payment on account thereof.

From and after said redemption date all property, tangible and intangible, and rights and interests heretofore subject to the lien of said indenture and mortgage will be released therefrom and any and all claims or interest therein of the holders of such bonds, as security or otherwise, shall thereupon cease and terminate.

HUDSON VALLEY FUEL CORPORATION, individually and as successor in interest to HUDSON VALLEY COKE & PRODUCTS CORPORATION.

Dated, May 29, 1930.

PLAN TO PAY ARREAR ON MISSOURI PACIFIC

Van Sweringens Considering Certificates of Indebtedness and New Preferred Stock.

$48.25 A SHARE IS DUE

Cleveland Men Oppose I. C. C. Idea of Common Issue to Settle Preferred Default.

The Van Sweringen management is considering both certificates of indebtedness and preferred stock as a means of paying back dividends on Missouri Pacific preferred stock, it was reported yesterday. No definite decision has been reached, although it is expected a plan will be forthcoming within the year.

The former management proposed to settle the $48.25 a share due on preferred with an issue of common stock. This has been recommended by an examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission, but even if the commission gave final approval the Van Sweringens would not carry through the plan. They are understood to believe this would cause undue dilution of common stock.

Certificates of indebtedness would bear interest, possibly at 5 per cent. Carrying charges on such an issue would be $1,735,000 annually, which would reduce earnings applicable to common in 1929 from $10.41 to $8.32. Under the plan to issue 347,000 common shares for back dividends, share earnings last year would have been reduced to $7.34. It was suggested that certificates of indebtedness could be authorized without holding a stockholders' meeting. However, legal details in connection with the proposed refunding of preferred dividends have not been completed.

If a preferred issue were used, it would differ from the present preferred in that it would not be convertible. It probably would be callable.

Any plan of financing would consider the maturity of $42,874,000 Iron Mountain 5s due next April and $34,548,000 4s due next May.

With the refunding of the $48.25 a share due reasonably soon, Missouri Pacific preferred closed yesterday at 126, having lost two points in the general decline. It is convertible into common stock on a share for share basis. Payment of common dividends awaits completion of the improvement and consolidation program. There are no indications that more than $5 could be paid on the common for several years. The preferred pays $5.

N. Y. CENTRAL WINS STAY.

Six Months' Extension Granted for West Side Electrification.

The Public Service Commission has extended to Jan. 1 the time in which the New York Central is to electrify its west side freight line between Seventy-second and St. John's Place. This is a six months' extension.

J. R. Vass, assistant engineer of the commission, will represent that body on a committee to be formed, which will consider the request of Bronx organizations for the establishment of a station in the Bronx, where through trains of the New York Central and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad would stop. The Transit Commission also will be represented on the committee.

BANK TELLER A SUICIDE.

Equitable Trust Employe Leaps Out Window of Hotel Lincoln.

Leaving five addressed letters, each with 2 cents on them for postage and a tip for the messenger who would mail them, Edmund C. Howard, 44 years old, a bank teller living at 1,635 Crosby Avenue, the Bronx, jumped to his death yesterday afternoon from the seventeenth floor of the Hotel Lincoln, Eighth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street.

Shortly before 2 o'clock, according to the police, Howard engaged a room at the hotel after telephoning to his wife from the Madison Avenue branch of the Equitable Trust Company, where he was employed, that he felt ill but would not return home. At 5:30 o'clock Jane Banning, a telephone operator, heard his body strike the tin roofing over a fire-escape in an air shaft.

According to his wife, Grace, Howard had been working hard and recently had complained of pains in his head.

Besides his wife, Howard leaves a 14-year-old daughter. He was secretary of Lotus Lodge 31, F. and A. M.

23% of Accidents Laid To Getting On and Off Trains

Approximately 23 per cent of the accidents recorded by the Fidelity and Casualty Company over a period of years have befallen passengers who were boarding or alighting from trains, a survey announced yesterday by the company shows. There were 1,465 such accidents in the company's records.

This is the cause of more accidents than train collisions, the survey shows. Only 1,200 such casualties were recorded. The survey shows also that thirty-one persons have filed claims for injuries resulting from falling out of berths, while there were 300 cases of injuries to porters while fixing berths. Nearly 600 persons have suffered sufficiently from getting cinders in their eyes to ask for insurance adjustment from this company alone.

PENNROAD PLANS DIVIDEND.

Stockholders to Get 20 Cents a Share Sept 15, It Announces.

The Pennroad Corporation, investment affiliate of the Pennsylvania Railroad, declared yesterday an initial dividend of 20 cents a share payable Sept. 15 to stock of record of Aug. 8. Pennroad voting trust certificates closed on the Curb Exchange yesterday at 11⅝. About 145,000 stockholders will participate in the dividend.

The corporation announced that it would issue a statement for the year ended on June 30, its first year of operation, soon after that date.

The corporation had given no inkling until yesterday that a disbursement was contemplated. Recently it filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission a statement showing that it had acquired control or part control in several important Eastern lines. With the making public of its financial status, the corporation would apparently become eligible for listing on the New York Stock Exchange. No indication of such a move was made in yesterday's statement.

B. & M. CREATES NEW POST.

H. F. Fritch Will Be Director of the Road's Budget.

The appointment of a director of budget acting under the vice president of the Boston & Maine Railroad was announced yesterday by Edward S. French, president. H. F. Fritch, passenger traffic manager for the past four years, will fill the new position.

Mr. Fritch will direct a system corresponding to those adopted recently by some industrial and business organizations. He will act to coordinate and check department estimates and projects. There will be, however, no departure from the B. & M.'s plans for improvements.

I. C. C. Gets Van Sweringen Plea.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP).—O. P. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, who recently resigned dominating positions on directorates of several Eastern railroads which he and associates control, asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today to approve his election to the board of directors of the Denver & Rio Grande Western. The Denver line is one of several systems affiliated with the Missouri Pacific, control of which has recently been acquired by the Van Sweringens. Several other Van Sweringen nominees at the same time asked the commission's permission to go on the board of the Denver line.

Missouri Rail Merger Approved.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP).—Permission was given the Illinois Terminal Company by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to take over control of the Alton & Eastern Railroad, the St. Louis & Alton Railway and the O'Fallon Freight Line of the East St. Louis & Suburban Railroad. A unification of the three systems under one management, the application said, will enable the saving of about $150,000 a year in operating expenses.

Railroad Is Valued at $11,784,000.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP).—A final valuation for the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad was fixed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission at $11,784,000. The railroad, which is jointly owned by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Seaboard Airline, Atlantic Coast Line and the Southern, had a capitalization in June, 1916, of $11,614,521.

WHEAT SENT DOWN BY RAIN FORECAST

Heavy Sales Push Prices 1½ to 1⅞c Lower, Catching Many Stop-Loss Orders.

OATS DULL AND EASIER

Weakness in Bread Grain Affects Corn, July Reaching 80c—Rye Also Off.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Prospects of showers in the prairie provinces overnight, with rains reported in the Edmonton territory during the day, combined with rather persistent selling by commission houses, carried July wheat off today to the lowest figure since May 22. With stop-loss orders uncovered, the finish was 1½ to 1⅞ cents lower, buying against bids furnishing a good part of the support both here and in Winnipeg.

The latter closed 1⅜ to 1½ cents lower, while Kansas City was 1½ to 1⅝ cents off. Liverpool lost ⅜ to ⅝d, with outside interest limited and cash demand slow.

The wheat market is regarded as a weather affair.

Houses with Southwestern connections sold July during the day, and some selling was attributed by the pit to July liquidation by longs. Weather conditions were favorable for harvesting in Texas and parts of Oklahoma, and the weekly crop summary suggested that harvesting would start soon in Kansas and Missouri.

As harvesting is being done on a large scale by combines, the trade looks for a liberal movement. So far little grain has been bought to arrive and less has been sold for export, although a sale of 50,000 bushels hard Winter, presumably old, was reported made to Mexico earlier in the week by the government at a price said to have been well below that at which others were offering the grain. The seaboard reported around 1,250,000 bushels of wheat sold abroad during the day, mainly Manitobas to the United Kingdom, with some hard Winter and also Canadian durum. It was understood that inquiry was good for new crop Winters.

Primary receipts were 485,000 bushels; a week ago, 681,000, and a year ago, 919,000. Shipments, respectively, were 874,000, 742,000 and 1,349,000 bushels.

Weakness in wheat led to selling of corn by locals and prices dropped sharply owing to lack of support until July touched 80 cents, at which figure buying was in evidence. The close, however, was ¾ to 1⅜ cents lower, July leading. Shipping demand was active, with sales of 150,000 bushels and the spot basis was steady to ¼ cent higher.

Primary receipts of corn were 902,000 bushels; a week ago, 625,000, and a year ago, 713,000. Shipments, respectively, were 644,000, 587,000 and 529,000 bushels.

The oats market was dull and eased ¼ to ½ cent in sympathy with other grains. The Canadian pool was credited with selling July barley at Winnipeg, which broke 2⅝ cents to 38¾ cents, the lowest figure of the season, and at the bottom it showed ¾ cent under Chicago July oats and 12¼ cents under July oats at Winnipeg.

Rye weakened on stop-loss selling and in sympathy with wheat, with July reaching a new low mark on the crop. Final trades were 1½ to 1⅝ cents lower.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

Farm Labor Inquiry Is Favored.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP).—The Senate Agriculture committee today ordered a favorable report to the Senate on the McNary resolution to provide investigation of the supply of agricultural labor.

DIVIDENDS ANNOUNCED

Extra Dividends.

The Fifth Avenue Bank declared an extra dividend of $35 a share, a like extra having been paid one year ago.

The Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway declared the usual extra dividend of $1 a share.

Initial Dividends.

The American Corporation Depositor announced an initial distribution of $1.59 on American Investment Trust, covering the first six months' operations of the latter company.

The British-American Oil Company, Ltd., declared an initial quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the new no par stock, two shares of which were recently exchanged for each share of old no par stock.

Reduced Dividends.

The Newton Steel Company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common, placing the stock on a $2 annual basis against $3 previously paid.

The Artloom Corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on common, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis, against $2 paid previously.

The John R. Thompson Company declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common, placing the $3.60 paid previously. John R. Thompson Jr., president, said that cash should be conserved now to be used in the large expansion program under way.

The Canadian Converters Company declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share, placing stock on a $5 annual basis against $7 paid previously.

The Continental Diamond Fibre Company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, placing stock on a $2 annual basis, against $3 previously.

The Cie. Generale Transatlantique, the French line, declared a dividend of 50 francs on the 600 franc par value shares for 1929, against 80 francs in previous year.

Dividends Passed.

The Evans Auto Loading Company has omitted the quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share due at this time. E. S. Evans stated that earnings for the first five months of this year have been satisfactory, considering the present condition of the automotive industry, but that it seemed advisable to conserve the company's present current position.

The Celotex Company has passed the quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common due at this time.

The American Seating Corporation has omitted the dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock payable at this time.

The David Pender Grocery Company has omitted the dividends of 25 cents extra and 25 cents regular on the Class B stock due July 1.

The General Paint Company has passed the regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents on the Class B stock due at this time and has deferred action on the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the Class A stock until the semi-annual earnings statement is made available.

The Nachman-Springfield Company has passed its regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, due at this time.

COTTON BREAKS $1 TO SEASON'S LOWS

Slump in Stock Market Is Blamed for Decline After Early Upturn in Prices.

CLOSING IS AT BOTTOM

Low Total of Exports of Staple and Setback in Grains Have Effect on Trading.

Prices on the Cotton Exchange developed irregularity yesterday, and after an improvement of 10 to 15 points under active covering, a weak stock market started a break of $1 a bale that established new low marks for the year before the close. A less favorable weekly weather summary than expected, coming after a decline of a cent a pound in wheat, caused professional short covering in the morning, but reselling in the last hour wiped out the improvement and left final prices the lowest of the day, with losses of 10 to 13 points.

Although sales of cotton goods in May were the lowest in many years, being reported at only 66.7 per cent of a greatly curtailed mill output, the market steadied during morning trading. Execution of a 10,000-bale buying order in December absorbed the floating supply of contracts, which had been considerably reduced in the decline below the 14-cent level for new October, December and January.

With the weather report reflecting slow plant growth owing to cool nights, room traders bought more actively than for some time. As the report indicated good progress in cultivation under a satisfactory distribution of moisture and predictions were for clearing weather in Oklahoma today, the upturn failed to attract general buying. The action of July had an unsettling influence on later months.

The market lost ground after midday until virtually all the morning gain had disappeared. Exports of under 1,000 bales, bringing the total for the season 1,240,000 bales behind those of a year ago, the heaviest deficiency so far, and the break in stocks and grain brought the day's heaviest selling pressure in the closing dealings.

FARM BOARD HAILED AS AID TO MARKETING

Agriculturists at Rutgers Field Day Urge New Jersey Planters to Cooperative Effort.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 11.—Creation of the Federal Farm Board was hailed by two leading agriculturists at the annual field day of the New Jersey farmers here today, as an experiment which offered an unusual opportunity to centralize the sales and distribution of farm products.

Dr. Jacob G. Lipman, dean of the college of agriculture of Rutgers and director of the New Jersey experiment station, said the success or failure of the experiment depended upon whether farmers made use of their opportunity. Dr. Carl E. Ladd, director of agricultural extension service at Cornell University, described the organization of the Farm Board as "a stimulus to the great cooperative marketing movement."

Nearly 4,000 farmers and their families from New Jersey and neighboring tates attended the event.

Dr. Lipman urged the farmers to work together as commodity groups and to plan their productive output to meet more nearly the market requirements. He said these commodity groups could cooperate to a greater extent in buying collectively the feed, fertilizer and supplies needed in their enterprises. He advocated the formation of local selling groups which in turn would affiliate with State, regional and national cooperatives as urged by the Federal Farm Board.

FACTS 'DISTURBING' IN GARMENT INQUIRY

Commission Uncovers 'Strange' Payments by Brooklyn Plants to Manufacturers' Group.

EMPLOYES ON PIECE WORK

This Is Contrary to Agreement With Union Providing for Payment by the Week.

Governor Roosevelt's Cloak and Suit Commission, through Raymond V. Ingersoll, secretary, in a letter yesterday to Harry Uviller, general manager of the American Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association, complained of "a disturbing set of facts" revealed by an examination of the affairs of members of the Brooklyn Ladies' Garment Manufacturers' Association, which is affiliated with Uviller's body of sub-manufacturers. The investigation disclosed that most of the cloak manufacturers in Brooklyn were paying employes on a piece work basis, contrary to the agreement with the union providing for payment by the week, said Mr. Ingersoll.

"In examining the books of jobbers and manufacturers, in order to check on the sending out of goods, the accountants accidentally came across entries in the accounts of a number of firms, mostly independents, showing direct money transactions in considerable amounts wtih officers and employes of the Brooklyn association," said Mr. Ingersoll in his letter. "In all cases these were firms sending substantial quantities of work into the Brooklyn shops.

"The extent and significance of these strange transactions have not been fully discovered, but a double relationship has been discovered which is inconsistent and objectionable."

Mr. Ingersoll pointed out at a recent meeting of the Cloak Commission a resolution was adopted to the effect that the American Association was expected to cooperate with the union and the other factors in maintaining agreed labor standards. The association was requested to either reorganize the Brooklyn office or to require the Brooklyn members to become members of the American Association.

At present the Brooklyn Association is affiliated with the American Association but the Brooklyn members pay dues to their own organization. Mr. Uviller indicated that he would have a reply to Mr. Ingersoll's letter today.

HEADS JEWELERS' GROUP.

Engel Elected by Wholesalers at Atlantic City Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11.—Jacob Engel of Baltimore was elected president of the National Wholesale Jewelers' Association at the concluding session of the association's twenty-third convention at the Shelbourne Hotel today. Mr. Engel succeeds A. C. Becken of Chicago, who became immediate past president, a newly formed office.

Other officers elected are Albert Elbogen of Chicago, A. C. Possin of Milwaukee and George Gambrill of Chicago, vice presidents; L. P. Whitem of Philadelphia, treasurer; George A. Fernly of Philadelphia, secretary, and H. R. Rinehart of Philadelphia, assistant secretary.

Directors named for the two-year term are H. L. Carpenter of Providence, R. I.; Emil Freyer of Pittsburgh, W. W. Hamilton of Denver, Joseph B. Hechtel of Philadelphia, William J. Ward of New York, A. W. Huggins of San Francisco and H. H. Riger of Kansas City, Mo.

Robert L. Coates of Philadelphia was elected to fill the unexpired term of A. C. Possin, who became a vice president.

47 SODA FOUNTAINS SEALED.

Health Agents Find Pipes in Bad Repair—Many Reopen.

Forty-seven soda fountains have been sealed as a result of a city-wide inspection following complaints of copper in soda water, it was revealed yesterday by Health Commissioner Wynne. It was found that in many cases the lining of copper pipes had been worn away, and the fountains were sealed until they have been relined.

"We are not only making an inspection of all the soda fountains and pipes," the Commissioner said, "but the inspectors are noting the general cleanliness of the stores and the clerks in which soft drinks and lunches are being served. These must be clean and sanitary, and every food handler must have a doctor's certificate that he or she is free from all infectious disease."

Many of the fountains have been permitted to reopen.

Miss Carman Heads Hearn Store.

Appointment of Miss Mildred Carman to take charge of the organization and operation of the Hearn store to be opened in Stamford, Conn., in the near future was made yesterday by James A. Hearn & Son. Miss Carman joined the Hearn organization in 1919, serving as assistant to the secretary of Donald H. Cowl, following her graduation from the School of Business of Columbia University.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Organization of the Associated Bias Binding Manufacturers, comprising bias fabric producers for the women's wear industry, was announced yesterday. The association, which has temporary headquarters at 11 West Forty-second Street, will hold a meeting in the near future to elect permanent officers.

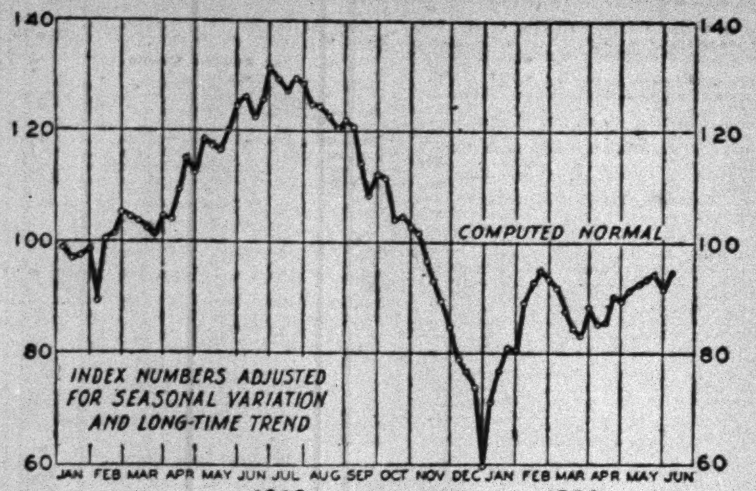
A model display shop which incorporates ideal features for an underwear, hosiery and glove section was opened yesterday in the Van Raalte Company showrooms at 295 Fifth Avenue. The shop is intended to give visiting buyers a chance to view the latest developments in merchandise display and stock keeping.

An overnight combined freight and truck service between the Pennsylvania mills and the local market has been perfected by the traffic bureau of the Silk Association in cooperation with the United States Testing Company, and will go into effect next Monday, it was announced yesterday. The association also announced the appointment of the annual dinner committee for 1931 and the election of three additional firms to membership.

Members of the mohair plush group of the National Upholstery Textile Association, Inc., meeting yesterday reported that minimum specifications governing the production of mohair plush upholstery fabrics have improved sales. W. P. Underhill presided.

Recommendation was made yesterday at the Eastern District Display Men's convention being held at the Hotel Pennsylvania that the 1931 convention of the International Association of Display Men be held in Boston.

Rate of Steel Operations Was Maintained Against Usual Decline and Index Advances



The rate of operations in the steel industry was maintained last week at about the same rate as in the preceding week, an eminently satisfactory condition from a short-range standpoint, since this is the season of the year when steel-mill activity is usually tapering off from the seasonal peak reached late in March. THE TIMES computed allowance for seasonal variation for the week ended June 7 is a decrease of about 3½ per cent from the preceding week, so that the adjusted index for steel mill activity shows a sharp recovery from the setback of the preceding week to a new high for the current upward movement, the adjusted index for last week working out at 94.9, as compared with 91.5 for the week ended May 31 and 94.5 for the week ended May 24. A year ago the index stood at 126.5.

This favorable development coincides with the generally favorable report of a decrease during May of 294,993 tons in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, which, though a substantial decline, proved to be only slightly greater than the usual seasonal decrease. The estimated tonnage of new business booked by the Steel Corporation in May declined by somewhat more than the usual seasonal amount, but in view of the fact that shipments were maintained at a comparatively steady rate, the decline in new business is not as unfavorable as might first appear. At the same time, of course, the absence of any pick-up in new steel business means the further postponement of any definite sign of permanent business recovery, since the order books of the Steel Corporation usually provide one of the first reliable signs of impending business recovery following a period of depression.

COMPANY ADOPTS PLAN TO PUSH BETTER RAYON

Viscose to License Consumers of Yarns—Present Labels Expire Saturday.

Following the recent stand of the rayon industry to encourage the use of better-grade yarns and the development of improved rayon merchandise, the first definite step in this direction was announced yesterday by the Viscose Company, the largest producer of rayon in the country, through Chester C. Bassett Jr., assistant sales manager of the company. The new departure, effective next week, he said yesterday, embodies a trade-mark control system whereby the company's "Crown" trade-mark can be used only by licensed manufacturers on rayon merchandise which is made in accordance with specifications that "will insure reasonable wear and service to the consumer."

Other leading producers of rayon were said to be watching the move of the Viscose Company with keen interest. Officials of the du Pont Rayon Company, the second largest producer, and other manufacturers declined yesterday to comment on their plans.

The Viscose plan, Mr. Bassett said, will be applied to manufacturers of both knitted and woven goods, converters, garment manufacturers, wholesalers and distributers and retailers. Labels on garments and tickets on piece goods bearing the trade-mark will be used by those licensed, while a transfer stamp will be applied to full-fashioned hosiery. Full details of application of the plan to woven goods have not been worked out yet, Mr. Bassett said.

He went on to say that special emphasis will be placed on enlisting the support of retailers to the plan as a means of increasing the volume turnover of rayon merchandise. Authorization to use the trade-mark labels now in the hands of the trade will expire on Saturday.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Demand for hogs was rather slow, and while medium and heavyweight butchers were quoted as steady, lights were as much as 10 cents lower and packing sows dropped 10 to 15 cents at the last after a firm start. The top was steady at $10.15, while the day's average was 5 cents lower at $9.85. Most sales were at $9.70 to $10.05, with 160 to 250 pound averages $9.75 to $10.15, 250 to 350 pound butchers $9.65 to $10.10 and packing sows $8.65 to $9.50. Packers bought 10,800 and shippers 3,000, with 9,000 left over. Receipts were 19,000, with 22,000 estimated for tomorrow. Five leading western points expect 58,000 hogs tomorrow, against 67,100 a week ago.

Cattle declined 25 to 40 cents to a new low for the year on steers and yearlings, with best heavy selling up to $13, while the bulk of the sales were at $10 to $11.25. Receipts were 10,000. Sorting of lambs was exceptionally severe, with prices off 25 to 50 cents, and culls were reported as almost unsalable. Most of the natives brought $11.75 to $12, with culls at $5 to $8. Idaho rangers sold at $12.25. Sheep were 50 cents lower at $2.50 to $3.50 for most offerings. Receipts were 10,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

These prices were reported yesterday in the New York and New Jersey markets by the United States Department of Agriculture:

CATTLE.

Steers in light supply, steady. Good 1,237-pound Ohios, $11.75; mediums, $10.50 to $11.25. Cows slow, weak. Common to medium, $5.75 to $7.25; few up to $8. Bulls very slow, fully 25c lower. Cutter to medium, $5.50 to $7.75.

VEALERS AND CALVES.

Vealers slow, barely steady, few Southerns lower. Good to choice, $11 to $12.50; mediums, $8 to $10; cull and common, $6 to $7.

HOGS.

Weak to 10c lower. Good to choice 160 to 220-pound weights, $10.50 to $10.90.

SHEEP.

Want Silk Exchange Closed July 5.

Members of the National Raw Silk Exchange have started a petition asking the board of governors to close the Exchange for trading on Saturday, July 5, following the holiday. Most of the other commodity exchanges will be closed on July 5, having adopted a Saturday closing schedule for the Summer months. A similar petition asking that it be declared a holiday for the Cotton Exchange is being circulated.

THREE ARE NAMED TO TEXTILE BOARD

President Appoints Directors for Two and Three Years on Research Foundation.

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP).—Harry D. Thompson of New York City, Stuart W. Cramer of Charlotte and Cramerton, N. C., and Franklin W. Hobbs of Boston, Mass., were today named by President Hoover as directors of the Textile Foundation.

The Chief Executive yesterday signed the bill creating the foundation for scientific and economic research in the textile industry.

Thompson was named for two years, Cramer for three and Hobbs for four.

The Secretaries of Agriculture and Commerce are ex officio members of the foundation.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 11 (AP).—Stuart W. Cramer, named as a director of the Textile Foundation, is president of the Cramerton Mills at Cramerton. He was in charge of the Republican campaign in North Carolina in 1928.

QUEENS SUBWAY BIDS TO BE OPENED JULY 1

Board of Transportation Awards Contract for Laying Tracks on Nassau-Broad St. Line.

Bids for construction of another section of subway along Queens Boulevard from Seventy-first Road to Union Turnpike will be received and opened on July 1, the Board of Transportation announced yesterday. At the same time bids will be received for making borings in Queens Bouevard, 137th Street, Hillside Avenue and Van Wyck Boulevard for the extension of subway construction through those thoroughfares.

The board awarded to the T. H. Reynolds Contracting Company, low bidder at $84,700, the contract for laying tracks along the Nassau-Broad Street subway from Brooklyn Bridge to the Battery.

The board also received and opened bids for the following:

Electric light and power system for the 207th Street yards and shops—Fischbach & Moore, Inc., $192,000; Jandus Electric Equipment Co., Inc., $214,000; Lord Electric Co., $214,300; Kerry Electrical Contracting Corporation, $255,625.

Pumping equipment on various parts of the new subway system—Wagner Engineering Co., Inc., $27,535; L. A. Ward, $28,154; Shevlin Engineering Corp., $30,000; Thomas Mullaney Engineering Corp. and Herman Herbst, $30,176.16; Columbia Contracting Co., $33,936; Frederick Iron & Steel Co., $35,559; Abraham M. Goldsmith, $37,600; Erickson Equipment Co., $40,750.

Eleven bids were received for furnishing and installing steel doors and miscellaneous work on the new subway system, the lowest being one of $4,274.80 by the Reiss Construction Company.

ASKS VOICE IN JUDGESHIPS.

Socialist Leader Urges Mayor to Take Organizations' Advice.

A demand that Mayor Walker offer civic organizations an opportunity to pass on prospective appointees to the magistracy before the appointments are made was voiced by Louis Waldman, co-chairman of the Socialist party's committee on public affairs, at a neighborhood mass meeting at 50-21 Parsons Boulevard, Queens, last night.

"Public decency requires that appointments in the dark to positions of such importance, made upon the mere recommendation of a district leader, be stopped," said Mr. Waldman. "Regardless of the philosophy that 'to the victor belongs the spoils,' the Mayor must still square his actions with public opinion and public morals."

EDISON STARTS HOME.

Will Continue in New Jersey Rubber Tests Begun in Florida.

FORT MYERS, Fla., June 11 (AP).—Thomas A. Edison said good-bye to his miniature rubber plantation here tonight and started back to his home at West Orange, N. J., to continue his experiments there.

Mr. Edison carries with him to New Jersey a complete herbarium of plants and weeds which have been found to contain a percentage of rubber in the process of more than 10,000 tests.

He also carries back drawings of a miniature rubber "till," a machine by which he hopes to be able to extract rubber "juice" from golden rod.

Slight Gain in Month's Turnover.

While results have tended to vary sharply with weather conditions, reports indicate that retail turnover managed to maintain a fairly good pace during the week. Sales figures for the first half of the month, ending Saturday, are expected to show a slight gain over the same period a year ago. The general situation, however, continues notably spotty, a condition not fully reflected in average comparisons, it was pointed out. An outstanding feature is the success with which a comparatively few large stores are making headway against current difficult conditions. Their gains pull up the average figures.

⁂

Predict Return of Felt Vogue.

Fall and holiday lines of men's belts are prepared and will be ready for the trade immediately after July 4, it was reported here yesterday. Predictions were made that belts will give stronger competition to suspenders during the coming season. At the moment attention is concentrated on sports belts in new color treatments matching sports footwear. Brown and white and black and white color treatments are outstanding in cowhide, elastic or horsehide shell belts. The elastic type is reversible, while the others utilize a new development in a centre inlay of washable leather. Current business has varied with weather conditions.

Fall Garments Get Attention.

Interest is now rapidly increasing in early Fall garment lines and ready-to-wear buyers are giving a great deal of attention to analysis of the important trends and details which the new offerings will feature. A few lines have been unofficially opened during the week, but the bulk of both dress and coat showings will not be made until after the middle of the month. It is expected that the various group meetings scheduled for the next two or three weeks will give the initial buying send-off to the new season, together with the arrivals of Coast buyers and others who operate early.

⁂

New Dollar Toy Combination.

Capitalizing the vogue for toys to retail at a dollar, a manufacturer has gone some of his competitors one better and is now offering six toys, boxed and ready for play, to sell over the counter for that price. The outfit comprises a wagon, cart, wheelbarrow, rake, shovel and hoe. The three vehicles are of fairly large size, the wagon, for example, being 6 by 10 inches. The metal parts are of sheet steel, enameled in bright red. The garden tools are eighteen inches long, with automobile steel used for the metal parts.

⁂

Chinaware Sales at Low Level.

Characterizing May as one of the dullest months experienced in the wholesale chinaware trade in years, sellers yesterday predicted that business would continue at a low point until after July 4, when stores begin to purchase Fall requirements. June is a traditionally slow month in the domestic chinaware industry, they explained. The situation has been relieved to some extent during the last few days by advance orders for October sales placed by a few chain systems.

⁂

Pajama Outlook for Fall Bright.

Sales of men's pajamas have been holding up very well and an equally good volume of business is expected in the Fall, it was stated yesterday by a local manufacturer who has already started marketing flannelettes and the heavier broadcloths for Autumn. Salesmen on the road report good activity, particularly in Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore. The tuck-in style with fitted yoke and elastic band in the back in solid and fancy patterned broadcloth is proving popular, as are the Russian and slip-over styles in novelty designs. Expensive novelty silks are being sold in good quantities. In the West and mid-West there is a good demand for nightshirts.

Blanket Men to Study Laundering.

To increase the life of the average wool blanket members of the Wool Blanket Manufacturers' Association at their quarterly meeting in the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday voted to cooperate with the Laundry Owners' Association of America in a study of blanket laundering problems. Standard cost methods and their relation to monthly balance sheets were discussed by the members following an address by J. P. Jordan of Stevenson, Harrison & Jordan. W. G. Northrup Jr. of the North Star Woolen Mills, Minneapolis, presided.

⁂

Fall Spread Displays Deferred.

Despite the decrease in wholesale and retail stocks of woven bedspreads, which prompted several houses to plan formal showings of their Fall lines about June 15, it seems likely now that such openings will be deferred until after July 4, it was stated yesterday. Subnormal business conditions have reduced buying interest. The Fall displays are distinctly different from previous lines. Colors and patterns will be subdued. Old-fashioned damask patterns are being eliminated. Green and lavender will be popular shades, with considerable attention accorded to peach in metropolitan districts. Prices, on the whole, will follow the 1929 Fall range, though some slight cuts may be expected, due to the reduced cost of raw materials.

⁂

Prices on Burlap Decline.

Some price recessions were registered in the burlap market during the week. Trading continued inactive, due somewhat to the Whitsuntide holiday in Calcutta. Spot deliveries eased, closing 10 points lower than last week. Futures were also 5 to 10 points below last week, though the final prices yesterday were higher than Tuesday's close. Shipments for May to North America totaled 132,000,000 yards. These prices were quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlap by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

	8-oz.	10½-oz.
Spots	5.25	6.75
June shipments	5.20	6.65
July-September	5.20	6.70
Oct.-Dec.	5.30	6.75

⁂

Business Spotty in Gray Goods.

The gray goods market continued to be very quiet yesterday, with prices holding at the levels to which they had fallen on the previous day. One or two constructions showed some spotty activity, but on the whole orders were few. Sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were made at 5¾ cents. Some orders for 38½-inch 60-48s were filled at 4⅞ cents. Interest was shown in 39-inch 68-72s, which were sold at 6⅝ cents. The 39-inch 80 squares continued to move in routine manner at 8⅝ cents. Sheetings were slightly more active.

ENDS FIGHT ON CLOAK UNION

Coat Jobber Facing Writ Agrees to Observe Peace Compact.

As the result of an injunction signed several days ago by Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler restraining Joseph Stein, a cloak jobber of 436 Seventh Avenue, from violating the treaty of peace between the three cloak employers associations and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Mr. Stein pledged himself yesterday to abide by the terms of the agreement. Mr. Stein promised, in effect, to do everything that the injunction compelled him to do on condition that the suit be discontinued.

Mr. Stein was found guilty by his association, the Merchants Ladies' Garment Association, of buying garments and having garments manufactured in non-union shops in violation of the association's agreement. Morris Hillquit, who with Emil Schlesinger, counsel for the union, asked for the injunction, announced yesterday that Mr. Stein had paid a $250 fine imposed by his organization.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

The sugar market was quiet yesterday. On comparatively small trading volume five months, four of them active, in the futures markets hit new low quotations and all other months closed at previous low record figures.

No sales of raw sugar were made. It was reported that one bid of 3.24, duty free, had been refused by the owner, and as this was a higher price than warranted by the futures quotations traders accepted the opinion that Porto Rican and Philippine owners had withdrawn from the market until after a vote on the tariff. There was no change in the refined market, the quotation being 4.50.

Sales in the futures market amounted to 29,550 tons, and the price range was:

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, FIRST JUDICIAL DISTRICT.—In the Matter of the Application of the BOARD OF TRANSPORTATION of the City of New York, acting for and on behalf of The City of New York pursuant to Chapter 4 of the Laws of 1891 and the several statutes amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, relative to acquiring an estate in fee simple absolute in certain real property situated at and near the intersection of the southerly side of VAN CORTLANDT AVENUE and the easterly side of ST. GEORGE'S CRESCENT, in the Borough of The Bronx, City of New York, for the construction, maintenance and operation in perpetuity of a rapid transit railroad.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that by an order of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, First Judicial Department, dated April 28, 1930, and entered and filed in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Bronx on the same date, the application of The City of New York to have the compensation which should justly be made to the respective owners of and persons interested in the real property sought to be acquired or extinguished by The City of New York in this proceeding, ascertained and determined by the Supreme Court, without a jury, was granted.

NOTICE IS HEREBY FURTHER GIVEN that the description of the real property, title to which has been acquired in fee simple in the above proceeding, is as follows:

ALL that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situate, lying and being in the Borough of The Bronx, County of Bronx, City and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

PARCEL NO. 11: Beginning at the point of tangency of the southerly line of Van Cortlandt Avenue to the twenty (20) feet radius curve joining the southerly line of Van Cortlandt Avenue and the northeasterly line of St. George's Crescent; thence running eastwardly along the southerly line of Van Cortlandt Avenue one hundred ninety and eighty-five hundredths (190.85) feet; thence southwestwardly along a course which makes an angle of ninety (90) degrees with the southerly line of Van Cortlandt Avenue one hundred (100) feet; thence westwardly along a course which makes an angle of ninety (90) degrees with the course last above described seventy-five (75) feet; thence southwestwardly along a course which makes an angle of ninety (90) degrees with the course last above described thirty-nine and ninety hundredths (39.90) feet to the northeasterly line of St. George's Crescent; thence northwestwardly along the northeasterly line of St. George's Crescent one hundred seventy and fifty-one hundredths (170.51) feet measured along the four hundred forty (440) feet radius curve to the beginning of the twenty (20) feet radius curve joining the northeasterly line of St. George's Crescent and the southerly line of Van Cortlandt Avenue; thence along the twenty (20) feet radius curve joining the northeasterly line of St. George's Crescent and the southerly line of Van Cortlandt Avenue forty-five and twenty-six hundredths (45.26) feet to the point or place of beginning.

The above parcel of real property to be acquired in fee in this proceeding is required for the purposes of the construction and operation of a certain municipal rapid transit railroad, for the construction of a portion of which, known as Route No. 106, Section No. 6, a contract was made between The City of New York, acting by the Board of Transportation of The City of New York, and Di Marco & Reimann, Inc., dated July 26, 1929, and duly delivered August 13, 1929.

A fuller statement setting forth the location and boundaries of the several lots or parcels of land hereinbefore described, and the right, title, franchises, easements or privileges sought to be taken or sought to be acquired by The City of New York in this proceeding is shown upon four similar maps or plans, each having written thereon a certificate of the approval and adoption thereof by the Board of Transportation of the City of New York on March 4, 1930, and bearing the seal of said Board, each of which said maps is entitled:

"BOARD OF TRANSPORTATION OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT.
ROUTE NO. 106. SECTION NO. 6.
MAP OR PLAN SHOWING RIGHTS IN REAL PROPERTY TO BE ACQUIRED BY THE CITY OF NEW YORK FOR A RAPID TRANSIT SUBWAY BET. ST. GEORGE'S CRESCENT AND VAN CORTLANDT AVE.
ROBT. RIDGWAY,
Chief Engineer.
File No. 6306.
Dwg. No. 399."

and each of which maps or plans as adopted by the said Board of Transportation of the City of New York on the 4th day of March, 1930, has annexed thereto and made part thereof a memorandum having written thereon a certificate of the approval and adoption thereof by the Board of Transportation of the City of New York on March 4, 1930, and bearing the seal of said Board, and which said maps, with the memorandum accompanying the same and made part thereof, together with the certificate of the adoption of the said maps and memorandum, endorsed thereon as aforesaid, were filed,—one in the office of the President of the Borough of The Bronx of the City of New York, on the 4th day of March, 1930; one in the office of the Board of Transportation of the City of New York, at No. 250 Hudson Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the same date, and one in the office of the Register of the County of Bronx on the 3d day of April, 1930.

Each and every owner of such property having any claim or demand on account thereof is hereby required to file his written claim or demand, duly verified in the manner required by law for the verification of pleadings in an action describing the real property which the claimant owns or in which he is interested, and his post-office address, with the Clerk of the County of Bronx, on or before the 17th day of July, 1930, and to serve on the Corporation Counsel of The City of New York, at his office, Room 1743, 17th floor, Municipal Building, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before the 17th day of July, 1930, a copy of such verified claim.

Dated, New York, June 12th, 1930.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Few Scattering Sales in Lower Manhattan Lead in Day of Quiet Trading.

LEASEHOLD DEALS LISTED

Central Foundry Company Gets Site on Harlem River for Various New Buildings.

Only a few scattering sales of property in Manhattan were announced yesterday. The market was extremely quiet throughout the metropolitan area, although there was a tendency for mortgage financing to keep ahead of other branches of trading. The outstanding loan recorded yesterday was that for $9,400,000 on the Hotel Majestic site on the west side. In addition to loans filed in the Register's Office, financing of other properties was announced by lending institutions and mortgage brokers.

The sluggishness which pervaded the Manhattan market also extended to the suburbs.

In downtown Manhattan the five-story store and loft building at 85 Walker Street was sold by W. H. L. Edwards to R. F. Janes. The building is on a lot 25 by 100 feet between Lafayette Street and Cortlandt Alley. It was sold through George R. Read & Co., brokers.

The same brokers, in conjunction with Mrs. Louise B. Field, sold for the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, as co-trustee of the John H. Davis estate, the four-story American basement dwelling at 175 Macdougal Street. The buyer is Adelaide Goan.

Jacob Goodman sold to Arnold W. Goulbourne the property, 15 by 100 feet, at 307 West 137th Street.

Eugene A. Walsh leased for various owners a large plot of land on the Harlem River to the Central Foundry Company, a subsidiary of the Universal Pipe and Radiator Company. The plot contains twenty-two city lots and adjoins on the south the terminal of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and is located between East 140th and East 144th Street. It has frontages on the Harlem River and Gerard Avenue. The lessee plans to improve the site with various buildings.

The four-story steel and concrete garage to be erected at 304-310 East Sixty-fourth Street, on a plot 100 feet wide about 125 feet east of Second Avenue, has been leased by Corcoran, Fitzgerald & Co. to the Fildore Garage Corporation, Benjamin Silverman, president, for twenty-one years commencing on the first of the month following the issuance of the Building Department occupancy certificate, the building to be completed and ready by Feb. 1, 1931. The annual rental is graduated from $22,500 for the first year to $27,500 for the last eleven years of the term, in addition to all taxes, assessments, &c. This lease will be subject to mortgages to the extent of $250,000.

The Mideast Holding Corporation leased to the Eton Holding Corporation, both corporations having their offices at 47 East West Street, the buildings at 405 East Fifty-fourth Street and 40 4East Fifty-fifth Street for five years and five months from May 15, 1930, the lessee paying to the lessor all moneys and income from the demised premises except the running expenses, the lessee retaining 1 per cent of the gross rental received for its services in operating the buildings.

The lease of 3,652-3,654 Broadway, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, adjoining the southeast corner of 151st Street, held by the Segal-Greenfield Corporation, Nicholas C. Greenfield president, has been sold by it to the Sargins Realty Company, Inc., of 2,245 Eighty-fourth Street, Brooklyn.

The house at 10 Henderson Place has been leased by Tolman Bigelow, Inc., to Gilbert Seldes for Charles K. Clisby, Inc.

William H. Whiting & Co. sold for the estate of Paul R. Gray of Detroit, the five-story apartment house at 43-45 West Fifty-fifth Street on a plot 37 by 100 feet. About two years ago the same brokers leased the property to the Natsam Realty Company for twenty-one years with renewals—and the tenant demolished the dwellings on the site and erected the present building of stores and apartments. The property was sold to Crescent Ridge, Inc.

William Baily bought from J. Vogel and L. Rotkin a five-story flat at 509 West 160th Street, held at $65,000. The plot is 43.4 by 100 feet. M. Theodore was the broker.

Peck Gets Two Parcels From Bank.

Frederick S. Peck of Barrington, R. I., has acquired from the Lebanon National Bank of New York the five-story building at 59 Washington Street, on a plot 30.1 by 58.4 feet, and the four-story structure at 64 Greenwich Street, on a plot 26.2 by 103 feet. The transfers, recorded yesterday, show a $23,000 mortgage on the latter. The parcels are between Morris and Rector Streets.

RECORDED LEASES.

In the building at 56 Beaver Street the office space on the first to the fourth floor, inclusive, with about 2,000 square feet in the basement, has been leased by the William & Beaver Corporation, Ralph D. Kaufman, president, to the Insurance Company of North America for twenty-one years ending June 30, 1951, the annual rental being $54,000. The lessee has the option to renew this lease for twenty-one years at the same rental.

Simultaneously with the execution of this lease the lessee conveyed to the lessor the lot and building known as 56 Beaver Street. It being the intention of the lessor to improve the premises or a larger plot by the erection of a large new building thereon, it is understood that this lease will be subordinate to a building loan mortgage not exceeding two-thirds of the fair appraised value of the property.

If the proposed building be erected, the lessee is to be permitted to resume possession of its quarters, occupying an area substantially equal to that occupied in the old building, with a twenty-one-year renewal privilege at the prevailing reasonable rate of rent.

The store floor and the second floor in 725 Seventh Avenue have been leased by Silver's Lunch Stores, Inc., Abraham Silver, president, to 725 Grill, Inc., Morris Roth, president, for ten years from July 1, 1930, for use as a restaurant or cafeteria only, the annual rental being $27,500 for the first year and $30,000 thereafter, in addition to one-quarter of the taxes and assessments levied against the land and building at 725 Seventh Avenue. The lessee is also to pay $10,000 in notes now given to the lessor. The lessee agrees not to use the store or any part thereof for what is commonly known in the restaurant business as a "brass rail." The lessee has sold this lease to Philip Wechsler.

Rockefeller Adds to Holdings In West Fifty-third Street

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has added to his midtown holdings the five-story and basement dwelling at 12 West Fifty-third Street, on a plot 20 by 100.4 feet, according to a transfer filed in the Recorder's office yesterday. Title was taken by his Empire Mortgage Company of 26 Broadway from Alice E. Warren, who acquired the parcel in 1920.

Mr. Rockefeller's other holdings on the block front include the houses at 16, 18 and 22-24.

MAJESTIC LOAN RECORDED.

Filing of Papers Reveals a $500,000 Second Mortgage.

Details of the financing of the twenty-nine-story apartment house which is to replace the Hotel Majestic were revealed with the recording of the loan yesterday. The financing was arranged through H. D. Baker and A. Robinson and Henry Baker, who were brokers in all the various sales of the Majestic site.

To secure an issue of $9,400,000 of 6 per cent first mortgage bonds, maturing June 1, 1948, the Straus National Bank and Trust Company of New York, as trustee, has taken a mortgage for $4,952,500 from the Majestic Hotel Corporation, Irwin S. Chanin, president, this being consolidated with ten other mortgages in the sum of $4,447,500 to make a single lien of $9,400,000, which is spread over all the property on which the twenty-nine-story apartment building is to be erected on Central Park West, from Seventy-firstto Seventy-second Street, 187½ feet on the former and 225 feet on the latter street. These bonds will be retired in the amount of $82,500 semi-annually beginning Dec. 1, 1934, increasing to $95,000 on Dec. 1, 1938.

On the same property the Majestic Hotel Corporation gave a second mortgage to the International-Madison Bank and Trust Company, of 147 Fifth Avenue, Phillip Kaplowitz, vice president, as trustee, to secure an issue of $500,000 second mortgage 6¼ per cent bonds, maturing on June 15, 1938, which will be retired at the rate of $12,500 semi-annually beginning on Dec. 15, 1934.

SALESMEN AND SALES EXECUTIVES

WHAT IS THE MATTER—WITH OUR TIMES?

ONLY THIS:

THERE IS MONEY GALORE, BUT—THE BUYING PUBLIC IS DETERMINED TO SAVE—AND HESITATES TO INVEST—MONEY.

IS THAT MERELY AN OPINION? OH, NO!

THAT IS THE TRUTH—PROVEN TRUE—BY THE FINANCIAL FACTS OF THE COUNTRY; AND YOU—AN EXPERT SALESMAN OR SALES EXECUTIVE—KNOW—THROUGH YOUR OWN EXPERIENCE—THAT IT IS THE TRUTH.

WE FEEL LIKE SHOUTING—"EUREKA"!

WHY?

BECAUSE:

WE HAVE MADE A GREAT DISCOVERY!

WE HAVE SOLVED THE PROBLEM OF SUCCESSFULLY MEETING THIS VERY CONDITION.

WE KNOW THE HOW—CREATED THE WAY—CONTROL THE MEANS.

THE PLAN WE HAVE DEVISED FOR SELLING OUR BERGEN COUNTY BRIDGE ZONE PROPERTY IS NOT ONLY BASICALLY SOUND—AND PHENOMENALLY PROFITABLE—BUT SO FAR-REACHING—SO UNIVERSAL IN ITS APPEAL—THAT EVERY MAN AND WOMAN—DESIRING TO SAVE—EVEN MODESTLY—IS REALLY A POTENTIAL PROSPECT—EASY TO SELL.

HERE IT IS:

THE INVESTMENT SAVINGS 4½% COUPON CONTRACT PLAN:

1. WE PAY TO PURCHASER 4½% PER ANNUM SEMI-ANNUALLY UPON THE SUM OF THE DOWN PAYMENT AND SUBSEQUENT PAYMENTS.
2. NO INTEREST CHARGED TO PURCHASER ON BALANCES DUE DURING LIFE OF CONTRACT.
3. WE PAY THE TAXES DURING LIFE OF CONTRACT.
4. WE AGREE TO RESELL—LOTS—DURING LIFE OF CONTRACT—AND PAY TO PURCHASER 50% OF THE PROFITS.
5. WE AGREE TO REFUND FULL PURCHASE PRICE—IF DESIRED—ON ALL PROPERTY PURCHASED FROM US UNDER THIS PLAN—ON EXPIRATION OF FULFILLED CONTRACT.

EXTENSIVE NEWSPAPER CAMPAIGN NOW UNDER WAY.

LIVE LEADS FURNISHED.

WITH OUR MATCHLESS PLAN—OUR WONDERFUL PROPERTIES—EFFICIENT COOPERATION—YOU KNOW THAT EXTRAORDINARY COMMISSION CHECKS—WILL BE COMING TO YOU REGULARLY.

WE WANT FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION:

1. A HIGH GRADE ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR OF DYNAMIC PERSONALITY AND PROVEN ABILITY.
2. THREE DIVISIONAL MANAGERS OF REAL ORGANIZING ABILITY.
3. NINE SALES MANAGERS WHOSE RECORDS PROVE THEM MASTER CLOSERS.
4. SIXTY DYNAMIC REAL ESTATE SALESMEN AND SALES WOMEN.
5. THREE HUNDRED PART TIMERS—MEN AND WOMEN—WITH OR WITHOUT SALES EXPERIENCE.

PART TIMERS:

WE WILL TRAIN YOU TO WORK IN CONFORMITY WITH OUR PLAN. YOU WILL NOT BE REQUIRED TO MAKE SALES. WE WILL ENABLE YOU TO MAKE MORE ON COMMISSION AND BONUS MONEY ON YOUR SPARE TIME THAN MANY WELL PAID WORKERS EARN ON FULL TIME. IT WILL PAY YOU—PAY YOU VERY WELL, INDEED—TO COME AND HEAR A DETAILED EXPLANATION OF OUR PLAN.

GERMAN LINES' DEAL APPROVED BY BOARD

Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd Coordinate Services, Get Official Sanction.

50-YEAR COMPACT SIGNED

Other Agreements Include Rates From Pacific Ports to Mexico and Mediterranean.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—An agreement between the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd Lines was approved by the Shipping Board today providing for their coordination. Each company is to retain its local character and individual entity, but all activities are to be conducted in the joint interest of the lines. Net profits are to be so distributed that equal amounts will be available to each line for depreciation, reserve funds and payments of dividends, while losses on operations are to be shared equally. Steamship tonnage and all assets and liabilities of the two companies are to be considered as equal.

Vessels of the two companies are to be placed on routes for which they are economically best fitted, and sailing schedules are to be adjusted to insure operating efficiency. Passengers and freight will be booked by representatives of the companies for both lines, and ticket orders are to be issued optionally for Hamburg or Bremen. Each company is to place at the disposal of the other its piers and docks at the same cost as charged to its own steamers. Provision is made for joint advertising and announcement of services. Inauguration of new services, extension of existing services, purchase and construction of steamers and the relationship of either company to any third company are subject to the consent of both.

Disputes are to be settled by arbitration. The agreement is to continue in effect for fifty years and may be terminated upon notice given five years prior to its expiration. In the absence of notice the agreement will continue for ten-year periods.

Five Other Agreements Approved.

Other agreements approved today were:

PANAMA MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY with NEW YORK AND CUBA STEAMSHIP COMPANY (Ward Line)—Through rates from San Francisco and Los Angeles to east coast of Mexico ports are based on direct line rates and cost of transshipment at New York is apportioned 60 per cent to Panama Mail and 40 per cent to Ward Line.

MICHIGAN TRANSIT CORPORATION with ARNOLD TRANSIT COMPANY—Covers through shipments between Chicago and Cheboygan, Mackinaw City and Lescheneaux Island points with transshipment at Mackinac Island.

QUAKER LINE with EXPORT STEAMSHIP CORPORATION—Through rates on canned goods and dried fruits from Pacific ports to Mediterranean and Black Sea ports are based on direct line rates and apportioned equally, each line to assume half the cost of transshipment at New York.

LUCKENBACH STEAMSHIP COMPANY, INC., with KLAVENESS LINES—Through rates from Atlantic Coast ports to Oriental ports, with transshipment at San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland or Seattle, are the direct line conference rates, apportioned equally between the carriers, each to assume half the cost of transshipment, subject to minimum proportion of $5 per ton to Klaveness Line. On cargo to out ports, differential and arbitrary ports Klaveness Line is to receive all of the excess of the rate to destination over the through rate to base port.

LUCKENBACH GULF STEAMSHIP COMPANY, INC., with KLAVENESS LINE—On through shipments from Gulf ports to Oriental ports, the terms and conditions are identical with the foregoing agreement.

FIGHT LIGHTERAGE CHARGE.

Bush Terminal Group Regard New Jersey Move as Trade Menace.

The Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Bush Terminal has assigned William S. Pontin, its executive secretary, as representative of its interests at the hearings on the New Jersey free lighterage case, which will be started June 26 by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the Newark Chamber of Commerce building and continued later in New York. Announcement of the appointment was made yesterday following a meeting of the association's traffic committee.

A decision to abolish free lighterage in the harbor, as sought by the New Jersey interests, would "depopulate Bush Terminal" and cause a "veritable exodus of New York industries to New Jersey," Mr. Pontin said. The association is one of several intervening parties in the case fighting to maintain free lighterage. The trunk-line railroads entering New York are the nominal defendants against which New Jersey plaintiffs represented by the Attorney General of that State will offer evidence at the Newark hearing. At the later hearings in New York the real defendants, including the State of New York and the various intervening civic and commercial groups, will fight the proposed change. No decision is expected before 1932.

PIER BIDS TO BE OPENED.

Ship Board to Advertise Sale of Government Docks at Hoboken.

Bids for the purchase of the government piers at Hoboken are to be advertised for tomorrow by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation. Included in the property to be sold are piers 1, 2, 3 and 4 with under-water land adjoining on both sides of each pier and upland to River Street.

The piers were formerly owned by the Hamburg-American Line and the North German Lloyd Line. The United States Government seized them at the beginning of the World War. Over $7,000,000 was paid to the alien property custodian, and since then the money has been turned over to the German companies. The piers were operated by the War Department until 1921, when, by an act of Congress, they were turned over to the Shipping Board.

SHIP BOARD LOANS $396,750

Bulk Transportation Company Gets Sum to Convert Freighter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A loan of $396,750 was voted by the Shipping Board today to the Bulk Transportation Corporation to be used in converting into a self-discharging bulk freighter the steamer Bremerton, recently purchased from the board, for operation out of the Gulf of Mexico to Central and South American ports.

The work is to be done by Jahncke Drydocks, Inc., of New Orleans, whose bid of $491,000 was the lowest received.

MAYOR TO LAUNCH FERRYBOAT TUESDAY

His Sister to Act as Sponsor for New Electric Craft at Exercises in Brooklyn.

The municipal ferryboat Chelsea, first to be operated by Diesel electric equipment, will be launched by Mayor Walker next Tuesday afternoon at the Tebo plant of the Todd Shipyards Corporations, Twenty-third Street and Third Avenue, Brooklyn. Mrs. Nan Walker Burke, sister of the Mayor, will act as sponsor.

The Chelsea is a double-ended steel-screw boat 104 feet 6 inches long, 26 feet 4 inches wide and 11 feet 10 inches deep. It has a central teamway for nine vehicles and two side passenger cabins with a total seating capacity of eighty. The main hull is of steel and is divided into five watertight compartments. The propelling machinery consists of two 200-horsepower Diesel engines which drive generators capable of furnishing powering for a 300 horsepower electric motor. An innovation in the design of the boat provides for the operation of the propelling machinery by pilot house controls.

The Chelsea is the seventh ferry boat built by the city since Commissioner Albert Goldman took charge of the Department of Plants and Structures. Two more ferryboats are now under construction and plans are beign prepared for three more boats, one on the East River and two for the Staten Island route.

MISSISSIPPI RECORD AGAIN SOUGHT BY BOAT

The Miss Greenville Passes Baton Rouge on New Orleans-St. Louis Run, Paced by Plane.

NEW ORLEANS, June 11 (AP).—The twenty-six-foot motor boat Miss Greenville, challenger of the water route record of 87 hours 31 minutes between New Orleans and St. Louis now held by the Bogie of Memphis, tonight was clipping up the Mississippi River above Baton Rouge, La.

The boat pulled away from Canal Street wharf here at 9:03 A. M. and darted upstream at the crack of a gun. Mayor Schelben of Greenville, Miss., was leading the way overhead in a seaplane as pacemaker and to arrange for fuel and food stops.

The Miss Greenville pulled into Baton Rouge at 12:45 P. M. for an unscheduled refueling, and dashed on again twenty-five minutes later.

The crew, Eric Schelben, son of the Mayor, and Lewis Davis, pilots, and George Schweizer, mechanic, at Baton Rouge expressed satisfaction with the time the boat was making and hoped to do something like thirty miles an hour.

Only four stops were scheduled before the craft left New Orleans, namely Natchez, Miss.; Greenville, Memphis, Tenn., and Cairo, Ill. The Miss Greenville is a 450-horsepower craft.

HARLEM RIVER TUBE TO CARRY PHONE LINES

Largest Cast Iron Pipe Ever Made Will Case Wires for Greater Toll Service.

Construction of a new submarine telephone tunnel under the Harlem River between Second Avenue and 129th Street, Manhattan, and Lincoln Avenue, the Bronx, will be begun this Summer, the New York Telephone Company announced yesterday.

The tunnel, the announcement said, will be made of the largest cast iron pipe ever manufactured. It will be seven feet in diameter under the river, and nine feet at either end, where it will terminate in manholes sunk sixteen feet below the street level. The entire tube will be encased in concrete, and suspended by piles driven into the bed of the river at a depth of twenty-seven feet below the mean low water mark.

The tunnel will provide greater facilities for toll service between New York, New England and Canada, the announcement stated. When completed it will contain 148 clay ducts, enough to carry about 150,000 telephone circuits, or 300,000 single copper wires. The circuits to be housed in the ducts will carry some of the heaviest long distance traffic in the world, engineers for the telephone company pointed out, as calls between points westward, which pass through the central offices in New York, as well as calls for New England and Canada, will be handled over that cable route.

No general re-routing of the present cables will follow the completion of the new tunnel, the telephone company's announcement said. These are adequate for the time, and the new tunnel will be used for new cables exclusively.

Three New Jersey Bridges Approved

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The War Department approved today an application of the New Jersey Highway Commission to construct three bridges across Ship Channel, Elbo Thorofare and Rainbow Thorofare in Great Egg Inlet. The structures will form part of the new highway between the mainland at Somers Point and Ocean City.

WILL DEPICT INDIAN ATTACK.

Governors Island Troops to Stage Rescue of Covered Wagon at Fete.

Survivors of the covered wagon pioneering days in the West will be guests of honor at the Second Army Corps' annual garden party and tournament at Governors Island June 20 and 21, when an Indian attack upon a covered wagon train will be re-enacted, it was announced yesterday by the Oregon Trail Memorial Association.

The association is now searching for such pioneers and their descendants. Among those who are to be invited are Mrs. Elizabeth Custer, 86-year-old widow of General Custer, who lives at 71 Park Avenue; Albert H. Baiseley, 2,086 Valentine Avenue, one-time "mule-skinner"; William H. Jackson, 87, of the Explorers Club, one-time "bullwhacker," and M. S. Garretson, superintendent of the heads and horns collection of the New York Zoological Park, who once made the westward trek.

At Governors Island, sixty picked men of the Sixteenth and Eighteenth Infantry are being rehearsed in the rôle of a detachment of United States Cavalry of the '70s.

600 TAKEN IN WAR ON CHICAGO GANGS

Picked Squads of Police Lead Round-Up to Find Slayer of Tribune Reporter.

NINE MEN SEIZED HERE

Fingerprints of Arrivals From Illinois City Are Rushed There by Air Mail.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 11.—More than 600 gangsters and other underworld habitué were in cells late tonight as a result of a police offensive launched against gangland at 6:30 P. M. in an effort to clean up vicious conditions and solve the murder of Alfred J. P. Lingle, police reporter for The Chicago Tribune, who was shot Monday afternoon, supposedly by an imported hired killer.

Spurred by aroused public opinion, which centred on the law-enforcing agencies, and the offer of $55,000 reward by three Chicago newspapers for the arrest and conviction of Lingle's slayer, Deputy Commissioner John P. Stege, in an announced "fight to a finish" against the unlawful elements of the city, sent six squads of detectives to raid the known haunts of gangsters, racketeers and hoodlums. The squads are commanded by men who have made reputations by slaying five to eleven criminals each.

Commissioner William A. Russell, in creating the squads for the purpose of crushing gangsters, ordered them to carry the war into the enemy camps, going wherever they like, whenever they like, raiding, wrecking, shooting or arresting when criminals are encountered or ferreted from their dens.

Mr. Stege reported that there had been a general exodus from the city of gangster leaders and their henchmen. The "small fry," he said, had gone into hiding.

Gambling dives, vice resorts and speakeasies had closed up voluntarily in fear of raids, and the underworld seemed of its own accord to have "put the lid on the town."

Detroit Gangsters in Net.

Among those arrested were eight members of the "Purple Gang" of Detroit. They are being held incommunicado at the Detective Bureau. Their names were not divulged.

As word of the arrests spread, a throng of lawyers and bondsmen appeared at Police Headquarters to seek the release of suspects. Their efforts failed, as bail was refused in all cases.

Three of the special squads will be on duty at a time and Stege said he will ask Sheriff John E. Trager to deputize them so they can go out of the city into the criminal hideouts of the county whenever the trail leads them there.

"The commanders of these squads are Lieutenant Frank Reynolds, who has killed 11; Lieutenant Al Booth, who has killed 6; Lieutenant Walter Storms, who has killed 5; Lieutenant William Cusack, who has killed 4; Lieutenant Pat O'Connell, who has killed 5, and Lieutenant Andy Barry, wha has killed 6," Stege stated.

Commissioner Russell said if his orders and ideas are carried out, as he thinks they will be, the criminal element will be paying dearly for the murder of Lingle, of whom Russell said, "I was fonder of him than I could be of my own son."

Capone Gangster Surrenders.

Sam Hunt, Capone gangster, whose picture was said by witnesses to resemble the slayer of Lingle, was surrendered to the police by Attorney John H. Johntry, former alderman, along with some of Hunt's associates.

"The police have nothing on Hunt, who certainly did not kill Lingle," Attorney Johntry announced. "There is nothing against my client except that little affair up North."

The "little affair up north" was the arrest of Hunt, who was pulled off the running board of a moving automobile to which he ran from the scene of a shooting. He had dropped a golf bag containing a shotgun and a .38 calibre revolver was strapped beneath his belt. He denied knowledge of any shooting and as the wounded man (who had been seen by four boys) had been removed his identity has not yet become known.

Air Mail Carries Fingerprints.

Nine Chicago men were detained at Brooklyn Police Headquarters for questioning yesterday, following their arrival here from Chicago. They insisted that they were here merely to see the Sharkey-Schmeling fight, but the police questioned them closely about their business and purpose in coming to New York. They were also asked about their knowledge of the murder in Chicago on Monday of Alfred J. P. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter.

Their finger prints and photographs were sent by air mail to Chicago to learn if they are wanted there, but news dispatches later said that they had no connection with the Lingle murder.

Seven were found on a train which was boarded at Trenton, N. J., by Charles Corbett and Louis Dardis of the Brooklyn homicide squad.

When the train reached the New York side, Corbett and Dardis stepped up and said: "Just a minute, gentlemen." The detectives spent a taut few minutes until the train stopped in the Pennsylvania Station and four more detectives joined them.

The seven men were hustled to Brooklyn police headquarters, where Deputy Chief Inspector Vincent J. Sweeney questioned them. They gave their names as Jack Gusick, Salvatore La Vardo, Ed Vogel, Ed Morrison, Paul Ricca, Joseph Smith and Dennis Cooney.

Meanwhile two other Chicago men who had arrived in New York on Tuesday were arrested and brought to Inspector Sweeney for questioning. They were Ralph Carrol and Joseph Corngold.

Late at night the police released Gusick, Cooney and Smith, but held the other six on technical charges of vagrancy.

YACHT ORION BACK AFTER LONG CRUISE

Luxurious Craft of Julius Forstmann Delayed 5 Hours by Fog Entering Harbor.

The American 3,000-ton Diesel engine motor yacht Orion arrived yesterday from a 30,000-mile cruise round the world with her owner Julius Forstmann, woolen manufacturer, of New York and Passaic on board. He was accompanied by Mrs. Forstmann, two sons, Julius Jr., and Curt, and a daughter, Miss Louise Forstmann, and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bianchi of New York, their guests. On the first half of the cruise there were two other guests, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCarter of New Jersey.

The Orion, which was built last year at Kiel, Germany, for Mr. Forstmann, as one of the largest and most luxurious private pleasure yachts in the world.

After leaving New York on Nov. 5 with a crew of fifty-six men the Orion made her first call at Havana and then in succession Teneriffe, Algiers, Genoa, Alexandria, Rangoon, Bangkok, Java, Baili, Sumatra, Borneo, Philippines, Hongkong, Canton, Macao, Kobe, Yokohama and home via Honolulu and the Panama Canal.

Julius Forstmann Jr., who spoke for his father, said the seven months' cruise had been very enjoyable and the Orion had proved to be a good, steady craft in all kinds of weather.

The only unpleasant incident occurred close to the end of the cruise, when the Orion was detained at Honolulu from Friday, May 16, until Monday, May 19, because she had liquor aboard, he said.

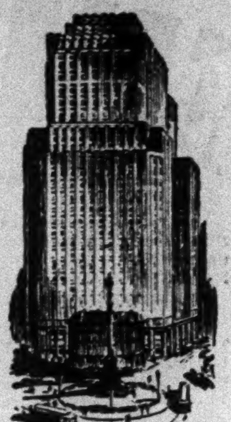
The yacht sailed for Balboa on May 20 and left behind sixty cases of wines, beers, whisky and liquors in the custom house at Honolulu. Mr. Forstmann Jr. declined to make any comment upon the liquor seizure and said he considered the incident closed.

The Orion was delayed five hours by fog yesterday and anchored off the Columbia Yacht Club at the foot of West Eighty-sixth Street at 1:30 P. M. Mr. Forstmann and his family went to their home, 22 East Seventy-first Street, later in the afternoon.

LAWYER INDICTED IN THEFT.

Robert Spear Faces Charge of Receiving $2,900 Stolen Securities.

The grand jury voted two indictments yesterday against Robert Spear, a lawyer, with an office at 11 West Forty-second Street, charging him with grand larceny and criminally receiving $2,900 in securities which were stolen May 22 from a messenger for Joseph Streicher & Co., brokers at 2 Rector Street. Spear is expected to appear before Judge Donnellan in General Sessions this morning when the indictments are handed up.



Before and After

The desire to please you is expressed before you sign, and enacted after you sign, with the same sincere enthusiasm. Here at the General Motors Building you are dealing direct with the owners, who manage the building personally.

Such a renowned address, distinguished tenantry, and impeccable service are rare to find at such moderate rentals.

Come up, or call up (Circle 9500), and let Mr. Woodward give you whatever information you want.

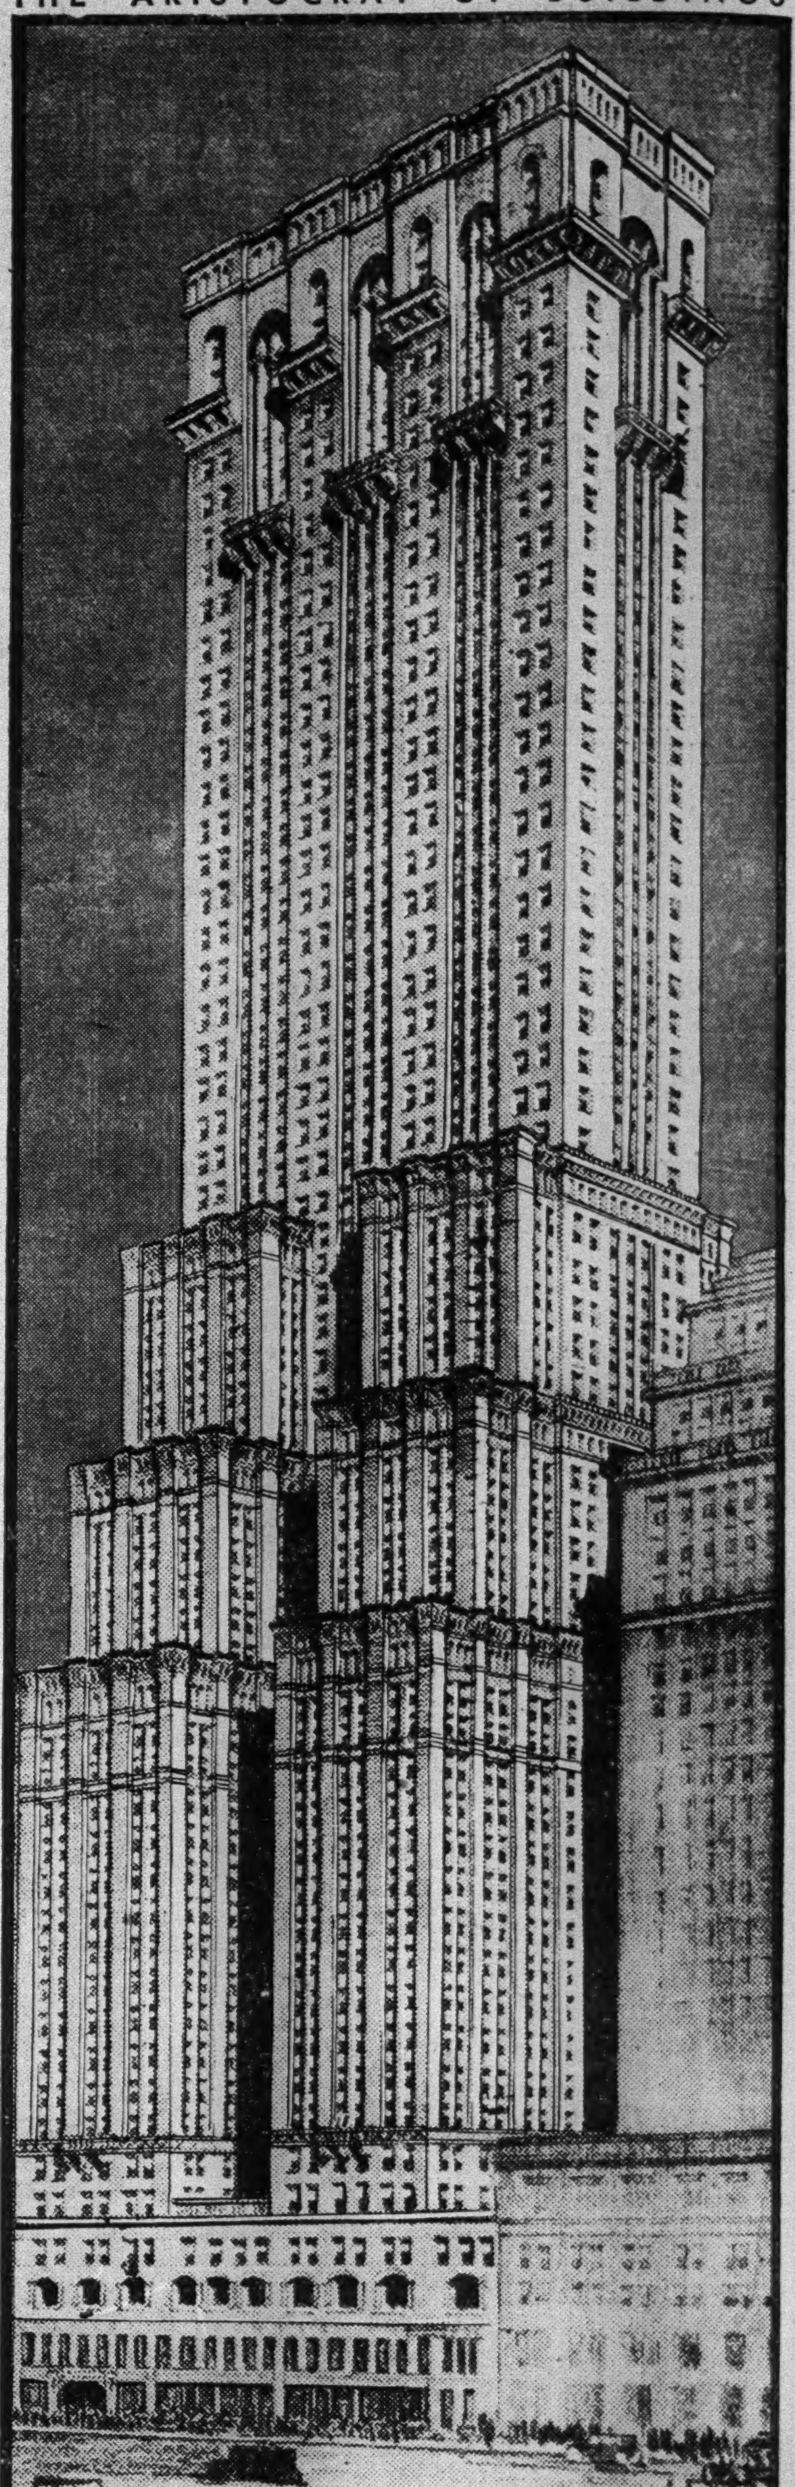
THE ARISTOCRAT OF BUILDINGS



A Growing Directory of NOTABLE NAMES

SINCE the new Lincoln Building opened its doors on March first, it has gained an enviable reputation. New names are being added constantly to the present outstanding group of business organizations and individuals now appearing on its directory.

The building is situated in the heart of the 42nd Street banking and business district. With 30 high speed elevators in operation, perfect service is maintained.

Desirable space may still be had in units varying from 400 square feet to entire floors of 26,585 square feet. Even though your present lease runs until next May, arrangements should be made now in order to secure the choice of remaining space.

Telephone or write for floor plans. Even better, visit the building today and see the available space units.
